Full Throttle Tattoo Goes Pedal to the Metal

TATTED UP: Owner Scott Carreras Began as an Airbrush Artist in College and Transitioned to Tattooing in 2004

By Eric Trent

Editor's Note: The Chronicle is working to assist local businesses suffering from the effects of the COVID-19 virus spread and associated government orders to close or limit commerce. There will be a feature on a local business in each edition of The Chronicle and at chronline.com moving forward. To be considered, email reporter Eric Trent at etrent@ chronline.com. Additionally, The Chronicle will continue to offer its coverage of the coronavirus and its effects across the community, state and nation free outside of our paywall at chronline.com.

Scott Carreras never planned to be a tattoo artist. It was never even on his radar.

He was no stranger to art, however. He had experience doing airbrushing, animation, digital art, oil painting, latex maskmaking and chainsaw carving – which proved to be way too much work for what he was getting paid in return.

He spent his college days in his 20s airbrushing murals on the sides of buildings, such as motorcycles, cars, really anything. He was advertising his skills in Centralia – putting up flyers and placing ads in The Chronicle – when a tattoo shop called him one day in 2004 to airbrush a mural at their store. The owner was so impressed with his work that he told Carreras he should become a tattoo artist.

"I thought, 'Sure, I'll try that. I've done everything else," Carreras said.

He's been tattooing ever since, going on 16 years now.

About three years in, the difficulty of working with others proved to be too much and he decided to branch off and open his own shop. He had worked with other shops that had drug and alcohol problems. Carreras doesn't drink and it became too heavy to deal with and be around on a daily basis.

The tattoo industry tends to have this reputation, Carreras said, although not as much now as it did 20-30 years ago.

"Working with people with those kinds of problems wasn't good financially," Carreras said. "So there were falling outs and stuff. The tattoo business is very personal. You really have to get along well with those you work with."

So he started Full Throttle Tattoo in 2007 on North Tower Avenue in Centralia with hopes of running a tighter ship and less of a party place. No more drugand alcohol-fueled atmosphere. For Carreras, this was solely about creating art.

"I was very focused on tattooing itself and art itself," Carreras said. "A lot of people in the tattoo industry are in it not necessarily because they're so into art, but sometimes because they're into the scene or the stereotype."

He's moved his shop a couple times since opening up and is now located in Yard Birds Mall at 2100 N. National Ave. Ste. 112A, Chehalis. More Information on Full Throttle Tattoo six days a week. Sometimes a customer comes in and it takes the entire day for a large tattoo, and other times he can get multiple people in during a single day.

The allure of having his tattoo creations live on on other people's arms, legs and so forth isn't as strong as one might think, mostly due to the fact that most of the time he's not tattooing his original artwork. He's putting other artists' work on people.

About 99 percent of customers come in knowing exactly what they want – a piece of art they found that they want on them.

"It's rare someone asks me for my own artwork," Carreras said. "So I don't often get to do that. And I can't really take pride on my art being on someone when it's really not my art. It's a reproduction of someone else's.

Though he never planned to be a tattoo artist, it seems it was meant to be. Out of all the art mediums, tattooing is the one that has proven to pay the bills consistently, and that's been one one of the most rewarding parts of the job, he said. He's been able to support a family and buy a house while doing what he loves – create art.

"Just being an artist of any kind and being able to pay the bills, that's hard to come by," Carreras said.

The tattoo industry has changed a lot since he started in 2004, most notably the equipment. But he's also seen fads come and go as the industry tends to be trendy. If something is cool at the time, everyone wants it.

"Everyone will come in and get the same thing for like three years," Carreras said. "Then a new trend will come in and you'll do that for the next three years."

He's even seen an increase in customers since the COVID-19 pandemic hit in mid-March, although it's hard for him to pinpoint why. It might be the stimulus check people received or the fact that people are working less hours and have more time to come in.

He's looking to dial back his tattooing, however, as he just took on an apprentice to teach. His goal is to get her and another person going at Full Throttle Tattoo in the next year or so and be able to work a little less. The next art medium he wants to try is sidewalk chalk.

"That's a thing," Carreras said. Full Throttle Tattoo is currently open 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday.

History unhinged

Ethan Hawke stars as John Brown in 'The Good Lord Bird'

By Kyla Brewer TV Media

s protests and demonstrations across the U.S. and the world shine a light on systemic racism, a new miniseries brings TV viewers back in time to the era of slavery in the weeks before the eruption of the Civil War. Given its context and the content, the production is poised to spark further conversation on the state of race relations today.

Ethan Hawke ("Dead Poets Society," 1989) stars as famous abolitionist John Brown in "The Good Lord Bird," premiering Sunday, Oct. 4, on Showtime. The seven-part series is based on the novel of the same name by James McBride and, although inspired by actual events, features fictional characters as it explores Brown's story. Joshua Caleb Johnson ("Black-ish") stars alongside Hawke as fictional young slave Henry Shackleford, whom Brown "frees" and nicknames "Onion" after mistaking him for a girl and giving him a dress to wear. He soon joins the ranks of Brown's rag-tag army, and the story unfolds through his McBride's novel was released in 2013 and quickly drew comparisons to Mark Twain's classic "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn." It was touted for its "wonderfully bizarre images" by Héctor Tobar in the Los Angeles Times and went on to win the National Book Award for Fiction. Hawke not only stars in the television adaptation of the book but also adapted the story for the small screen alongside fellow executive producer Jason Blum ("Sharp Objects").

"The genius of the novel, for me, is how it deals with gender and race, and how we deal with the blind spots that we see," Hawke said at the winter Television Critics Association media tour.

Much like the book, the miniseries explores racial, religious and gender roles in America and, according to an official Showtime release, "weaves a humorous, dramatic and historical tapestry of Antebellum America." Showtime's "The Good Lord Bird" opens in Kansas in 1856, during a time known as "Bleeding Kansas," when anti-slavery groups clashed with pro-slavery groups. Even though that was 164 years ago, the content seems somewhat timely with the current focus on the #BlackLivesMatter movement and the outrage over systemic racism in America and around the world. Originally slated to premiere in August, the miniseries was pushed back to October – a move that Peter White from Deadline.com reported may have been designed to give producers time to carefully consider the content and design an appropriate PR campaign.

Even with the delay, there's plenty of buzz about the series, thanks in part to Hawke's involvement. The program marks the Academy Award nominee's first major TV gig in nearly a decade. It's clear from the trailer for the new series that Hawke's Brown is sufficiently unhinged. The real-life Brown was on a mission to abolish slavery at just about any cost, allegedly convinced that he was doing God's work and that violence was necessary to end the practice of slavery. Bringing such a character to life would be a challenge for any actor, but Hawke's part in the miniseries is just one in a long list of challenging roles the actor has tackled throughout his career. He first came to the attention of audiences as Todd Anderson in "Dead Poets Society" (1989) alongside Robin Williams ("Mrs. Doubtfire," 1993). Hawke's other notable film credits include "Reality Bites" (1994), Richard Linklater's "Before" trilogy and "Training Day" (2001) - the latter of which earned him an Oscar nomination for Best Actor in a Supporting Role. He also earned a nod in the same category for "Boyhood" (2014). The actor is no stranger to adapting stories for the screen, having earned two Oscar nominations for Best Adapted Screenplay for "Before Sunset" (2004) and "Before Midnight" (2013).

Hawke's co-star Johnson is one of the entertainment industry's up-and-comers. The teenager has landed roles in FX's "Snowfall," TNT's "Animal Kingdom" and ABC's "Black-ish." On the big screen, he starred in the indie movie "It's Just a Gun" (2017) and the feature "Ray Meets Helen" (2017).

In contrast to Johnson's portrayal of a fictional character, Broadway star Daveed Diggs ("Hamilton," 2020) plays a real-life historical figure: famed orator and abolitionist

Daveed Diggs in "The Good Lord Bird"

Frederick Douglass. In "The Good Lord Bird," Brown and Onion take refuge with Douglass and his wife for a spell. Of course, this isn't the first time Diggs has portrayed a historical figure. The actor, singer, rapper and songwriter originated the roles of Thomas Jefferson and Marquis de Lafayette in the musical "Hamilton," winning both a Tony and a Grammy. On film, the multifaceted performer has appeared in "Wonder" (2017) and "Velvet Buzzsaw" (2019), while his

TV credits include "Black-ish" and "Snowpiercer."

Other notable castings in "The Good Lord Bird" include Wyatt Russell ("Lodge 49") as first Lt. J.E.B. "Jeb" Stuart, David Morse ("The Green Mile," 1999) as Dutch Henry Sherman, Steve Zahn ("War for Planet of the Apes," 2017) as Chase, Orlando Jones ("Sleepy Hollow") as The Rail Man, and Ethan Hawke's daughter, Maya Hawke ("Stranger Things"), as Brown's daughter, Annie.

As the cast brings to life real and imagined players in the quest to abolish slavery, viewers will follow Onion and Brown as they travel to Canada, encounter Harriet Tubman (Zainab Jah, "Blindspot") and engage in a plot to take control of the nation's largest armory at Harper's Ferry – an event widely credited as one of the catalysts for the American Civil War.

Watch the drama unfold in "The Good Lord Bird," premiering Sunday, Oct. 4, on Showtime.

"Monsterland"

Supernatural horror meets psychological horror in this new anthology series premiering Friday, Oct. 2, on Hulu. Based on dark fantasy author Nathan Ballingrud's novel "North America Lake Monster Stories," the series features eight hour-long episodes, each of which tells a different story set in a different part of America. "Monsterland" depicts the darkness within human beings and the lines we are willing to cross when pushed to a point of desperation with episodes featuring a wide range of scenarios from an elderly, grief-stricken couple or a struggling single mother to a reformed scheming socialite or a wealthy CEO. Each faces struggles that weigh on them, but there's a twist: each episode features an encounter with a non-human creature, whether it be a fallen angel (perhaps encouraging a Faustian deal?) or even a mermaid. The series is set to feature an impressive cast, including Mike Colter ("Evil"), Kaitlyn Dever ("Unbelievable") and Kelly Marie Tran ("Star Wars: The Rise of Skywalker," 2019).

"Inherit the Viper" (2020)

Anthony Jerjen's directorial debut film paints an all-too-real picture of poverty and the opioid epidemic in this dark, family crime drama, available Tuesday, Sept. 29, on Hulu. Josh Hartnett ("Penny Dreadful"), Margarita Levieva ("The Deuce") and Owen Teague ("Bloodline") star as Appalacian siblings whose family business is dealing opioids, selling to the folks in their small town just to keep food on the table. However noble the cause, violence and run-ins with the law come with the job title, and when guns, robbery and dead teenagers get involved, the trio struggle to keep their heads above water and necks off the chopping block. Chandler Riggs ("The Walking Dead"), Brad William Henke ("Orange Is the New Black") and Tara Buck ("Ray Donovan") also star in this timely film that critics have praised for the cast's stellar performances.

"Southbound" (2015)

On Wednesday, Sept. 30, Hulu adds to their line-up this indie-horror anthology film that will leave you second guessing any road trips you may have planned, and double checking your roadside motel room for more than just bedbugs. Told in five parts, each of the stories are tied together by a chance encounter or passing connection between characters or setting, making the film feel like a journey in itself. In "The Way Out," two men are on the run from mysterious creatures and strange events they seem to cause; when one of them is killed, the other is led to a motel where he is tormented by visions. Also staying in the motel are

Josh Hartnett and Owen Teague in "Inherit the Viper"

The White Tights, a traveling band of three young women who are picked up while hitchhiking in "Siren." When dinner with their eccentric saviors becomes a nightmare, one of the girls escapes, only to be hit by a distracted driver, thereby kicking off "The Accident." Increasingly questionable calls to 9-1-1 operators lead the driver to an abandoned facility where the least suspicious thing is that he is only spoken to over the phone. On the other end of the phone line, we learn it wasn't 9-1-1 at all, but a bar patron who tangles with demons in "Jailbreak." Everything comes together in "The Way In," but you'll have to see it for yourself in order to avoid spoilers for this horror hit's shocking conclusion.

"Jessabelle" (2014)

About to be married and pregnant with her first child, Jessabelle "Jessie" Laurent (Sarah Snook, "Succession") and her fiance get in a devastating car accident that takes both her future husband and child from her. Now confined to a wheelchair, Jessie moves to St. Francisville, in the Louisiana bayou, to live with her estranged father, Leon (David Andrews, "Queen of the South"). When she finds a series of video tapes recorded by the late mother she never met, Jessie begins to experience supernatural events linked to voodoo, tarot and the occult that leave her questioning her very existence. Directed by Kevin Greutert, known for his work on the Saw franchise, this paranormal Blumhouse production is available to watch now on Hulu.

Bruce Willis and Nicky Whelan as seen in "Trauma Center"

"The Glorias" (2020)

The life of famed American journalist Gloria Steinem is brought to the screen in this biopic, premiering Wednesday, Sept. 30, on Prime. "The Glorias" takes an unusual approach, showing four different stages of Steinem's life depicted by four different actors - her tumultuous childhood segment stars Ryan Kiera Armstrong ("Anne with an E"); Lulu Wilson ("Sharp Objects") depicts Steinem as a teen; Alicia Vikander ("The Dutch Girl," 2015) portrays her from her early 20s in the early stages of her career to the age of 40; and Academy Award winner Julianne Moore ("Still Alice," 2014) plays Steinem in the 1970s as an established feminist and political activist. Based on Steinem's autobiography, "My Life on the Road," "The Glorias" looks into how every part of Steinem's life led to her becoming a leader in the women's liberation movement. Also featured are a wealth of other prominent women in the movement with whom Steinem had close relationships, such as lawyer Bella Abzug (Bette Midler, "The Stepford Wives," 2004), fellow feminist and eventual business partner Dorothy Pitman Hughes (Janelle Monáe, "Hidden Figures," 2016) and Cherokee activist Wilma Mankiller (Kimberly Guerro, "Longmire").

"Force of Nature" (2020)

Mel Gibson ("The Expendables 3," 2014) stars as Ray, a stubborn and aging former cop, living in an apartment in Puerto Rico in this action film coming to Prime on Monday, Sept. 28. When a Category 5 hurricane hits and the building's residents are told to evacuate, Ray refuses to leave, much to the chagrin of his daughter, Troy (Kate Bosworth, "Straw Dogs," 2011), not to mention Cardillo (Emile Hirsch, "Once Upon a Time ... In Hollywood," 2019) and Jess (Stephanie Cayo, "Club de Cuervos"), the two cops sent to ensure that everyone evacuates. However, Ray's refusal to leave the premises turns out to be a blessing in disquise when Cardillo discovers that a team of violent thieves has infiltrated the building and is using the hurricane as a cover for their heist. Now, Cardillo and Jess must team up with Ray and Troy in order to stop the thieves and survive the storm.

"Trauma Center" (2019)

Move over John McClane, there's a new hero in town! That's right – Bruce Willis ("Die Hard," 1988) is back in "Trauma Center," a high-stakes action film coming to Prime on Tuesday, Sept. 29. When young Madison (Nicky Whelan, "Hall Pass," 2011) is caught in the crossfire at the scene of a cop killing, two imposing corrupt police officers, played by Texas Battle ("The Bold and the Beautiful") and mixed martial artist Tito Ortiz ("Above the Shadows," 2019), track her down in the hopes of getting their hands on the one piece of evidence that could tie them to the murder of the police officer: the bullet still lodged inside her leg. Placing Madison on lockdown in an isolated wing of the local hospital with an armed guard outside her door, Lt. Steve Wakes (Willis) puts his life on the line and will stop at nothing to protect the valuable witness and avenge the death of his partner on the force. This 2019 film, directed by Iranian-American film director Matt Eskandari ("12 Feet Deep," 2017), also stars Catherine Davis ("The Truth About Lies," 2018), producer and actor Sergio Rezzuto ("Drowning," 2019) and film veteran funny-man Steve Guttenberg ("Three Men and a Baby," 1987) as Dr. Jones.

"The Boys in the Band" (2020)

On Wednesday, Sept. 30, Netflix brings Mart Crowley's groundbreaking 1968 off-Broadway play "The Boys in the Band" from the stage to the screen in the premiere of this drama. Featuring the same cast of openly gay actors who revived the play on Broadway for its 50th anniversary in 2018, the film follows a group of gay men in 1968 who come together for a birthday party. Jim Parsons ("The Big Bang Theory") stars as Michael, who is hosting the party in honor of his friend Harold (Zachary Quinto, "NO-S4A2"). In attendance are Michael's ex, Donald (Matt Bomer, "White Collar"); Hank (Tuc Watkins, "One Life to Live"), who just left his wife; Larry (Andrew Rannells, "A Simple Favor," 2018), the man Hank now lives with: the highly opinionated Emory (Robin de Jesus, "Hair Brained," 2013); and Bernard (Michael Benjamin Washington, "30 Rock"), who is determined to keep the peace between his dramatic friends. Tensions begin to rise within the group as Harold's gift – a prostitute named Cowboy (Charlie Carver, "Desperate Housewives") - arrives, closely followed by Michael's seemingly heterosexual, conservative college friend, Alan (Brian Hutchison, "The Sinner"). As the night rolls on and intense party games are played, the friends are forced to confront deep personal truths.

"American Murder: The Family Next Door" (2020)

Fans of true crime are in for a thrilling ride as Netflix presents the true story of convicted murderer Chris Watts in this documentary, premiering Wednesday, Sept. 30, on the streamer. While there are pictures of Watts that seem to depict him as a typical family man, nothing could be further from the truth. This documentary provides firsthand footage as it explores how Watts went from being a seemingly loving husband and father to murdering his pregnant wife and two daughters in cold blood. Despite having originally claimed that his wife killed their children and that he accidentally killed her when he discovered what she'd done, Watts went on to provide a full confession and was given a life sentence after pleading guilty.

"Emily in Paris"

From the creators of "Sex and the City" and "Younger" comes this charming new series, which premieres Friday, Oct. 2, on Netflix. Lily Collins ("Tolkien," 2019) stars as Emily, a twentysomething woman working at a marketing firm in Chicago who gets the opportunity of a lifetime when she is sent to work for a French marketing company in Paris, France. Emily has deeply romanticized the idea of living in Paris, as is evident by her exclamation upon arrival: "I feel like Nicole Kidman in 'Moulin Rouge!" But she's in for a shock. As she starts her job at the firm and offers an American perspective on things, she realizes that many Parisians aren't particularly fond of Americans. Now, Emily must adapt to life in Paris with confidence, style and a certain je ne sais quoi to balance the demands of her job while breaching the cultural divide and making new friends (and maybe meeting a cute Frenchman). Also starring in the series is "Grey's Anatomy" alumna Kate Walsh, as well as Broadway star and Tony Award nominee Ashley Park.

"Van Helsing" Season 4

Horror junkies and fans of the supernatural will delight in the release of Season 4 of Syfy's hit vampire drama, "Van Helsing," coming to Netflix on Sunday, Sept. 27. After following their quest for three nail-biting (not to be confused with "neck-biting") seasons, Vanessa Van Helsing (Kelly Overton, "True Blood"), the resurrected descendant of legendary vampire hunter Abraham Van Helsing, returns with her team of slayers to reclaim the world after a vampiric takeover called "The Rising." The 13-episode fourth season will pick up right where Season 3 left off, complete with Van Helsing family conflict, heightened tensions within the group and at least one gender-bending twist. With Jonathan Scarfe ("The Equalizer 2," 2018), Rukiya Bernard ("The Cabin in the Woods," 2011), Aleks Paunovic ("War for the Planet of the Apes," 2017) and Vincent Gale ("Firewall," 2006) returning to the action alongside some new faces, fans of the show will be happy to hear that "Van Helsing" has been renewed for a final season which has vet to come.

hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison TV Media

Q: I hear a number of the "Avengers" actors got matching tattoos but Mark Ruffalo refused. Why? A: There's a cool answer to that, and a not-so-cool one. But "Avengers" star Mark Ruffalo was obliging enough to offer both in an interview on "The Tonight Show."

"First of all, I'm afraid of needles," he told host Jimmy Fallon. "So there's that. But also I kind of have a punk-rock soul. And I felt like, 'Dude, everyone has tattoos. I'm gonna be punk rock and not get the tattoo.'

It's clear in the interview that he's making fun of himself a little when he says that and, indeed, he goes on to say that his stance might not be so principled after all.

"Honestly, I feel left out and I'm working up the courage to get needled.

He's still included in the design, at least. It's a simple line drawing that incorporate's aspects of all of the original six characters' names: Captain America, Iron Man, Black Widow, Hawkeye, Thor and the Incredible Hulk (that's Ruffalo's character). The line is bent into a styled "A" and a number "6."

However, he might be a little late to join in at this point. The idea was to commemorate the end of the first era of Marvel movies – the run of films that all tied together to drive the plot of the first four Avengers movies and that have these six Avengers at their core (anyone who's seen the later films can attest that there are a lot of other Avengers on the team now).

Q:When is "The Blacklist" coming back?

A: NBC's "The Blacklist" ended on an incredibly weird note forced by the pandemic shutdown – a semi-animated season finale to wrap up the season's story. On Nov. 13, the show returns to the screen - and returns to live action - to continue the twisting saga of Raymond Reddington (James Spader, "Boston Legal) and Elizabeth Keen (Megan Boone, "Family Games," 2018).

The show was partway through shooting a late-season episode of Season 7 when the pandemic shut down production. Rather than just give up on the season, the producers had the innovative (and maybe desperate) idea of animating the unfilmed scenes of that episode and adding a bit extra to turn it into

That was a hard decision, for them and for the network executives ("they thought it was crazy at the time," showrunner John Eisendrath told Variety magazine), but it left the show in a good position for Season 8. Eisendrath has said that the leftover episodes from Season 7 will form the beginning of new season.

The show, which is filmed in New York City, was able to start shooting again after the state opened up production in July.
