Clancy Holt's Fishing Guide Business on State Route 12 Has Been at it for 64 Years

FISH ON: Holt, a Redding, California Native, Moved His Guide Business to Lewis County 35 Years Ago

By Eric Trent

etrent@chronline.com

Editor's Note: The Chronicle is working to assist local businesses suffering from the effects of the COVID-19 virus spread and associated government orders to close or limit commerce. There will be a feature on a local business in each edition of The Chronicle and at chronline.com moving forward. To be considered, email reporter Eric Trent at etrent@chronline. com. Additionally, The Chronicle will continue to offer its coverage of the coronavirus and its effects across the community, state and nation free outside of our paywall at chronline.com.

Every year growing up Clancy Holt and his family would spend two months camping on the banks of the Sacramento River near Redding, California to fish for salmon every day.

They would tie salmon on a rope through their gills, stake it to the ground and keep them alive for four or five days until they had enough to can with a pressure cooker.

"I got good at it," Holt said. "As I got to my early teens, I got very good at it."

One day, in 1955, when Holt was 16 years old, a man walked up on their camp site and asked if any fish were around. Holt's father told the man to walk down to the bank and pull on a rope staked to the ground. The man pulled on the rope, which had a 40-pound salmon tied to it, was splashed with water and nearly pulled into the river.

The man asked Holt's father if he would take him fishing. He politely declined but offered to have Holt take him if he paid Holt money. The man asked how much.

"I said, 'I don't know. Nobody ever paid me to catch fish," Holt said. "My dad said, 'Give him $5 and he'll catch you a salmon."

Holt took the man about a half mile down the river in the family's boat and pulled into an eddy where he knew a bunch of salmon were. Holt threw out his line, hooked a salmon and handed the pole to the man who fought it and landed it. The man was ecstatic.

"He says, 'That was fun. I want another one. How much?"" Holt said. "I said, 'S5 more.""

Holt made $15 that day. It was prior to any guide licenses in California. Soon Holt began taking people on trips from daylight to 11 a.m., then working in a grocery store from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Within a year, in 1956, he had established Clancy Fishing and has been guiding full time ever since. Holt, now 81 years old, has led thousands of fishing trips in his 61year career as a guide, and Clancy Fishing has moved from Redding all the way up to state Route 12. He's guided the entire Pacific Northwest, from the Sacramento River to northern Washington, and has even led trips for salmon in Chile, South America.

"I've been guiding for a lifetime," Holt said.

He stopped guiding trips three years ago at 77 years old, and now has a staff of four guides, including his son, Ron Holt, as well as Steven Hammond, Richard Hassett and Blair Johnson. Now Holt books the trips, arranges the schedules, meeting locations and so forth.

Clancy Fishing's website says the business has guided more than 10,000 trips, but that hasn't been updated in years, Holt said. Clancy Fishing keeps three guides busy most of the year and clients come from as far away at Latvia.

"I don't know how many thousands and thousands of clients that Clancy Fishing has guided since it's been in business," Holt said. "I have no idea."

The business has 10 boats, ranging from 26 feet that are used for big rivers, like the Columbia River, down to 18 feet that are used on smaller rivers, such as the Wynoochee River and the Satsop River.

Clancy Fishing guides trips for mainly salmon, steelhead, sturgeon and Kokanee lake trout. The most requested fish by his clients are winter and summer steelhead, fall king and silver salmon and sturgeon.

Holt discovered Lewis County while on a vacation from Redding. He was on his way to Alaska to check out the fishing up there but had to make a pitstop when he reached southwest Washington.

"As I got into Washington, I saw all the rivers and opportunities," Holt said. "Every 10 miles there was another river you could go fishing on."

He checked maps and noticed all the lakes in southwest Washington, then saw the amount of rainfall the area receives. Fishing at that time was excellent. Plus, there were steelhead in nearly every river and no size limits on sturgeon at the time.

"The Cowlitz River was probably the best river in the northwest," Holt said. "The Columbia River was full of fish.

He stopped in Lewis County and just fished for a while. It didn't take him long to realize there was no need to go to Alaska. He went back to Redding, packed up all his belongings and set up his headquarters along state Route 12.

For a time, he didn't need to go anywhere other than the Cowlitz River for nearly 365 days a year, barring a storm. Eventually he started hitting the Columbia River, too.

There were fishing opportunities everywhere," Holt said. "You could take your clients fishing every day knowing they had a good chance at success. But it's not that way anymore."

When Holt first arrived in Lewis County, he looked at the pristine waters and an abundance of fish and figured it would stay that way for as long as he was around.

"I thought, 'Nobody can ever destroy this resource, with all this beautiful country, water and fish," Holt said. "I was wrong. Man's doing a good job. They're wiping this resource out."

Salmon are still on the decline in the state, even after $1 billion spent over the last 20 years on salmon recovery programs, according to the 2018 State of the Salmon report by the Governor's Salmon Recovery Office.

Salmon habitat is being decimated by the construction of roads and housing and commercial development. Coho salmon being caught have dropped from nearly three million fish in 1976 to less than 500,000 in 2017, according to the Washington State Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW).

The Cowlitz River, which used to be one of the crown jewels of salmon fishing in the state, now has three hydroelectric dams on it that cover up native spawning beds. Historically low numbers for Chinook salmon have prompted the closure of fishing for them in the Cowlitz River in 2020.

"Poor management from the WDFW and very poor goals," Holt said. "They're slowly wiping out every run of fish that we have in the state. Washington could be the fishing capital of the world, and Lewis County could be the hub of that if we just managed and developed our resources properly."

Holt is still making the most out of the current fishing situation in the state, and there are still nice fish to be caught. His business books clients from all over the world and he has at least one guide on the river nearly 365 days a year.

"You do that by treating your people good and keeping them safe," Holt said.

DEAR ABBY: I divorced my wife 20 years ago, leaving behind two daughters. My older girl was 5 when I left, and due to my ex's lies. I wasn't able to see them.

When my older daughter turned 18, she contacted me. She confessed that she had been forced to lie in court, and we reconnected. At 19, she came to me pregnant. She asked if I would take her baby and asked that I tell no one, especially her mother. I agreed.

Last year, my daughter died in a car wreck. My granddaughter will turn 4. Should I go against my daughter's wishes, tell my ex and risk her taking her? Or should I let things remain as they are? My current wife and I are the only people who know. — SECRET IN VIRGINIA

DEAR SECRET: I urge you to discuss this matter with a lawyer because there may be legal ramifications. Your former wife has demonstrated she is the kind of person who would force a child to lie in a custody matter. Having done it once, she's capable of doing something equally underhanded. I am trying hard to come up with a reason why you should go against your daughter's wishes and disclose this to your ex, and I cannot think of a single one.

DEAR ABBY: Am I awful because I don't sympathize when people put their business on the internet? For example, I read some comments on YouTube, and this woman was talking about how "all men cheat." I told her maybe it's just all the men she opens her legs to. My account was suspended for a week because of it.

Another time, a man was talking about how none of his many kids talk to him. I asked what he had done to them that none of them speak to him, and he got mad. Abby, I'm not looking for trouble. I feel that if you can't take someone not kissing up to you, stop putting your business I wrong? — By Abigai STRAIGHTFOR-WARD IN THE WEST

DEAR STRAIGHTFORWARD:

I think so. When traits were handed out, it appears someone forgot to give you a filter. I agree that some people overshare online and doing it comes with a risk. However, your comments weren't helpful; in fact, they were cruel. When a bee stings, its prey tries to swat it away, and that's what's happening to you. To avoid trouble, curb your impulse to comment, or be prepared to deal with the consequences that are sure to follow.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for seven years and have two beautiful children. My husband and I both work fulltime, yet I do almost all of the household chores. I have asked him repeatedly to help ease my workload and stress by dividing the chores more equitably, but my requests are met minimally and temporarily. This has caused arguments, tension and resentment.

He says, "You and I value different things," or, "This isn't what I want to focus on at home," or, "Your standards are too high and have negatively impacted your relationship with our kids." I do ask our kids to clean up routinely because I want them to be active members of this household, and this is how I was raised.

It's putting a strain on my marriage and affecting my feelings toward my husband. Do I need to let this go? Or are my priorities misplaced? — OUT OF BAL-ANCE IN RHODE ISLAND

DEAR OUT OF BALANCE:

From your husband's perspective, why should he have to help with the housework if he can jawbone you into doing the lion's share? Perhaps you should offer him a choice — participate more or someone will have to be hired to take some of the burden off your shoulders.

As to your children, please stick to your guns. It is important they master basic housekeeping skills so that when they become adults, they will be able to take care of themselves. Few children relish the idea of doing housework, but many of them do it anyway as a way to earn an allowance.

DEAR ABBY: I was happily married to the same woman for 51 years. "Jane" was married 42 years to the same man. We were both widowed. We hooked up and were enjoying our time together, but after about three years it all changed.

Do you believe in split personalities, the Jekyll and Hyde thing? Jane started falsely accusing me of having affairs with other women. The last two women she accused me of being involved with I don't even know. The accusations have been coming more frequently. One day she's fine; the next day she is accusing me.

Jane doesn't like vulgar language, and normally she doesn't use it. But when she's accusing me of communicating with these women, she uses words that would make a sailor blush! A researcher's first guess was the early stages of Alzheimer's. I know she is paranoid, but why? — HATES THE CHANGE IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR HATES: A personality change such as you have described can be a symptom of Alzheimer's disease, but it can also be caused by small strokes and other dementias. Jane's paranoia could also be a symptom of a physical illness. If she has family, it is very important that you inform them about what's happening so they — and you — can encourage her to be evaluated physically and neurologically. If you do, it might save not only her life but also your sanity.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 21, my grandparents told me, "It's better to be loved than to be right." Fifty years later, I'm still trying to follow that advice because it's so true. Sometimes it is very hard to practice, but I will never forget those words. — KEN

IN SHERMAN OAKS, CALIF.

DEAR KEN: Anything that encourages folks to get along better is good advice in my book. People sometimes place too much importance on trying to be right. Now, allow me to share an adage with you that I learned from MY grandfather: "I never learned anything while I was talking."

DEAR ABBY: I encountered a frightening man in the hardware store the other day. I was standing at the counter paying for an item when a man behind me came at me, inches from my face, in an aggressive and threatening way. When I asked him if he could please step 6 feet away, he became even more hostile and accused me of asking in the wrong way.

In hindsight, I suppose I should have ignored him. But his words shook me. I didn't speak disrespectfully to him. Although I was alarmed, I was polite. When I said I was just asking for the required space, he said he was showing me how thoughtless I am because I wasn't wearing a mask or gloves. Neither was he, nor were the employees and some other shoppers. When I pointed that out, he countered even more loudly that I was the problem. I just shook my head and left. As I was leaving, he yelled after me that he hoped I got the virus and that he worked in a hospital.

The man was huge, at least double my size. He was clearly going out of his way to threaten me, if not to infect me. I know I should not have responded, but for my own safety, I needed to politely ask him to back away. If I'd had a smartphone, I might have called the police.

I go for a walk every day for exercise and to shop for necessary groceries. I have experienced people in aisles coming very close to me. I step aside to give space for others. Generally, most people are careful, respectful and even give a thankyou. This man was aggressive for no reason. What should I have done other than just walk quickly away? — THREATENED IN OAKLAND, CALIF.

DEAR THREATENED: You did the right thing. I seriously doubt the person worked in or even near a hospital, because if he did, he would have taken the proper safety precautions. In these stressful times, people sometimes act out over perceived slights. With someone so angry, aggressive and clearly looking for trouble, the right thing to do was to get away as quickly and safely as possible. The man was lucky the store management didn't eject him.

Sci-fi thriller series 'Snowpiercer' journeys through an artificially frozen wasteland

t can be hard to imagine a completely frozen-over Earth in the middle of a sweltering July, but that is the catapult of the story behind the new sci-fi series, "Snowpiercer." A new episode airs Sunday, July 12, on TNT.

The last surviving humans on the planet all boarded the 1,001-car-long, super-speed train, Snowpiercer, before the Earth became inhospitably cold after an ill-advised attempt to cool the effects of global warming went horribly wrong. At the final boarding call for passengers, people without tickets rushed the train, violence broke out between those desperate for survival and the guards of the Snowpiercer, and a handful of those desperate souls staked their claim on the final carriage of the train, becoming Snowpiercer's "Tailies."

Subjected to abhorrent treatment under a strictly enforced class system, the Tailies are given the bare minimum necessary to survive. They are fed disgusting, constantly shrinking rations and treated as less than human by those who enforce the status quo. Tailies with special skills are selectively chosen as needed to ascend through the train for whatever jobs need doing for the upper classes, and those that are returned to their home car bring with them intel about the rest of the train.

Seven years into the train's neverending journey, Tailies have banded together to organize a revolution to force their oppressors to improve their living conditions. Andre Layton, portrayed by Daveed Diggs ("Blackish"), is the leader of this revolution, and when he is unexpectedly plucked out of the last car to investigate murders in the upper classes, the Tailies enact his planned takeover without him.

As a former homicide detective, Layton investigates a series of murders that the First Class was wholly unprepared to handle. Layton is surveilled at a distance by the mysterious head of Hospitality, Melanie Cavill (Jennifer Connelly, "Labyrinth," 1986), and more directly by Brakeman Till (Mickey Sumner, "Low Winter Sun"), a security enforcement officer who is saved from the bloody uprising by Layton.

After watching him leave them, other Tailies involved with the revolution splinter over whether they believe Layton will return to their car after his work in the upper classes, or if he will remain there, having had a taste of a better life and forgetting the bigger goal of creating equality among all classes of passengers aboard the Snowpiercer. Without much knowledge of the 1,000 cars beyond the one they call home, the Tailies are forced to push forward in the hopes of gaining ground in an essential carriage and holding resources hostage as a bargaining tactic.

The Tailies aren't the only characters in "Snowpiercer" secretly constructing a strategy for change. Cavill is calm and stern whether she's dealing with the concerns of First Class passengers or explaining to Layton the intricate balance that must be maintained in order to grow a perfect strawberry onboard the Snowpiercer, obviously suggesting he read between the lines and recognize his place as a member of the lowest class of passengers. It is clear that Cavill has more up her sleeve than she is letting on while she has her Hospitality jacket on; when she returns to her quarters at the end of her day to literally and figuratively let her hair down, she is greeted by a poster of chess strategies.

If "Snowpiercer" sounds familiar to you, that may be because the series is a reboot of the 2013 film of the same name that starred Chris Evans during a rare break from portraying superhero Captain America in the Marvel Cinematic Universe series of films. The movie takes place 17 years into the train's run and references past Tailie uprisings that may be the ones we see unfold in the series.

That film was itself an adaptation of the 1982 graphic novel "Le Transperceneige," by Jacques Lob and Jean-Marc Rochette. The film's director and screenplay writer, Bong Joon-ho, also wrote the screenplay for the 10-episode "Snowpiercer." Bong received three Academy Awards for his 2019 film "Parasite": Best Film, Best Director and Best Original Screenplay. That film, like "Snowpiercer," is a sharp examination of the classist structure of society and the violence and deception it often takes to ascend beyond the class you happen to be born into. In "Parasite," being poor is a stink that you just can't wash off, and in "Snowpiercer," you'll always be sent back to where you came from when the upper classes have gotten what they want from you.

All aboard the Snowpiercer! Class warfare is erupting, and you're either part of the revolution or you're the one facing it from your First Class train. Do not miss the penultimate episode of "Snowpiercer," airing Sunday, July 12, on TNT.

"Outcry" Season 1

The freshman season of this Showtime docuseries lands on Hulu on Sunday, July 5. The five-part series focuses on former high school football star Greg Kelly, who seemed to have everything going for him as he entered his senior year in Leander, Texas. When he was accused of sexually assaulting a 4-year-old boy, Kelly's life began to crumble, and in 2014, he was convicted of the crime and sentenced to 25 years in prison without the possibility of parole. What followed was a roller coaster of events that this series documents and presents to viewers in a compelling way. Kelly spent more than three years behind bars as his family, community and legal team rallied around him in an effort to uncover the truth and expose the holes in the case against him. As you watch this series, you'll be shocked (and outraged) by some of the twists Kelly's case takes, a case that tore a community apart and changed some families forever. "Outcry" was supposed to premiere at the SXSW Film Festival back in March, but like so many things this year, the festival was canceled due to the global coronavirus pandemic. This is a well-made, thorough documentary series, and it's a story you won't want to miss. Binge the entire first season of "Outcry" when it premieres Sunday, July 5, on Hulu.

"Palm Springs" (2020)

Don't miss the premiere of this unusual romantic comedy when it comes to Hulu on Friday, July 10. Andy Samberg ("Brooklyn Nine-Nine") stars as Nyle, a carefree man attending an upscale wedding in Palm Springs where he meets Sarah (Cristin Milioti, "How I Met Your Mother"), the bride's (Camila Mendes, "Riverdale") reluctant maid of honor. When he jumps in to save her from her own increasingly awful toast, the two begin to bond, and they inadvertently disrupt the wedding proceedings. While this may sound like a standard romcom, the film actually takes some surprising existential twists as Nyle and Sarah find themselves trapped in the wedding venue, unable to escape their friends' nuptials, or each other. This unique film also features J.K. Simmons ("Defending Jacob"), Peter Gallagher ("Zoey's Extraordinary Playlist"), Meredith

Hagner ("Search Party"), Tyler Hoechlin ("Teen Wolf") and June

"Cake" Season 3

The third season of this FXX series kicks off on Friday, July 10 (the day after it airs on FXX), and you can watch a new episode of this one-ofa-kind show every week for the rest of the summer. "Cake" blends animation with live-action comedy to create something truly unique and truly hilarious. Each episode is made up of a number of short vignettes, some independent and some with stories and themes that recur throughout the season. The new season kicks off with two new installments – just enough to get you hooked. If you find yourself drawn into this quirky comedy, you can watch the first and second seasons in their entirety on Hulu as well.

"The Fosters" Seasons 1 - 5

Teri Polo ("The Bravest Knight") and Sherri Saum ("Locke & Key") star as Stef and Lena Adams Foster in this beloved family drama coming to Prime Video in its entirety on Monday, July 6. Together, Stef, a police officer, and Lena, a school vice principal, create a loving blended family and try to raise their children to be caring, well-adjusted human beings as they all weather the ups and downs of life. As the series opens, their kids include Brandon (David Lambert, "Aaron Stone"), Stef's biological son, and Jesus (Noah Centineo, "To All the Boys I Loved Before," 2018) and Mariana (Cierra Ramirez, "The Secret Life of the American Teenager"), twins who were adopted as babies. Soon, though, Stef and Lena begin to add to their diverse family, and take in two young foster kids, Jude (Hayden Byerly, "Parenthood") and Callie (Maia Mitchell, "The Lion Guard"). This series manages to tackle many traditionally difficult subjects with impressive grace, and encourages love and acceptance with its storylines. If you're looking for an addictive drama to watch with your family, this is the one for you - you can binge it starting Monday, July 6.

"The Tourist" (2010)

On Tuesday, July 7, you can stream this adventure film starring Angelina Jolie ("Maleficent: Mistress of Evil," her best to evade both Scotland Yard and mobster Reginald Shaw (Steven Berkoff, "Vikings"), as both parties hope she will lead them to her lover, Alexander Pearce, Rumor has it that Pearce has undergone plastic surgery to change his appearance and stay two steps ahead of his pursuers, and Elsie receives notes from him indicating that she should select a man at random and pretend he is Pearce. Johnny Depp ("Fantastic Beasts: The Crimes of Grindelwald," 2018) plays Frank, an American visiting Italy, and he's the unwitting victim of Pearce's ruse. The more Elsie gets to know him, however, the more difficult it becomes to leave him in harm's way. As Frank seems to bumble his way through the perilous situations he finds himself in, the stakes are higher than anyone realizes. This action flick also stars Paul Bettany ("Avengers: Infinity War," 2018). Timothy Dalton ("Doom Patrol") and Rufus Sewell ("The Man in the High Castle"), and is perfect for any movie night.

2019) as Elsie, a British woman doing

"Vivarium" (2020)

This thriller joins the Prime Video lineup on Saturday, July 11. It's an international film, co-produced by Ireland, Denmark and Belgium, and stars Imogen Poots ("I Know This Much Is True") and Jessie Eisenberg ("Zombieland: Double Tap," 2019) as Gemma and Tom, a young couple hoping to buy a house. Martin (Jonathan Aris, "The End of the F***ing World"), their very strange real estate agent, takes them to a new development called Yonder, where all the homes look exactly the same and the neighborhood is eerily empty and silent. Martin shows them house No. 9, and then suddenly disappears completely, leaving Gemma and Tom to try to find their way out of Yonder on their own. The couple soon discovers that no matter what they do, they always end up back at No. 9. Desperate and scared, they try everything they can think of to get out of this creepy place, but as their situation becomes more complicated, they begin to wonder if they will ever make it out alive. You'll be thinking about this strange and sinister film for days.

Black Monday

sноw 8:00 p.m.

Don Cheadle stars as Wall Street broker Maurice "Mo" Monroe in this dramedy which imagines the cause of the 1987 stock market crash. In this season, the market has crashed and Mo, along with everyone else, attempts to deal with the fallout.

Press Your Luck

комо 9:00 р.т.

Tune in and avoid the "Whammy!" with host Elizabeth Banks as she welcomes back previous players in this new episode. Contestants earn spins by answering trivia questions, which they use to take risks on the Big Board, where they either win or lose cash.

Louise and Gene from "Bob's Burgers"

Sunday prime time |15

Bob's Burgers

ксро 9:00 р.т.

If anyone knows how to get in trouble, its Louise, so when a classmate needs lessons on being rebellious, that's exactly who she turns to in this rebroadcast. Meanwhile, Jimmy Pesto needs his hernia meds, and Bob is the one who has to bring it to him.

NOS4A2 AMC 10:00 p.m.

Knowing Charlie Manx (Zachary Quinto) is on the hunt, Vic (Ashleigh Cummings) goes into hiding with her family and Maggie (Jahkara Smith) in this new episode. Meanwhile, Wayne (Jason David) has nightmares, and Tabitha (Ashley Romans) gets a new lead.

Charlize Theron stars in "The Old Guard"

By Jessica Gosse TV Media

"The Old Guard" (2020)

Charlize Theron ("Bombshell," 2019) stars as a warrior named Andy who leads a team of immortal mercenaries in this action film premiering Friday, July 10, on Netflix. Based on the graphic novel of the same name by famed comic book author Greg Rucka ("Batwoman"), the film follows Andy, Booker (Matthias Schoenaerts, "The Danish Girl," 2015), Joe (Marwan Kenzari, "Aladdin," 2019) and Nicky (Luca Marinelli, "Don't Be Bad," 2015), who have been protecting the mortal world for centuries while managing to keep the fact that they are unable to die a secret. Now, they discover that a new immortal named Nile (KiKi Layne, "If Beale Street Could Talk," 2018) has awakened and must be brought into the fold. However, while on a mission. the team's secret is exposed, and now they must fight to stop those who hope to exploit their immortality by replicating their power and selling it.

"Mucho Mucho Amor" (2020)

Described as a combination of Oprah, Liberace and Mr. Rogers, the life of Puerto Rican psychic and astrologer Walter Mercado comesto Netflix in this fascinating documentary premiering Wednesday, July 8, on the streamer. Known also by his stage name, Shanti Ananda, Mercado was a staple in the Latinx community for decades before he seemingly disappeared without a community who were close with Mercado, such as Lin-Manuel Miranda ("Mary Poppins Returns, " 2018) and Eugenio Derbez ("Overboard," 2018). Learn about the life of this Latinx icon from his humble beginnings as a shy farm boy to his final flamboyant performance as the great Shanti Ananda with this fascinating new documentary.

"Stateless"

While many people know Cate Blanchett as the Academy Awardwinning actress from "The Aviator" (2014), or from one of the many other impressive titles on her resume, what many people aren't as aware of is her passion for activism. Blanchett is actually an ambassador for the United Nations High Commission for Refugees, and she combined her love of acting with her activism to create the new Australian mini-series "Stateless," which debuts Wednesday, July 8, on Netflix. The series is inspired by true stories from an Australian immigration detention center and looks at the lives of four very different people on vastly different paths of life, all of whom end up in the detention center for one reason or another. Sofie (Yvonne Strahovski, "The Handmaid's Tale") is a flight attendant who has escaped a suburban cult; Cam (Jai Courtney, "Divergent," 2014) is a father looking to move on from a dead-end job; Ameer (Fayssal Bazzi, "Down Under," 2016) is an Afghan refugee who just wants a fresh start with his family; and Clare (Asher

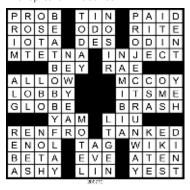

Yvonne Strahovski in "Stateless"

Keddie, "Offspring") is a government official just trying to do her job. Blanchett has commented that she hopes to create conversation in people's homes about immigration and highlight "the loss of people's identity when they are faced with long-term detention" with this compelling six-part series.

"Japan Sinks: 2020"

Given the chaos that has occurred in the first half of 2020 - wildfires, a pandemic, protests, etc. - it seems oddly appropriate for Netflix to be premiering this science fiction disaster series on Thursday, July 9. Based on the 1973 bestselling novel by Sakyo Komatsu, this new anime series follows a family living in Japan when a massive natural disaster strikes. While tsunamis and earthquakes are relatively common in the island region, the family has never seen anything like this as a series of earthquakes causes the country to literally start sinking. Over the course of this 10-episode series, we see the family struggle to first find each other and then work together to survive the mayhem erupting around them. From director Masaaki Yuasa ("Devilman: Crybaby"), don't miss the premiere of this topical anime series.

hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison TV Media

Q:Will there be another season of "Archer"? I feel like we've been waiting for a while now.

A: I struggled to think of a reference to one of "Archer's" million running jokes to use here, but none were suitable for a respectable, family-friendly TV column. (I can't even use "I had something for this ..." because that's usually prefaced by a swear word.) So I'll just say it outright: Yes, there will be another season, but it's been delayed.

Season 11 of the consistently profane cartoon comedy was originally scheduled for release on May 6, but the coronavirus happened.

The show's network, FX, announced at the beginning of April that it would "shift the premiere date to later this year."

"Later this year" covers a lot of ground, of course, and there's been no news since. But at least we know it's coming. In the meantime, we just have to be patient.

I mean, who are you, Samuel Watson – inventor of the stopwatch? (Ha! I found a reference I can use.)

Q: Did the boy who played Charlie Bucket in the original "Willy Wonka & the Chocolate Factory" ever do anything else?

A: Peter Ostrum didn't do any other screen work after "Willy Wonka & the Chocolate Factory" (1971), and that's fine with him.

Ostrum was 12 years old and doing some small-town theater work, with no grander acting ambitions, when he was spotted by a talent agent scouring the country for an actor to play Charlie. He got the role, turned in a shockingly good performance for someone so inexperienced, and then left the business. He was offered a threepicture deal but turned it down.

He has been incredibly publicity-shy ever since, and so his exact motivations aren't a matter of public record, but he has said that film stardom just wasn't a life he wanted, and that he's happy with his choice.

These days he works as a largeanimal veterinarian in New York state and he loves it. He avoids talking about his "Wonka" role, except once a year to a grade-school class in his area. He indulges them in their questions about the choc-

He made an exception to his no-interviews rule recently when he appeared at a fan convention with some of his co-stars. There, in an interview with HollywoodChicago.com, he gave a hint of the sort of advice he gives the kids at his annual closed-door talks. Quaker Oats is retiring it's famed Aunt Jemima line of food products. Meanwhile, the Washington Redskins were like, "Don't look up, don't look up. They can't see us if we don't look up. Crap, they saw us."
