PHANTOM TATTOO OWNER SEAN LINDSETH KEEPS IT OLD SCHOOL

OUTLAW: For Lindseth, the Mass Commercialization of Tattoos During his 36 Years in the Business is Bittersweet

By Eric Trent

etrent@chronline.com

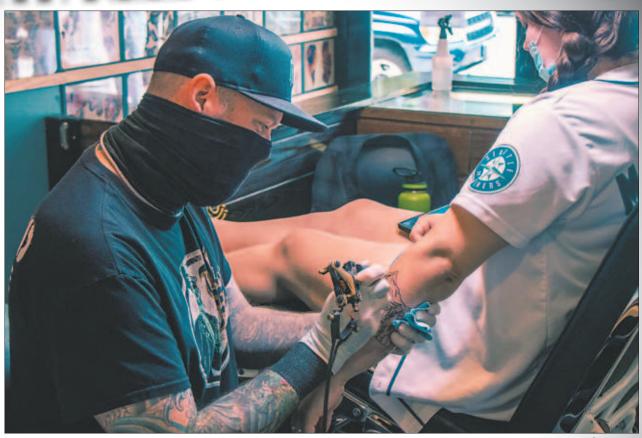

Editor's Note: The Chronicle is working to assist local businesses suffering from the effects of the COVID-19 virus spread and associated government orders to close or limit commerce. There will be a feature on a local business in each edition of The Chronicle and at chronline.com moving forward. To be considered, email reporter Eric Trent at etrent@chronline.com. Additionally, The Chronicle will continue to offer its coverage of the coronavirus and its effects across the community, state and nation free outside of our paywall at chronline.com.

When Sean Lindseth, owner of Phantom Tattoo in Centralia, began tattooing at 14 years old in 1984, tattoos were for the outcasts, the outlaws, the bikers, the punk rockers. Now, soccer moms, college students, hipsters, basically everyone and their dog are getting tattoos.

After 36 years in the business, he's watched tattoo culture shift from the fringe to mass commercialization.

In the 80s, tattoo artists were tattooing maybe 1 percent of the population, Lindseth said. It wasn't profitable to have two or three shops in the same area. There just weren't enough customers to support it. Now, about 38 percent of young people ages 18 to 29 have at least one tattoo, according to a study by the Pew Research Center.

"It was a different world back then," Lindseth said. "Now they're like coffee also tattooing a wider base of people."

good living. Tattoo shops were few and far in between and opportunities to work at one were difficult, to say the least.

He started out at Capitol City Press in Olympia, but because he didn't have a college degree they were going to put a broom in his hand. He said he told them to shove it.

Fortunately, Electric Rose Tattoo studio was opening up in Olympia at the same time. It was 1989 and Lindseth was 18 years old. He started getting tattooed there and within a couple weeks the owner offered him an apprenticeship. Lindseth took the offer and never looked back.

"I always knew I was going to do something with my art for a living and I knew I really hated school, wasn't interested in going back to college and this was an opportunity to do something I loved," Lindseth said. "And somebody was handing it to me in a silver platter."

By 2004, it was time for Lindseth to open his own shop. He was choosing between either Tacoma or Centralia. In the end, it was cheaper in Centralia. Plus, there were few shops between Olympia and Portland, Oregon along Interstate-5 at the time. People were driving from Lewis County to Olympian to get tattoos at the Electric Rose, which was the only shop in Olympia at the time.

"And then it just stopped," Lindseth said. "So I came down to figure out why and I noticed there was another shop that had opened, so people had a stopgap and I came down to restake our claim. These are our customers. We're getting them back."

So Lindseth opened Phantom Tattoo in Centralia in 2004. It's a satellite store, a collection of "family" of shops centered around Pete Stephens' Seattle Tattoo Emporium. Electric Rose is also a part of that family of shops and Phantom Tattoo, which is co-owned by Pete Stephens, is the southernmost location. Lindseth runs Phantom Tattoo and Stephens is more hands-off.

Over the years, Lindseth has watched tattooing go from the back alleys to plastered on mainstream media and television.

It was always popular, just not with a wide-base of people. When Lindseth was a kid, star athletes like Julius "Dr. J" Erving didn't have tattoos. Once professional athletes and musicians were displaying lots of tattoos, like LeBron James, it began to catch fire.

"It was like, 'Wow, look at that dude. He's got a full sleeve,"' Lindseth said. "You'd never see that before. It brought it to a much wider spectrum of people. People started coming in that you wouldn't normally see get tattoos."

It's been a bittersweet transition for Lindseth, who is old-school through and through.

"I liked it when it was anti-social," Lindseth said. "I didn't get into tattooing to be popular. I was an anti-social, punk-rock kid. I liked the fact that people were afraid of my heavy tattoos. It kept them away from me. It was social armor."

Lindseth got into tattooing so he could wear jeans and a T-shirt to work, listen to Motorhead all day, make people happy and still make a good living. It's his life. He's been tattooing since he was 14 years old and he just turned 50. He doesn't know anything else. Does he wish the tattoo scene was still what it was back when he started? Yes. But he was also younger back then.

"When things start happening that change a person's life, it's going to meet a bit of resistance," Lindseth said. "I do wish it was a little more like it was in the 80s and 90s, yes, but I don't know I would be able to afford to buy a house and open my own shop had it remained like that. So I'm kind of on the fence about that."

Artists used to never be able to get tattoo supplies unless the company knew who you were. The Internet didn't exist when Lindseth started. One couldn't just go online and order stuff off of Ebay. Unless you knew somebody you weren't tattooing and opening a shop. Now it's a free-for-all. You can get supplies from anywhere delivered to the shop.

Customers to Phantom Tattoo won't see any plaques or awards on the walls of the studio, not necessarily because Lindseth hasn't won any, but because he's chosen not to enter any contests. That's now what he does it for. It's not a competition, it's a lifestyle.

"This isn't a contest for me, this is my life," Lindseth said. "I do this for the smiles on people's faces, not the plaques on the wall. I love tattooing but I still view it differently than the modern tattooer."

He doesn't need thousands of followers on social media, though he does have over 1,000 followers on both Facebook and Instagram. He even has notifications muted on both. He'll post updates for his shop and a photo of a tattoo that he likes every now and then, but that's about the extent of it.

There are currently five tattoo shops in Centralia, but Lindseth doesn't see them as

"I'm just a pirate on a ship, sailing through the waters and taking on all comers," Lindseth said. "And it's going to take an awful lot to knock me off my perch. People open up across the street from me and it doesn't affect my business. It just pushes me. I don't trash talk them, I just out-tattoo them."

DearAbby

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have about a dozen nieces and nephews on each side of our family. As each of them has married, we have given them generous gifts.

My wife and I have two adult children. When our daughter was married 10 years ago, she had a big reception, with all the best of everything. Our son chose to elope last year. He had a small ceremony when they returned — just parents and arandparents.

My wife is now very upset that no one has acknowledged the wedding with even a card — let alone a gift. Should we bring this up to our families? Is it customary to give gifts only when there is a traditional ceremony and reception? — EMPTY-HANDED IN can see why your wife is upset. Because you have been so generous with your family members when they were married, it would have been thoughtful had they reciprocated with your son. However, the rule of etiquette is that gifts are required when someone accepts a wedding invitation, and your son chose to elope instead of having one, which may explain the lack of response from your relatives.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-inlaw is wigging out because I allow our two cats and our dog to lick mixing bowls and dinner plates before I put them in the dishwasher. We have an active, healthy family, with no allergies, chronic health problems or obesity. Our house is clean, although I wouldn't eat off my floors. Shoes are left in the laundry room. We have never even had a case of flu, thanks to flu shots, common sense and probably some luck.

Our dishwasher is set to do a long wash with a heated drying cycle. Am I terrible? I fail to see the problem, but she thinks I'm

liable to poison the kids. — WONDERING IN THE SOUTH

DEAR WONDERING: You are not going to poison the kids, yourself or her son, but you could cause problems for your feline family members if they happen to eat any garlic or onions. That said, you may give your mother-in-law a coronary if you continue letting her see what you have been doing. So, in the interest of family harmony, when she's around, cut it out.

DEAR ABBY: My roommate owns the house. His girlfriend and her two children are over here all day, every day. I have my own living room, office and bedroom, and we share the kitchen and bathroom.

I'm clean and respectful and try to mind my own business. The problem is, neither of them work. They drink heavily every day and then scream and fight for hours. Since COVID-19, they have been drinking even more and fighting constantly. Sometimes it gets physical.

My roommate is a verbally abusive drunk, and his girl-friend threatens to leave when he starts abusing her kids, but doesn't follow through. I have intervened a couple of times on behalf of the children, but there's only so much I can do.

Lately, they've been screaming at the top of their lungs about me. I work from home and often customers on the phone hear them drop F-bomb after F-bomb. I'm afraid their behavior will lead to me losing my job. They're also up until 2 or 3 a.m. every night fighting, which keeps me from sleeping (even with earplugs).

I'm completely stressed out and starting to get depressed. I'm not sure what to do. I have limited funds, so moving would be difficult. I'm wondering if you have any suggestions so I can weather the storm. — BAD SITU-ATION IN UTAH

DEAR BAD SITUATION: This storm isn't going to end. I feel for the children whose mother doesn't protect them from her abusive boyfriend. The result will be they will think they deserve the mistreatment they are receiving, which may affect them for the rest of their lives.

I am not sure there is a way to "weather" the storm. Because these addicts cannot control their behavior, and it is affecting the way your clients perceive you, it would be better to get out of there. If possible, go live temporarily with a friend or relative until you find affordable alternative living quarters. Your job may depend on it.

DEAR ABBY: My daughterin-law "Hannah" told one of my children that she is sorry she married my son. He does not know. They are both young adults.

Hannah and her mother had pushed for the marriage. She even bought her wedding dress before he proposed. My son loves her. He is special-needs, lower IQ and gullible.

What do I do with this information? It will hurt him, but I don't want him wasting years married to someone who doesn't love him. He deserves better than that. — SAD MOM IN FLORIDA

DEAR SAD MOM: Your son needs to know what Hannah has been saying and receive as much support from the family as possible. I think the news should come from the person in whom Hannah confided rather than from you, which could be perceived as meddling. This should also be discussed with an attorney. I hope you will do it soon, before there are children involved.

DEAR ABBY: On May 3, you responded to a cancer patient about what to say to those who bring up her cancer. What do you recommend to readers whose good friends disclose their cancer for the first time? What can be said that shows concern, understanding and being supportive? — AT A LOSS what I have said to people I care about when told of their diagnosis. I hope it will guide you. I tell the person I am sorry to hear the person is having to fight that battle, that I will mention him or her in my prayers until remission is accomplished, and offer whatever emotional support the person is willing to accept from me. And then I follow through.

DEAR ABBY: In middle school, I had a crush on a boy. He didn't even know I existed. Through a chance meeting many years later, he noticed me, but there were complications. He didn't know how to tell his ex it was too late for her, and it became a love triangle. She saw the error of her ways and left. He and I have been together ever since. He still talked to her as they had been friends forever, but two months ago he stopped.

Meanwhile, through all of this, she has been cyber-stalking and manipulating me. She has created multiple Facebook accounts to torture me, sent me a video of my boyfriend doing sexual things and tried to make me believe it was current. (It was five years old.)

He cut off contact with her, and it was glorious until last week, when she helped him get back in touch with his son, whom he hasn't seen in 10-plus years. I see it for the manipulation it is, but he sees it as her redemption. He doesn't care that it hurts me, and he refuses to get rid of her.

She has slandered me all over Facebook, and I don't think he should expect me to be OK with this or for him to even WANT a person like that in his life. He was AMAZING without her influence. How do I get him back to that person? I miss him so much!—ANGUISHED IN ARIZONA

DEAR ANGUISHED: Let me get this straight. This man cheated on his ex with you, and you expected her to play fair? I wish you had mentioned why your boyfriend hasn't seen his son in more than 10 years. It might have been the most interesting paragraph in your letter. Were he and his ex married? Just living together while she was "in denial"?

From where I sit, she is doing everything she can to fight for "her man." He appears to have fences to mend with his son and with her, and you may have to accept it. It looks like he has already made up his mind about that, and unless you can accept it, your romance will be over. Only you can decide whether staying with this person is worth the drama.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Contact Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

Thirsty for more

Season 2 of 'NOS4A2' continues on AMC

By Rachel Jones
TV Media

The Season 1 finale of "NO-S4A2" couldn't have been more riveting: a maniacal immortal woke up from his coma, ready to feed on the souls of more children. While it was satisfying to see the show's famous car go up in smoke, the show's villainous vampire is indeed back in another thrilling season of this dark series. You can catch the second episode of Season 2 when it airs Sunday, July 5, on AMC.

The series is based on author Joe Hill's third novel, also named "NO-S4A2." Hill's first two books, "Heart-Shaped Box" and "Horns," have already been snapped up by film-makers, so be on the lookout for those big-screen adaptations. "NOS4A2," on the other hand, is perfect for the television treatment. It's been given a two-season-and-counting run on AMC, the network that's been home to mega-hits such as "Breaking Bad" and "Mad Men."

The show's title is ominously pronounced "Nosferatu," and its license plate-styled spelling is a nod to the book's cover art and one of the story's most important characters, a 1938 Rolls-Royce Wraith.

Season 1 does a great job setting up an airtight, gripping plot. It opens in a town called Here, lowa, where contemporary vampire Charlie (Zachary Quinto, "Star Trek Into Darkness," 2013) lures kids into the too-good-tobe-real Christmasland, where every day is Christmas and sadness is a crime. Of course, he rarely mentions the part where he devours most of each child's soul.

Meanwhile, in Haverhill, Massachusetts, a townie named Victoria "Vic" McQueen (Ashleigh Cummings, "The Goldfinch," 2019) must come to terms with her own supernatural powers. She can find answers and missing things just by riding her bike across an old, decrepit bridge called the ShorterWay. While crossing the bridge, Vic meets a medium named Maggie (Jahkara Smith, "Into the Dark"), who gives her an important mission: save the children from Charlie.

But somehow, Charlie can sense Vic's presence and hopes to recruit her to the dark side. He and his new apprentice, Bing Partridge (Ólafur Darri Ólafsson, "Eurovision Song Contest: The Story of Fire Saga," 2020), track her down, and what followed was a gripping tale with twists and turns that kept viewers on the edge of their seats. Interesting characters like Charlie's old love interest, Jolene (Judith Roberts, "Orange Is the New Black"), and Vic's childhood friend and secret admirer, Craig (Dalton Harrod, "Second Act," 2018), have come and gone (in a blaze of glory), fleshing out the backstories of the main characters and proving that no one is safe in this series.

Ultimately, Season 1 ends in flames: after a major explosion, Charlie slips into a coma, but then, six months later, he is awoken once more.

Season 2 takes place eight years after Charlie regained consciousness. Vic is all the more determined to destroy Charlie, who is now seeking revenge and targeting the person who means the most to Vic: the 8-year-old son, Wayne (Jason David, "For All Mankind"), that she had with Lou Carmody (Jonathan Langdon, "Utopia Falls"). The fight over Wayne's soul throws Vic and Charlie on a high-speed collision course, each determined to claim the boy at all costs.

So far this season, Vic has turned to Maggie to get information about Charlie's whereabouts. Meanwhile, Charlie's assistant, Bing, has started tracing the Wraith's whereabouts. So far, he's found nothing but dead ends. Perhaps one of the most important developments in this new season is that Millie Manx (Mattea Conforti, "Power"), one of Charlie's "children," has just uncovered a new dimension inside Christmasland.

"NOS4A2" is more than ready to grip audiences once more with its unique, otherworldly brand of awe. This horror series has hit a chord with viewers, and its fans are relishing in its dark and mysterious premise. While we loved seeing Charlie's Wraith explode and watching the bad guy get what he deserved, we couldn't be happier to see him return for this second installment.

Hill, the show's writer and creator, comes by his penchant for the dark and creepy honestly. He's the son of legendary horror writer Stephen King, who brought us such terrifying classics as "Pet Sematary," ""Salem's Lot,"

"Carrie," "Misery," "The Stand" and oh so many more. While he may be the son of horror royalty, Hill has made his own way in the literary world and is no stranger to seeing his work on the small screen: if you haven't watched the adaptation of his comic book series "Locke & Key" on Netflix, you should definitely put it on your list.

The genius of "NOS4A2" may have begun with Hill's novel, but the show's screenwriters and acting talent can be thanked for building just the right amount of tension into the exhilarating plot twists. The series is an impecably faithful rendition of Hill's original story, and it translates incredibly well to the screen. Tune in on Sunday, July 5, as a new episode of the second season of "NOS4A2" airs on AMC.

Katherine Heigl and Jason O'Mara as seen in "One for the Money"

By Jessica Gosse

TV Media

"One For the Money" (2012)

Katherine Heigl ("Life As We Know It," 2010) stars as the recently divorced Stephanie Plum in this crime comedy film that joins the Hulu lineup this Tuesday, June 30. Based on the novel by bestselling author Janet Evanovich, "One For the Money" follows Stephanie as her life goes from bad to worse when she finds herself unemployed. In need of work, she takes a job as a bail-enforcement agent, despite having no training or experience. She finds herself in over her head when her first case involves tracking down Joe Morelli (Jason O'Mara, "The Man in the High Castle"), her first love from high school who broke her heart by dumping her immediately after sleeping with her. He also happens to be a former cop and murder suspect. Chaos ensues as he insists on proving his innocence, and she deals with problematic witnesses and her meddling family.

"Mission: Impossible - Ghost Protocol" (2011)

On Tuesday, June 30, Tom Cruise

("Jack Reacher," 2012) returns as Ethan Hunt as the fourth installment of the popular action series comes to Hulu. When Hunt and his team attempt to stop Hendricks (Michael Nyqvist, "John Wick," 2014), a dangerous terrorist, from bombing the U.S. with Russian nuclear weapons, the operation goes horribly wrong, and they are implicated in the bombing, causing the dissolution of the Impossible Missions Force. Now, despite having no government funding, the team must continue its mission in order to get the IMF reinstated and stop Hendricks from carrying out his nefarious plans.

"6 Souls" (2013)

Julianne Moore ("Crazy, Stupid, Love," 2011) stars as forensic psychologist Cara Harding in this thrilling mystery that joins the Hulu lineup on Tuesday, June 30. When she meets a patient named Adam (Jonathan Rhys Meyers, "The Tudors"), Cara quickly discovers that he has multiple personality disorder and makes it her mission to cure him. Her job becomes increasingly difficult and unusual as she realizes that all but one of his personalities are not only real people, but murder victims. She must work quickly because as she uncovers more about Adams past, she puts herself and her family in danger.

"That's My Boy" (2012)

Family drama reaches a whole new level in this hilarious comedy coming to Hulu on Tuesday, June 30. Adam Sandler ("Uncut Gems," 2019) stars as Donny Berger who, as a teen, engaged in a secret relationship with his teacher, Ms. McGarricle (Eva Amurri, "Undateable"). The relationship resulted not only in a prison sentence for Ms. McGarricle but in a baby, and a teenage Donny got full custody. Now, years later, Donny is broke and facing jail time himself if he can't come up with the $43,000 he owes the IRS in taxes. In an effort to come up with the money, he tries to reunite with his now-estranged son (Andy Samberg, "Brooklyn Nine-Nine"), who is doing very well for himself, but a reconciliation may be easier said than done. He soon learns that his son changed his name from Han Solo Berger to Todd Peterson, told everyone his parents died in an accident years earlier, and is about to get married. As Donny tries to reconnect with Todd, he realizes that he wasn't the best father and tries to be a part of his boy's life again, but the more he tries, the more chaos ensues.

"Mission Impossible: Ghost Protocol"

Esme Creed-Miles stars in "Hanna"

By Jessica Gosse TV Media

"Hanna" Season 2

Based on the 2011 film of the same name, this thrilling adventure continues on Friday, July 3, on Prime. Esme Creed-Miles ("Pond Life," 2018) stars as 15-year-old Hanna, who grew up in a remote forested area in Poland with her father, Erik (Joel Kinnaman, "For All Mankind"). Erik trained Hanna to be a skilled hunter and killer, but when she begins to venture away from home, she discovers that she and her father are being hunted by a ruthless CIA agent. Now, Hanna and Erik are on the run from Agent Marissa Wiegler (Mireille Enos, "The Killing"), who has been searching for them since Hanna was born. As Hanna uses her many skills to avoid the CIA, she learns that Erik has kept many secrets from her about both his past and her own. The end of Season 1 brought about huge revelations as Erik informed Hanna that she was born as part of a CIA project that recruited pregnant women and enhanced the DNA of their unborn children to create super soldiers. Season 2 is even more action-packed and exciting as Hanna's journey continues.

"Spy Kids" (2001)

Former super spies Gregorio (Antonio Banderas, "Dolittle," 2020) and Ingrid Cortez (Carla Guigino, "The Haunting of Hill House") have given up their exciting lifestyle of espionage in order to keep their children, Carmen (Alexa (Daryl Sabara, "John Carter," 2012), safe in this fun family film that begins streaming on Prime on Tuesday, June 30. Now working as consultants for the OSS (Organization of Super Spies), Gregorio and Ingrid are shocked when they learn that a number of the OSS's top agents (and some of their closest friends) have gone missing. They decide to return to active duty in order to find them. When the couple gets kidnapped, Carmen and Juni learn the truth about their parents' careers and decide to find away to save them. With help from their uncle Machete (Danny Trejo, "Machete," 2010), who supplies them with the latest spy equipment, the siblings travel to a mysterious castle, run by the eccentric tech-genius Fegan Floop (Alan Cumming, "The Good Wife") and his evil assistant Minion (Tony Shalhoub, "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel"), where the captured OSS agents are being held as the evil villain is intent on taking over the world.

"Where The Wild Things Are" (2009)

Let the wild rumpus start on Tuesday, June 30, when this film adaptation of Maurice Sendak's classic children's story joins the Prime lineup. Directed by Academy Award-winning director Spike Jonze ("Being John" Malkovich," 1999), "Where the Wild Things Are" follows the story of an imaginative young boy named Max (Max Records, "The Sitter," 2011). After Max gets into a fight with his sister, he ends up in trouble and runs away from home, traveling, in his imagination, to a magic world filled with wild creatures. When he arrives in this world, he befriends the creatures by telling them that he has special powers, and they decide to make him their king. But, as time passes, the creatures come to realize that Max isn't the best king, and trouble arises. Don't miss this magical film that also features the voices of James Gandolfini ("The Sopranos"), Catherine O'Hara ("Schitt's Creek"), Paul Dano ("Little Miss Sunshine," 2006) and Forest Whitaker ("Black Panther," 2018).

The Simpsons

ксро 8:00 р.т.

When Bart sees a superhero film before it comes out, he uses his plot-spoiling superpower to terrorize people in this rebroadcast. The Russo brothers and Kevin Feige lend their voices to this episode that parodies the "Avengers: Endgame" phenomenon.

NCIS: Los Angeles

KIRO 9:00 p.m.

NCIS reluctantly teams up with the father of a kidnapped girl in this rebroadcast. Former English criminals Ricky Dorsey (Vinnie Jones) and Frankie Bolton (Steve Valentine) help the team rescue the girl from arms dealers who are after a dangerous weapon.

John Lithgow in "Perry Mason"

Sunday prime time | 15

Perry Mason нво 9:00 р.т.

Match Game

комо 10:00 р.т.

Join Alec Baldwin as he hosts the celebrity-filled revival of this classic game show from the '60s. Contestants try to match their fill-in-the-blank answer to a panel of celebrities for points and cash, but their answers often result in hilarious moments.

18 Monday prime time

кіко 8:00 р.т.

Tina (Tichina Arnold) decides its time to tackle renovations and enlists Dave (Max Greenfield) to help paint in this rebroadcast. Unfortunately, this is a violation of Calvin's (Cedric the Entertainer) "man-code," and both families end up helping out.

The Titan Games

KING 8:00 p.m.

No stranger to taking down tough opponents, Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson hosts this competition series, now in its second season. Striving to earn or keep the title of "Titan," competitors take part in intense challenges of mental and physical endurance.

Cedric the Entertainer in "The Neighborhood"

9-1-1: Lone Star

ксра 9:00 р.т.

In this rebroadcast, a father and son find themselves trapped in cave while spelunking. Elsewhere, a gender reveal party goes terribly awry causing Owen (Rob Lowe) and the team to be called to the scene. Liv Tyler and Jim Parrack also star.

Godzilla

AMC 10:30 p.m.

Bryan Cranston, Elizabeth Olsen, Andy Serkis and Aaron Taylor-Johnson star in this modern take on the infamous giant monster from Japan. Once again, humanity has upset the balance of nature, causing the awakening of Godzilla in order to correct the path.

Dances With Wolves

AMC 4:00 p.m.

After being wounded and becoming a hero, a civil war soldier heads to the western frontier, where he encounters a tribe of Sioux people, a wolf and a new way of life in this Academy Award winning film. Kevin Costner, Mary McDonnell and Graham Greene star.

Hell's Kitchen

ксра 8:00 р.т.

Two teams of talented chefs compete for a top position in a prestigious restaurant in a rebroadcast of this reality series. Each week, host and mentor chef Gordon Ramsay challenges the contestants with tasks designed to test their skills and creativity.

Modern Family

комо 8:30 р.т.

Cam (Eric Stonestreet) and his husband Mitchell (Jesse Tyler Ferguson) navigate life with daughter Lily (Aubrey Anderson-Emmons) in this comedy. Their extended family includes Mitchell's sister, Claire (Julie Bowen) and her husband, Phil (Ty Burrell).

Late Night With Seth Meyers

KING 12:35 a.m.

Join "Saturday Night Live" alumnus, Seth Meyers, as he interviews celebrity guests, delivers witty quips and pokes fun at politics. Whether it's from Rockefeller Plaza, or his own squirrel-infested attic, Meyers makes the news a bit easier to digest.

20 Wednesday prime time

Christine

AMC 11:30 a.m.

Film and literary legends, John Carpenter and Stephen King, team up for this cult-classic supernatural horror film based on King's novel. Arnie (Keith Gordon) looks cool in his new car, but soon realizes it has a mind of its own and is a killing machine.

Game On!

KIRO 9:00 p.m.

Tiki Barber and Ken Jeong join in on the fun as members of Team Gronk and Team Venus in this new episode. Keegan-Michael Key hosts this fun show as the teams compete in wacky challenges ranging from human foosball to becoming cheerleaders for the Lakers.

Keegan-Michael Key hosts "Game On!"

комо 8:30 р.т.

Katie's (Katy Mixon) perfectly imperfect family continues its fourth season of this popular comedy. She and her husband Greg (Diedrich Bader) attempt to instill old-fashioned family values in their kids while raising them in an entitled Connecticut town.

Celebrity Ghost Stories

A&E 10:00 p.m.

Psychic medium Kim Russo takes the lead in the latest installment of this paranormal reality series. Seeking answers, various celebrities recount and revisit the spooky things they have experienced at their homes, around the world and on set.

Better Call Saul

AMC 9:00 a.m.

Marathon the entire fifth season of this "Breaking Bad" spinoff starting with this rebroadcast. Jimmy (Bob Odenkirk) has officially begun practicing law under the name Saul Goodman, but Kim (Rhea Seehorn) doesn't have much tolerance for his new persona.

Celebrity Watch Party

ксра 8:00 р.т.

Celebrities welcome viewers into their homes in this new show, based on the British hit series "Gogglebox." Join them on couches and in bedrooms, as they react to the most hilarious, unbelievable and talked about moments from the past week of television.

Michele Weaver and Sarah Wayne Callies in "Council of Dads"

Thursday prime time |21

Council of Dads

KING 8:00 p.m.

Dr. Robin Perry (Sarah Wayne Callies) gets help from her late husband's friends, Anthony (Clive Standen), Oliver (J. August Richards) and Larry (Michael O'Neill), to raise their five kids in this freshman drama that explores the value of extended family.

Mom

KIRO 9:00 p.m.

Christy (Anna Faris) struggles to build a better life for her family as a single mother in this seven-season sitcom. Luckily, her mom Bonnie (Allison Janney) is always there for support, even if they don't always see eye to eye. Jaime Pressly also stars.

NETFLIX this week

Momona Tamada, Sophie Grace, Xochitl Gomez, Malia Baker and Shay Rudolph from "The Baby-Sitter's Club"

"The Baby-Sitters Club"

Netflix continues its recent trend of adapting popular novels for the screen in this new series based on the cult-classic collection of novels by Ann M. Martin. You can watch it starting Friday, July 3, on the streamer. It's been 15 years since the last adaptation of the coming-of-age novels, and this new iteration promises to focus on many timely issues while still staying true to the novels. A Netflix release says that "there has never been a more opportune time to tell an aspirational story about empowering young female entrepreneurs." The series is a modern take on the classic characters - Kristy Thomas (Sophie Grace, "Terror in the Woods," 2018), Mary-Anne Spier (Malia Baker, "The Flash"), Stacey McGill (Shay Rudolph, "Lethal Weapon"), Claudia Kishi (Momona Tamada, "The Main Event," 2020) and Dawn Schafer (Xochitl Gomez, "Raven's Home") – as they start up their babysitting business in Stoneybrook, Connecticut. With 131 novels in the book series, Netflix has a lot of source material to pull from, and the streamer has been teasing plot lines involving diversity, divorce and racism. The series is also set to feature Alicia Silverstone ("Clueless," 1995) in a prominent role as Elizabeth Thomas-Brewer, Kristy's single mother.

"Ju-on: Origins"

If you've been waiting for a new horror series so scary that even sitting through the trailer is a feat, be sure to load up Netflix on Friday, July 3, when the entire season of this show premieres. The first "Ju-on" movie was released in 2002, and along with its American remake, 2004's "The Grudge," helped spark the western world's love affair with Japanese or Japanese-style horror. "Ju-On: Origins" revisits that terror, and also gets a little meta: in the show, the characters learn that the story from the movies was based on a real house, and, of course, they decide to investigate. "Ju-On" is a Japanese word that combines characters meaning "curse" and "blame" to create "grudge." When a person dies with great anger or pain, their soul leaves a curse on the place where they died, and a new, terrifying entity is created. Japanese actors Yoshiyoshi Arakawa ("Fine, Totally Fine" 2008), Yuina Kuroshima ("12 Suicidal Teens" 2019) and Ririka ("Toyko Internet Love" 2016) make up the main cast, and all three have plenty of experience in the genre. Even reading the subtitles can't save you from jump scares, creepy babies and that unforgettably creepy sound. Binge the entire series when it becomes available on Friday, July 3.

"Bratz: The Movie" (2007)

On Monday, June 29, don't miss this teen comedy based on the popular line of dolls from MGA Entertainment. Despite being incredibly different, Sasha (Logan Browning, "Dear White People"), Jade (Janel Parrish, "Pretty Little Liars"), Yasmin (Nathalia Ramos, "House of Anubis") and Cloe (Skylar Shaye, "Ray Donovan") have been best friends their entire lives, but that friendship is put to the test when they start high school. The girls are determined to stay friends, even when they meet Meredith (Chelsea Kane, "Baby Daddy"), the student body president, who insists that everyone conform to one of the school's 48 distinct cliques. Unfortunately, the girls are quickly pulled in different directions as Cloe joins the soccer team, Sasha becomes a cheerleader and Jade joins the math club. Now in their senior year, the girls are reunited when an accident leads to them starting a food fight and getting detention. Thrown back together, the girls realize they never should have let go of their friendship and decide to team up to oppose the status quo and take Meredith down by beating her in the school's talent contest.

"George Lopez: We'll Do It For Half"

Veteran comedian George Lopez stars in this new standup special that premieres Tuesday, June 30, on Netflix. Known mainly for his work in the 2002 sitcom "George Lopez" and in various films, Lopez actually began his career as a standup comedian, and he returns to those roots in his first-ever Netflix special. Named one of the "Top 25 Hispanics in America" by Time magazine in 2005, Lopez's comedy has a strong focus on Mexican culture and ethnic relations but also features a smattering of other hilarious topics such as gender reveal parties and emotional-support animals. Filmed live at the Warfield Theatre in San Francisco, this is one standup special you don't want to miss.

Q: Did Joely Richardson take the role in "Return to Me" because of her sister?

A: In a dark and eerie coincidence, no, the film actually came

In the 2000 romance "Return to Me," Joely Richardson plays a young woman who dies of head trauma after a car accident. Her heart is donated to another young woman in need of a transplant, which kicks off the film's story - Richardson's character's husband unknowingly falls in love with the recipient.

Nine years later, Joely's sister, Natasha Richardson, died of head trauma after a skiing accident. She also donated her heart and other organs (no grand, contrived romances resulted from her act, just the ordinary miracle of life).

Perhaps it's the burden of actors to always be able to find parallels between their work and (sometimes tragic) real life.

Natasha's death forced her husband, actor Liam Neeson, into the spotlight as a real grieving widower left alone to raise two young boys. Six years earlier, he played a similar part in "Love Actually" (2003) – it remains one of his best-loved roles.

Seen in the light of this future coincidence, and based on the plot description, "Return to Me" could seem like a pretty grim affair, but it's actually a very light romantic comedy. Roger Ebert called it "an old-fashioned love story so innocent, so naive, so sweet and sincere, that you must leave your cynicism at the door or choose another movie."

You have to hope that this helps Joely a little if she thinks about it in hindsight.

Q: Did "Shaun of the Dead" have to get any special permission to use the title, since it is very clearly a play on "Dawn of the Dead"?

A: It looks like the producers of the modern-classic, groundbreaking zombie comedy did not run it past anyone first.

It's likely they figured the movie fell under the fair-use exemption in U.K. copyright law. Fair use is a concept that exists in many countries – it's basically a list of reasons that copyrighted material can be used without permission. One of those uses is parody, which is what "Shaun of the Dead" certainly is.

The similarities go way beyond the title. "Shaun of the Dead (2004) is a loving send-up of "Dawn of the Dead" (1978) and the rest of director-writer George A. Romero's zombie series.

One of the rules for fair use in the U.K. (where "Shaun" was made) and elsewhere is that your use can't cut in on the profits of the original. In the case of "Shaun of the Dead," that's almost certainly not a problem - its runaway success almost certainly generated new interest in the Romero films, and in zombie movies in general (indeed, "Shaun" is credited with inventing a brand new genre - the rom-zom-com, or romantic zombie comedy).

Maybe they didn't need any-one's blessing, but it seems that they wanted it. Director-writer Edgar Wright sent a copy of the finished product to Romero before it was released and said he was a nervous wreck waiting for the great originator's reaction. Fortunately it was good.

"I love it," Romero told the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette in a 2004 interview. "I just thought it was so clever."
