WINLOCK — When Burke Deming's grandparents were searching for a farm to buy in Lewis County in the early 1970s, he can remember playing on Big Jack, the old 1920 steam locomotive, that sat in Fort Borst Park for 51 years. He was 7 years old at the time.

His grandparents finally found their farm in 1974 after four years of searching, right at the confluence of Snow and Olequa creeks, halfway between Winlock and Vader. They named it Olequa Farm.

It sparked a farming interest in Deming that never left. Growing up in Portland, Deming went on to study agriculture at Oregon State University.

"I was a city boy that wanted to be a farmer." Burke said.

Jared Wenzelburger / jwenzelburger@chronline.com

Burke Deming inspects boxes of veggies from his fields and greenhouses Tuesday morning at Olequa Farm in Winlock.

And when he came up to his grandparents one summer near the end of his college career to help out on the farm, he never went back to school to finish his degree. He would end up buying the farm from his grandmother in 1986 and now runs the place with his wife, Laura, and the two live in the farmhouse that's over 100 years old.

Their first crop was marion-berries, 16 rows that were 160 feet long. They were wiped out within a few years by disease. He soon began planting and harvesting salad greens that he'd sell to stores and restaurants in the early 1990s. He switched to Community-Supported Agriculture (CSA) eight years ago, where people buy a subscription in winter or spring to help the farmer pay for the costs, and then they receive either weekly or biweekly shipments of vegetables throughout the summer.

It has become a popular way for households to purchase local, seasonal produce directly from farmers.

It's basically buying temporary stock in the farm. If the harvest is bountiful, the members will more than get their money's worth. If insects or any other natural factors affect the crops, then customers will obviously get less veggies.

"They don't know what's coming and I don't really know what I'm going to find out there to pick until I get it picked, cleaned up and delivered," Burke said.

But this summer has been abundant, both in members and vegetables.

Olequa Farm has built its CSA base primarily through word-of-mouth and Facebook. The farm had to cap its CSA members this spring for the first time ever as people were flooding in to buy a subscription. Burke and Laura currently have 31 members, more than double the amount during the previous eight years. They had to turn away people for the first time ever.

"I think because of the checks that went out for COVID-19 that my business just exploded," Burke said. "I had to shut it down and say no more. I had to turn away two people."

The farm used to be certified organic, but Burke doesn't do that anymore. He does not spray any pesticides but does use diatomaceous earth sparingly. He figures he'd rather take the risk of losing crops than spray pesticides. Instead, he uses a floating row cover as a barrier to protect against insects.

Burke has two 100 foot long by 30 foot wide greenhouses that he grows in, and a full-acre of vegetables that is surrounded by an 8-foot fence to keep deer and elk out. Burke prides himself in putting out a CSA box that's usable in the kitchen, and not just stuff that's easy to grow. He currently has orange bell peppers in the greenhouse that cost him over $1 per seed.

"I grew up in a catering business in Portland, so food and food presentation is really important," Burke said. "I get colors and really good flavors in my box."

With all the different variations, Burke has 100 different types of vegetables, beans and peppers available this summer. He has 585 tomato plants, three different types of carrots and corn, radishes, sprouting broccoli and 18 varieties of peppers, including bull's horn peppers and shishito peppers.

"They shishito are really popular," Burke said. "Sesame oil and you grill them a little bit and they are just to die for. People have a blast with them. The green beans out of the greenhouse, people have really been enjoying. They're super tasty."

Burke is about halfway through the growing season right now. He is just starting to add summer squash to his CSA boxes this week, which is about two weeks behind previous years.

The CSA membership runs from about the third week in May to the third week in September, and he delivers from Longview to Centralia. Olequa Farm's weekly shipment of 20 total deliveries goes for $435 and biweekly, with 10 total deliveries, is $250.

Anyone interested in becoming a CSA member for next summer can do so by either calling the farm at 360-785-4576 or visiting the website at oleguafarm.com.

DearAbby

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a girl since high school. We were high school sweethearts, but now we are both 28. My girlfriend wants to get married and have kids, but I do not. I want to keep dating her. I am scared to break up with her because if I did, I wouldn't know what to do with my life. Should I change, or should she change? — STATUS QUO IN COLORADO

DEAR STATUS QUO: I hereby appoint you to be the designated changer. You have been so absorbed with this romance you never took the time to develop interests of your own.

At the age of 28, many women start thinking about marriage and children. Doing that is normal and rational. However, because you don't feel ready to make a lifetime commitment, you would be making a huge mistake to allow yourself to be pushed into it.

It is important that you learn who you are before you marry anyone. Accomplishing this is a process that takes time and a variety of experiences, and you should embark on that now. It would be unfair to continue dating her at this point because your paths are going to diverge as each of you learns to manage without leaning on the other.

DEAR ABBY: I recently started dating again after ending a very difficult marriage. To say I am guarding my heart for fear of getting hurt would be an understatement.

I have met someone that I can see having a future with, but some things concern me. He has been hospitalized for mental health reasons in the past. He's constantly saying, "I'm sorry I'm so screwed up" or remarking about being "crazy." He mentions his depression almost daily, and he hates being, as he puts it, "messed up in the head." He just can't seem to move past his issues.

I feel like he doesn't want to move forward and start living his life again. I have lived with depression for most of my life, but it doesn't define who I am. If I don't respond to his calls or messages right away, he gets hurt and as-would like to see a future with him, but I'm not sure he is ready to see any kind of a future with anyone.

are not being overly cautious. You are asking yourself intelligent, insightful questions about someone who appears not as far along on the path to mental wellness as you are. Is this man still being treated for his issues? If not, he should be encouraged to talk with a licensed mental health professional not only about his depression, but also

From your description, I would have to say he needs a friend now more than a romance, so take plenty of time if you proceed in this relationship. If he makes progress, see where things lead. If not, then in light of your own history, it might be better for you to find someone who is stronger.

his glaring lack of self-esteem.

DEAR ABBY: I have been in a six-year relationship. About two years into it, I found out that "Wayne" was separated, but not divorced, from his wife of 20 years. The fact that they are separated is not the issue. They live together and do things as a married couple. The wife and I have met each other several times, and I have gone to his children's graduation parties and family weddings.

He has told me every year that this is the year he will file for divorce, but it still hasn't happened. I don't know why he is holding on because I do not believe they are intimate. Their children are adults, so there is nothing keeping them together. He tells me he can't live without me, but his actions have proven otherwise. Do you think they are in an open marriage? Is there any hope for our future together? — WASTING TIME IN MASSACHUSETTS

DEAR WASTING TIME: Not at the rate you are going. I suspect the reason Wayne hasn't followed through and filed for divorce may be financial. He and his wife may also like things just the way they are because they can maintain their social life, he's comfortable at home and he has you to sleep with, which may be a relief to her. You have my sympathy, but I think you have invested enough time. What's going on is unfair to you. This romance was based on dishonesty on his part, and you deserve more than you have been getting.

DEAR ABBY: I have three beautiful daughters. The oldest moved to Wisconsin some years ago. About a year ago, my middle daughter went to visit her. My older daughter said something about politics that the younger one didn't like, and since then the younger one refuses to communicate with her, which is breaking my heart. My older daughter asked if I could help by talking to her. They used to be close and now this.

I tried talking to the younger one. She said she loves her older sister and for me to let her handle it. She promised she would contact her. It has been three months and — nothing. What can I do? — MOM REFEREE IN OREGON

DEAR MOM REFEREE: Too many things have become politicized lately, and it is to the detriment of relationships both personal and professional. If "change begins at home," let it start with you. Step back, stop counting the days and refuse to be put in the middle of this. Whatever their disagreement was, the problem is theirs to resolve, not yours.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago, new neighbors moved in next door. They have been very nice and helpful. I work a lot, so they have done things like grab packages or take care of little things like bringing in my trash can.

I have thanked them many times, but three weeks ago I decided to do something extra special. I bought a lovely thank-you card and put a $100 restaurant gift card inside. I knocked on their door and handed it to the husband.

Abby, I haven't received any type of thank-you from them. I don't want to seem petty, but part of me is hurt by their lack of acknowledgment. They have my number, and I'm obviously home at a certain hour of the day. Do you think that because they helped me out, they felt they deserved my gift and a thank-you wasn't necessary? I am at the point where I no longer want them to do anything for me. Am I being petty, or do I have a right to feel hurt? — UNAPPRECIATED IN NEW YORK

DEAR UNAPPRECIATED: Yes, you are being petty. You are essentially bemoaning not getting a thank-you for a thank-you. Your neighbors may not have said anything because they were overwhelmed by your generosity. The next time you see the husband or the wife, ASK if your display of gratitude may have made them uncomfortable. But in the interest of good relations, please stop judging them as harshly as you have.

DEAR ABBY: My sister was spring cleaning recently and came across a 14-karat gold crucifix pendant she had found in front of our family's house decades ago. Being nonreligious, my sister didn't know what to do with it. She didn't want to be disrespectful by improperly disposing of it, so she kept it. I offered it to someone I know, but she doesn't need another crucifix, so I'd like to know what should be done with it. Is there an organization that handles this sort of thing? — RESPECT-FULLY NOT RELIGIOUS

DEAR R.N.R.: If selling the crucifix doesn't interest you, contact the nearest Christian church and talk to someone there about donating it so it can be given to someone who needs it, such as a recent convert or a newly confirmed young person. I am sure your offer would be appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about my daughter's new husband, "Brad." I haven't interfered with their marriage and don't want to, but he seems very moody and barely speaks to me. Just when I think I've found a common topic, on the next visit four or five weeks later, he doesn't say a word.

During my last visit, he got very upset with my daughter because a piece of chicken fell out of his wrap while she was tasting it. She apologized twice, but her eyes were watering when I walked into the room. I wanted so badly to just hug her and ask Brad "What's wrong with you?" I have heard his tone before. Should I do anything? — QUESTIONING IN THE SOUTH

DEAR QUESTIONING: If Brad has behaved this way before when you were visiting, is it possible that your visit was inconvenient for him? Could they be having marital problems?

I don't think it would qualify as interference to ask your daughter how often her husband gets upset over things as trivial as a piece of chicken spilling out of his wrap. Exploding over something so insignificant could be an indication that there is a larger problem that hasn't been dealt with. It also would not be interfering to let your daughter know that if this happens often, it isn't normal, and that you are — and always will be — there for her if she feels she needs it

Terrifying truth

HBO's newest drama mixes fictional horror with the reality of American racism

By Rachel Jones

TV Media

f the novel "Lovecraft Country" drove you to the edge of your imagination, you'll be thrilled to experience it visually, too, as a new series based on the Matt Ruff novel debuts Sunday, Aug. 16, on HBO. This chilling show is set in 1950s America and stars Jonathan Majors ("Da 5 Bloods," 2020) as Atticus Black, who journeys with a friend and his uncle to search for his missing father. All the while, he must struggle to survive the terrifyingly racist individuals he meets along the way, not to mention a hell beast from another dimen-

The horror drama features Courtney B. Vance ("American Crime Story") as Uncle George Black and Michael Kenneth Williams ("Critical Thinking," 2020) as Atticus' long-lost father. Jurnee Smollett ("Birds of Prey," 2020) co-stars as Letitia Lewis, and Wunmi Mosaku ("Temple"), Jamie Harris ("Lost Transmissions," 2019), Abbey Lee ("The Neon Demon," 2016), Jamie Chung ("Dangerous Lies," 2020), Jordan Patrick Smith ("Vikings") and Aunjanue Ellis ("The Subject," 2020) also appear.

Atticus is a man who longs to see his absent father once more, but he's also a Korean war veteran who always carries a pulp novel in his pocket and makes a point of filling his heart with love, despite the many injustices facing people of color in the 1950s. His father, however, is the exact opposite: secretive, muleheaded and brutally pragmatic. The balance of their relationship is fraught and fascinating.

Uncle George is a warm and funny bookworm, and he has been an important father figure in Atticus' life. As the publisher of the "Safe Negro Travel Guide," George is instrumental in helping Atticus understand the importance of home and is also the one who introduces him to pulp novels.

Letitia Lewis, meanwhile, is a hustler and an artist who uses her work to promote civil rights. She's returning home as the series opens. Her half-sister Ruby (Mosaku) is also a hustler, but she's much less successful, and their family loyalty is put to the test as Ruby receives an offer that is too irresistible to decline.

There are so many layered and compelling characters in "Lovecraft Country" that you'll find it hard to wait between episodes. Hippolyta Freeman (Ellis) is a housewife who has led a boring life thus far but has some serious adventure planned out for herself. Her efforts to go down these unexplored paths will take her to great heights – literally. Elsewhere, Eustice Hunt (Harris) is a county sheriff with tons of NAACP complaints against him. He, of course, finds an enemy in Atticus.

"Lovecraft Country," the novel, was first published in 2016 by Harper Collins. Publishers were impressed with Ruff, the author of the book, who they said had an uncanny grip on traditional horror themes and an ability to use those motifs to underscore the bigotry and hatred that are the most traumatic features of the story.

Critics have described the work as "a series of bizarre chimerical adventures" and a "merrily macabre pastiche," and the novel is often lavished with the same awe and respect as the author's earlier works.

The novel's characters have been described as noble and resilient spirits. Like its television adaptation, the novel interlocks racial issues and fright, combining horror with hope and ambition, all with a touch of an alternate, transdimensional reality.

HBO picked up the rights to "Lovecraft Country" in 2017, a year after the novel was published. Just a year later, principal photography for the series started in Chicago, which was also where most of the filming took place, specifically at the Chicago Cinespace Film Studios and in White Pines State Park.

The premiere episode, "Sundown," was helmed by French-Algerian director Yann Demange ("Top Boy"), the genius behind the successful TV series "Dead Set." Demange's directorial film debut was also a smash hit among critics, an independent movie entitled "71," which premiered in 2014 and earned him the British Independent Film Award for Best Director.

The second and third episodes of "Lovecraft Country," "Whitey's on the Moon" and "Holy Ghost," were directed by Daniel Sackheim. The Emmy-winning director's list of impressive directorial and production credits include episodes of iconic series such as "Law & Order," "House," "NYPD Blue," "Game of Thrones," "The Walking Dead" and "The Americans." Most recently, his work on Netflix's "Ozark" garnered him an Emmy nomination.

Jordan Peele ("Get Out," 2017) and J.J. Abrams ("Lost") are coexecutive producers for the new "Lovecraft County" series, with Misha Green ("Underground") acting as showrunner.

Settle in for an intense night in when HBO's newest series, "Lovecraft Country," premieres Sunday, Aug. 16, on the specialty cable channel.

Luke Bracey, Nina Dobrev and Ella Ryan Quinn in "Lucky Day"

By Jessica Gosse

TV Media

"Lucky Day" (2019)

From creator Roger Avary ("Pulp Fiction," 1993), don't miss this actionpacked film when it comes to Hulu on Monday, Aug. 10. After spending two years in prison, Red (Luke Bracey, "The Best of Me," 2014), a safecracker, has been released and is thrilled to be finally getting back to life with his wife, Chloe (Nina Dobrev, "The Vampire Diaries"), and his daughter, Bea (newcomer Ella Ryan Quinn). Intent on getting back to normal with his family, Red reaches out to his old partner, Leroy (Clé Bennett, "The Man in the High Castle"), who has been holding on to the $500,000 in untraceable bonds from their last job for him. His plans for normalcy quickly go out the window when Luc (Crispin Glover, "American Gods"), a psychotic hired gun, comes looking to avenge his brother who died on the job that got Red locked up. Now, Red must protect his family from Luc, who will stop at nothing to get his revenge.

"Hard Night Falling" (2019)

Dolph Lundgren ("Rocky IV," 1985) stars as Michael Anderson, a highly skilled Interpol agent whose most recent case went sideways in this action-packed thriller streaming Monday, Aug. 10. His home life is suffering because of his work, and as his wife and daughter attend a lavish party, they both express doubt that Michael will actually show up but he does, and just in time. As the party-goers drink and make merry, a man named Goro (Hal Yamanouchi, "The Wolverine," 2013) and his criminal crew plot to steal a secret cache of gold that is apparently hidden on the property. Michael is forced to pull out all the stops to save his wife and daughter, not to mention the rest of the party crowd that's being held hostage. If any of this plotline sounds familiar, you might be thinking of the classic "Die Hard" (1988), to which this film bears more than a passing resemblance. If you're into action and don't mind a low budget, or are just a Lundgren fan, this is a film worth streaming when it lands on Hulu this week.

"Monster's Ball" (2001)

Halle Berry ("John Wick: Chapter 3 - Parabellum," 2019) won an Oscar for Best Actress for her role in this intense drama that joins the Hulu lineup on Tuesday, Aug. 11. She plays

Leticia Musgrove, a troubled woman struggling in the aftermath of her incarcerated husband's execution (her husband is played by multi-talented music artist Sean "Diddy" Combs). She meets Hank (Billy Bob Thornton, "Fargo"), a former corrections officer who she does not realize was involved in the execution, and the two start up a strange and bumpy relationship. Hank has demons of his own: his son, Sonny, is a soft, kindhearted young man who goes into the family business, but is certainly not cut out for it. Heath Ledger ("The Dark Knight," 2008) plays Sonny, delivering a heart-rending performance that you won't soon forget. Hank's father, the hard, racist Buck, is played by Peter Boyle ("Everybody Loves Raymond"), and he proves to be a foil to the developing relationship between Hank and Leticia. This film is complex, engaging and compelling, and is packed full of exceptional performances. If you haven't seen it yet, "Monster's Ball" should be on your watch list.

Tom Hardy stars in "Capone"

By Jessica Gosse TV Media

"World's Toughest Race: Eco-Challenge Fiji"

Celebrity survivalist Bear Grylls ("Man vs. Wild") launches his new adventure competition series this Friday, Aug. 14, on Prime. Described as a combination of the popular shows "Survivor," "The Amazing Race" and "The Challenge," Grylls' new series follows 66 teams from all over the world as they take on an 11-day adventure. As they cross multiple countries, they are faced with many challenges, from paddle boarding and rock climbing to mountain biking and whitewater rafting. Each team varies in age and level of experience, and while every team wants the glory of winning the race, for many it's just as much about proving that they can make it to the finish line. Billed as "the most epic global adventure race ever attempted," the entirety of this show's freshman season will be available to stream starting Friday.

"Capone" (2020)

On Aug. 10, writer/director Josh Trank's ("Chronicle" 2012) latest film, starring Tom Hardy ("Venom" 2018) in the lead role, is available to watch on Prime. Hardy stars as the aging, syphilitic Alphonse (referred to as "Fonse" in the film) Gabriel Capone – the legendary American gangster whose life post-prison may have been a harsher karmic punishment than the justice system could have ever hoped to give him. Unlike films such as "Scarface" (1932), "The St. Valentine's Day Massacre" (1967) and "The Untouchables" (1987), all based on the notorious bootlegger's admittedly fascinating life, "Capone" doesn't seek to glorify or idealize, and focuses on neither the rise nor fall of his criminal empire, choosing instead to paint a picture of the aftermath. Capone spent his final years suffering from neurosyphilis, lost in his own waking life, grasping at memories he couldn't hold on to as his brain deteriorated. Hallucinations, guilt and brain trauma leave him alienated, alone and nearly immobile; this is the Al Capone that Trank portrays in his film. Linda Cardellini ("Dead to Me"), Matt Dillon ("Wayward Pines"), Kyle MacLachlan ("Twin Peaks") and Noel Fisher ("Shameless") also star, creating a captivating cast of characters that gives voice to the swirling black hole that is Capone as his faculties leave him. The film is worth checking

"Galaxy Quest" (1999)

It is never a bad time to rewatch this beloved cult classic, or share it with someone who has never seen it. The film is named for a long-ago canceled, their adventures across the universe (Yes, it is meant to parody "Star Trek"). The original stars of the series now aging and growing tired of the same old shtick after so many years, and the fictional crew's captain, Jason Nesmith (Tim Allen, "Last Man Standing"), is the only one still riding high on the fame. Nesmith's conceited attitude lands him in the hands of a group called the Thermians, who turn out to be actual aliens that believe the television show was a documentary, and have come to request help from the brave Galaxy Quest crew. Unfortunately, they couldn't be more wrong. "Galaxy Quest" sits high on the peak of parody films, managing to balance homage and teasing so well that one of, if not the most voracious fandoms of all time (yes, we're still talking about "Star Trek") not only adores it, but places it higher than some of the actual franchise's films on the best-of lists. With Sigourney Weaver ("Alien" 1979), Alan Rickman (the Harry Potter films) and an unforgettable performance from Enrico Colantoni ("Veronica Mars"), it is no wonder at all why "Galaxy Quest" lands itself among favorite films for fans of sci-fi and beyond.

"Bernie The Dolphin 2" (2019)

Winston Mills (Kevin Sorbo, "God's Not Dead" 2014), dolphin kidnapper, returns with a new plan in this family adventure film sequel available on Prime beginning Aug. 14. Holly Ryan (Lola Sultan, "Monsters at Large" 2018) and her big brother, Kevin (Logan Allen, "Talia in the Kitchen"), have new jobs as a junior dolphin trainer and her personal videographer in this followup, but with the return of their former enemy, they have to learn to work together if they want to keep their friend Bernie safe and at home this time. Who doesn't love dolphins? The whole family can enjoy this light-hearted film Aug. 14, on Amazon Prime.

ксра 9:30 р.т.

In this rebroadcast, Quagmire opens up a cat café, prompting Brian to take a stand in getting it shut down. Lois decides that both Meg and Chris need to get on the straight and narrow, and sends them to a church camp after they get in trouble at school.

Match Game

комо 10:00 р.т.

In this Season 5 rebroadcast, host Alec Baldwin welcomes a celebrity panel comprised of Joel McHale, Amy Sedaris, Kevin Smith, Raven-Symoné, Ne-Yo and Malin Akerman. Contestants must match their fill-in-the-blank answers to as many panelists as possible.

Hermione Cornfield in "We Hunt Together"

NOS4A2

AMC 10:00 p.m.

Charlie Manx (Zachary Quinto) stares down his deepest fear in this new episode. Also, Millie (Mattea Conforti) is forced to choose between her freedom and her father, and Vic (Ashleigh Cummings) embarks on a perilous journey with Maggie (Jahkara Smith).

We Hunt Together

show 10:00 p.m.

Lola (Eve Myles) and Jackson (Babou Ceesay) manage to finally find common ground when they interview Freddy (Hermione Cornfield) in an all-new episode of this drama. Then, Freddy and Baba (Dipo Ola) solve two problems with one killing.

18 Monday prime time

90 Day Fiancé: Before the 90 Days TLC 8:00 p.m.

Fan favorites return in this "90 Days" spinoff series. In this new episode, Lisa and Usman plead their case for marriage, Avery questions Ash's faithfulness at work, and David prepares for his first meeting with Lana. Geoff opens up to Barya's mother.

Bob Hearts Abishola

KIRO 8:30 p.m.

Bob (Billy Gardell) needs to build his confidence and fight harder for Abishola (Folake Olowofoyeku) when she accepts another date with Chukwuemeka (Tony Tambi) in this rebroadcast. Then, an unlikely friendship is forged after an argument.

Rob Lowe in "9-1-1: Lone Star"

9-1-1: Lone Star

ксра 9:00 р.т.

Rob Lowe stars as Owen Strand, a New York City firefighter battling lung cancer after acting as a first responder on 9/11 in this hit spinoff. Now, he helps a team in Austin, Texas rebuild after experiencing their own tragedy. Liv Tyler also stars.

Intervention

A&E 10:00 p.m.

Candy Finnigan, Ken Seeley and Donna Chavous work with new team members Heather Hayes and Michael Gonzalez to help victims of addiction in this docuseries. Each episode follows people who struggle with various addictions, as well as their families.

Tuesday prime time | 19

The Fast and the Furious

AMC 3:00 p.m.

Catch a marathon of these popular high-speed action films starring Vin Diesel, beginning with this hit franchise-launcher. An undercover cop (Paul Walker) infiltrates a street gang, but becomes increasingly conflicted as he becomes a part of their family.

NBC Nightly News With Lester Holt

KING 6:00 p.m.

The Walter Cronkite Award-winning journalist Lester Holt hosts this news recap, airing before the second night of the 2020 DNC. In 2015, Holt became the first Black solo anchor of a nightly news program when he took over as presenter of this series.

Anthony Anderson and Tracee Ellis Ross in "Black-ish"

Hell's Kitchen

ксра 8:00 р.т.

Chefs who participated in previous editions of the series get a shot at redemption in this rebroadcast season. However, they must compete against rookies hungry to claim the coveted position while dealing with chef Gordon Ramsay's harsh personality.

Black-ish

комо 9:00 р.т.

Anthony Anderson and Tracee Ellis Ross star in this critically-acclaimed sitcom which follows the lives of a wealthy Black family living in the suburbs. Together they deal with sociopolitical and personal issues. Laurence Fishburne also stars.

20 Wednesday prime time

кіго 8:00 р.m.

For the second time in this series' run, the Houseguests are all returning players, and this time they all have something to prove. Runners-up, winners and early-outs return to the house for this All-Stars edition of the show hosted by Julie Chen.

America's Got Talent

KING 8:00 p.m.

Singers, magicians, dancers, comedians and more compete to win the hearts of American viewers and a panel of judges in this beloved series hosted by Terry Crews. The winner receives $1 million and the opportunity to headline an act on the Las Vegas Strip.

Julie Chen hosts "Big Brother"

The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills BRAVO 9:00 p.m.

Tune in to this new episode after an hour of bonus scenes from the previous week. Although original cast member and richest housewife Lisa Vanderpump exited the series at the end of last season, Kyle Richards remains on the series.

American Housewife

комо 9:30 р.т.

This Katy Mixon-led family sitcom has been renewed for a fifth season thanks to the star's loveable performance as Katie Otto and her quirky family's antics. Upper-middle class parents attempt to raise three kids while surrounded by the privileged elite.

Jamie Foxx in "Project Power"

By Jessica Gosse

TV Media

"Project Power" (2020)

Have you ever wanted to have superpowers? For the citizens of New Orleans, that dream becomes real, if only for a little while, in this crime drama premiering Friday, Aug. 14, on Netflix. Joseph Gordon-Levitt ("The Dark Knight Rises," 2012) stars as Frank, a cop who is out to stop the distribution of a dangerous new drug in New Orleans. However, this new drug does more than just make you feel like you have superpowers. For exactly five minutes after taking a pill, users have unpredictable, and occasionally lethal, superpowers. In order to save his city, Frank must team up with Robin (Dominique Fishback, "The Hate U Give," 2018), a teenage drug dealer, and Art (Jamie Foxx, "Baby Driver," 2017), whose daughter has been taken by the villainous men behind the drug. The rag-tag group goes to extreme lengths to bring down the drug ring, even going as far as risking their lives by taking the drug themselves.

"Safety Not Guaranteed" (2012)

Back in 1997, an ad ran in the classified section of Backwoods Home Magazine. It read: "WANTED: Somebody to go back in time with me. This is not a joke. ... You'll get paid after we get back. Must bring your own weapons. Safety not guaranteed. I have only done this once before." The ad has become almost legendary; it has been shared oodles of times online, Jay Leno featured it on "The Tonight Show," it's been printed on T-shirts and has continued to generate buzz years after its initial publication. On Thursday, Aug. 13, you can stream a film that takes its inspiration from that real-life ad when "Safety Not Guaranteed" comes to Netflix. Aubrey Plaza ("Parks and Recreation") stars as Darius Britt, a jaded college student who works for a magazine. When she's tasked with investigating a mysterious calssified ad, she gets caught up in an adventure that will change the way she sees the world. Jake Johnson ("New Girl"), Mary Lyn Rajskub ("24") and Mark Duplass ("The Morning Show") also star in this supremely enjoyable film.

"Fearless" (2020)

This animated comedy film is suitable for the whole family, and it lands on

A scene from "3%"

A scene from "Fearless"

Netflix on Friday, Aug. 14. If you've been feeling the absence of superhero movies this year, this is a film you'll want to check out. It follows a young gamer named Reid (voiced by Miles Robbins, "The X-Files") who finds himself stepping into the role of full-time babysitter when his favorite game delivers three huge surprises. Three superpowered babies are dropped into Reid's backyard, and he must care for them and keep them out of trouble. Yara Shahidi ("Grown-ish"), singer Jadakiss, basketball star Dwayne Wade and more lend their voices to this film.

"3%" Season 4

The newest installment of this Brazilian thriller premieres Friday, Aug. 14, and it is packed full of action and drama. The series is set in a not-sodistant dystopian future where those who live "inland" must scrounge and fight to make their way in the world. When they reach the age of 20, the inlanders have the opportunity to participate in what's known as "The Process," a dangerous competition that only 3% of candidates ever manage to finish. Winners of this competition are invited to live "offshore," a place with more riches and opportunity than most inlanders can ever imagine.

O: I just rewatched the Harry Potter films and was wondering: Were the Weasley twins actually played by twins? Or was that just movie magic?

A: The only magic at work in casting the roles of the Weasley twins was the natural magic that produces identical twins. George and Fred Weasley were played by real-life twins Oliver and James Phelps, respectively.

The way they got the role is somewhat fitting. George and Fred are mischievous brothers more interested in playing practical jokes and breaking rules than learning magic at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry. In real life, Oliver and James say they skipped school to audition for the roles. They were just 14 years old at the time, and their parents allegedly knew nothing about their life-changing decision.

Not surprisingly, given their age at the time, 2001's "Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone" was their first acting credit, but it was far from their last.

Apart from the seven sequels, they have also pursued film careers apart from the Harry Potterverse, and occasionally even apart from each other.

For the most part, they've taken twin roles, or even just split the same role, but James has been a bit more ambitious. He's taken a few other gigs, including most recently a role in the upcoming historical drama "Brigantia,"

Q: My local station is showing old "Jeopardy" shows, not in any order. Are there new shows coming?

A: Is it comforting to hear that it's not just you?

Like every other aspect of life, "Jeopardy" has been knocked sideways by the COVID-19 pandemic. "Jeopardy" had to shut down production in March, when it was no longer allowed to bring the necessary number of people together in a room to clap politely at each correct answer.

Fortunately, at that point it already had quite a few new episodes in the can, including its annual Teachers Tournament. Rather than burn straight through those, it aired them in between reruns.

But the pandemic has lasted longer than anyone predicted at first, and so the small supply of new episodes eventually ran out.

At that point, the show turned to last year's Tournament of Champions, but rather than just airing the tournament again, it aired old episodes that featured each of the competitors in the tournament on their own.

The result of this complicated approach to reruns was that it aired episodes from all over the calendar. That's not necessarily a big problem since, for the most part, "Jeopardy" isn't really timebased, but sharp-eyed viewers definitely noticed. Other shows may get away with this sort of thing, but viewers of "Jeopardy," the egg-headiest show on TV, are probably sharper than most.

At this point, I can't even offer hope for when new episodes will return. TV and film production is starting again slowly, in fits and starts, depending on the type of show and how much weirdness crews are willing or able to put up with, but when "Jeopardy" will start production again is yet to be determined.
