Business in Focus: Native American Artist Finds Connection to Ancestors Through Artwork

INDIGENOUS: Lisa Marie David Has Been Creating Indigenous Art Since She Was 8 Years Old

By Eric Trent etrent@chronline.com

Editor's Note: The Chronicle is working to assist local businesses suffering from the effects of the COVID-19 virus spread and associated government orders to close or limit commerce. There will be a feature on a local business in each edition of The Chronicle and at chronline.com moving forward. To be considered, email reporter Eric Trent at etrent@ chronline.com. Additionally, The Chronicle will continue to offer its coverage of the coronavirus and its effects across the community, state and nation free outside of our paywall at chronline.com.

With Native American artists on both sides of her family, one could call it destiny that Lisa Marie David would eventually become one herself.

David, who is Lakota, First Nations and Welsh, grew up in the Pacific Northwest in a family of master artists. Her father, Joe David, is an established master carver with the Nuu-chah-nulth nation in Canada, while her mother, Sandra Tuifua, creates Lakota-style artwork. Both of her siblings are also carvers, including her brother, Douglas David, who is a master carver like his father.

"Our culture is strong in the teachings and learning our crafts," David said.

David got her start while growing up in Tacoma's Hilltop neighborhood in the 1980s, a historically diverse area up the hill from downtown Tacoma, most commonly known for its reputation of gang violence, drugs and shootings. But it's also a place for art, containing the Fulcrum Gallery on Martin Luther King Jr. Way.

Growing up in the city helped David put an urban spin on her artwork once she started finding her niche. In fact, most of her family comes from urban roots, including her grandparents who lived in King County.

She began learning art from her grandparents and aunts when she was 8 years old. One of her biggest influences was her grandmother on her mother's side, Carol Bluehorse, who started her off with peyote stitch, an off-loom bead-weaving technique used to create sculptural beadwork, as well as necklaces, bracelets and earrings.

Around the same time, her father, Joe, put a carving knife in her hand and began teaching her how to create masks and other small wooden items. She learned a little, but it didn't stick. "I've learned a lot of different mediums," David said.

She also grew up touring the West Coast powwow circuit with her family, as her parents showcased their artwork at powwows all the way from Washington state to San Diego, California. It helped her see types of indigenous art from all over the U.S. and incorporate it into her own artwork later on as she grew up.

"I grew up in art studios, going to art show openings and I was exposed to grand museums," David said.

She can create just about anything now, and enjoys working mostly with leather, willow, beads and feathers, creating everything from baskets to dreamcatchers. She taught herself how to harvest cedar bark, soak it and create handmade non-traditional cedar baskets.

"My connection to my ancestors is through my art," David said.

Her favorite thing to do is working with beads, however, a craft she's perfected over the years.

Now, after living in Lewis County for over a decade, she sells her own art out of her apartment in Centralia. Her Facebook page at facebook. com/NativeAmerican.Art1 displays her newest creations.

She's featured her artwork at places such as at the annual Puyallup Labor Day Powwow and the Stillaguamish Tribe's Festival of the River powwow in Arlington. She even gifts a lot of her creations at the powwows, especially to the young dancers and toddlers. Her next aim is to begin painting canvases more regularly as she's painted many different styles of shields out of rawhide and would like to transfer that experience to the canvas. She's also done collaborations with other indigenous artists.

"I can't say it's a hobby," David said. "It's part of me. I love the creation of each project I complete."

The COVID-19 pandemic has left David missing and longing for many of the now-canceled powwows and art shows she typically attends each summer and she's already looking forward to next summer.

For now, she's hoping to write a book one day and open booths at farmers markets around Southwest Washington for next summer. She's also focusing on getting her Etsy page up and running where customers can find and buy her art more easily. She's even been thinking about re-joining the powwow circuit she once traveled on as a kid.

"Over the years, I've learned that with the connections through my art that my customers have understood the time I put into my work," David said. "It's important to be clear minded and be thinking happy thoughts about who would soon own my newest dreamcatcher. It goes for all that I create."

Entertainment EXTRA! September 18 - 24, 2020

DEAR ABBY: I would like to address a problem I've never seen in your column. A lot of people have living wills but most don't remember what's in them.

My wife went to the hospital for a routine procedure that required anesthesia. After three hours of what was supposed to be a onehour procedure, a nurse came out, said there was "a problem" and took me back to the recovery room. My wife was writhing on the bed and kept rasping, "I can't breathe!" Six nurses tried to put an oxygen mask over her face, but she kept fighting them, trying to rip it off. I was in total shock.

I didn't know how to help her, so I asked the anesthesiologist standing there to do something, and he said her living will was a DNR (do not resuscitate). She remained in cardiac and respiratory distress for eight hours before a pulmonologist was mercifully called and she was put on a ventilator.

I went home and pulled out our living wills. Hers stated, and I quote, "the individual so named must be terminally ill or permanently unconscious." I had no idea. She was neither of those things. If I'd had a copy of the living will WITH me, I'm sure she would have immediately been put on a ventilator. I lost her six months later, on Christmas morning.

I urge everyone who goes to the hospital for any procedure to make sure the person accompanying them has a copy of their advance directive. I still feel guilty. Her outcome could have been so much different, and she might have lived much longer. — GRIEV-ING HUSBAND

DEAR GRIEVING HUSBAND: Please accept my deepest sympathy for the loss of your wife. Suffering as much pain as you are over her death, please don't torture yourself further over what you "would have, could have, should have" done. I appreciate your taking the time to share this important information with me and my readers.

Your letter serves as a reminder that all end-of-life documents should be reviewed regularly to be sure they reflect current thinking. Thank you.

DEAR ABBY: I have a large extended family who all live a few states away. I didn't grow up with any of them, as I've never lived near them. I see or speak to them maybe once a decade. We don't exchange emails, and we aren't friends on Facebook. This isn't because I don't like them; they are pleasant strangers.

I get the impression that my limb of the family tree is perceived as the affluent one, and I sometimes receive life-event announcements from cousins and their children I haven't seen in years and don't know. In truth, I think I receive them only for the possibility of receiving something from me. Am I obligated to send a gift just because I received an invitation to events they know I will never attend — such as graduations, baby showers, etc.? — PURSUED RELATIVE

DEAR RELATIVE: You are not obligated to send a gift or money to people you have barely met. You are also not obligated to send gifts to people you haven't had contact with in a decade. The announcements should not, however, go unacknowledged. Send a nice card with a congratulatory note, and you may find yourself receiving fewer of these invitations as postage becomes increasingly expensive.

DEAR ABBY: I'm married to a great husband. We worked well together in our business. He's loyal, dependable, was a great stepfather when my son was young, etc.

When we were younger, we were always very busy working on the house, raising a family and starting a small business. My son is now grown and has moved away, the house needs little work, we no longer have the business and we both work part-time.

The problem is, we don't have the same interests. I do a lot alone or with friends, but many of them have moved or become very settled down. I rarely have anyone to do anything with unless it's something that interests my husband. It's hard to get him to do anything I want to do. He either complains or refuses.

Looking back, I think he was always like this, but we were too busy to notice. I feel very alone now. I feel like time is ticking by, and I'm wasting my life, my time, etc. Many days I think I should leave, but leaving would change our lifestyle dramatically. Sometimes I feel we only stay together for the lifestyle. I have tried to talk to him about this many times, but I get nowhere. Suggestions? — TIME TICKS BY IN NEW ENGLAND

DEAR TIME TICKS BY: You feel alone and adrift because you are. The glue that held your marriage together seems to have been your son, who is now grown and has moved away. It's time to ask yourself how important your "lifestyle" is.

It's possible that if you remain in this marriage, you can find what you are looking for by becoming more independent. Travel, join special interest clubs, cultivate new friends, take classes that interest you and live your life. You might also visit meetup.com to get involved in activities in your area with like-minded people.

There is no guarantee your husband will ever be the partner you fantasize he should be. Some sessions with a therapist might be useful to help you clarify your thinking, and that's what I'm suggesting.

DEAR ABBY: I'm part of a large, close-knit family. My mother and her sisters have condominiums in the same complex. One dear aunt is having a great deal of trouble with her memory and word retrieval. She recently stopped recognizing her daughter and no longer calls any of us by name.

The problem is, some of this aunt's children are in denial. They refuse to believe there's anything wrong with their mom and insist that she is showing signs of normal aging. They have stated this so strongly that the other siblings are afraid to raise the issue of an assessment for fear of angering them further. It is a very difficult family dynamic.

Normally, we wouldn't comment on or intervene in such a private matter. However, seeing my aunt deprived of a medical diagnosis and associated care that might alleviate her suffering, it is very hard to stay quiet. It may or may not be possible to reduce her symptoms, but it seems like it is elder abuse to rob her of the chance to try. Please advise. — CONCERNED FOR AUNTIE

DEAR CONCERNED: Close family members are typically the first to notice memory issues or cognitive problems, but often they are hesitant to say something even when they know something is wrong. A recent Alzheimer's Association survey found that nearly 3 out of 4 Americans say talking to a close family member about memory loss, thinking problems or other signs of cognitive decline would be challenging.

Initiating these challenging conversations is important. Discussion can enable early diagnosis, which has important benefits, including better disease management, more time for critical care planning and providing diagnosed individuals a voice in their future care. It also provides an opportunity to address concerns before a crisis situation arises.

While our cognitive abilities decrease with age, your aunt's inability to recognize her own daughter is NOT a sign of normal aging. Helping relatives understand the seriousness of the situation as well as the important health benefits of receiving a proper diagnosis may convince them. If your aunt's children find it too difficult to have the conversation, another close relative, a friend perhaps, or her doctor can take the lead.

To encourage families to have these conversations, the Alzheimer's Association has partnered with the Ad Council in creating "Our Stories" (alz.org/ourstories). It features real stories of people who noticed changes in their loved ones and took the difficult step of having a conversation. It also offers customizable conversation starters, a list of early signs and symptoms of Alzheimer's, benefits of early diagnosis and a downloadable discussion help guide. In addition, the Alzheimer's Association's free 24/7 Helpline (800-272-3900) is available for families addressing these important conversations and other caregiving concerns.

Family drama Money and power meet southern charm in Fox's 'Filthy Rich'

By Rachel Jones TV Media

Fam, glam and controversy take center stage in Fox's latest satirical drama series premiering Monday, Sept. 21. "Filthy Rich," featuring "Sex and the City" star Kim Cattrall, is now one of the network's fall entries after its original May premiere was bumped, like so many other things, by the pandemic.

The project, created by Tate Taylor ("The Help," 2011), is not only Cattrall's first network TV series as an actor, but also as a producer. This isn't her first time in the producer's chair, though: in 2014, she shared executive producer duties on the BBC black comedy "Sensitive Skin," a series in which she also starred. Her work on that show landed her a nomination for a Canadian Screen Award.

While her producing skills will no doubt be an asset to the series. it's her acting that will have fans eager to watch the series. "Filthy Rich" is a southern Gothic family drama. Cattrall plays, Margaret, the matriarch of the Monreaux family and host and co-founder of the Sunshine Network. She is keen on controlling the company completely, at any cost, now that her husband has died. Playing her two children are Aubrey Dollar ("Battle Creek") as Rose, a fashion designer who has made a lifestyle out of avoiding her mother, and Corey Cott ("The Good Fight") as Eric, the family-owned network's VP and aspiring heir.

The cracks in the family are clearly visible from the start, as anything and everything comes between them. The show follows the aftermath of the death of the rich and famous family's patriarch, Eugene (Gerald McRaney, "This Is Us"), who founded an extremely popular Christian television network. He secretly sired three illegitimate children, who are all written into his will, and when those secrets are revealed after his death, serious drama ensues. As the series rolls on, it becomes clear that everyone has an ulterior motive, and no one is willing to give an inch.

Playing the three illegitimate children who are threatening the

Kim Cattrall stars in "Filthy Rich"

Monreaux family's fortune are Benjamin Levy Aguilar ("Before the Dawn," 2019) as Antonio Rivera, a boxer; Mark L. Young ("The Inbetweeners") as Colorado marijuana grower Jason Conley; and Melia Kreiling ("Salvation") as Las Vegas cocktail waitress Ginger Sweet. Also in the series are Broadway actor Aaron Lazar ("J. Edgar," 2011), Steve Harris ("The Practice") and Olivia Macklin ("The Young Pope").

"Filthy Rich" has been an entirely novel experience for Cattrall, who is neither from the South nor raised in a religious household. But, of course, the star plays the scheming matriarch to perfection.

Fox announced two years ago that it had given the production a pilot order, with Taylor writing and executive-producing the show. Taylor is an American filmmaker and actor whose most prominent work includes "The Help" (2011), "Get on Up" (2014), and 2016's "The Girl on the Train." In 2019, he released the psychological horror film "Ma," which featured Octavia Spencer ("Hidden Figures," 2016) and went on to become a critical and commercial success. Around the same time, Fox ordered "Filthy Rich," which is Taylor's first major foray into the television world. "Filthy Rich" was meant to air

"Filthy Rich" was meant to ai back to back with the hip hop family drama "Empire" and was among five other Fox drama pilots, including "Prodigal Son," and "Deputy," all five of which were major undertakings and drew a lot of interest. Unfortunately, scheduling issues got in the way of "Filthy Rich," and it was delayed long past the premieres of the other shows in its initial cohort.

The series is based on a New Zealand comedy-drama TV series of the same name that premiered in February 2016. The New Zealand parent series is also a tale of three illegitimate children finding out about the wealth of their recently departed father, one of New Zealand's richest men, John Truebridge, and learning that they were named as beneficiaries in his will.

Known as New Zealand's most expensive TV show ever when it first aired, the series was a big hit, and the network renewed the show for another season, after which the show retired for good. Hopefully, this American version of the series will have a longer life than its predecessor.

Dive into this melodrama when it premieres Monday, Sept. 21, on Fox. With stars like Cattrall and McRaney at the helm, and bright, young up-and-comers on board, "Filthy Rich" is sure to be a delightful guilty pleasure – something we could all use these days.

Maya Erskine and Anna Konkle in "PEN15"

By Jessica Gosse TV Media

"The Good Shepherd" (2006) Though very loosely based on real

"PEN15" Season 2 Though many people gripe about high school, middle school was no picnic, either, as shown by Anna Konkle ("Rosewood") and Maya Erskine ("Casual"), who star as preteen versions of themselves in this comedy series. The second season of the hilarious show premieres Friday, Sept. 18, on Hulu. Set in the early 2000s, Season 1 saw Maya and Anna facing the joys of seventh grade, culminating in the wonderful awkwardness of their first school dance. The second season picks up two days after the dance, when the girls are invited to a pool party and things get uncomfortable when one of their crushes shows up. Season 2 sees Maya and Anna enter the eighth grade, where their friendship is tested as Anna copes with her parents' divorce, Maya hosts a sleepover and they both take part in the school play.

events, this spy thriller tells the story of the birth of the CIA, making use of an ensemble cast that reads like a whose-who of Hollywood. Directed by Robert De Niro ("Raging Bull"1980), "The Good Shepherd" stars Angelina Jolie ("Maleficent," 2014), Matt Damon ("Good Will Hunting," 1997), Alec Baldwin ("The Departed," 2006), William Hurt ("A History of Violence," 2005), Eddie Redmayne ("The Danish Girl," 2014), Joe Pesci ("Goodfellas," 1990) and De Niro himself. Available on Hulu beginning Sept. 17, the film takes place between 1939 and 1961. Senior CIA officer Edward Wilson (Damon) receives a suspicious photograph and recording, which leads him to recall the choices and opportunities in his life that led him to his current situation. From his time spent as a student at Yale and subsequent recruitment into the FBI, to his intelligence work during World War II and the effect it had on his family, and finally his participation in the co-founding of the Central Intelligence Agency, Wilson comes to understand the truths of his life, all of which culminate in a wonderfully unexpected ending.

"Babyteeth" (2019)

Great comedy and memorable stories are often born from a simple premise, and falling in love with someone you aren't supposed to – à la Romeo and Juliet – is a tale that has been told and retold throughout time. In "Babyteeth," which you can watch on Hulu as of Sept. 18, Milla (Eliza Scanlen, "Little Women," 2019), a teenaged girl with a severe illness, becomes involved with her parents' worst nightmare, a smalltime drug dealer named Moses (Toby Wallace, "The Society"). This Australian indie film has received high praise from critics, and the relationship between Milla and Moses will bring you back to being young and in love, searching for yourself and bucking the rules set by your parents and teachers. The film offers adults the opportunity to see a boy like Moses, with his outrageous hair, unruly lifestyle and impolite talk, through Milla's eyes, and you will find yourself hard-pressed not to adore him just as much as she does. Ben Mendelsohn ("Bloodline"), Georgina Symes ("The Elegant Gentleman's Guide to Knife Fighting") and Essie Davis ("Miss Fisher's Murder Mysteries") also star.

Angelina Jolie and Matt Damon in "The Good Shepherd"

"The Fight" (2020)

On Sept. 18, the 2020 winner of the Sundance Film Festival's U.S. Documentary Special Jury Award for Social Impact Filmmaking will be available to watch on Hulu, and at-home audiences will become just as engaged as the critics. This political documentary chronicles the struggle of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) under the Trump administration, going behind the scenes and documenting the lives of lawyers as they fight for the protection of immigrant families, the release of illegal immigrant children taken from their parents, access to abortion and transgender rights. Showcasing just four of more than 170 cases the ACLU has brought against the current government, "The Fight" not only details the people and causes the ACLU is fighting for, but who these "fighters" are when they leave the office, creating a captivating, poignant narrative that reminds viewers of the humans who are leading the charge for human rights.

By Jessica Gosse TV Media

"All In: The Fight for Democracy" (2020)

With one of the most important elections in U.S. history looming, Prime presents this documentary about voter suppression, premiering Friday, Sept. 18. From directors Liz Garbus ("Love, Marilyn," 2012) and Lisa Cortes ("The Remix: Hip Hop X Fashion," 2019), the film focuses primarily on the struggles that many go through to obtain the right to vote, a timely topic given the upcoming election and the fact that 2020 marks 100 years since women (finally) won the right to vote. Stacey Abrams, the first Black woman to become a major party's nominee for state governor and who famously claimed that voter suppression caused her to lose the election for governor of Georgia, is also prominently featured in the documentary and serves as a producer. Garbus and Cortes have stated that their hope is to educate viewers and arm them with the tools they need to defend their right to vote.

"Blackbird" (2020)

This gorgeous film streams on Prime starting Wednesday, Sept. 16, and we're confident that it will be one of the sweetest you've seen all year. Susan Sarandon ("Feud: Bette and woman who is planning for her own death. She decides that she wants to leave this world on her own terms, and sets the date of her death, a decision that she says helps her live her remaining days to their fullest. As her adult children begin to return home to spend what little time they have left with their mother, the family dynamics and personal feelings begin to complicate that time, and her kids struggle to accept their mother's decision. Sam Neill ("Hunt for the Wilderpeople," 2016) plays Lily's husband, Paul, while their children are played by a number of exceptionally talented actors: Kate Winslet ("Revolutionary Road," 2008), Rainn Wilson ("The Office"), Mia Wasikowska ("Alice in Wonderland," 2010) and Bex Taylor-Klaus ("13 Reasons Why"). While some of Lily's children are able to support her decision and try to make her last days as peaceful as possible, others fight against the inevitable, unable to let their mother go. This film is a remake of the 2014 Danish film "Silent Heart," which was nominated for the 2015 Nordic Council Film Prize. Watch this heartrending film when it premieres on Prime this Wednesday.

Joan") stars as Lily, a terminally ill

Benedict Wong and Will Smith in "Gemini Man"

A scene from "Blackbird"

"Gemini Man" (2019)

On Friday, Sept. 18, watch as a former killer for the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA), the aging former marine scout sniper Henry Brogan (Will Smith, "I Am Legend," 2007), retires after a botched assassination and struggles to adjust to his new life. When he finds out that his former colleagues are being murdered, Brogan realizes he was deceived by his corrupt former boss, Janet Lassiter (Linda Emond, "Lodge 49"), and GEMINI director Clay Varris (Clive Owen, "The Knick"). When the organization that he once killed for attempts to neutralize the retired marksman, Brogan and fellow agent Danny Zakarweski (Mary Elizabeth Winstead, "Fargo") must face off against a dangerous GEMINI asset: a younger version of Brogan himself. Benedict Wong ("Doctor Strange," 2016) and Douglas Hodge ("Joker," 2019) also star.

Doubling Down With the Derricos

TLC 2:00 p.m.

Join Karen and Deon Derrico, a couple with a talent for conceiving multiples, in a marathon of this series first season. With 11 children already, the family gets ready to greet their newest siblings: a set of triplets who come far sooner than expected. NCIS кіго 8:00 р.m.

Renewed for an 18th season earlier in 2020, this longrunning spinoff of the critically-acclaimed series "JAG" stars Mark Harmon as Leroy Jethro Gibbs, a former Marine Corps sniper who now leads an elite team of special agents for the Navy.

Hamza Haq stars in "Transplant"

Tuesday prime time |19

Cosmos: Possible Worlds

ксро 8:00 р.т.

Famed astrophysicist Neil deGrasse Tyson returns as host in this fascinating series' third season. Audiences around the globe are transported to previously uncharted realms, including lost worlds and worlds humanity could one day discover.

Transplant

кілд 10:00 р.т.

Dr. Hamed (Hamza Haq) attempts to remotely treat a patient in Syria, forcing him to divide his time while dealing with extra pressure from Dr. Bishop (John Hannah) in this episode. Then, Dr. Hunter (Jim Watson) receives troublesome news.

Sweet Home Sextuplets

TLC 8:00 a.m.

Tune in for back-to-back rebroadcasts of this reality series' first season. In this episode, meltdowns and milestones wreak havoc at the Waldrop household. Then, the twins graduate, the sextuplets turn six months and a photo shoot attempt becomes chaos.

The Goldbergs

комо 8:00 р.т.

Reminisce about the decade known for big hair, acid wash jeans and neon as Adam Goldberg (Sean Giambrone) chronicles his family's antics on his video camera in this sitcom. Wendi McLendon-Covey and Jeff Garlin star as Adam's parents Beverly and Murray.

Maureen Maher hosts "48 Hours: Suspicion"

Entertainment EXTRA! September 18 - 24, 2020

Skyfall

SYFY 9:00 p.m.

Daniel Craig stars as Agent James Bond in this action-packed Oscar-winner. When Bond's handler, M (Judi Dench), is threatened by her own past, his loyalty is tested as the only agent with the ability to help. Ralph Fiennes and Javier Bardem also star.

48 Hours: Suspicion

кіго 10:00 р.т.

Investigative journalist Maureen Maher anchors this new special. With support from correspondents and award-winning anchors Erin Moriarty, Peter Van Sant, Tracy Smith and Richard Schlesinger, the "48 Hours" team investigates thrilling true crime stories.

The Price Is Right

кіго 10:00 а.т.

Originally airing in 1956, this beloved game show is now hosted by actor and comedian Drew Carey. Adapted in countries across the globe, this popular game show sees contestants guessing the value of various products in order to win big prizes.

Extra Ordinary

sноw 10:00 a.m.

Rose Dooley (Maeve Higgins) is a simple driving instructor with supernatural abilities, but since her father's death she has refused to use them in this comedy. When Rose meets Martin (Barry Ward), she is pulled back into the world of the paranormal.

Steve Harvey hosts "Celebrity Family Feud"

Thursday prime time |21

Days of Our Lives

кіNG 1:00 р.m.

Since this soap opera's return, Ciara (Victoria Konefal) has found herself in a deadly situation while judges ruled on the custody of Allie's (Lindsay Arnold) baby. Meanwhile, Ben (Robert Scott Wilson) has been in serious trouble with the law.

Celebrity Family Feud

комо 8:00 р.т.

Two celebrities and their families face off against each other in this modern spin on the classic game show. Host Steve Harvey brings his signature wit and charm to the game as the contestants try to win money for their chosen charities.

Tom Holland stars in "The Devil All the Time"

By Jessica Gosse TV Media

"The Devil All the Time" (2020)

British actor Tom Holland takes a step away from the playful role of Spider-Man that many have come to know (and love) him for as he stars as Arvin Russell in this gothic drama premiering Wednesday, Sept. 16, on Netflix. Based on the epic novel of the same name by Donald Ray Pollock, the film follows Arvin, who was brought up in the backwoods, Bible-thumping town of Knockemstiff, Ohio, after his father died during World War II. Raised by Willard Russell (Bill Skarsgard, "It," 2017), a veteran who uses prayer to cope with his own PTSD from the war and his wife's cancer diagnosis, Arvin now also has a deep faith, but he is coming to realize that his town may not be as God-fearing as he once believed. When he is given his father's gun as a birthday gift, Arvin begins to take matters into his own hands and faces down the town's corrupt sheriff, Lee Bodecker (Sebastian Stan, "Avengers: Endgame," 2019), as well as villainous couple Sandy (Riley Keough, "Logan Lucky," 2017) and Carl Henderson (Jason Clarke, "Pet Sematary," 2019), and the unholy town preacher, Rev. Preston Teagardin (Robert Pattinson, "The Lighthouse," 2019).

"Ratched"

Many people will be familiar with the iconic villain Nurse Ratched from the 1975 Academy Award-winning film "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" (or the 1962 Ken Kesey novel on which it's based). On Friday, Sept. 18, Ryan Murphy ("The Politician") gives us more insight into the mind of the lobotomy-serving nurse with this new series. Sarah Paulson ("American Horror Story") stars as Mildred Ratched, who in 1947 heads to northern California seeking employment as a nurse at a mental institution after serving in the Corps during the war. The series is set to feature Ratched's transition from a dedicated professional to the cold-hearted monster we know as she works in a psychiatric hospital where experimental procedures are performed on patients. Between Dr. Richard Hanover's (Jon Jon Briones, "Blood Ransom," 2014) controversial experiments, the strict head nurse Betsy Bucket (Judy Davis, "The Dressmaker," 2015) and the many unusual patients – including a mass murderer (Finn Wittrock, "Semper Fi," 2019) and an eccentric heiress (Sharon Stone, "Basic Instinct," 1992) - life at the institution begins to slowly push Nurse Ratched over the edge.

"Criminal: UK"

On Wednesday, Sept. 16, the second season of this engaging drama lands on Netflix. The first season starred British powerhouses like David Tenannt ("Good Omens") and Hayley Atwell ("Agent Carter"), and the second installment is set to feature some equally exciting talent. In his first television role since "Game of Thrones," Kit Harrington stars as an overly confident man being grilled by police, who suspect him of committing a crime. Joining Okonedo ("Ratched") and Kunal Nayyar ("The Big Bang Theory"). Season 1 of the crime drama consisted of three episodes, which were a part of a larger anthology that included "Criminal: France," "Criminal: Spain" and "Criminal: Germany," each filmed and released in its country's official language. It's still unclear whether we'll be getting new episodes of those companion series, but we do know that the new "Criminal: UK" episodes will follow the same pattern as the first season: each one plays out in real time (more or less) as investigators interrogate a suspect and try to figure out whether they have the perpetrator of a crime, or if the person they're grilling is innocent. The result is a surprisingly thrilling series that will keep you at the edge of your seat. Don't miss the Season 2 premiere when it airs on Wednesday.

Sarah Paulson as seen in "Ratched"

Q: Is the guy who does the TV commercials for Persil laundry detergent the same guy who plays Bridget Moynahan's ex-husband on "Blue Bloods"?

A: Peter Hermann is a lot of things to a lot of people. That includes, as you say, being both Jack Boyle on "Blue Bloods" and the face of Persil laundry detergent.

He's also Trevor Lanigan on "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit," he was referred to affectionately as "The Hair" on an episode of "30 Rock," and to celebrity-news watchers, he's Mr. Mariska Hargitay, one half of a crime-TV power couple with his "SVU" co-star.

For a certain type of TV fan, he's Dr. Michael Burke from the longrunning but now-canceled soap opera "Guiding Light." That was his first screen gig, which he landed in 1997.

Five years later, he landed his "Special Victims Unit" role, which may be his biggest. It's certainly been his longest-running – he recurred as the high-priced defense attorney for a whopping 17 years, from 2002 until his most recent appearance in 2019. (He and Hargitay, who, of course, has been on the show since the beginning as Det. Olivia Benson, struck up a romance on set, and they were married in 2004.)

Q: Settle an argument for me: Is it "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" or "Snow White and the Seven Dwarves"?

A: The correct, original title is "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," because the variant spelling "dwarves" didn't really become part of the English language until later, and because the dwarfs in the film are the happy-go-lucky working kind, not the killing-orcswith-axes kind.

The preferred, original plural of "dwarf" is in fact "dwarfs." "Dwarves" wasn't commonly used until it was popularized by author J.R.R. Tolkien in his landmark fantasy novel "The Hobbit," published in September 1937.

Indeed, Tolkien admits outright in the foreword to the book that he used an incorrect spelling to give an air of romance to the also made-up race in his book. "In English, the only correct plural of 'dwarf' is 'dwarfs' and the adjective is 'dwarfish'. In this story, 'dwarves' and 'dwarvish' are used, but only when speaking of the ancient people to whom Thorin Oakenshield and his companions belonged."

But when he said "only," he wasn't accounting for the fact that language is always changing, nor for how popular his book would one day become.

Today, both spellings are in use. The venerable Merriam-Webster dictionary lists "dwarfs" as the primary spelling, but says "dwarves" is also correct.

Disney didn't really have the luxury of the choice, though. "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was released just five months after "The Hobbit," well before the latter book achieved language-altering levels of success.

Late laughs

The Late Show with Stephen Colbert

Just like the Democrats, the GOP has given each night of the convention a different theme. I believe the four nights are "Famine," "Pestilence," "War" and "Death."

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

I saw that Uber and Hyundai are teaming up to make a flying taxi. It's perfect if you've ever been in the back of an Uber and thought, "I wish this half-asleep driver was a thousand feet off the ground."

Honda and GM just unveiled a new self-driving car that doesn't have a steering wheel or pedals. There's no radio, either, because all you'll ever hear is yourself screaming.
