Burn Ban In Effect

March 16 - May 14

Open burning is the single greatest cause of wildfires in New York, according to the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC). Since the spring burn ban was implemented in 2009, the number of wildfires has decreased by more than 40%.

Open burning is prohibited in New York, with several exceptions:

- Campfires or any other outdoor fires less than three-feet in height and four-feet in length, width or diameter are allowed.
- Small cooking fires are allowed.
- Ceremonial or celebratory bonfires are allowed. Disposal of flags or religious items in a small-sized fire is allowed, if it is not otherwise prohibited by law or regulation.
- Only charcoal or dry, clean, untreated or unpainted wood can be burned.
- Fires cannot be left unattended and must be fully extinguished.

The New York state burn ban is effective March 16 through May 14.

Additional information is available at dec.ny.gov/chemical/32060.html.

Deer Season Is Over But The Hunt For Sheds Begins

As winter progresses through March, whitetail bucks shed their antlers as testosterone levels drop in response to lengthening days. When the snow begins to melt in late winter, some hunters and antler enthusiasts head out to the woods and fields in search of the hidden treasures.

Trying to find a shed antler among the brush and melting snow may seem like trying to find a needle in a haystack, but with some diligence and practice, your efforts may be rewarded. Winter deer yards are good places to start. During bouts of extreme cold and snow, deer will congregate in lower elevation areas with good southern exposure and evergreen cover to break the wind. Experienced shed hunters scout these areas pre-season in hopes of increasing their odds. Be cautious not to begin searching too early. Deer may still be congregated on their winter ranges and susceptible to disturbance. Shed hunters should also refrain from making "antler traps," which are baited devices intended to snag an antler as the deer feeds. Not only is it illegal to feed deer, but these devices can cause antlers to be pulled off prematurely, potentially leading to infection and slow death of the deer.

Shed hunting can be a fun family activity and a rewarding reason to get outdoors in late winter and early spring. As hunters choose to "Let Young Bucks Go and Watch Them Grow," shed hunting can also provide clues as to what type of bucks might be around during next hunting season.

Give it a try, you might discover your next hobby.

Watchable Wildlife - From Backyard Birding to the NYS Birding Trail

I Bird NY Birding Trail signage Soon it will be time to put the bird feeders away as spring is approaching. But fortunately, birding and watching wildlife are year-round activities. Whether you are birding in your backyard or visiting a location on the New York State Birding Trail - here are some tips to help you get the most out of watching and enjoying birds:

Create a better bird habitat. Choose a variety of native plants to make your area welcoming for many of our state's 450 species of birds.

Take part in the I Bird NY Challenges when offered by DEC. These challenges have levels appropriate for both beginning and experienced birders. You can track your progress and you may just be surprised by the feathered friends you identify.

Look for birding events through DEC. State Parks also offers birding events on occasion - visit their events webpage. Opportunities are often available both in-person and virtually to learn more.

Join a birding club or organization. Meet others with similar interests and expand your birding knowledge.

Enjoy the variety - from large birds such as the wild turkey to small birds like the black-capped chickadee, there is an abundance of different species to admire.

Gear up with binoculars or even a camera. You can see details up close through the binoculars and capture birds in action with your camera. You can also check out DEC's active webcam of a nesting pair of Peregrine Falcons. Home on the Mid-Hudson bridge, these falcons are an endangered species of New York.

Visit an area on New York State's Birding Trail. These are locations designed as being good spots for birding - check more species off your list as identified!

Bring out what you bring in - this will help make the habitat better for not only birds but all other forms of wildlife as well. Learn how to further Love Our NY Lands.

Can't get outside? Check out videos on DEC's Facebook to learn about NY's birds with some of our experts.

Remove your bird feeder(s) by April 1st as bears will start coming out of hibernation. Read about reducing human-bear conflicts.

DEC provides additional information on New York State birding and watchable wildlife.

curs every 20 years in New York. Birders of all backgrounds are invited to take part from 2020 to 2024. This third atlas will continue to improve our understanding of changes in the distribution of breeding birds in the state and provide the basis for more informed conservation and management of birds and their habitats. Learn more about the project and how to participate.

Visit DEC's website to learn more about how you can be a friend of the environment.

Tickets For The 2022 NYSPHSAA Boys And Girls Basketball State Championships Now On Sale

LATHAM, NY - The New York State Public High School Athletic Association (NYSPHSAA) has announced tickets are now on sale for the 2022 NYSPHSAA Boys and Girls Basketball State Championships, presented by the American Dairy Association North East. Both events will take place March 18-20; the girls at Hudson Valley Community College for the 25th year, and the boys returning to Cool Insuring Arena in Glens Falls for the first time since 2016. Both events were cancelled in 2020 and 2021 due to COVID. "There is a lot of excitement and enthusiasm in Glens Falls and Troy to host these events once again, especially coming back from a pandemic," said Dr. Robert Zayas, NYSPHSAA Executive Director. "There are many great volunteers in place, upgrades to both venues, and hard-working tournament directors and committees ready to provide a top-notch experience to student-athletes, coaches and fans. We can't wait until the first games tip off on March 18th at these two great venues." For each tournament, tickets are $10 per session (plus fees) and general admission. For the girls tournament, online tickets can be purchased by visiting www.gofan.co/NYSPHSAA. For the boys tournament, tickets can be purchased online at seatgeek.com or may be purchased in person at the Cool Insuring Arena box office during business hours.
