DEC: don't eat the fish

Catch and release advisory for PFOS-laden waters

By SHANTAL RILEY
sriley@tcnewspapers.com

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation has issued a catch-and-release advisory for fish contaminated by perfluorinated chemicals (PFCs) in Newburgh and New Windsor.

These streams and lakes include Beaver

Dam Lake, Moodna Creek, Washington Lake, Masterson Park Pond, Silver Stream and Recreation Pond, thought to be the chief delivery point for PFCs flowing from Stewart Air National Guard Base and into the local watershed. A stream between Stewart State Forest and Beaver Dam Lake is also included in the advisory.

"What we find is the levels of PFCs in the fish are high enough that a catch-and-release advisory should be in place," said DEC Commissioner Basil Seggos. Fishing itself is fine, Seggos said, but "don't consume the fish."

Seggos was joined by city and county officials at the City of Newburgh water treatment plant on Monday to make the

Addicts get second chance at city Drug Court

Friends and family gathered in a courtroom last week to celebrate two men and the beginning of the rest of their lives. It was graduation day at City of Newburgh Drug Court.

"I came here for a shoplifting charge," said Carl Banks. "I was 58-years-old, standing before a judge for petty larceny... that's when I said I wanted to change."

Banks graduated from the City of Newburgh Drug Treatment Court Program, which offers reduced sentences to people struggling with alcohol and drug addiction. The program offers a second chance to offenders caught up in the cycle of addiction. The program also offers a veterans' track, designed specifically to serve veterans.

"I thought I was here for punishment," said former program participant Rolly Bain, speaking during the ceremony last Wednesday. "It was really a blessing."

"I was tired of doing jail time," said Banks after the ceremony. "I wanted to change my life. I wanted to become a productive citizen."

Urban Farm in full bloom

There were hefty heads of cabbage and chunky bunches of Swiss chard. Watermelon vines wandered over the edges of raised beds, and gangly garlic stalks stood in a long row, ready for picking and curing.

Vegetable beds are in full bloom at the Downing Park Urban Farm this month. Boasting more than a dozen kinds of vegetables, grown in 30 raised beds, the urban farm is also home to hundreds of Italian honey bees.

The vegetables are grown organically, with no chemical pesticides or fertilizers. "This is fish fertilizer," said Carl Jack, gesturing to a barrel full of pungent-smelling liquid last week. "It's made with fish and seaweed. The plants love it."

Jack is the director of the Center for Hope youth center, which has transformed the two-and-a-half-acre urban farm into a thriving center for agriculture and learning this summer.

Funded by a grant from the Ogden Foundation, the pilot program aims to give Newburgh youth an opportunity to learn hands-on farming techniques and sustainable-growing practices. The program employs four young people from the Center for Hope and lasts for eight weeks into August.

"We want to engage youth in Newburgh that may have an interest in gardening, farming and sustainability as something they would be interested in doing for a living," said the farm's Outreach Manager

Virginia Kasinki. "As it gets organized, we're hoping to train more youth."

The City of Newburgh, Newburgh Community Land Bank and the Downing Park Committee partnered to create the urban farm in 2015.

A thin mist of rain fell on the plants at the farm on Friday. Melon plants inside a small greenhouse stayed warm and dry. The cool weather was perfect for weeding.

"We pull weeds and fertilize the plants," said 15-year-old Elijah Dodson, who helped to build many of the garden beds. "I like getting dirty," said Roedasia Hardgrove, 18.

The farm teaches the kids skills in irrigation, plumbing and carpentry. "It's also a way of helping them to get organized," said Kasinki. "They learn how to work in a team. Gardening and farming is a team effort."

For the center kids - some who have grown up in tough circumstances - farming is therapeutic, he said. "They come here and you can just see them relax," said Jack, a farmer by trade. "Farming is not just about growing. Farming is life."

The vegetables will be sold in the coming weeks at the Downing Park Farmers Market, which takes place at the park on Fridays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. through October 31.

Boys and Girls Club purchases Key Bank building

By SHANTAL RILEY
sriley@tcnewspapers.com

The Boys and Girls Club of Newburgh has purchased the former Key Bank building at the corner of Grand Street and Broadway. The nonprofit is expected to move in sometime next year.

The organization has lived at its current location on Liberty Street since the late 1960s. The four-story Key Bank building is mostly vacant, said seller Rick Milton. The first floor of the building housed Key Bank until 2015, he said.

"We had a number of people who were interested in it," said Milton. "But we wanted the Boys and Girls Club to have the space. The other folks were doing a commercial deal, and they were doing community service. It was the right thing to do."

Key Bank replaced the Columbus Trust Company bank branch in 1984. Columbus Trust owned and operated the bank for nearly a century prior.

City Corporation Counsel Michelle Kelson said the nonprofit was seeking a Main Street grant from the state Office of Community Renewal for rehab of the almost 20,000-square-foot building space. "They are seeking additional funding to get their programs running," Kelson said at City Hall last Thursday.

Catch and release advisory for PFOS-laden waters

announcement.

Catch-and-release advisories are also in effect in Hoosick Falls and Petersburg, which had drinking water supplies contaminated with perfluorooctanoic acid (PFOA). However, the commissioner explained, "PFOS has a greater affinity for protein" than PFOA, and can become concentrated in high-protein food such as fish.

The lakes and streams in question are all downstream of the Stewart Air National Guard Base, which was designated a state Superfund site last year when high levels of perfluorooctane sulfonate (PFOS) and other PFCs were found there.

Washington Lake – the city's main drinking water source – was shut down due to PFOS contamination in May 2016. State testing has shown the chemical leached from the air base into Recreation Pond, and further into Silver Stream and Washington Lake. The city issued a previous catch-and-release advisory for the lake last year.

"There should be no more excuses after this week for the Pentagon to clean up this contamination at the source," said Congressman Sean Patrick Maloney.

The congressman announced that he would introduce an amendment to the 2018 Department of Defense Appropriations Act requiring $35 million be devoted to cleanups at Air National Guard bases contaminated by PFCs. "The time for bureaucratic feet dragging is over," the congressman said.

Maloney was referring to the DoD's lack of action in the water crisis, now more than a year old. The federal agency has been roundly criticized by elected officials, environmental groups and Newburgh-area residents for non-action in the face of DEC data which reveals the air base is the chief source of PFC contamination in the watershed. The DoD has stated it would carry out its own investigation of the base this year.

"The state has done literally everything it can," said Seggos.

The DEC will pay for a new pump and filtration system at Washington Lake, an overhaul of the city's water treatment plant and pricey drinking water from the Catskill Aqueduct, among other related expenses. The state has also carried out a blood-testing program that found Newburgh residents have five times the level of PFOS in their blood as the average American.

"The highest levels have been found among residents who have lived here a long time," Seggos said. These levels are "still below what the average American would have had in their blood 30 years ago," Maloney noted.

Manufactured in the U.S. until 2000, PFOS was used in Scotchgard products, cookware and other non-stick products. It was also a key ingredient in fire foam, used for decades at the air base. "This is a public health problem," said Riverkeeper President Paul Gallay. "This is an environmental problem... people are being poisoned."

While the state and local municipalities have done the utmost to address the water crisis for over a year now, the DoD has been the "glaring exception," said Gallay. "Every day that goes by, the problem gets larger," he said.

An additional $70 billion in defense budget spending is expected next year, Maloney said. "We're saying, 'You have more money than ever,'" he said. "These excuses have got to stop."

addiction, Banks lives and works as a volunteer at Renwick Recovery, a transitional housing facility on Mill Street. "I credit Judge Williams," he said. "Doing time would have been easy."

City Court Judge Eddie Loren Williams presides over the city drug court. "It starts with the idea that you need treatment," he said. "You need to embrace that idea up front."

Some participants "wrestle" with that idea, the judge said. However, it's part of the "commitment we require as part of the treatment," Williams said. "It requires a commitment from the community, as well."

Especially, families, said the judge. "Participants do better when families are involved," he said, as they can provide support, motivation and encouragement when the going gets toughest.

Participants typically face drug possession charges and other non-violent misdemeanors, said city Drug Court Resource Coordinator Lindsay Frusciante.

They come from all over Orange County. "They're usually referred by a judge, lawyer or prosecutor's office," said Frusciante, a credentialed alcoholism and substance abuse counselor. "Any legal entity can make a referral," she said, and individuals can also reach out to join the program on their own.

"What distinguishes drug courts is their uniquely collaborative approach to treatment: upon voluntary entry into court-supervised programs, appropriate non-violent addicted offenders become part of a dramatic intervention process," the New York State Unified Court System states.

"This process involves coordination between defense attorneys, prosecutors, treatment and education providers, and law enforcement officials. Rules of participation are defined clearly in a contract agreed upon by the defendant, the defendant's attorney, the district attorney and the court."

There are 141 drug courts operating in the state. The Newburgh drug treatment court program currently has 33 students, some who were honored at the ceremony for reaching the halfway point in their treatment plans. More than 150 people have graduated from the program since it began in 2003.

Participants are required to undergo drug testing, meet regularly with the judge and enter an inpatient or outpatient rehabilitation program.

Each participant gets an individualized treatment plan, which may involve seeking employment, housing and education services. Graduations are held three times a year. "It's a voluntary program," Frusciante said, and participants need to complete the program in order to receive a sentence reduction.

City of Newburgh Drug Court is held each Wednesday. To learn more about the drug treatment court program, contact Lindsay Frusciante at 845-483-8116.

Ridesharing comes to the Hudson Valley

By SHANTAL RILEY
sriley@tcnewspapers.com

Ridesharing companies received the green light from the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles to begin offering rideshare services across the state last month. Ridesharing companies Uber and Lyft have begun to offer rides throughout the Hudson Valley.

"I love the freedom of it," said Lyft driver and brand ambassador David Rein. "I can go on whenever I want – at 3 in the morning or at 8 in the morning. I can work any time I choose. What I love the most are the passengers."

Rides are hailed electronically, through a computer or phone app, into which users plug credit card information, and pick-up and drop-off locations. Drivers use their own personal vehicles and are required to have background checks.

Lyft prices include a base fare of $1.15, a charge of $1.00 per mile and $0.25 per minute, plus tolls and fees.

Rides are now available in cities such as Newburgh, Middletown, Poughkeepsie, Beacon and Kingston. Some rural areas may experience slower service, depending on the availability of drivers.

The service offers "a reliable, convenient and oftentimes more affordable transportation option," said Assemblyman James Skoufis in a June statement.

Skoufis, who advocated for years to have ridesharing come to the Hudson Valley, described local ridesharing as a source of jobs and an additional means of transportation for tourists.

"Ridesharing has been proven to help reduce drunken driving incidents," Skoufis said in an email Monday. "It also allows people from downstate to enjoy the Hudson Valley without a renting a vehicle or a driver's license. In addition, it allows senior citizens who need rides to different medical appointments to get the service that they need."

Ridesharing services have been available in New York City for approximately six years. Last month, Governor Andrew Cuomo signed legislation making ridesharing legal around the state. The Department of Motor Vehicles approved licenses for Uber and Lyft in late June.

Defendant pleads guilty in kayak murder case

Orange County District Attorney David M. Hoovler announced today that on Monday, July 24, 2017, Angelika Graswald, 37, of Poughkeepsie, pleaded guilty before Orange County Court Judge Robert H. Freehill, to the felony of Criminally Negligent Homicide, in connection with the drowning death of her fiancé, Vincent Viafore, while they were kayaking on the Hudson River on April 19, 2015.

At the time she pleaded guilty, Graswald admitted she caused Vincent Viafore's drowning death by removing the plug from his kayak. She also admitted she knew that the locking clip to Vincent's kayak paddle was missing, that he was not wearing a life vest, or a wet suit, and knowing that the waters in the Hudson River where they were kayaking were dangerously cold and rough at the time. Evidence shows that at the time of the incident Graswald was wearing a life jacket. Graswald admitted her actions constituted a gross deviation from the standard of conduct that a reasonable person would have observed in the situation, and that her actions caused the death of Vincent Viafore.

On April 19, 2015, the Orange County 911 Center received a call that Viafore's kayak had capsized during a kayaking trip on the Hudson River. The New York State Police and other first responders searched the river for Viafore, eventually recovering his kayak, and that of Graswald, who had been taken aboard a private vessel. On April 30, 2015, Graswald was arrested by the New York State Police. On May 23, 2015, the Orange County Sheriff's Office Marine Unit were notified about a body floating in the Hudson River in the vicinity of West Point. They located and secured the body until the New York State Police could respond and recover the body from the river. The body was positively identified as that of Vincent Viafore. The plug, which was missing from Vincent Viafore's kayak, was eventually recovered from the center console of the car Graswald was driving. The plea will render Graswald, who is a lawful permanent resident, liable for deportation, although that decision will ultimately be made by a Federal Judge.

This plea agreement was entered into after extensive consultation with the victim's family, who understand the reasons for the plea agreement. Graswald is scheduled to be sentenced on November 1, 2017. The plea agreement, which was placed on the record at the time that Graswald pleaded guilty, mandates that she be sentenced to one and one-third to four years in state prison, the maximum sentence for the charge of Criminally Negligent Homicide. At the time of the plea proceedings Judge Freehill found that the interests of justice would be served by the plea agreement and that he believed it to be an appropriate disposition.

District Attorney Hoovler thanked the New York State Police for their investigation of the case. In addition, Hoovler thanked all the first responders and civilian volunteers for their efforts in searching for and trying to rescue the victim. Agencies which aided in the search and attempted rescue included the Westchester Department of Public Safety, Rockland County Sheriff, Cornwall Volunteer Fire Department, West Point Fire Department, Fort Montgomery Fire Department, Vails Gate Fire Department, Stony Point Fire Department, City of Newburgh Fire Department, City of Newburgh Police Department, Cornwall-on-Hudson Police Department, Town of New Windsor Police Department and Town of Cornwall Police Department, as well as other agencies.

The case is being prosecuted by Senior Assistant District Attorney David Byrne and Chief Trial Assistant District Attorney John Geidel.

"While no outcome can compensate for the loss of a beloved son, brother, and uncle, this disposition will hopefully bring a measure of closure to the Viafore family," said District Attorney David M. Hoovler. "This plea ensures that the defendant will be held criminally liable for her actions. By pleading guilty the defendant has acknowledged that Vincent Viafore's death was not simply a tragic accident, but the result of this defendant's criminal conduct."

Corporate welfare for the wealthy

Assemblyman James Skoufus (D-Woodbury) recently blasted a decision by the state's economic development engine to award $21 million in tax credits to NBC Universal to keep The Tonight Show based in New York City. In a press release distributed last week, he termed it "corporate welfare." He's got a point.

We all love Jimmy Fallon. He's a Saugerties native who's proud of his Hudson Valley roots. We were charmed when he invited an entire Wallkill youth football team on his show a few years ago after a video that showed them unable to crash through a banner went viral. It's hard to imagine that he would like the show to pull up stakes and head to the west coast as did Johnny Carson in the 1970s.

Carson's migration coincided with the decline of the Big Apple, when crime and poverty seemed to overtake the big city that ended with the Federal Government looking the other way and the famous Daily News headline "Ford to city: Drop Dead!"

There's little doubt that late night television plays an important role in casting a positive image of the city. Mayor Rudy Guiliani urged David Letterman and Saturday Night Live to get back to work following 9-11. That was good for the city, but also good for the networks.

The TV viewers of middle America may not care where the show originates. Nor, for that matter do many residents of upstate New York who have to wonder why our tax dollars are invested in this. Some of us are still smarting over the MTA region surcharge that impacts residents of Orange and Dutchess counties.

NBC has deep pockets. It can afford to spend millions for broadcast rights to events like the Olympics and NFL games, and reap billions in advertising profits in the process. It doesn't need public assistance to the tune of $21 million.

Small business, on the other hand, does need it. Twenty one million dollars could help foster business growth and create many jobs in a state where it is sorely needed. We need to focus on our priorities.

Saving Valley View

Today, the year end 2016 financial results were released for Valley View. The County Nursing Home concluded another incredible financial year in 2016.

Primarily because it got a second IGT payment during the year, it produced an actual profit of over $7 million for the year. In addition, it added over $20 million to its surplus, bringing that balance now on hand at the facility to $47 million.

Even without the second IGT payment, the facility remained profitable -- increasing slightly the profit it recorded in the previous year.

I am thankful that the effort I led to save Valley View has paid off so well for everyone in Orange County!

Valley View continues to provide top quality care to our seniors; employs hard working individuals with a living wage; and makes a profit for the taxpayers of Orange County.

I call this a win-win-win, and congratulate all our staff at Valley View.

Relay for Life a success

On behalf of the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life, we would like to sincerely thank the 14 communities across the Hudson Valley for their generosity and support. This year, more than 500 teams participated in Relay For Life events and raised over one million dollars to support the American Cancer Society's mission of saving lives from cancer. Additionally, we are so proud of our young leaders for standing up and taking action for lifesaving change at college events at both Mount Saint Mary and Marist College.

We were honored to welcome and celebrate the lives of 859 cancer survivors, who walked an opening lap and inspired us all. Our luminaria ceremony demonstrated the community's warmth and strength in honoring survivors and remembering those who are no longer with us.

I would also like to thank the Relay For Life event volunteer leadership teams, team captains, and participants who worked so hard to make this year's events a success. And, of course, thank you to our corporate sponsors for their support, which made all this possible.

Please call us to learn more about Relay. If you have donations that still need to be submitted, please send to: American Cancer Society, 121 Executive Dr., New Windsor, NY 12553. To learn more about the Relay For Life movement, visit RelayForLife.org or call 1-800-227-2345. Thank you for your continued support and generosity. We look forward to continuing work with you to lead the fight for a world without cancer.

NEWBURGH HERITAGE

Nor any drop to drink

Water, water, everywhere nor any drop to drink!"

This line from a poem made an unsettling impression on me when it appeared inside our literature book in my middle school years. The poem by Samuel Taylor Coleridge was full of haunting scenes and moral lessons. In the poem, an old sailor recounted a harrowing ordeal at sea without food or water. Despite being surrounded by miles of ocean, there was no fresh water to quench his ravenous thirst. Our class ended that lesson longing for a trip to the water fountain and walked home listening for the beat of albatross wings.

Like other creepy stories read in my childhood, I distilled only a few scenes that moved with me into adulthood. The desperation of the man being without life-supporting water while surrounded by lapping waves is the essence of tragedy. I thought of the 1834 poem recently as I looked out at the vast Hudson River that is also too salty to drink while our city seeks a safe and permanent source of fresh water. On the news, I saw Assemblyman Skartados and Senator Schumer make impassioned pleas for remediation of the chemical contamination that still seeps toward our closed reservoir. Newburgh is at the bottom of the topography at this point in the Hudson Valley. My home is nearly the very bottom, being down near the shore. West of us are the hillsides that, for hundreds of years, have drained toward the estuary that carries water to the sea.

In my childhood, these lands were not suburbs but farms. Traveling out beyond Broadway or out along Little Britain Road, there were more barns than service stations. Meadow Hill was the Patton farm. Route 17K was still called the Cohecton Turnpike and its intersection with Union Avenue was the big farm stand of the Palmerone farm where we drove every spring to buy our own tomato plants and flowers. When the New York State Thruway opened in 1952, the Palmerone family continued to farm the center of the new cloverleaf access ramp beside their barn. Now the old farm market is the Newburgh Nissan dealership and the farm name remains only as a marker on the wall of the mall on the northeast corner.

Reading through local directories in the 1940's and 1950's many Union Avenue and Cohecton Turnpike residents have a notation "off" beside their names. That means their property was considerably back from the road with a house that was down a long driveway. There were no street numbers because these long-time rural residents were well known to their mailmen and neighbors. Not everyone farmed. Some small businesses were interspersed with homes. A couple of florists, a couple of equipment repair shops, a cabinet maker, two antique dealers, a feed store and two restaurants lined Route 17K between the city line and Lakeside Road. So did a big poultry farm, the Newburgh Country Club golf course and the transmission tower for WGNV radio. Of course the Air Force Base was the biggest presence. The sound of the recent air show was the soundtrack of my childhood: that rush of powerful engines as fighter jets came and went patrolling the skies over the northeastern United States and Canada.

As automobiles transformed so much of American life in the 1960's, they transformed Newburgh's leafy green watershed too. Roads were widened often and barns fell to make way for gas stations. Facing the increased traffic flow, land along the old rural routes was most desirable as commercial space and, quite quickly, the regional main street moved from lower to upper Broadway and on to Union Avenue. People from the towns didn't come "down into" Newburgh for their shopping; city residents started going "out into" the towns. The new inter-municipal communication lacked an important factor: regional planning.

Newburgh is a small city that, in the mid-19th century, purchased what seemed to be abundant water supplies outside its borders. But it never anticipated that the forested acres that surrounded Washington Lake and Brown's Pond would be developed so intensely that clean, fresh water sources might disappear. This transformation over 60 years is one reason Newburgh is left wondering if we will have "nor a drop to drink."

Flags ordered to half staff

Orange County Executive Steven M. Neuhaus has ordered that all flags on County properties be flown at half-staff on Wednesday, July 26 through Friday, July 28 in honor of the servicemen who died in the KC-130T Hercules crash in Mississippi earlier this month.

Fifteen U.S. Marines and a Navy Petty Officer assigned to the 2nd Raider Battalion, Special Operations Command, were killed in the crash. The Marine Corps Reserve unit is based at Stewart Air National Guard Base in Newburgh, and nine of the Marine Reservists on board were members of VMGR-452.

"I have directed flags to fly at half-staff in tribute to the sacrifice made by these 16 servicemen who lost their lives while serving our country," Neuhaus said. "Orange County continues to mourn the loss of these men and appreciates the sacrifices that our servicemen and servicewomen make on a daily basis. I encourage all Orange County residents to pause for a moment when they see our flags and recall these lives that were tragically cut short."

Pattern to discuss Urban Housing

Hudson Valley Pattern For Progress is bringing together national and local housing experts at a Sept. 14 forum to outline how to increase and improve housing in the valley's urban areas -- an important component in helping revitalize communities and a goal of Pattern's Urban Action Agenda.

"Housing in Urban Centers: What It All Means," will be held at Anthony's Pier 9 in New Windsor from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. It is presented by Pattern's Center For Housing Solutions and Urban Initiatives. Since 2012, the center has assisted housing agencies, developers, builders, lending institutions, real estate agents, municipalities and advocates for affordable housing with strategies, collaboration and insights into demographics and smart-growth and market trends.

"This forum will provide valuable, broad-based insights that will equip attendees with action-driven, cutting-edge solutions from speakers who dedicate their careers to solving this critical issue," said Pattern For Progress Senior Vice President Joseph Czajka. "We're sure our guest speakers' perspectives ultimately can advance the path to vibrant communities that attract and retain residents and businesses."

The panel of speakers will provide presentations on key topics that frame the national discussion on housing:

- Jonathan Rose, president, Jonathan Rose Companies and author of "The Well-Tempered City." He will discuss creating housing opportunity in the 21st century by blending green building, transit-oriented development, mixed uses and mixed-income development approaches.

- A panel comprising Joan Straussman Brandon, northeast regional vice president, NeighborWorks America; Paul Singh, director of community stabilization; and Lynn Peterson, senior relationship manager, will discuss urban revitalization and gentrification.

- Diane Yentel, CEO of the National Low Income Housing Coalition, will provide a national perspective on housing trends and the impact on population segments sometimes left behind amid housing growth.

- Tiffany Manuel, vice president of Enterprise Community Partners, will discuss "Opportunity 360" and how to gauge how dollars invested in housing create better opportunities for residents in low-income neighborhoods.

Anthony's Pier 9 is at 2975 Route 9W in New Windsor.

Registration is $75 for Pattern members; $85 for non-members; and $55 for elected and appointed officials and employees of local governments. The fee for communities and officials within Pattern's Urban Action Agenda is $50. Register at Pattern-For-Progress.org or call (845) 565-4900.

Summer concert celebrates the Lord of the Dance

The Greater Newburgh Symphony Orchestra (GNSO), enjoying its most successful season to date, will perform its annual free summer concert at 4 p.m. on Saturday, July 29 at Mount Saint Mary College. The "Lord of the Dance" program has "something for everyone," according to Music Director Russell Ger, and "will leave the audience tapping their toes."

"Dance has always been one of the primary functions of music," Ger explained. "In ancient days, tribal dances were used for all kinds of important rituals and ceremonies; in the courts of Europe, formal dancing was a required protocol in aristocratic interactions; and in much of Latin America, dance was the way that genders socialized together."

"This program," Ger continued, "is a celebration of many different kinds of dance music. From the irresistibly jazzy rhythms of Bernstein and Shostakovich, to Dvořák's bohemian ebullience, to Ravel's hypnotic "Bolero," to Johann Strauss' playful and rambunctious polkas."

Mimi Estes

Russell Ger conducts the Greater Newburgh Symphony in its annual summer concert

Concluding his first year at the helm of the GNSO, Mr. Ger has become well-known for ebullience himself through his informed and witty commentary from the podium at each program. Since September 2016, audiences for the orchestra's performances have virtually doubled, and this response even enabled the GNSO to add an extra concert in March.

"Lord of the Dance" will be presented Saturday, July 29 at 4 p.m. at Mount Saint Mary College's air conditioned Aquinas Hall. There is no charge for admission, however donations are cheerfully accepted.

NYO&W in HO scale. The show begins at 10 a.m. and will last until 3 p.m., with free admission.

If you have any questions or are interested in purchasing a table, please contact Joey Senese at (570) 807-3588.

Up In One Productions will present the musical comedy Thoroughly Modern Millie July 28 through August 20, at The Center for Performing Arts in Rhinebeck.

The winner of six Tony Awards, including Best Musical, Thoroughly Modern Millie was the 2002 season's most awarded new show on Broadway.

Based on the 1967 Academy Award-winning film starring Mary Tyler Moore, Julie Andrews and James Fox, Thoroughly Modern Millie takes audiences back to the height of the Jazz Age in New York City, when "moderns," including a flapper named Millie Dillmount, were bobbing their hair, raising their hemlines, entering the workforce and rewriting the rules of love. This high-spirited musical romp is a delightful valentine to the long-standing spirit of New York City and the people who seek to discover themselves there.

The Center for Performing Arts presents Thoroughly Modern Millie, through August 20.

Filled with frisky flappers, dashing leading men and a villainess that audiences will love to hate, Thoroughly Modern Millie provides an evening of madcap merriment that will entertain the entire family.

The Up In One production is produced by Diana di Grandi, directed and choreographed by Kevin Archambault with music direction by Paul and JoAnn Schubert. It features Elizabeth Merry as Millie, Wendell Scherer as Jimmy, Pamela Edmonds as Dorothy, Kolrick Greathouse as Trevor, and Lisa Lynds as Mrs. Meers.

The Friends of the State Historic Sites of the Hudson Highlands (FSHSHH) is organizing a one-day bus trip to Philadelphia on Tuesday, Sept. 12 to visit the brand new Museum of the Revolutionary War, and then dine at the historic City Tavern. Note: The deadline to sign up is Aug. 1.

The cost is $135 per person (FSHSHH members $125) which includes coach bus transportation, admission to the Museum of the Revolutionary War, and a pre-fixe dinner with choice of entrée at the 1773 historic City Tavern. Buses leave from Newburgh's Short Line park-n-ride on Route 17K at 8:30 a.m. and returns approximately 10:30 p.m.

The Museum of the American Revolution explores the dynamic story of the American Revolution using its rich collection of Revolutionary-era weapons, personal items, letters, diaries, and works of art. Immersive galleries, theater experiences, and recreated historical environments bring to life the events, people, and ideals of our nation's founding and engage people in the history and continuing relevance of the American Revolution.

Located just steps away from Independence Hall, Carpenters' Hall, and Franklin Court, the Museum serves as a portal to the region's many Revolutionary sites, sparking interest, providing context, and encouraging exploration.

City Tavern, established in 1773, was the political, social, and business center of the new United States. Jefferson, Adams, Franklin, and Paul Revere all ate here. The Declaration of Independence and The Constitution both owe much to the food and spirits consumed in this building. It even served as Washington's Headquarters for 3 days in August of 1777!

In the mid-19th century, a fire badly damaged the Tavern, and it was razed. The site was included in the area declared a National Historic Park, and, using written accounts, early photographs, and insurance surveys, the City Tavern was restored in time for the bicentennial. Chef Walter Staib has featured City Tavern in his PBS series, "A Taste of History".

To reserve your spot on the bus for this exciting excursion, you need to complete a reservation form and mail it and your payment by August 1.

To get your reservation form, call Washington's Headquarters at (845) 562-1195 for more information.

Pat Lewis, Newburgh Free Library Adult Programs, Outreach and Marketing Librarian, invites you to a presentation on The Convention of States and New York to be held at the library on Thursday, Aug. 3 at 7 p.m.

The presentation will discuss the purpose of a convention of states, which is to consider amending the U. S. Constitution, addressing issues previously agreed upon, and according to the procedure allowed by Article V of our Constitution. New York State's possible involvement in calling such a convention will also be discussed, as well as answers to frequently asked questions.

A request for prayers for a young mother facing two serious diagnoses. Carolyn Jalbuna has been diagnosed with breast cancer and her sweet eight year-old son, Lance has been diagnosed with rheumatic heart disease. Though Carolyn is facing a truly challenging situation, as mothers are, she is more worried about her son.

This double whammy presents deleterious worry and concern; prayer is all that we can offer to help, but it is very powerful. Thank you, on behalf of Carolyn, her son and their family, to all those of you who offer the gift of prayer.

Pure Bliss Water Systems

Greg and Lauren Bliss

Pure Bliss Water Systems has been improving the quality of water for over 30 years. It is owned and operated by Greg Bliss.

"There are a lot of tradesmen out there," said Greg. "But what makes us different is that we specialize in water treatment." Their ultraviolet sterilizers remove bacteria in water and their reverse osmosis drinking water units eliminate the buying and lugging of cases of water.

It also reduces fluoride. "We're working with the chemistry of water," said Greg, "and every job is different."

Whether your water needs are residential or commercial, Pure Bliss can give you advice on the best water system to solve your needs. They also handle water sampling with evaluations, and schedule annual service and maintenance on your Pure Bliss water system.

They currently serve Orange, Ulster and Sullivan Counties but are looking to expand as the business continues to grow.

Pine Bush Equipment

This year Pine Bush Equipment is celebrating 61 years of pushing excellence! This is due to the Boniface family commitment to maintaining their core values: quality, integrity, service and strength.

"When my dad started this business he was an excavating contractor," recalled Holly Bodnar, President of PBE Group. "In the early 1960's his focus changed from being an excavating contractor to being a construction equipment distributor" The rest, they say is history. These days four generations of family members work in three locations: Pine Bush and Holmes, NY and Newington CT.

Pine Bush Equipment Group offers equipment sales, rentals, parts, service, training and NAPA auto and truck parts. Featured brands include Komatsu, Kubota, Stihl, Boss and many others.

From giant excavators to garden shovels to oil filters, PBE has everything a contractor, landscaper or homeowner may need. Voted "Best Place to Buy Equipment in the Hudson Valley" for eight years in a row, Pine Bush Equipment has grown significantly over the years. Need help choosing the right equipment for your project? Stop in to one of their locations and discover how PBE Group's excellent sales, rentals, parts, service and training experts can help you get the job done right!

Quality Service Center has been located in Montgomery since 1982. Bob Reynolds Sr. and his employees work diligently to provide the best service for your auto and truck needs for more than 30 years. According to one Quality Service Center customer, "They have the best technicians under one roof!" In fact, Quality Service sent out a survey to gather additional feedback from their customers. They received glowing reviews from customers saying that they were pleased with the "extraordinary service," "knowledgeable technicians," and "the integrity of the staff" among many other things. Manager Bob Reynolds Sr. invites current as well as prospective customers to stop by for a visit and read through the positive feedback that is prominently displayed in a large binder sitting on the front counter. He is very thankful for all of his customers and everyone who took the time to participate in the survey.

Quality Service Center offers a wide array of services for vehicles including basic oil changes, vehicle maintenance inspection, fuel and air induction cleanup, power steering service, transmission service, A/C maintenance, brake fluid service, tires and alignments and 4x4 driveline service. In addition to the services offered in Montgomery, Quality Auto Body also prides themselves on their Collision Repair Shop which has been located in Vails Gate since 1942. They are proud to be celebrating over 70 years in service. "Working here," said Reynolds Sr., "we all get satisfaction from helping people, solving problems and fixing cars safely and correctly."

This family-owned automotive shop also plays a vital part in the local community. "We love the community here," said Reynolds. Quality Service Center sponsors Little League teams in Montgomery and Maybrook, promotes Valley Central's All-Night Grad party, Mock DWI Assembly, supports the high school's musical and many other school programs. They also support the local fire departments. In fact, Reynolds himself and tech, Brad Kaufmann, have given their time to the community through his service as a volunteer firefighter in Montgomery. He and Brad Kaufmann are both past Montgomery Fire Department Chiefs.

Quality Service Center prides themselves on their dedicated service. "Quality is never an accident; it is always the result of high intention, sincere effort, and skillful execution. It represents the wise choice of many alternatives." -Will A. Foster.

We strive to provide a caring nurturing environment for all of our students. Our motto is that School Time is a "place for young hearts and minds to grow."

Co-owners Ellen and Cathy have realized their dream of providing an early learning environment for both traditional preschool students as well as a program offering a full day class experience. After School Care is available for preschool and school age children. Both hold a Masters in Education and work side by side with their staff of early childhood professionals. We are CPR and first-aid certified. We attend on-going training and workshops related to early childhood education.

We understand that children learn at their own pace. Therefore, we provide an environment that fosters each child's personal growth and development. Our mission is to provide enriching experiences for all of our students.

The classrooms are set up with learning centers that enhance the development of each individual child. The centers include: art, block/building, easel/painting, housekeeping/dramatic play, library, math/science, small manipulatives and writing. Outdoor play is also a part of our program, weather permitting.

The curriculum includes: personal development, social/emotional development, listening/speaking skills, fine & gross motor skills, reading & math readiness, science, arts & crafts, music, Spanish and physical movement.

Also available, after school homework assistance for school age children. Students will be transported from Valley Central elementary schools.

Wallkill Public Library

Adrienne Gelfand-Perine and Michael DeMeo

Friends of the Wallkill Public Library take great pride in their volunteer run book shop. The Friends' Book Shop was made possible by the Friends of the Wallkill Public Library, with hundreds of discounted books for the community. A member of the Wallkill Public Library at the time, Eileen Masterson, had run a used book shop before and had offered to help set one up in Wallkill, with the help of Stewart and Carolyn Crowell. The book shop is a place that the community can purchase all types of books at greatly discounted prices. The book shop is also equipped to keep track of and sell their books online. The book shop donates books to the Wallkill Correctional Facility, Greater Hudson Valley Family Health Center and Elant, a rehabilitative senior residence. "It's a place to find good books and chat; everybody here is very friendly and open," said Adrienne Gelfand-Perine, President of the Friends of the Wallkill Public Library. Getting to know customers is one of the best parts about running the book shop. "We do serve a definite need in the community. Most people who come here are thrilled to find a book for a dollar that is now selling at another, well known, bookstore for forty dollars," expressed Michael DeMeo, Book Chairperson. The revenue brought in from the book shop is recycled right back into the library to support their activities and programs. The Book Shop hosts several special sales where you can fill a bag of books for $2.

TOWN OF NEWBURGH

NFA alumni plan reunions

Happy Wednesday!

You should never leave your mother in the dark! Two nights in a row Mom was making herself an evening snack and I walked through the kitchen, not realizing she was there and turned the lights off, leaving her in the dark. At least that is what my mother said I did. My kitchen is small and those who know my house are laughing out loud at me. Guess I was really tired and getting to bed is what mattered most. Sorry Mom.

Catholic War Veterans support Downing Park

*"A rainbow in the morning
Is the shepherd's warning;
But a rainbow at night
Is the shepherd's delight."*

Old Weather Rhyme

LOUISE

LouiseHaight@att.net

A brochure printed by the committee includes the following fact: "As a result of an early morning crash in 2015, the monument, which was erected in 1934, by The Daughters of the Union, descendants of Newburgh's brave Civil War soldiers, we aim to restore this sacred space to our city park, at the same location and in the original design."

The goal of the committee is to raise

$15,000 toward the $40,000 needed to accomplish this task. The committee already has $25,000 from the insurance company, but the remainder is for the committee to raise. Deacon Tony Ferraiuolo, chaplain of Post 386, brought this information to the members of the post during a June meeting, and the money was approved for donation to this project.

Commander Robert Schiela explained that this donation is part of their community outreach, which is done throughout the U.S.A. by the CWV's. In addition, he is asking fellow veteran groups, to consider following the CWV's lead and help this restoration project. If anyone would like to contribute to the fund, brochures and information are available at the Downing Park Shelter House & Visitor Center, 123 Carpenter Ave. in Newburgh. Frank Zazzi, Team Leader of the National Inspection team heartily and happily congratulates the Ten Mile River management team! All TMR camps are nationally accredited! A big shout out to Camp Ranachqua, with Brian Wersebe and Mike Lancellotti earning their first national accreditation, since taking over the camp operation! Great Job guys and great Job Camp Ranachqua team!

Scouting requires teamwork, and there's nothing more admirable than adult leaders who, together, focus on the job at hand and cheerfully do their best to complete the task perfectly, no matter how arduous. The optimistic group of leaders saw this project, as an opportunity for fun, fellowship, and service. And what an example for the Boy Scouts, who are now enjoying the beauty of the Ten Mile River camps in God's country. And that's the scouting way!

May you always have an angel at your side.

NEW WINDSOR

New Windsor PBA sponsors fundraiser

Hello New Windsor. This time of year is my least favorite time. When everyone else loves the summer, I actually dread it. This is my busiest time of year for the Recreation Department with big baseball or softball tournaments every weekend at Kristi Babcock Memorial Park, our summer camp programs with three locations and 400 plus kids that are Monday through Friday, our Summer Concerts which are on Wednesday nights, and the preparation for Community Day which is on Saturday August 26. This time of year always seems like a never ending crazy busy cycle.

Because of the large amount of people around on tournament weekends I like to be around to make sure everything is going smoothly, and I will not take off during summer camp because the campers are my ultimate responsibility and I want to be around making sure everything runs smoothly and safely. That leaves me no days to take off during the week. So as I write this column I am currently on day 18 in a row without a day off. My next day off, unless we get a weekend that gets totally washed out by rain, will be on Saturday August 19. No one forces me to work without days off, it is something that I choose to do because I feel that it is my responsibility as Director of Parks and Recreation for New Windsor to see that things run smoothly during these crazy months.

I am averaging about 60 hours a week this time of year. I do get tired and this stretch gets harder every year being I am getting older hitting the 42 year old mark this year. But when the stretch is over and all the camp kids go home safely the last day of camp, and when the concerts are done and all of them went well, and when Community Day is over and successful I can take a deep breath and thank God for allowing everything to work out and be successful. It definitely is a rewarding job seeing all of the happiness that the Recreation Department fosters and the families it brings together at our events. So though this is my least favorite time of year I am glad that I can be a part of making it a joyous time of year for the great residents of New Windsor!

Joe Wheeler, author, editor/compiler of scores of books, one of America's leading short story anthologists, said it simply, "There is something deep within us that sobs at endings. Why, God, does everything have to end? Why does all nature grow old? Why do spring and summer have to go?" May our endings bring new beginnings.

As always, I close with my prayers for God's blessings on your heads, my dears.

SUNY Orange to receive grant for Liberty Partnership

SUNY Orange has received a $1.5 million grant from the New York State Department of Education to establish an after-school Liberty Partnership Program, in collaboration with the Newburgh Enlarged City School District and the Boys and Girls Club of Newburgh, to improve academic success and career readiness for disadvantaged middle school and high school students.

With the five-year grant, the three partners will develop a wide-ranging program aimed at ensuring student persistence, high school graduation and sustained academic achievement. The program will be designed to serve 240 students and will also include college/career readiness training and service learning experiences for students in the Heritage Middle School as well as at Newburgh Free Academy's three campuses: Main, North and West.

"News of this grant is exciting for the College, the Newburgh School District and the entire City of Newburgh. At SUNY Orange, we understand what it takes to make students ready for college-level curricula, and how to help them achieve success in a college environment," said Dr. Kristine Young, SUNY Orange president. "Our strength at coordinating projects with committed and supportive partners will tie everything together and our broad base of subject-matter experts will assure the program has a positive impact upon the students and their families."

"The school district will identify students who are at risk of dropping out or most in need of this programming, and provide necessary guidance and support throughout the school year," Young added. "We will rely upon The Boys and Girls Club's expertise in building innovative programs and sustaining impactful relationships with students and families.

The bulk of the programming will be delivered at the College's Newburgh campus, and will feature a blend of small-group activities including the development of individualized learning plans, as well as academic interventions, enrichment opportunities, skills assessments, tutoring, academic and personal counseling, and other components.

The LPP's activities, slated to begin when the grant cycle begins on Sept. 1, will be largely adapted from engaging programming currently offered by the Boys and Girls Club, including "Project Learn," "Career Launch" and "Diplomas to Degrees." The grant's programming will also benefit greatly from the expertise of college faculty, academic departments, and the Office of Continuing and Professional Education, each of which will have opportunities to engage in LPP initiatives.

Delivering LPP programs after school hours will allow students to augment their in-school learning through an array of supportive activities that reinforce academic lessons while at the same time helping students plan for their future. Students will also have access to skill-building and experiential learning opportunities during the summer months. These activities likely will be scheduled in collaboration with various community partners.

With funds from the grant, the College will hire a Liberty Partnership Program Director to oversee the program, as well as a Program Coordinator. The LPP Director will report to the College's Associate Vice President for Learning and Student Success.

The current grant award marks a return to LPP programming for the College. A previous grant cycle had supported a SUNY Orange LPP program for more than two decades. This new version will place a greater emphasis on college-community partnerships, and will rely upon a stronger relationship with the Newburgh school district that has grown through the development of the Excelsior Academy (P-TECH program) and other smaller projects.

For more information on the Liberty Partnership Program, contact Dena Whipple via email at dena.whipple@sunyorange.edu.

Ken Bailey is an amateur astronomer and has been most of his life. He has been doing outreach events with the Mid-Hudson Astronomical Association for over 7 years and was selected as a Solar System Ambassador for 2017. He is listed on the NASA Eclipse 2017 website as a Subject Matter Expert.

The second event is a special Planetarium Show and Solar Observing at SUNY New Paltz on Tuesday August 8 from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. The cost is $3.50 per person and pre-registration with payment is required by August 1. Payment must be in the form of a check made out to "SUNY New Paltz Acct. #900340.

Those interested are asked to pre-register as soon as possible. Seating is limited to 40, but the planetarium will graciously add an extra show if there is enough interest. The event starts with solar observations from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m., using telescopes that have special filters on them to block out most of the light. Participants will also learn how to use proper equipment to safely view the Sun and upcoming solar eclipse on August 21, 2017. The Planetarium Show will be held from 5:30 to 6:15 PM inside the Coykendall Science Building. This show will feature the night sky for that day. Locate and learn about the stars, constellations, planets, galaxies and other objects that may be visible and the mythology behind some of their names, as well as information about solar eclipses.

Part Three of the series is a Solar Eclipse Lecture and Presentation at the library by astronomy professor Tom Crepet on Friday August 18 from 7 to 8 p.m. This program is geared for adults. It is free, with no pre-registration required. This talk will look at the various aspects of eclipses including some important historical eclipses, their prediction, the different types, how to observe them, and the mechanisms that bring them together.

The Gardiner Library is located at 133 Farmer's Turnpike in Gardiner.

OBITUARIES

Joseph Augustine Gomes

Joseph Augustine Gomes, 79 of Wurtsboro (Wolf Lake) NY and formerly of New Windsor, entered into rest on Friday, July 21, 2017. The son of the late Fausto and Pauline (Maniscalco) Gomes, he was born on June 16, 1938 in Newburgh, NY.

Joe grew up in the Heights area of Newburgh. While living in the heights he met a girl named Marie Sossi who would later become his wife. They were married in Sacred Heart Church on September 23, 1962.

Joseph graduated from Newburgh Free Academy, and upon graduating he enlisted into the United State Marine Corps where he proudly served his country for the next three years. While in the United States Marines he traveled to the Mediterranean to places like Italy, Greece, Spain and Turkey. He still keeps in touch with some of his Marine Corps buddies. His first job was at Costa Beverages in Newburgh, , then his career led him to the United States Military Academy from which he retired from the Carpentry Shop as a Master Craftsman.

Joe was a loving brother, uncle and cousin. He had many friends in New Windsor and Wolf Lake as well as Newburgh. He enjoyed going on trips, especially New Hampshire and Maine. He has also traveled to Europe and Las Vegas. He especially enjoyed family gatherings.

In November of 1980, Joe (and Marie) purchased a cottage on Wolf Lake in Wurtsboro,. Being handy, Joe was able to winterize and fix the place up for his "forever" home. Joe loved Wolf Lake and immersed himself into the community. He was a longtime member of the Wolf Lake Patrol keeping the community safe and clean. There wasn't a dog living there that did not know the "biscuit man". Joe always stopped and gave every dog a treat. He even carried the type each dog liked. If dogs could attend funerals there would be no room for people. Joe's gift to gab made him a favorite around the lake. Patrol trips around the lake took a long time and he made several while on duty. Joe could be seen around the clubhouse and office fixing things that needed repair such as screens and windows. Winters didn't bother him and he always said that he loved to sit there and look at the snow and the lake. "Where can you get so lucky?" he would say. He never had a desire to move South. Joe liked to play the slots and was known to make a weekly trip up to the Racino in Monticello. Everyone heard about his winnings (guess he never lost). He was even known for his gift to gab up there.

The family would like to thank Hospice for all the care and support that was given to Joe during his illness.

Survivors include his sister Mary Keller and her husband George of Newburgh as well as several nieces, nephews, great nieces, great nephews and cousins. In addition to his parents he was predeceased by his wife Marie Sossi Gomes in 1992 and his sisters Jeanne Lord Taylor and Laura Fayó Borner.

He will be missed by his many friends and everyone he has touched through the years.

A Mass of Christian burial will be celebrated at 11 am on Wednesday, July 26 in Sacred Heart Church, Newburgh, with burial following in Calvary Cemetery, New Windsor.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be sent to Hospice of Orange & Sullivan counties, 800 Stony Brook Ct, Newburgh, NY 12550 in Joe's honor.

Steele Road homes scheduled for hookup to town water main

By SHANTAL RILEY
sriley@tcnewspapers.com

The Town of New Windsor is heading into the last phases of work to connect approximately two dozen homes to municipal water. The residences, all located on Steele Road, have wells that were contaminated by perfluorinated chemicals coming from Stewart Air National Guard Base.

The town received approval from the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation to move forward with the work this week, New Windsor Chief Water Plant Operator John Egitto said.

The town engineer is very near completion of the water main design," Egitto said on Monday. "Once that's complete, it will go to the Orange County Health Department for review and approval."

The project involves more than 20 properties with wells contaminated by perfluorooctane sulphate (PFOS) and other perfluorinated chemicals that leached from the air base into the Newburgh-New Windsor watershed. According to the DEC, the water pollution was caused by decades of fire foam use.

Egitto estimated the final work will go out to bid in late August. The state will reimburse the town for the total cost of the project, he said. Private properties on Weather Oak Hill Road and Moores Hill Road were connected to town water earlier this year.

Homes in the Town of Newburgh will also need connections to municipal water mains. The properties are located on Coronas Lane and Lear Lane, off Route 17K. "We're in the process of designing the water main extension," said Town of Newburgh Engineer James Osborne. "Six homes are targeted for service."

Osborne couldn't say for certain when the work would be completed. As with the New Windsor project, designs will need approval from the county health department, Osborne said. "We may need easements to run the water main on private roads," said the engineer.

The majority of New Windsor municipal water comes from the Catskill Aqueduct; the Town of Newburgh draws its water from the Delaware Aqueduct and Chadwick Lake.

The City of Newburgh drinking water supply at Washington Lake was found to be contaminated with PFOS in the spring of 2016. DEC testing revealed the chemical flowed from the air base into Newburgh and New Windsor through Silver Stream.

Buyer beware: new owner says home was 'uninhabitable'

By LAUREN BERG

Town of Newburgh resident Tracy Cotich, like any prospective homeowner, had her the house inspected by a licensed inspector before purchasing it in September 2016. Cotich was informed that it passed inspection, and that the town had issued Certificates of Occupancy the previous December. However, days after acquiring the property Cotich noticed soft spots in the floorboards, which lead her to discover that not only was the house not up to code, but it had severe structural, safety and health issues that made it uninhabitable.

A 16-page report written by an engineer subsequently hired by Cotich revealed that her new home had no foundation under much of the flooring, that floor joists were rotting due to severe termite damage and contact with the ground, building walls were rotted from moisture, and certain ceiling joists were not structurally sound or up to code causing the roof to be in danger of collapse, to name a few issues. In summary, Cotich learned that the repairs would be so extensive, it would cost $188,602 to simply bring the house up to code, and was recommended that the house, which she paid $234,500 for, be demolished. Not only has Cotich lost the money spent purchasing the house, she has also been paying its mortgage, taxes, and insurance since November 2016, in addition to other storage and rental fees. She has been recommended to declare bankruptcy.

Cotich claims that not only did the former owners, William and Linda (Slaughter) Lodge, and the Town of Newburgh know about these extensive issues, but that she also has documentation indicating the owners "actively concealed these extreme defects to the property," which Tracy Cotich says she paid $235,500 for a house on Plattekill Turnpike with structural and safety defects.

Cotich acquired from the Town of Newburgh Code Compliance Department by completing a Freedom of Information Law request.

Marc Kerchman, the attorney for the Lodges that oversaw the sale of the property, stated, "I do not believe it is appropriate for me to comment on a client's closed real estate matter," when asked for comment.

Cotich has brought her concerns to several agencies in the state, only to be told that the behavior of the involved parties does not constitute a crime or negligence. There are, however, ongoing investigations against several of the involved parties. Cotich is determined not to give up.

"Does it sound fair and just to you that I was sold a home without proper disclosure from the sellers and that was 'inspected' by an agency (Town of Newburgh building department) charged with the responsibility of verifying that structures are safe and code compliant? Residents of the Town of Newburgh rely on the Town of Newburgh Building department to do its job. They failed miserably in this case and refuse to take ANY responsibility for it," wrote Cotich in her letter of complaint to Attorney General Eric Schneiderman.

Supervisor Gil Piaquadio, when asked about the allegations, stated, "The town was named in a lawsuit recently and it would be best for me not to comment."

Cotich is seeking the support of other Town of Newburgh residents and New Yorkers to demand accountability from both the municipalities and licensed professionals whose job it is to ensure that structures are safe and in compliance.

"I'm looking for the Town of Newburgh to take responsibility for its gross negligence," said Cotich.

SCHOOL NEWS

End of an epic journey

By RACHEL COLEMAN

It was a bittersweet moment marked with much laughter and a few tears—graduation day for the final student of Heritage Christian Academy.

The academy is a homeschool program started by Daniel and Cathleen Bartley in 1986 for their children. This year, the graduate is Elise Bartley—their tenth student.

“Elise is our youngest child and our youngest graduate at 16 years of age,” said Cathleen Bartley.

Elise managed to cram two years of high school into one, completing her junior and senior year simultaneously. She follows in the footsteps of her older siblings, Derek and Tavia, both of whom graduated a year early.

“Elise, you are fun, dedicated, creative, and smart,” said Tavia, who spoke during the graduation ceremony. “You’re my writing buddy, critic, dedicated reader, sponsor, little sister, and friend. Don’t ever forget it.”

Elise also took center stage during the ceremony, starting her speech in Japanese—the language she elected to learn for school.

She thanked her siblings for their inspiration and support, and made sure to recognize “the one who has made this possible, the person who has always offered help, even if they weren’t sure if they could help.”

Her mom.

“My mom sat through all the complaints and you have no idea how many there were,” said Elise Bartley. “I couldn’t tell you how many times Mom told me that it was surprising that in homework there was work involved, however, despite the moans and groans, we made it through, didn’t we?”

“A lot needs to be said for the mother who put up with so much for so many people,” added Tavia Bartley. “Over 30 years of service comes to a close today. It’s always been us first, what we needed, and I will never be able to express my, and I believe all of our great appreciation for everything you’ve done over the years. Thank you, Mom.”

Each year was an adventure. One year, Cathleen Bartley had seven of her children at the kitchen table for school—with one a senior and one in kindergarten.

“I think it’s wild that this whole journey is over,” said Caryn Bartley, the eldest sibling. “It’s hard to believe that Mom is done. No more homework at the kitchen table. It’s mind-boggling that we’ve gotten to this point... we’re all done.”

Cathleen Bartley said one of the greatest benefits of their great homeschooling experiment was being able to spend more time with her children and to know exactly what her children were learning. The hardest parts were preparing the quarterly reports to the school district, clearing the table for supper and puzzling things out on their own—which became easier over the years with various forms of technology.

“Thirty-one years ago we looked at our options and decided to homeschool one year at a time, no support group or co-op, not much info, just knowing it was the right thing to do,” said Cathleen Bartley. “All of a sudden our journey has reached its final destination. Our children have arrived at the crossroads of life. We watch and pray as God opens doors of opportunity for them.”

Graduates from Heritage Christian Academy have pursued futures in education, healthcare, military, corrections, childcare, baking, book publishing, auto mechanics—and now possibly dance instruction.

“Her outgoing and friendly spirit has given her the ability to dance in front of a room full of people simply because it was fun,” said Tavia Bartley.

Tavia referred to a recent incident at a local health fair. A dance cross fitness group was doing demos and trying to get spectators to join in.

“Elise was one of the only people that would get up and do it with them and they were impressed with her skills,” said her mother.

Elise has her black belt in Tae Kwon Do and was a cheerleader for six years. She also served as a cheer coach for one year at Leptondale Christian Academy.

She has now been offered a dance instructor position at Dance Xross Fitness in Beacon, following her certification this fall.

In the meantime, her mother is helping her recent graduates study for CLEP tests and considering serving as a guru to local families in need of advice on homeschooling.

“To those of you still on your homeschooling or schooling journey, I would encourage you to enjoy this time, take more pictures and don’t sweat the small stuff,” said Cathleen Bartley.

SPORTLIGHT
Jake Cook
keeps pushing

By BOND BRUNGARD
 sports@tcnewspapers.com

Jake Cook will be a senior at Newburgh Free Academy this fall, and he used to play baseball.

"I actually gave it up this previous year," he said, "so I could play more basketball."

Cook's family plays basketball. Sisters Emily and Katie played for the girls' varsity team at Newburgh Free Academy, and Cook just finished his first varsity season as a junior this past school year.

Last week he helped Matt Brown, the boys' varsity coach at NFA, with a summer basketball camp, and one of the participants was Cook's younger brother.

And in about four months, Cook, who played JV ball as a freshman and sophomore, will be busy at practice for the upcoming 2017/2018 season, his final campaign before he graduates next June.

"It's been good, progressively better as the years go on," said Cook, of his play on the court.

And when practice starts, he gets the ball to shoot over and over and over again as a shooting guard.

"I think it's great being a shooting guard," he said. "Sometimes you get to set up in the corner for an easy three, sometimes you rebound."

Cook started playing when he was four and played basketball at Sacred Heart school in Newburgh before graduating to attend Newburgh Free Academy.

The Goldbacks won a New York state Class AA title in 2009. But since then, Kingston, Middletown, Burke and Pine Bush, during the recently completed season, have won sectional titles.

So instead of leading the pack in recent years, the Goldbacks have had trouble finding some winning consistency. Cook plays travel ball when he's not playing for the Goldbacks, but during his final upcoming season, he wants the team to establish some consistency and finish the campaign in a positive manner.

"Keep pushing," Cook said.

Future Goldbacks get some court time

By BOND BRUNGARD
 sports@tcnewspapers.com

As the mornings warmed last week and summer drills were underway on Academy Field, there was plenty going on inside at Newburgh Free Academy's cooled off gym.

Matt Brown, who coaches Newburgh Free Academy's varsity boys' basketball team, was conducting a camp for kids 7-14, and more than 30 decided to attend this summer.

"We're teaching them all the basic fundamentals," said Brown, as the gym buzzed with sounds of playful chatter, screeching sneakers and bouncing basketballs. "It's important for these guys to know the right way to play the game."

No girls attended the camp, something they have done in previous years, but this year did not attract any applicants, so the boys spent their days learning how to shoot, dribble and pass. There were also lessons on character, sportsmanship and how to be a good teammate.

"I enjoy giving back to the community," said Brown. "I grew up going to these camps. I think it is very important for these kids to know who the coaches are at the varsity level and to learn the game of basketball at a very early age."

Jake Wolff is 12, and he's attended other camps, but he said he likes Browns camp because of how he is learning how to play the game.

Jake Cook, a shooting guard this season for the varsity Goldbacks, helped teach the game last week to the young players.

"It's been really fun," said Wolff. "It just helps you."

Brown and his coaches were helping the kids along with some varsity Goldbacks like Jake Cook, who will be a senior in the fall and a shooting guard when the season gets underway in less than five months.

"We're seeing how these kids are going to come up and play after I am done," said Cook. "Get them together early. It seems like some of these kids are pretty talented. Start them young, and move them up together."

Players, ages 7-14, learned what was expected to play varsity basketball.

Boyd wins Gardiner 5K in downpour

Gardiner's 5K race drew more than 160 runners and walkers.

By BOND BRUNGARD
sports@tcnewspapers.com

As runners and walkers started signing up for Gardiner's 5K race Thursday, in heavy humidity, the skies grew darker and darker within the hour prior to the start time.

There was a flash of lightening to the west as thunder rumbles chimed in with other noises in the hamlet. And by the time the runners and walkers, numbering more than 160, took off from the starting line at Majestic Park, the earlier sprinkles turned to a steady, warm rain and an eventual downpour.

But during the cooling drencher, Grant Boyd, an NFA grad, seemed to cover the course somewhat easily, winning the race by more than 25 seconds with a time of 16:48.

"The rain felt really good," said Boyd, following his finish. "It cooled things off."

The race benefits the Gardiner Fire Department, and there were plenty of personnel on hand to aid the runners and walkers during the race's crazy weather.

Levoy Merier was second with a time of 17:13, and Logan Linares was third with a time of 17:20.

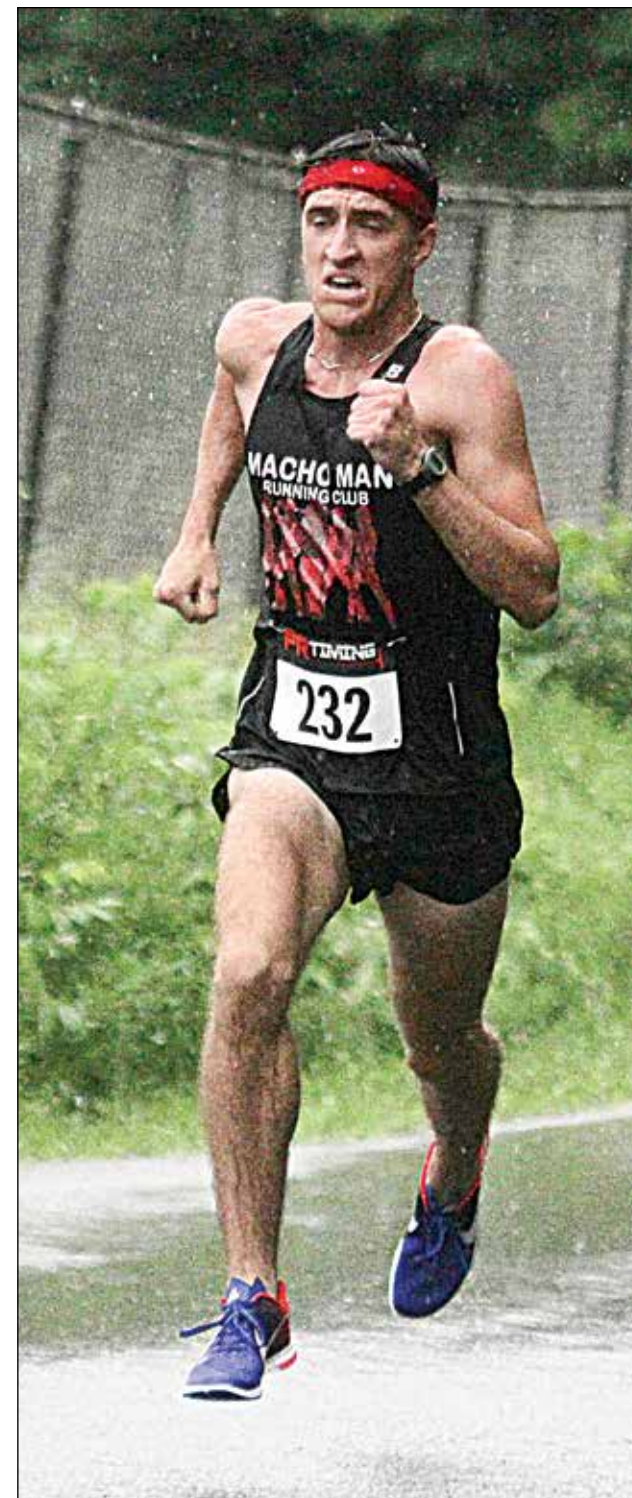

Melinda Mirto was the fastest female with a time of 22:52 for 22nd place overall, and Tera Stoner, in 23rd place with a time of 22:58, was the second fastest female.

Danielle Mazzella, the third fastest female, was 27th overall with a time 23:19.
