Buckleberry Farm Offers Four CSA Seasons, With Fall Signups Open Now

NEW DIGS: Owners Deborah and Chris Collins Relocated From Portland, Oregon, Three Years Ago to Start the Farm

By Eric Trent

etrent@chronline.com

Editor's Note: The Chronicle is working to assist local businesses suffering from the effects of the COVID-19 virus spread and associated government orders to close or limit commerce. There will be a feature on a local business in each edition of The Chronicle and at chronline.com moving forward. To be considered, email reporter Eric Trent at etrent@chronline.com. Additionally, The Chronicle will continue to offer its coverage of the coronavirus and its effects across the community, state and nation free outside of our paywall at chronline.com.

Deborah Collins always had a love for growing her own food — even doing so while she lived in the suburbs of Portland, Oregon, while working in a lab as an environmental scientist for the state

Eventually that love blossomed into a passion and Deborah wanted to expand her home gardening into market gardening, where she could grow produce as cash crops. The only problem was, that wasn't feasible in a city of over 650,000 people. So she left her job with the state and began searching for a suitable property.

"It was a job I really enjoyed but I could not find affordable farmland anywhere near downtown Portland," Deborah said.

Deborah and her husband

Jared Wenzelburger / jwenzelburger@chronline.com

Owner Deborah Collins wears a mask while tending to plants from Buckleberry Farm at the Toledo Market.

Chris found their spot three years ago just south of Chehalis off Jackson Highway near Mary's Corner, a 20-acre plot with mostly woods and a little pasture.

Chris was able to keep his job as a contractor while Deborah and their adult daughter, Shannon 'Red' Kirby, ran their new Buckleberry Farm.

The farm currently has about an acre in production with row crops and Deborah dedicates about a half-acre for the chickens to pasture. There are also goats and ducks but they are primarily pets.

The farm grows a wide variety of vegetables to sell at markets around Lewis County. Vegetables include anything one would normally find at a farmers market: tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce broccoli, onions, garlic, potatoes, greens; basically a little bit of everything.

Deborah also has 65 laying hens currently and sells eggs for $6 per dozen. They are bred and raised on the farm and eat only organic feed, including leftover produce from the farm. Deborah breeds for eggshell color, so each carton will have light brown, chocolate brown, greens, blues and all kinds of colors. They are equally as nutritious as they are beautiful, Deborah said.

"My daughter likes to say, after she goes and visits different farms, "We baby our chickens," Deborah said. "They are totally babied. They have names, they come running when they see me coming."

While the farm is not organically certified, everything is grown from all-organic seeds and Deborah uses natural practices, so there are no chemical fertilizers, herbicides or pesticides. Chicken and goat manure is used to fertilize the garden beds, along with seaweed extract and fish fertilizer for the tomato plants.

"We do everything as naturally as possible," Deborah said. "In fact, we usually exceed organic requirements in the way we grow our vegetables. Being an environmentalist and well-versed in the science of it, I try to be very cognizant of what I'm doing to the soil. If you take care of the soil you can grow fabulous, nutritious vegetables."

Buckleberry Farm sells its produce and eggs at the Toledo Thursday Market from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. every Thursday. It will also be at the Chehalis Community Farmers Market starting this week, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesdays.

The farm's products can also be purchased online from both market's websites through Local Line, an online ordering system. A prospective customer can search by either product or farm/vendor, place the order and then pick up their items at the respective market. The Toledo Thursday Market debuted its online marketplace in March, while the Chehalis Community Farmers Market launched its online ordering in June.

"If you're social distancing, you don't want to spend a lot of time at the market or you just have a very limited amount of time, it's a really easy way to order your stuff ahead of time and just stop by and pick it up," Deborah said.

The farm also offers a community-supported agriculture (CSA) membership. It has four CSA seasons, spring, summer, fall and late winter. Each membership is $180 for nine weeks of produce, which comes out to $20 a week, but Deborah said members are guaranteed to receive $25-$30 worth of produce in their bag every week.

"It's a good savings for the consumer and I try to stick with very user-friendly vegetables,"

Deborah said. "You're not going to pull something out of the bag and go, "What is this?" I'm really conscious of keeping the bag full of things that everybody is going to like and know how to use."

Members also receive weekly emails that describe everything that's going to be in that upcoming week's bag, tips on how to store the vegetables and recipe ideas.

Signups for the fall CSA membership are available right now, which begins just after Labor Day in the second week of September and runs through the beginning of November.

Some of the fall items will include squashes and potatoes.

Signups can be made through the Toledo Thursday Market or Chehalis Community Farmers Market websites, by emailing Deborah at buckleberryfarmnw@gmail.com or messaging Buckleberry Farm's Facebook page at facebook.com/buckleberryfarmnw.

DearAbby

DEAR ABBY: I have been married a little over a year. My wife took a trip to Florida to get some things out of storage, and turned it into a two-week vacation. She's now traveling back with the inlaws, which I wasn't expecting.

Yesterday she announced she doesn't want to talk to anyone, including me, and will only text for the next three days during the trip because she's too tired. I feel rejected and like yesterday's news because she hardly calls me and she almost forgot to say goodnight. I don't think this is healthy for our relationship, and I have separation anxiety to boot. Is this normal? — NEWLYWED GUY IN

DEAR GUY: Something is going on with your wife, and unless she is usually this uncommunicative, her unwillingness to talk with you is not normal. Do not pressure her or make her feel guilty in order to alleviate your separation anxiety. Give her the time she said she needs to decompress and get her thoughts together. When she and her parents arrive, you will have plenty of time to clear the air.

DEAR ABBY: I am disabled and live about 2,000 miles from my best friend. For months now she has spoken about her plans to have a vow renewal ceremony on her 10th wedding anniversary. Although I am on a fixed income, I have been saving every dime so I can attend.

As it turns out, I'm not invited. She's requested online that everyone who has received their invitation and hasn't sent their R.S.V.P. should, so she'll know how many people to tell the caterer to prepare for. My invitation didn't get lost in the mail or in cyberspace. I was just not invited.

I am extremely hurt by this because she has always claimed that I am her best friend. How should I handle this? — UNINVITED IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR UNINVITED: You have a

By Abigail Van Buren

right to feel hurt. "Best" friends don't treat each other this way. Handle it by asking her why you were left off the guest list. She may not have invited you because she knows you are on a fixed income and assumed you couldn't attend. However, if that's not the reason for the omission, then you may not have had as close a relationship as you assumed

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited by an older friend to lunch on his patio, while observing the social distancing rules. Before we left his home, we thanked him profusely as we greatly appreciated the visit, especially given our lack of social interaction during the pandemic.

When we arrived home, I wrote a thank-you note and put it in the mail. However, I'm wondering if I should also have sent an immediate text or e-mail message to our friend. Are there new rules that cover immediate electronic communication vs. old-fashioned thank-you notes? — WONDERING IN ALABAMA

DEAR WONDERING: Many people use immediate electronic communication as a way to avoid the "hassle" and expense of penning a handwritten thank-you note. However, making the time and effort to show your appreciation the traditional way rather than doing both wasn't a faux pas, so stop worrying.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been together since we were 16, married for 25 years. Her parents took me in as a teenager, and her family has been my family ever since.

I'm the kind of person who loves everyone equally. I will bend over backward for someone in need and have done so for my wife's family many times.

Over the last few years, my wife's brother, nephew and niece have turned against me. They've called me controlling, hateful and racist. I am none of those. I am, though, a law enforcement officer and a Christian. My wife's brother is a convicted felon, and her niece went to one of those anti-everything colleges.

This has created a rift in the family and caused my wife and me to feel hated and isolated, which has ruined family gatherings and holidays. How can I fix this? What can I do to help them see me for who I am, instead of their biases based on my religion and occupation? — REALLY NOT LIKE THAT

DEAR REALLY NOT: There is nothing you can or should do to erase their biases. From your description, you have done enough good deeds for your in-laws to have shown them the kind of person you are.

You have mentioned only your brother-in-law the felon and his radicalized daughter. Where does the rest of the family stand on this? If they are joining in and allowing you to be isolated, quit trying to impress them. Instead, spend your time with people who like, understand and accept you for who you are and don't look back. Your brother-in-law and his kids will come looking for you as soon as they need something else from you, but when they do, I sincerely hope you'll resist the temptation to buy your way back in.

DEAR ABBY: I work closely with a woman who is 21 years younger than I. We are both single. Because of our age difference and professional relationship I am not looking to date her. However, over the last couple years I have developed romantic feelings for her.

I converse with her by asking questions about movies she likes, books she reads or what she did the previous weekend. Her answers are usually short and without elaboration. I even share with her things that I do in my life, but never once in the five years I have known her, has she ever initiated a conversation with me or asked me about my life. She acts differently with other male co-workers. She does things for them, smiles at them and seems genuinely interested in their conversation. It really stings every time I see her socialize with others and ignore me. What can I do to get out of this psychological rut I am in? — STUCK IN ILLINOIS

DEAR STUCK: Your co-worker may have picked up on the fact that you are attracted to her and it is not reciprocated, which is why she keeps your relationship strictly formal and work-related. I am sure this stings, and for that you have my sympathy.

You now must do what everyone else in your situation does, which is concentrate on meeting women who are available. You are not going to find what you're looking for in your workplace. What's going on is not healthy for you or conducive to a productive work environment. If you can't quell that crush on her, you may have to change jobs so you won't have to work so closely with her — or at all.

DEAR ABBY: I have a dilemma. My 33-year-old boyfriend keeps badgering me to see each other. We live 15 miles apart.

I'm a 60-year-old man in pretty good health. Before this pandemic, I worked out every day at a gym, and I still do at home now. Every day he keeps asking me to either come visit or if he can come here. Because of this shelter-inplace advisory, I have been telling him I'm more at risk due to my age. He then tries to make me feel guilty by saying things like, "We are both fine; there's no need to worry," and, "OK. Fine! That's the last time I'm going to ask. See you next month ... MAYBE."

The thing is, he's a nurse in a hospital. I live with two roommates who are also in their 60s, and I don't want to compromise them or my living situation. Am I doing the right thing? What are the risks if I decide to go for a visit and be with him? — UNEASY IN THE WEST

DEAR UNEASY: You are doing the intelligent thing. What your boyfriend is proposing is risky. Because you don't want to possibly risk exposing your roommates to COVID-19, you cannot travel back and forth.

In my opinion, your boyfriend has a moral and ethical responsibility not to put YOU at risk. Here in Los Angeles, some hospital employees who live in multigenerational households have arranged to live apart from their loved ones during this crisis to prevent possibly exposing their families to the virus — an arrangement that in some cases lasts for months.

If your boyfriend was concerned about your welfare, he would not be trying to guilt or threaten you into seeing him. IF you agree to visit him and plan to continue, find an apartment in which you live alone and do not visit your roommates unless you have first been tested and quarantined.

Welcome back

What's returning to prime time

By Kyla Brewer TV Media

After months of uncertainty, it's almost time to welcome some old friends back into our homes. TV fans are hoping to see lots of their favorite characters in the upcoming fall season, even though premiere dates haven't been nailed down quite yet.

The major networks and popular cable channels are banking on established hits to get them through the fall and winter, much to the delight of fans who haven't been able to enjoy new content for a while due to the industry-wide shutdown caused by COVID-19. ABC, CBS, NBC and Fox, along with cablers such as HBO, AMC and FX, have announced a range of offerings that include comedy, drama, reality TV, horror and more.

Even with all the resources the networks and cable giants have, the fall season will be a challenge. Industry pundit and former Fox and NBC executive Preston Beckman was quoted in a May washingtonpost.com article as saying: "It will be an opportunity to redefine a lot of television."

Stability is the name of the game at NBC. With only one new series, the spinoff "Law & Order: Organized Crime," starring Christopher Meloni ("Oz") as Elliot Stabler, the network's fall schedule is banking on its predecessor, "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit," starring Mariska Hargitay ("ER"). For 22 seasons, Hargitay has played Olivia Benson, who's now the commanding officer of an elite squad of detectives who investigate crimes such as sexual assault and child abuse. The show is one of the longestrunning prime-time dramas ever and is the longest-running U.S. live-action series currently on television.

In July, NBC released its new lineup, which optimistically includes "The Voice," "This Is Us," "Brooklyn Nine-Nine" and the Chicago franchise: "Chicago Med," "Chicago P.D." and "Chicago Fire," though it's unclear whether some of these might be pushed to midseason premieres.

ABC has been forced to break with tradition and bring "The Bachelorette" to the fall schedule. For the past several seasons, the reality TV romance series aired in the summer, but the coronavirus shutdown forced production to be delayed, pushing the series to a fall premiere. What's more, this season's original star, Clare Crawley, had to step down as the Bachelorette because she fell in love during the break in filming due to the pandemic. As a result, Tayshia Adams, who appeared in Season 23 of "The Bachelor," will be this season's star. She and her potential suitors, along with the rest of the cast and crew, have to remain quarantined at a resort during filming.

As for ABC's other returning series, things seem to be pretty up in the air. Police procedural "The Rookie" has been renewed for Season 3 after a Season 2 cliffhanger that saw John Nolan (Nathan Fillion, "Firefly") framed as an LAPD mole, but no premiere date has been confirmed. Other ABC network shows due to return include "Dancing With the Stars," "Grey's Anatomy," "The Goldbergs" and "America's Funniest Home Videos," among many others.

In May, CBS announced its 2020-21 lineup, chock-full of returning shows – 23 of them in fact. Not all of them will debut in the fall, of course, but network executive Kelly Kahl was optimistic the network would be able to deliver some programming, though dates have yet to be confirmed.

"We're excited to come off another season as America's Most Watched Network and, despite the obvious challenges around us, put together another winning lineup," Kahl said in an official release.

However, in a May interview with The Hollywood Reporter, Kahl admitted that the shows wouldn't likely be ready for their typical late-September, early-October debuts. While filming of traditional broadcast dramas and comedies will hopefully resume this summer, CBS at least has one full series ready to go. Phil Keoghan ("Tough as Nails") hosts the 32nd season of the reality TV series "The Amazing Race," which follows teams of two as they race across the globe, completing challenges along the way. The entirety of the season was filmed in the fall of 2018. However, unfortunately for fans of the reality TV genre, it doesn't look as if ratings juggernaut "Survivor" will be returning this fall, as production of its 41st season has been delayed for obvious reasons.

Plans are still a go for many other CBS series, such as the top-rated network television show "NCIS." It is on the schedule for sometime this fall, along with its two spinoffs, "NCIS: Los Angeles" and "NCIS: New Orleans." "FBI: Most Wanted," "60 Minutes" and the comedy "Bob Hearts Abishola" are on the docket as well.

Nathan Fillion stars in "The Rookie"

The Fox network has come up with what is being called a "corona-proof" fall schedule, thanks to its reliance on acquisitions, animated series and shows that were already in the can. As for what's coming back to Fox, fans won't see any returning live-action series. Instead, animated shows take center stage with the return of "The Simpsons," "Bob's Burgers," "Bless the Hearts" and "Family Guy" on Sunday evenings. Unlike almost every other mainstream television series, such animated programs can continue to produce new episodes – albeit a bit more slowly – as animators, writers and voice actors work from home.

Fox also plans to bring viewers a new season of the hit reality TV show "MasterChef Junior" with chefs Gordon Ramsay, Aarón Sánchez and new judge Daphne Oz, a nutrition expert and author. The network has announced fall plans for Season 4 of "The Masked Singer" as well.

As for the big cable channels, HBO's schedule is still fairly up in the air and fans are likely looking for news about hits such as "Euphoria," "Gentleman Jack" and "His Dark Materials." Unfortunately, the wait continues as not much has been confirmed. AMC has announced that the Season 10 finale of "The Walking Dead" will air on Sunday, Oct. 4, and Season 6 of "Fear the Walking Dead" will air Sunday, Oct. 11. Over on FX, the fourth season of the hit series "Fargo" has been scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 27.

While things may be uncertain right now, it's nice to know that there are at least plans to bring some of TV's biggest hits back to prime time this fall. Keep an eye on the TV listings to catch all your favorite shows.

Daniel Craig as seen in "Casino Royale"

By Jessica Gosse

TV Media

"Casino Royale" (2006)

Daniel Craig's ("Logan Lucky," 2017) run as the iconic MI6 agent James Bond, aka 007, begins in this spy film coming to Hulu on Monday, Aug. 31. Based on British author Ian Fleming's novel of the same name, this installment of the franchise returns to the beginning of Bond's illustrious career as he receives his "license to kill" and is assigned his first mission. The mission takes Bond to Montenegro, where a private banker for terrorists named Le Chiffre (Mads Mikkelsen, "Hannibal") has organized a highstakes game of Texas Hold 'em poker in order to win back money he lost from his clients. Bond enters into the tournament on behalf of MI6, who hope that if Le Chiffre loses, he will trade information on his clients to the British government in exchange for protection. Partnered with Vesper Lynd (Eva Green, "Dumbo," 2019), an MI6 treasury agent, Bond faces all sorts of danger as his mission escalates far beyond a simple game of poker. As his mission goes on, Bond comes to learn the most important rule of being a spy: trust no one.

"Quantum of Solace" (2008)

On Monday, Aug. 31, Craig's second Bond film also joins the Hulu lineup. Following the events of his first mission, Bond and his boss, M (Judi Dench, "Murder on the Orient Express," 2017), become aware of a secret organization called Quantum that has eyes and ears everywhere ... even within MI6. When the group attempts to assassinate M, Bond helps her to escape and begins investigating Quantum. He soon learns that everything leads back to one man: Dominic Greene (Mathieu Amalric, "The Grand Budapest Hotel," 2014), a famous developer of ecological technology. Greene, as it turns out, is working with a Bolivian general to stage a coup in exchange for a portion of seemingly barren desert in Bolivia. While Bond works to stop Greene, he meets Camille (Olga Kurylenko, "The Room," 2019), Greene's girlfriend, who mistakes him for someone else and tries to kill him. Little does Bond know that Camille is working from the inside to get revenge on the Bolivian general for murdering her family.

"The Courier" (2019)

Gary Oldman ("The Dark Knight Rises," 2012) stars as Ezekiel Mannings, a powerful crime lord, in this action film coming to Hulu on Monday, Aug. 31. Knowing that the police are closing in on him, Mannings puts a plan into action to save himself. Special Agent Roberts (Dermot Mulroney, "The Wedding Date," 2005) has been trying to bring down Mannings for ages, and now that he has him, he's determined to put him away for good. Unfortunately, his entire case against Mannings relies on the testimony of Nick Murch (Amit Shah, "Last Christmas," 2019), an eyewitness who has been put in witness protection. When a courier (Olga Kurylenko, "Quantum of Solace," 2008) delivers a package to the safe house where Nick is being kept, someone tries to kill her, and she discovers that the package could have ruined Roberts's entire plan. In that moment, she knows that Nick isn't safe where he is, since Mannings has people everywhere, and she takes it upon herself to protect

The Matrix

AMC 6:00 p.m.

Keanu Reeves stars as Neo, a hacker who learns his reality is actually the result of a massive artificial intelligence system in this iconic trilogy. A mysterious man named Morpheus (Laurence Fishburne) believes Neo is the only one who can save humanity.

Spies in Disguise

нво 8:00 р.т.

When the world's greatest super-spy finds himself turned into a pigeon while on a mission, he is forced to work with a nerdy scientist in order to save the planet. Will Smith and Tom Holland lend their voices to this fun, CG animated family film.

Brad Pitt hosts "Saturday Night Live"

Saturday prime time |11

21 Bridges

show 9:00 p.m.

Chadwick Boseman stars as NYPD detective Andre Davis in this Manhattan-based action film. When his father is killed while on the job as a cop, Andre makes it his goal to catch "cop-killers" once he joins the force. Stephan James and Taylor Kitsch star.

Saturday Night Live

KING 11:30 p.m.

Dr. Anthony Fauci is spoofed by Brad Pitt in his second appearance as this sketch show's celebrity guest host. Then, Miley Cyrus performs as the musical guest of the night. This rebroadcast is one of the series' filmed-from-home episodes.

"The Boys" Season 2

Billy Butcher (Karl Urban, "RED," 2010), Hughie Campbell (Jack Quaid, "Rampage," 2018), Frenchie (Tomer Capon, "Combat Medics"), Mother's Milk (Laz Alonso, "The Mysteries of Laura") and Kimiko (Karen Fukuhara, "Suicide Squad," 2016) are back for another exciting season of this unique superhero series, premiering Friday, Sept. 4, on Prime. Season 1 brought viewers into a world where superheroes, aka "supes," are revered by the public, but when Hughie's girlfriend is accidentally killed by a team of famous superheroes known as the Seven, it becomes clear to him that these supes aren't nearly as heroic as they lead people to believe. It's soon revealed that the Seven work for a corporation called Vought, and saving people is far from their first priority. Upon learning all of this, Hughie teams up with Butcher, Frenchie, Mother's Milk and Kimiko, a ragtag group of killers determined to bring down Vought and the Seven. Each member of the team has their own skillset and motivation for wanting to bring down the Seven – Kimiko was experimented on as part of an effort to create superpowered terrorists; Frenchie is a French weapons expert; Mother's Milk is a mercenary; and Butcher is an assassin with a vendetta against Homelander (Antony Starr, "Outrageous Fortune"), the leader of the Seven, who he believes raped and killed his wife. Season 2 picks up after the epic Season 1 finale that changed everything, as it was revealed that Butcher's wife is not only alive but raising a superpowered son. Now, despite being on the run from the Seven, Butcher, Hughie and the gang are devising a plan to get Butcher's wife back, but a new supe named Stormfront (Aya Cash, "You're the Worst") could cause problems for both them and the Seven.

"Primal" (2019)

Nicolas Cage ("The Sorcerer's Apprentice," 2010) stars as professional hunter and procurer of rare animals Frank Walsh in this action film coming to Prime on Monday, Aug. 31. Walsh's latest expedition takes him deep into the Brazilian rainforest in search of an elusive white jaguar known as the "ghost cat," which he intends to sell to a zoo for an obscene amount of money. To the amazement of his colleagues, Walsh actually manages to capture the great cat. Unfortunately for him, his contacts refuse to help transport it back to the United States due to their belief that bad luck follows the iaquar and those who hunt it. As a result, Walsh is forced to find accommodation for himself and his animals on a cargo ship. However, he soon finds out that he isn't the only passenger, as notorious criminal Richard Loffler (Kevin Durand, "The Strain") is also being transported by a swarm of armed guards and Dr. Ellen Taylor (Famke Janssen, "Hemlock Grove"), a neurologist. Chaos ensues on board when Loffler manages to escape and decides to set free all of Walsh's animals.

"Midnight In Paris" (2011)

Gil Pender (Owen Wilson, "Wonder," 2017), is an aspiring novelist and

Carla Bruni and Owen Wilson from "Midnight in Paris"

Nicolas Cage in "Primal"

a hopeless romantic visiting Paris, France, with his fiancée, Inez (Rachel McAdams, "The Notebook," 2004), and his soon-to-be in-laws in this film from director Woody Allen ("Annie Hall," 1977), available now on Prime. While Gil loves the city and fantasizes about what it must have been like to live in Paris in the 1920s – which he considers to be its "Golden Age" - Inez is more inclined to return to their home in Malibu where Gil works as a screenwriter. After a night of wine tasting, Inez goes dancing with some friends while Gil goes on a late-night walk through the streets of Paris. As a clock strikes midnight, an old car pulls up in front of Gil and its occupants invite Gil to join them. Next thing Gil knows, he is somehow in 1920s Paris, drinking and conversing with some of his literary idols, including Ernest Hemingway (Corey Stoll, "The Strain"), F. Scott Fitzgerald (Tom Hiddleston, "Avengers: Endgame," 2019) and his wife Zelda (Alison Pill, "Star Trek: Picard"), and the famed Ger-trude Stein (Kathy Bates, "American Horror Story"), who agrees to give him notes on his novel, but when he leaves their company he is brought back to his own time. He soon figures out how to go back each night, but the more time he spends there, the more he falls for Adriana (Marion Cotillard, "Inception," 2010), a young model, and begins to see the problems in his real life.

America's Funniest Home Videos

комо 8:00 р.т.

Video clips showcase hilarious moments featuring adorable children, funny pets and goofy loved ones. Alfonso Ribeiro now hosts this beloved long-running series, which has awarded more than $14 million in prize money since premiering in 1990.

Big Brother

KIRO 8:00 p.m.

In the Sunday night episodes of this long-running reality series' new All-Star season, the winner of the Head of Household competition must nominate two fellow Houseguests for the chopping block, and the others will have to decide which to send home.

Martin Lawrence and Will Smith in "Bad Boys"

нво 10:00 р.т.

This new docuseries looks at the story of NXIVM, a self-described marketing company that is considered to be a cult. The true crime tale also covers the cult's leader, Keith Raniere, who has been convicted of sex trafficking, conspiracy and forced labor.

Bad Boys

AMC 11:10 p.m.

In Michael Bay's directorial debut film, Will Smith and Martin Lawrence star as Miami narcotics detectives tasked with recovering $100 million worth of heroin which was stolen from a secure police vault. Unfortunately, they have three days to do it.

The Conners

комо 9:00 р.т.

Since the death of his wife, Dan Conner (John Goodman) has had to face life in Lanford alone. Luckily, his grown children Becky (Lecy Goranson), Darlene (Sara Gilbert) and D.J. (Michael Fishman) are there to offer support in this "Roseanne" spinoff.

Ellen DeGeneres hosts "Ellen's Game of Games"

Ellen's Game of Games

KING 9:00 p.m.

This wonderfully wacky game show is hosted by comedian and talk show host, Ellen DeGeneres. Contestants participate in outrageous, awkward and unique games that are as much fun to play as they are to watch, as they often result in hilarious fumbles.

Jack Ryan: Shadow Recruit

AMC 11:00 p.m.

Jack Ryan (Chris Pine), a CIA investigator, uncovers a Russian terrorist plot that could collapse the U.S. economy in this action reboot. Keira Knightly and Kenneth Branagh also star in this film based on the popular novel series by Tom Clancy.

Rambo III

AMC 9:00 a.m.

Elite American soldier John Rambo (Sylvester Stallone) organizes a mission to go behind Russian dominated battle lines in Afghanistan to liberate a friend and a former superior from a prison fortress in the third film from this iconic action franchise.

My Feet Are Killing Me

TLC 4:00 p.m.

In the rebroadcast finale of this series' first season, Dr. Vincent takes on an incredibly delicate surgery, removing the extra toes from an infant born with 12 toes. Then, Dr. Schaeffer meets a funky-footed nudist and a patient wakes up during surgery.

The McIntosh family competes on "Don't"

комо 9:00 р.т.

Hosted by comedian and actor Adam Scott, families compete to not do various activities based on things many families can relate to, such as "Don't Make Me Turn the Car Around" and "Don't Use Foul Language" in this hilarious game show's first season.

Last Man Standing

ксра 9:00 р.т.

When Vanessa (Amanda Fuller) learns a shocking secret, she worries that Ed (Hector Elizondo) and Bonnie's (Susan Sullivan) wedding day will be ruined in a rebroadcast of this popular sitcom. Tim Allen, Nancy Travis and Christoph Sanders also star.

"Away"

While many people may be joking about wanting to get on a spaceship to Mars in order to escape the chaotic state of the world right now, on Friday, Sept. 4, Netflix follows an international team of astronauts as they head off on their own mission to Mars in this series premiere. Hilary Swank ("Million Dollar Baby," 2004) stars as American astronaut Emma Green. A former pilot in the navy and now the commander of the space mission, Emma is first and foremost a wife to her husband, Matt (Josh Charles, "The Good Wife"), and mother to her daughter, Lex (Talitha Bateman, "Love, Simon," 2018). Unlike many space dramas that focus on various extraterrestrial creatures, "Away" focuses more on the struggles of maintaining interpersonal relationships, both between the crew members and within the families they leave behind. Emma isn't the only one with family back on Earth. The rest of the crew - Russian engineer Misha Popov (Mark Ivanir, "Homeland"), Indian fighter pilot Ram Arya (Ray Panthaki, "Marcella"), Chinese chemist Lu Wang (Vivian Wu, "Knock Out," 2020) and British botanist Kwesi Weisberg-Adebayo (Ato Essandoh, "Chicago Med") – have loved ones that they are missing and struggling to keep in contact with, despite the (literal) space between them. From the creators of "Penny Dreadful," "Friday Night Lights" and "Parenthood," don't miss this emotional new series when it premieres this Friday.

"I'm Thinking of Ending Things" (2020)

Based on the bestselling novel of the same name by Canadian author lain Reid, Academy Award-winning director Charlie Kaufman ("Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind," 2004) explores the complex nature of relationships and the human spirit in this film, premiering Friday, Sept. 4, on Netflix. Jessie Buckley ("Wild Rose," 2018) stars as the girlfriend of a man named Jake (Jesse Plemons, "Game Night," 2018), whom she has every intention of dumping. Despite her plans to end their relationship, she reluctantly agrees to go on a trip to his family farm and meet his mother (Toni Collette, "Knives Out," 2019) and father (David Thewlis, "Wonder Woman," 2017). Things quickly go sideways as a sudden snowstorm leaves them unable to return home. Though she can't discern why, she finds Jake's family unnerving, and the more time she spends with them, the more she begins to question everything she knows.

"New Girl"

When Jessica Day (Zooey Deschanel, "500 Days of Summer," 2009) catches her boyfriend cheating on her, she finds herself in need of a place to live in this comedy series, available in full on Netflix. Despite protests from her best friend, Cece (Hannah Simone, "Band Aid," 2017), Jess moves in with Nick (Jake Johnson, "Stumptown"), Schmidt (Max Greenfield, "The Neighborhood") and Winston (Lamorne Morris,

Zooey Deschanel stars in "New Girl"

"Desperados," 2020), three single men sharing a loft who happen to be looking for a roommate. The boys have a very distinct dynamic - Nick is a cynical bartender, Schmidt is an overly confident businessman and Winston is a quirky former basketball player - and Jess's bubbly and awkward personality quickly affects the entire loft. Not used to living with a girl, the boys are unsure how to handle their new roommate's eccentric personality, especially her methods of coping with her breakup (crying and watching "Dirty Dancing" on a loop). Despite their differences, Jess and the boys bond as they all struggle with life, love and careers, and they get into all sorts of shenanigans, whether it be crazy pranks or a wild round of a bizarre drinking game called "True American." You can binge all seven seasons of this hilarious and heartfelt comedy now on Netflix.

hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison TV Media

Q: Why do those in charge of the TV services insist on adding so much swearing these days? I turned off "Perry Mason" after the first f-word. I realize they can broadcast swearing, but why do they think it's necessary?

A: Premium cable and streaming services can use as much profanity as they like because they are beholden only to their subscribers. Broadcast TV doesn't use it because there are rules and because they have advertisers who, traditionally, have disapproved of bad language. That's why fantastically foul-mouthed shows such as "Veep" and "The Sopranos" were found on HBO, which has neither advertisers nor an FCC to worry about. (And why shows that air on ad-supported cable fall somewhere in the middle.)

But that division doesn't address the question of why – why does the FCC need rules against profanity in the first place?

Your example of "Perry Mason" is a useful one. It is, of course, a continuation of the classic drama that debuted in the 1950s. But the new version, airing on HBO, differentiates itself from the original by offering a grittier, more realistic take on the character. And filmmakers often view foul language as a shortcut to gritty realism.

And they're probably right. Critics have long made fun of shows from the original "Perry Mason" era for offering an overly sanitized version of what was actually being said in the streets and even law offices of the real world.

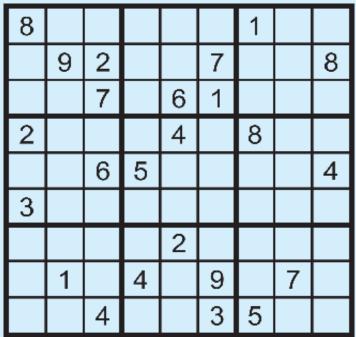

The gritty-realism explanation applies to some shows, but not all. You could argue that the aforementioned "Veep" offers another explanation: Sometimes swearing is just funny.

And that offers a sort of hope. Comedy is based on the idea of surprise, so this tells us that even amid all these televised f-words, swearing still has the ability to shock us.

Q: Are "Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy" and "The Tailor of Panama" related, story-wise? I know they're by the same author.

A: John le Carré's plots are twisting and subtle, but if there's a connection between these two of his books, it would have to be extra subtle – nothing seems to link the two besides the word in the title.

In "The Tailor of Panama," the central character is, in fact, a tailor (also a confidence trickster and sort-of spy).

The "Tailor" in the title of "Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy," on the other hand, is just a reference to the old nursery rhyme and counting song ("Tinker, tailor, soldier, sailor, rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief"). It's used in the story to give code names to potential traitors within the British secret service.
