Harness racing heritage

The Grand Circuit returns to the world's oldest track

By BOND BRUNGARD
SPORTS@TCNEWSPAPERS.COM

Before the Indianapolis 500 became a Memorial Day tradition or the speedway at Daytona Beach became a fabled arena for our carbon-fueled lives, horses were the primary source of transportation.

They have been racing trotters at the Goshen Historic Track since 1838 on the half-mile oval, and it's the world's oldest harness track. Prior to the opening of the track, competition was conducted an early form of street racing.

"Everybody thought they had the fastest horse," said Ross Cohen, the facility's assistant director of racing, "so they would race on the roads."

Cohen was taking a break from the phone, which was consuming his time a few days before the 2019 season started Sunday, June 16. That day and June 23 featured matinee races. Grand Circuit races will be conducted July 4-7.

In 1911 the Harriman family donated the grandstand, and in 1966 the track as designated a Registered Historic Landmark.

As trotters were practicing for the prior the 2019 season inaugural races, construction was ongoing to replace the BOCES barn that was destroyed in a fire Aug. 23, 2017 along with a blacksmith shop and parts of another building. The blaze drew immediate attention from nearby restaurant patrons, who rushed to free horses from the blaze's harm.

"They chased them out of their stalls and away from the fire," said Cohen.

Once in competition, drivers in their sulkies, their carts, compete for a favorite groove on track that could lead to the front for a possible victory. Pulling those sulkies are horses that may not be the easiest control – but have the ability to cross the finish line first.

“Sometimes the craziest son of a gun is the fastest son of a gun,” said Chuck Connor, a driver, after practice, “because he doesn’t know to slow down.”

The track is located just off Main Street in the historic village not far from the Harness Racing Museum and Hall of Fame. An induction of two broodmares will be conducted into the Living Horse Hall of Fame July 7.

The museum and hall of fame on 240 Main Street are open Tuesday-Sunday 10 a.m. – 4 p.m.

The Bandaged Place.

Powerhouse Theater, Vassar College, 124 Raymond Ave., Poughkeepsie. Performance $40. 437-5907.

July 5 - 7

Annie Salem: An American Tale.

July 5 and 6, at 8 p.m., July 7 at 2 and 7 p.m. Martel Theater, Vassar College, 124 Raymond Ave., Poughkeepsie. This timely adaptation of Mac Wellman's wry, surrealist coming-of-age story, adapted by Obie Award-winning artists Rachel Chavkin (Hometown, The Great Comet) and Heather Christian (Animal Wisdom), travels through time and space, to Mars and back again as it tries to make sense of the forces lurking in the American woods.

Hairspray the Musical. Friday at 7 p.m., Saturday at 1 & 7 p.m., Sunday at 1 p.m. Cunneen-Hackett Arts Center, 9 & 12 Vassar St., Poughkeepsie. 264-0279.

The Little Foxes.

Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., Sunday at 3 p.m. Mainstage at the Playhouse at Museum Village, 1010 State Route 17M, Monroe. The play spins around a golf tournament and pulls the rug out from underneath the stuffy members of a private country club. Filled with mistaken identities, slamming doors, and over-the-top romantic shenanigans, it's a charmingly madcap adventure about love, life, and man's eternal love affair with... golf. 294-9465.

July 12 - 14

The Elementary Spacetime

Show. July 12 and 13, at 8 p.m., July 14 at 2 and 7 p.m. Martel Theater, Vassar College, 124 Raymond Ave., Poughkeepsie. A young girl attempts suicide and wakes up trapped in a cosmic vaudevilian game show that she must win in order to enter the void of death. But the more she wants to die, the harder she has to work. A new musical of why to exist when you no longer want to, with up-tempo genre-bending songs and a healthy dose of the absurd from the creators of Futurity and the frontman of The Lisps.

July 17 - 28

White Rabbit Red Rabbit.

No director, no set, and a sealed envelope with a script hidden inside. With a different actor for each performance, White Rabbit Red Rabbit is a lively, global sensation that no-one is allowed to talk about. Slyly humorous and audaciously pointed, this theatrical experience is unlike anything you have ever seen. Wednesday-Saturday at 8 p.m., Sunday at 2 p.m. Denizen Theatre, Water Street Market, 10 Main Street, Suite 501, New Paltz. 845-303-4136.
