HOROSCOPES

ARIES – MAR 21/APR 20
Aries, try to focus on simple pleasures this week. You don't have to travel to foreign lands or handle complicated hobbies to find happiness right now.

TAURUS – APR 21/MAY 21
Taurus, seek opportunities to focus your mind, which is bubbling with creativity lately. Dabble in artwork or jewelry making. Cake decorating also may appeal to you.

GEMINI – MAY 22/JUN 21
Gemini, you may need to dig down deep and find your motivation for a new project. A change of scenery could be the catalyst for change. Book a short venture to refresh.

CANCER – JUN 22/JUL 22
Cancer, with a clear mind and excellent communication skills, this week you can lead the meeting and get the results you desire. This is only one step on the path to success.

LEO – JUL 23/AUG 23
Leo, some type of force is helping you continue your path forward. It may be pride; it may be a desire to move past your current situation. Whatever it is, keep up the momentum.

VIRGO – AUG 24/SEPT 22
Virgo, though it goes against your nature, feel free to be lazy once in a while this week. Share your responsibilities with someone else and you will benefit from the rest.

LIBRA – SEPT 23/OCT 23
Libra, this week you are able to convey what is going on inside your mind. Don't hold anything back, even if it makes you are hesitant to do so.

SCORPIO – OCT 24/NOV 22
Scorpio, people will be eager to hang on to your every word this week. Think carefully about what you have to say to further your cause to the fullest.

SAGITTARIUS – NOV 23/DEC 21
Sagittarius, if you find that your mind is muddled and communication is not coming easily to you, take a break and enjoy some alone time. Engage in solo projects.

CAPRICORN – DEC 22/JAN 20
Capricorn, words may not be the best way to express what you are feeling right now to a partner. Actions will speak louder than words.

AQUARIUS – JAN 21/FEB 18
Things could get intense for you this week, Aquarius. A lot of information is headed your way. A roadblock is in your path, but don't let this trip you up.

PISCES – FEB 19/MAR 20
Pisces, are you prepared for the spotlight to be turned on you at work? Brush up on your skills and what you have to say to superiors.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS • JULY 31 J.K. Rowling, Author (57)
AUGUST 1 Jason Momoa, Actor (43) AUGUST 2 Cai Xukun, Singer (24) AUGUST 3 Karlie Kloss, Model (30) AUGUST 4 Cole/Dylan Sprouse, Actors (30) AUGUST 5 Yungblud, Singer (25) AUGUST 6 Leslie Odom, Jr., Actor (41)

Delaware Valley Agricultural Society / Fair Board President Ed Rossley said guests can expect to see more vendors, new exhibits and old favorites at the fairgrounds this year.

Adventure Family Circus will be performing acrobatics for spectators at the fair. The show will run multiple times each day with high-flying aerial acts, ground acrobatics, trampoline acts, teeter-board acts and others.

For animal lovers, a parade show will be making its fair debut, and due to high demand the petting zoo will return. The zoo will again feature kangaroos and this year, pony rides, too.

The grandstand shows this year will include a memorial 10,000 pound tractor pull dedicated to Ernie Hanselman. Among Hanselman's many passions in life was tractor pulling at the fair. The Thursday night tractor pull will honor Hanselman, who died Dec. 4, 2021, and will include street legal 4x4 gas trucks and 10,000 lb farm tractors. The event begins at 7 p.m. and admission is $5.

More vendors will be set up at the fair this year as the spacing requirements in place last year due to the COVID-19 pandemic will not limited the number of vendors allowed.

pulls and team sorting will also be returning to the fair.

Team sorting will be held Tuesday night in the horse show ring. Pony pulls will be held Friday at 9 a.m. on the track, and horse pulls will follow at 6 p.m. in the horse show ring.

The Sportsmens Federation will also showcase a full exhibit, Rossley said. "On a hot day you can go over and get cooled off in the shade. They have fish, wildlife and taxidermy and more," he said.

A new sponsor for this year's fair, Rossley said, is the CWC (Catskill Watershed Corporation). They will be talking about how they can help different people in the county and what they do." They will be located in the Ag Awareness area, near the end of the dairy barns, beside the milking parlor, where free milk is given away. "We're proud to have them as a sponsor," Rossley said.

Walton Students Build Fairground Benches

By Alyshia Korba

Students from Walton Central School District are leaving their imprint on the fairgrounds this year, having made 30 new benches in a construction class. The new benches will replace the old benches that had deteriorated over the years.

The class, led by Walton CSD teacher Sal Salvia, teaches students the art of construction through projects like making baseball bats, fishing nets, model sheds and a full size shed.

Salvia said this year, he added the bench building as an extra project after being approached by Dan Hodges. Hodges works at the school, but he is also the former fair board president and a fair board member of 30 years.

Hodges said the fair board was looking to replace some benches that have been worn down, and thought of Salvia's construction class because he recalled making benches for the fair when he was a student at Walton CSD.

"It's just a fun project, and it gets kids involved with the fair," Hodges said.

The board bought the supplies from Ren Rest Lumber & Building Supply in Walton for the students to build 30 benches, each five feet long. The old benches were seven feet long, but Hodges said they wanted to save money and space.

Construction began in February and took approximately two months for the students to complete. Salvia said the project was completed through an assembly line method.

"Near the end I can tell that they were getting tired of cutting and assembly, but we did it," Salvia said.

The construction class had 24 students working on the benches including Austin Miller, Kyle Miller, Nicholas Sarrantonio, Jayden Hoffmeister, Noah Tompkins-Covell, James Seward, Logan Beardslee, Jacob Scofield, Edward Salimbangan, Damien Watson, Landon Taylor, Landen Stanton, Trent Sparling, Maxwell Dutcher, Frank Brown, Derek Basile, Holden Church, David Gatchalian, Faith Lambert, Joseph Bolster, Jeffrey Shelton, Joseph Fay, Brandon Carman and Malachi Barringer. Salvia said several of his seventh grade students also helped with the project.

Students' signed the benches that they worked on with their initials so they will be able to identify their work at the fairgrounds for years to come.

Hodges emphasized the role Salvia played in putting this project together along with Walton CSD FFA advisor and agriculture teacher Vanessa Wickham.

"We couldn't have done it without them, they went above and beyond for us," Hodges said.

CALL FOR COLLECTORS

Collectors have the opportunity to show off their hard work and maybe win some ribbons at the collections exhibit in the Human Ecology building. Whether you collect coins, nutcrackers, sloth decorations or breakfast foods, judges and fairgoers want to see your collection.

Collections can be entered in one of 18 classes including animals, antiques (pre-1950), bells, coins, collectibles, dishware, dolls, holiday items, memorabilia, miniatures, models, nature, postcards, spoons, stamps, thimbles, toys and miscellaneous. Exhibitors may only have one entry per class, and collections can only be entered in one class.

The Human Ecology Building is staffed all day and locked at night with security guards on duty. Collectors can retrieve their items between 8 and 9 p.m. Saturday or from 9-11 a.m. Sunday.

To enter your collection, call Chairperson Lisa Calaci after 6 p.m. at 607-434-3377.

VESPERS SERVICE TO RETURN SUNDAY

The Delaware County Christian Ministries' Sunday evening vespers service at the fairgrounds will return for the first time since the COVID-19 pandemic. The service was not held last year due to concerns about the pandemic.

The service is for the convenience of those working at the fairgrounds setting up exhibits and caring for animals, making it difficult for them to attend Sunday services, however, ev-everyone is invited to attend.

Anyone who would like to sing in the choir is asked to be at the fair at 5:30 p.m. for practice.

Service begins at 6 p.m. Aug. 14 in the Entertainment Court.

FAIR TO WELCOME ACROBATICS SHOW

By Alyshia Korba

DeAnna McCandless is the co-founder of Adventure Family Circus with her husband, Timothy, and four children, Andrew, Alex, Ali and Aidan.

Adventure Family Circus will join the fair this year as a new addition with their acrobatics performances.

The show will run several times each day of the fair with high-flying aerial acts, ground acrobatics, trampoline acts, teeter-board acts and more family-friendly circus tricks.

The act is made up of the McCandless family from Shallowater, Texas who tour the country each summer performing with their four kids at events like fairs and festivals. The high-energy and interactive performance aims to engage the entire family.

The act can be found near Gate A, and admission is free with an entry ticket.

4-H Kids raise livestock for show and auction

By Alyshia Korba

For many fairgoers, the fair is just one week in August designated for fun rides and fair food, but for the kids showing livestock it is the culmination of months or even years of hard work.

"There's only two seasons at our house — there's Christmas and there's the fair," Christina Losie said.

Christina's daughters, Madison, 10, and Cadence, 16 of Davenport, both show animals at the fair including chickens, horses, dairy cows, dairy goats, rabbits and pigs.

"Basically in the summer, the Walton fair is my home," Madison said.

Madison first started showing animals at age three while riding horses and has since expanded to other animals. Madison said that despite the hard work, she enjoys spending time with the animals and with her 4-H friends.

Youth participating in 4-H can enter in a variety of animal exhibits like dairy cattle, beef cattle, dairy goats, meat goats, sheep, swine, horses, poultry, rabbits, cavy (guinea pigs) and dogs.

Judging criteria vary greatly in these shows depending on the animal and the class, but across all exhibits a well-kept and well-behaved animal is essential to success. These two factors do not happen overnight; Madison said it took her a year of training her dairy goat Maize to get her to walk well on a leadline. She said she starts this process without a halter or rope and first practices getting the goat to follow her by turning their head.

Meat goats require different care and show preparation than the dairy goats, 12-year-old Ashley Madugno from Deposit said.

Ashley has been showing meat goats since she was seven years old, as well as pigs and occasionally, cows. Care for these goats includes feeding twice per day, bathing them once a week, trimming their feet once a week and daily walks. One training trick she does with her young goat, Fez, is to tie him to a fence for five minutes before his walk to train him to keep his head up.

Preparation for a show means clipping the meat goats' coat, trimming their feet and making sure their coat is clean and shining.

"You don't shave (their legs) and you puff it up before you go in the show ring to make it look like they have really big legs," Ashley said. "And then you also leave their tail with a little poof on it."

Other animals, like chickens, have different requirements.

Ella Gerster, 15, from Davenport, shows several animals but especially loves to show chickens. She is a member of Future's Finest 4-H club along with Madison and Cadence Losie. Gerster said to prepare for shows, she washes her chickens with baby shampoo and fabric softener, blow dries them, trims their breaks and clips their toenails.

Gerster enjoys showing chickens so much that she has even organized an extra challenge for the 4-H poultry showmen which tests their knowledge of chicken breeds and anatomy. After being exposed to more advanced poultry showmanship at other poultry shows, Gerster decided to give other 4-H poultry showmen a similar challenge. She put together a four-page packet which includes an anatomical diagram for people to fill in, a section to fill in information about a specific breed and a breed identification portion.

Animals are generally cared for and trained by the kids, although many also receive help from their parents.

For many kids showing livestock, the hobby is a family tradition with older siblings, parents and grandparents having participated as children.

"When I'm here I take care of them, but normally when I'm at school my mom takes care of them," nine-year-old Addy Olsen from Bloomville, said.

Addy lives 20 minutes from the property where her cows and goats are kept, but her mom, Jackie, takes her to the farm to help with chores and to practice with the animals when she can. Addy began showing cattle when she was about two years old and now shows dairy cattle, dairy goats and meat goats. She has received a lot of help from her mother who has also shown cows and was in the ring with Addy for her 4-H Cloverbuds debut.

For some kids, this guidance comes from older 4-H members like Ashley's older sister, Autumn Madugno.

"She's back here doing whatever she's working on and she'll have six to eight kids around her asking her questions," said Amanda Madugno, Autumn and Ashley's mother. "She likes letting them know what to do, and she's a good role model because she's serious about what she does."

Autumn has been showing cows since she was eight years old, and she now owns and shows 11 cows representing seven dairy breeds. She said that along with helping and socializing with other people at the shows, she enjoys having something to work toward.

"It's something I look forward to, it's having a project and just having something to grow on every year," Autumn said.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE TO OFFER CHILD ID CARDS

The Delaware County Sheriff's Office takes several measures to ensure a fun and safe fair experience - including the child ID card tent.

Parents and guardians can have an ID card made for their child which can include the child's name, photo, address, date of birth, hair color, eye color and weight. The card is meant to be used in case of an emergency to make medical information and parents' contact information easily accessible.

This service will be available Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The children's information is not retained in any database, so it is important to keep the card in a safe and accessible location.

Along with the child ID card service, the sheriff's office patrols the fairgrounds all week to help maintain a safe environment for all.

Derby Director Celebrates 20 Years On Fair Board

By Alyshia Korba

Bob Moody may be celebrating his 20th year on the fair board this year, but he has been going to the fair for much longer than that.

"My family has been going for almost our whole lives," Moody said. "I think we missed one fair but that's it."

Moody has been in charge of the demolition derby for approximately 10 years, having been chosen for this role because he used to participate in the derby as a driver.

Moody started competing at the fair when he was a kid showing cows and now enjoys supporting his granddaughter, who has also taken to showing cattle.

Moody eventually switched from showing cows to smashing cars at the county fair and once at the state fair.

Moody has seemingly passed down his derby skills as his son, Andy, won the Friday night derby at last year's fair. Moody said his favorite part of working on the derby is working with the derby crew and meeting the drivers.

"I like all the drivers, and I get to meet a lot of them," Moody said. "It's always nice seeing the new drivers win for the first time."

This year the track will feature a "chain and bang" derby which is an old-school derby style. This means cars have minimal modification and will not be welded together like they usually are.

The derbies will be held Monday and Friday at 7 p.m. Tickets are $7 and

SHEEP AND GOAT OLYMPICS

Watch children lead their goats or sheep through an obstacle course while being timed during this annual event. Both animals are stubborn, so getting them to comply takes muscle and skill.

Sheep olympics take place in the Livestock Show Ring on Thursday at 6:30 p.m. and the goat olympics are Friday at 7 p.m. at the same ring.

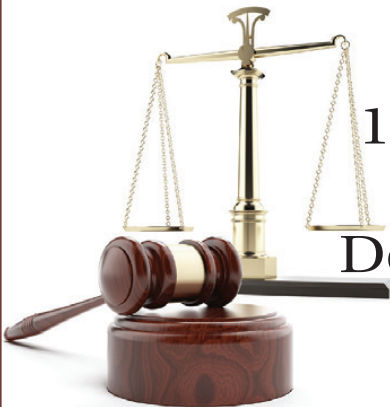

Following the sheep olympics Thursday is the dress-up contest where kids can dress up any of their 4-H animals (swine, beef, dairy cow, sheep, goat, rabbit, etc.), and themselves with an appropriate theme. Some of the costumes are very serious and some are funny.

Feathered Fairgoers Welcomed Despite Prior Bird Flu Concerns

By Alyshia Korba

Richard Ball, New York State Agriculture Commissioner, lifted a ban June 3 which had put a hold on poultry shows, exhibitions, auctions, sales, meets and swaps. With the ban lifted, poultry exhibits at the fair will be free to resume as usual.

The ban was originally put in place March 25 after four flocks in the state became infected with highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI), also known as bird flu. Restrictions were tightened April 14 because four more flocks became infected even after the original ban, bringing the total up to eight infected flocks this year.

The ban was lifted as cases of bird flu decreased nationwide and in the state. The last infected flock in New York was reported April 6. While humans can become infected with bird flu, it is extremely rare with only one case ever being confirmed in the U.S., according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Fairgoers can view a variety of poultry species and breeds in the livestock barn including chickens, ducks, geese, turkeys and peacocks. The livestock barn also holds goats, sheep, pigs, rabbits and guinea pigs.

The 4-H poultry show will take place Tuesday at 3 p.m., and there is also a 4-H rooster-crowing contest Friday at noon. At the 4-H Youth Building, fairgoers can visit the egg incubator and may even see baby chicks hatching.

While people are free to bring their flocks to poultry shows, the New York State Department of Agriculture encourages people to exercise caution. The recommendations include cleaning transportation crates between uses, not sharing supplies with other exhibitors, isolating birds from the rest of the flock 21 days after returning from the show and washing hands before and after handling birds. Poultry must not come to the fair if they are showing any signs of illness. Symptoms of bird flu in poultry include sudden death, reduced egg production, misshapen eggs, lethargy, reduced appetite, respiratory symptoms like nasal discharge and difficulty breathing, swelling of the eyes or head, and purple discoloration of combs, wattles or legs.

HEROES PARADE HONORS EMERGENCY SERVICES MEMBERS

The annual Heroes Parade, formerly the Firefighters Parade, will take place Tuesday to celebrate members of local emergency services groups. The parade will start at 7 p.m. at the grandstands after the 4-H Parade at 6:30 p.m. There is no admission cost for either parade.

The parade will feature fire departments, veterans organizations, rescue squads, law enforcement, high school marching bands, youth groups, local businesses and other local organizations.

Organizations or businesses interested in joining the parade can contact the Delaware County Department of Emergency Services at 607-746-9600.

Human Ecology Program Exhibits & Information

Carla Crim Subject Educator III, Horticulture & Natural Resources at Cornell Cooperative Extension

This year Cornell Cooperative Extension's (CCE) Human Ecology exhibit in the Cooperative Extension building will feature a display called Saving Money in Many Different Ways – CCE Human Ecology.

Come to the fair to enjoy youth and adult activities and see the quilt display.

CCE will host a variety of educational exhibits featuring local organizations, businesses and producers which will be in place throughout the week and will be judged in competition Tuesday.

The Home Economics building will also feature a Smoothie Bike where fair goers can generate their own electricity to make a healthy delicious beverage. An interactive display about fall gardening will inspire you to keep planting vegetables in your garden throughout summer. The Price is Right game is fun for the whole family and focuses on healthy snacks and meals.

Walton businesses at the The display will feature Walton Historical Society's

donated items from businesses like Austin's Auction, Crawford Feed Mill and Meadowbrook Dairy, among others. Most are businesses that are no longer active, historian Deb Barlett said, but some, like Tony's Shoe Store, continues to serve Walton today.

"We're excited to share our history," Jason Schwartz, president of the Walton Historical Society, said.

The historical society will also have a vintage buckboard buggy on display. Visitors can stop by to pick up the 2023 calendar, new local books or to sign up for a membership. The historical society will be at the fair 10 a.m.-9 p.m. each day.

DRAFT HORSES - A LINK TO THE PAST

Photos - Delaware County Fair

Fairgoers who would like to see Clydesdale, Belgian, Percheron and Shire draft horses should visit the horse show ring Monday.

Starting at 10 a.m.,

watch as various breeds compete in different in-hand classes - where the horses are led, not ridden, and judged on their conformation, and suitability as breeding stock.

At 1 p.m., the hitched classes - including a six-horse hitch class named after Don Perry, long-time draft horse show director — are scheduled to begin, junior driving classes, farm team classes, single and tandem classes - and exhibitors will demonstrate how draft horses pull wagons or “vehicles.”

In this area the best known breed is the Belgians, but judges know the special characteristics of every draft breed. These gentle giants will be judged on specialized points as described on the show schedule and their ability to work while hitched as a single entry or as part of a team.

To observe the power of draft horses are, be sure to visit the horse show ring Friday night starting at 6 p.m. for the New York State Draft Horse Pullers Association Horse Pull. Pairs of draft horses — either lightweight or heavyweight — are hooked to a weighted sled. The horses must pull the load 27 and 1/2 feet for the pull to qualify. Each team gets three tries to pull the weight the required distance. After each heat, weight is added to the sled until a winner is announced in each category.

Horticulture & Natural Resources

Invasive Species, No-Dig Gardening and Master Gardener

Cornell Cooperative Extension (CCE) of Delaware County will host displays featuring three horticulture and natural resources topics: invasive species, no-dig gardening, and the Master Gardener Volunteer program.

Invasive species like wild parsnip and Japanese knotweed are common sights along roadways and riverbanks in Delaware County. While efforts are being made to keep populations in check, more emphasis is being placed on new and less common invaders. Priority invasive species are those that pose the greatest threats or impacts - and those species new to a region or that haven't spread too far to control or eradicate. Prevention and early detection/rapid response are two of the most important actions to successfully manage invasive species and their impacts, and you can help.

As part of the Catskill Regional Invasive Species Partnership (CRISP), CCE Delaware works to raise awareness and prevent new high risk species outbreaks and to rapidly respond to new, high priority species. CCE display will feature pictures of the priority invasive species and will provide information about reporting and eradication.

No-Dig Gardening.

Delaware County is famous for rich soils and a short but very productive growing season. Unfortunately, rocks and aggressive weeds are often the biggest barrier to getting gardens started. Luckily, there are ways to develop garden beds that don't require the use of heavy equipment or excessive manual labor. Whether you are a beginning gardener or looking to expand your growing capacity, stop at our display to learn more about Hügelkultur, lasagna gardening, and silage tarping. Your plants and your back will thank you.

Master Gardener.

Are you interested in becoming a Master Gardener Volunteer? Cornell Cooperative Extension Associations in Chenango, Delaware, Herkimer, and Schoharie and Otsego counties seek residents with a genuine interest in horticulture and wish to serve as outreach ambassadors in their home counties, sharing information with neighbors and engaging in community projects.

Master Gardeners are trained in the art and science of horticulture, chiefly around the themes of ornamental landscapes and food gardening. The Master Gardener Programs are local, state, and national programs directed by state land-grant institutions - Cornell University for New Yorkers - to enhance the ability of County Cooperative Extension organizations to share knowledge, experience, and enthusiasm with residents through trained volunteers.

Stop at our display for more information about our upcoming programs, including Fall 2022 Virtual Training.

TUESDAY IS CHILDREN'S DAY

Children continue to be a prominent part of the Delaware County Fair. This year, Tuesday, Aug. 16, is Children's Day.

As always, children 12 and under are admitted free to the fair.

In the 4-H Youth Building, kids can get their photo taken with a milk mustache, watch baby chicks hatch, explore the activity

In the barns, kids can watch as 4-H'ers compete with their beef and dairy cattle, rabbits and guinea pigs. At 10 a.m. watch the dairy cattle showmanship competition at the dairy barn, or go to the livestock loons. There is a $5 entry fee and no entry deadline for the event. All doors and tailgates must be strapped shut with zip ties or duct tape so there are no sharp edges. Helmets are mandatory, as are shoes. Bicycle helmets are okay, sandals are not. Children must be seat-belted in for their safety, and have no passengers.

Starting at 1 p.m. one of the most exciting and popular events of the day begins – the bicycle giveaway. Kids in the grandstand are eligible to win one of 115 bikes, donated every year by local merchants.

At 3 p.m., a giant ice cream sundae is made in the dairy barn consisting of 45 gallons of ice cream. Stop by to get your serving before it's gone.

After that, the youth and junior karaoke contest will take place at 4 p.m. at the Curtis Lumber Entertainment Court.

At 4 p.m. children may visit the shaded wildlife exhibit area near the Grange Building for a drawing activity.

On the track at 6:30 p.m. you can find the 4-H parade to learn about and celebrate the many 4-H clubs that participate in the fair. The Hero's Parade will follow at 7 p.m. to celebrate members of local emergency services, law enforcement and veterans. Both parades are free to attend.

HAPPENINGS IN THE 4-H YOUTH BUILDING

If you are looking for something fun and exciting to do while at the Delaware County Fair, then come down to the 4-H Youth Building. Check out the extensive array of 4-H projects and displays. Our 4-H youth have worked hard all year to create their projects and they are delighted to present them for all to see. There will be many interesting and informative displays from CCE/4-H as well.

4-Hers will be giving dynamic public presentations throughout the week so stop in and see them, at the center of the building. We are sure you will learn something new!

When you have had your fill of amazing projects and displays, head over the updated 4-H selfie photo area.

4-H Teens will be teaching fairgoers all about spiders, frogs, snakes, UV beads, and tornadoes in a bottle. Stop and participate in these fun hands-on activities.

Don't forget to look for the baby chicks hatching daily! They are always a delight to see!! Watch them work to peck out of their shells and run around the brooder after they have hatched and become fluffy cute little puffs of feathers.

Don't be afraid to ask 4-Hers or leaders questions about 4-H and its unlimited possibilities - 4-H shapes youth for life!

Become involved. For questions or to join Delaware County 4-H, contact Emily Roach, 4-H Team Leader 607-865-6531; esc33@cornell.edu.

Vote For The Cutest Baby

Your vote counts when it comes to deciding who will be this year's cutest baby.

UHS Delaware Valley Hospital is again sponsoring a Cutest Baby Contest during the Delaware County Fair. Their booth is located in the number one commercial tent - cast your votes there - vote as many times as you like. Each vote will cost fifty cents. Money raised from this contest in previous years went toward improvements at the hospital.

The winning baby will receive a $100 savings account with Wayne Bank, second and third place will also receive Wayne Bank savings accounts as their prizes - $50 for second and $25 for third.

The 135th Delaware County Fair is shaping up to be a return to normalcy, with a full slate of entertainment in the Curtis Lumber Free Entertainment Court. The tent is located between A and B gates, close to the free parking lot on the grounds.

Monday will start off with returning fan favorites Buffalo Barfield, Illusionist David Garrity, Randy Hulse - Band of One, and Danny Grant's Cowboy Circus. All of these acts will continue throughout the week with various sets - check the schedule at the tent for times.

Buffalo Barfield's Unherd of Entertainment is a mix of traditional Country & Western, Swing, Folk, Bluegrass, old-time Gospel, and Jug-band music. They will perform three sets each day.

They are a fan favorite and are a much-requested act to return each year.

David Garrity is an illusionist who brings a family friendly show with magic and illusions that will appeal to all ages. He will perform every day, but the time varies so be sure to pick which show is best for you, or plan on taking in more than one during the week.

Randy Hulse - Band of One will perform three times on two days, Monday at 5 p.m. and Thursday at noon and 2 p.m. Waltonians will be familiar with his multifaceted show, but new audiences will soon become fans of his country style.

Danny Grant makes you feel like you're a part of the rodeo with his interactive show. Billed as the "World's Smallest Rodeo" he's coming back to Walton as part of their Northeast tour, as they have played all over the country. The interactive show includes roping, riding, and good old fashioned rodeo fun. He will be playing in the tent, mostly in the early evenings, between 6-7 p.m., but he will also have a matinee show on Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Monday night the featured entertainment will be Sundown Band, playing from 8-11 p.m. Sundown plays top country /classic rock music all around the Chenango, Madison, Otsego and Broome County areas of New York. They are a five piece band who play everything from country favorites Jason Aldean, Miranda Lambert, Lady Antebellum, and Luke Bryan, to classic oldies like Pat Benatar and ZZ Top, Tuesday, starting at 4 p.m. the youth and junior karaoke contests kick off with Northern Star Productions. Jeff and Wendy Wood present a professional show - singers sign up from the audience. At 7 p.m. the adults take their turn on the stage, and you are sure to be impressed with the local talent you'll hear. Come back on Saturday at 1 p.m. for the finals and the winners to be announced.

On Wednesday at 1 p.m., fairgoers will again be able to shine as the Delaware County Fair's Got Talent show begins. You can register in advance for this competition by filling out the form on the fair's web page (delawarecountyfair.org). Look under the "fair contest" heading on the far right of the banner.

If you have any questions, contact Beth O'Brien at 607-434-1319 or email bethobrien@howardhanna.com. Mail completed entries to Beth O'Brien, PO Box 235, Walton, NY 13856. You can also sign up the day of the contest after 12 noon in the entertainment tent. Contestants under 18 will need the signature of a parent or guardian. The top three winners receive cash prizes.

Wednesday evening from 7:30-10:30 stop by to hear The Ampersand Project, a traveling acoustic duo from the Elmira/Corning area. Locals may have seen them play at the Cattleman's Lodge in Sidney. They cover rock, pop, and country music genres, so everyone should enjoy them and their concert.

If you like oldies, Mary Francis Perricone puts on a lively show to takes you back in time with songs from the 50s through the 70s. Perricone has toured the United States and Canada with long runs in Vegas.

When she moved to Sidney Center she began singing in the area as a member of Harmony Street, an a cappella group. She is now known for her shows at the Otsego and Delaware County fairs, and other fundraisers in the area.

The Barnyard Saints Band takes the stage Thursday night at 8 p.m. The Southern Tier's newest Outlaw Country Band, they have a foot stomping beat mixed with a classic tube sound. The evening will bring to mind the days of the "Old Barn Dance," but mixed with more modern music. If you're a fan of old classic country like the sounds of Waylon, Hank, Hank Jr., and Willie, don't miss this concert. The band mixes in second generation, including new underground artists like, Shooter Jennings, Lucas Nelson, Hank the Third, and many more.

Walton's dance studio will present their Catskill Dance Expo at noon Friday. Area girls and boys will put on a show under the direction of Rebecca Hanley. The studio has really grown and the performances are sure to impress all who attend.

Two more acts will round out the evening with New Orleans singer John Paul at 4 p.m., followed by the Cowboy Circus at 6:30 and the Beadle Brothers Band playing country at 8.

The final act of the week will be BJ Hendrickson at 7 p.m. Saturday. He plays a range of songs from the 60s to the present day. Everyone should know them and the audience is encouraged to sing along. BJ returns as a solo act this year, and has been busy playing locally at venues such as the Roscoe Beer Company, The Schoolhouse Inn, The Shire Pub, and Seminary Hill and Orchard in Callicoon.
