Karen and Don Glaser Say Goodbye After 33 Years at Barrier Dam Campground

BON VOYAGE: The Glasers Bought the Property in 1988 After Visiting Salkum From Federal Way on a Fishing Trip

There will be a feature on a local business in each edition of The Chronicle and at chronline.com moving forward. To be considered, email reporter Eric Trent at etrent@chronline.com. SALKUM – When Karen and Don Glaser visited Salkum for a fishing trip in the late 1980s, they soon fell in love with the giant trees, the abundance of wildlife and the spectacular fishing opportunities in the area. So when they stopped at Barrier Dam Campground to buy tackle and saw it was for sale, they jumped at the opportunity.

Now after 33 years of running the campground, along with a tackle shop/mercantile store, the Glasers are ready for retirement.

The campground is currently pending for sale and the Glasers are putting the final pieces together to end their run in Salkum.

"We have enjoyed it, but we're ready to retire," Karen said. "My husband has some health issues and he's in a wheelchair, so we're ready to get our own little place. We're just going through the steps." The Glasers, who bought the campground from the original owners during the summer of 1988, were from Federal Way, an urban center of about 67,000 people at the time. Salkum had about 200 residents then, but it was an easy transition, said Glaser, who had worked in a city grocery store nearly her entire life.

"It's something we always wanted to do," Glaser said.

"We adjusted just fine. I don't know if I could go back up to Federal Way now with all the turmoil going on."

The campground was in somewhat disrepair when the Glasers bought it and they revamped the camping sites and tackle shop. The campground currently has 40 recreation sites, 30 for RV hookups and 10 for tents. It also offers two large, grassy areas for group camping. The campground has electricity, water, showers, tables and a dump station for RVs.

The tackle shop and grocery store offers everything a fisherman needs on their trip, including fishing licences, rods, reels, line, weights and lures. The small store also has groceries, beverages and snacks.

The main draw for campers is the fishing. It's located about a half-mile up Fuller Road from the Cowlitz River, which is known for its hot salmon fishery, early-winter and summer steelhead runs and plentiful trout. Don has been a fishing guide on the Cowlitz River since 1978.

The closest bend of the river to the campground has a public boat launch, as well as spots for bank fishing where Mill Creek drains into the river. They even post fishing reports at friendsofthecowlitz.org/category/fishing-reports.

There are plenty of other fishing opportunities nearby, as well, such as Mayfield Lake, which contains everything from largemouth bass to cutthroat trout. Kokanee salmon can be caught at RIffe Lake, and Swofford Pond is known for its bass, rainbow trout and channel catfish.

This summer was actually better than most, businesswise, Glaser said. They did have to close down for a month and a half when non-essential businesses were shuttered due to the COVID-19 pandemic, but when they opened back up, campers and anglers came back by the dozens. Glaser suspects it was due to everyone being quarantined at home for so long.

Now, this will likely be the last summer at the campground for the Glasers, so long as the pending sale goes through. They say they are ready for retirement and to let younger people come in, make some improvements and enjoy the solitude.

What Glaser will remember most about the campground is not the peaceful setting, not the awesome fishing nor the visiting deer and other wildlife that make their rounds. It's the people; customers who became friends over the years.

"Meeting people, working with people, helping people fish, getting them set up and showing them the Cowlitz River and Mayfield Lake," Glaser said. "That's what I'll remember and miss."

DearAbby

By Abigail Van Bui

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating a very sweet girl for the last four months, and I'm starting to have serious feelings for her. My children really like her, but she sat me down the other night and told me she's transgender. I'm crushed, and I don't know what to do. This blows my mind; please give me any guidance. I care a lot about this person, and I just want to cry. -- CRUSHED IN THE SOUTH

DEAR CRUSHED: You say you are starting to have serious feelings for this girl, who is not only sweet, but also HONEST. If you are worried what others might think if they find out she wasn't assigned female at birth, then she's not the girl for you. Because she has laid all her cards on the table, take this as an opportunity to have a series of frank conversations with her about what challenges might lie ahead for the both of you if this romance progresses.

DEAR ABBY: I found out a year ago that my wife of eight years had an affair for three years with my best friend. Two months ago I realized she is still contacting him. I found out because I went through her cell records. She said she was just texting him about how he ruined our life. Now I have no access to them, and I suspect she's using a text app so I won't know. She keeps her phone with her all the time.

I can't live like this, and I don't know what to do. I always let her do what she wanted and never had a concern before this. I was always laid-back, but now I can't stop thinking she is up to no good. How do I approach this with her? We have been to counseling. Every time I bring up her affair, she says our marriage will never work because of trust issues, and I agree. Please help. --OUT OF CHANCES IN FLORIDA

DEAR OUT: Your wife and best friend betrayed you, so your trust issues are well-founded. If she would like to stay married to you, she should not be hiding her cell-phone and texts from you. If she's unwilling to cooperate, then what she said is 100% correct -- your marriage WILL never work, and your next step should be to talk to an attorney.

DEAR ABBY: I had a baby a year ago. I'm 46, and my son's father just turned 50. We are looking to buy a house, but I am conflicted. We are not married, and it will be my money that we use for the down payment. I have expressed that I would like to be married before we buy the house, but nothing has happened. I have brought the subject up several times, but I now feel really nervous about his not following through. How should I proceed from here? -- DOWN PAYMENT DILEMMA IN NEW YORK of your baby keeps "forgetting" to address the fact that you want to be married is a red flag. It appears he is unwilling to make that commitment. Before moving forward with buying property with someone who is reluctant to make a commitment, it is extremely important that you discuss this with a lawyer. An attorney can help to ensure your financial interests will be protected. Until you have done that, keep your checkbook firmly CLOSED.

DEAR ABBY: I am about to be married to a wonderful man who has three teenagers from a previous marriage. His boys are 18 and 16, and his daughter is also 16. They have TERRIBLE table manners, which seem to be encouraged by their grandfather. My fiance has spoken to his dad regarding the unacceptable behavior, yet it continues.

When my fiance tries to enforce common table etiquette, the children ask why the change. Table manners were not part of their upbringing, and they don't see the importance. How do I -- or should I -- attempt to undo 18 years of poor habits? -- EMBAR-RASSED AT THE TABLE

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Table manners ARE important. They reveal a lot about someone's upbringing or lack of it. Not knowing the basics can negatively affect not only a person's social life, but also his or her career. You would be doing those young people a huge favor if you speak up and support your fiance in this.

Political power play

'The Comey Rule' premieres on Showtime

As Nov. 3 looms on the horizon, the U.S. presidential election campaign is in full swing. No matter which way you intend to vote, chances are that you have been inundated with news stories and all manner of political theories about the candidates and their parties. With only weeks to go before the big day, a new miniseries explores events surrounding the previous presidential election from the perspective of a key player.

Emmy winner Jeff Daniels ("The Newsroom") returns to television as FBI Director James Comey in the four-hour miniseries "The Comey Rule," premiering Sunday, Sept. 27, and concluding Monday, Sept. 28, on Showtime. Based on Comey's bestselling book "A Higher Loyalty," the production details recent historical events from Comey's perspective, including the FBI's Russia investigation and Comey's handling of the Hillary Clinton email controversy. The miniseries depicts the relationship between Comey and President Donald Trump (Brendan Gleeson, "Mr. Mercedes") and Comey's eventual dismissal from his post as the head of the FBI. Holly Hunter ("Saving Grace") also stars.

"The Comey Rule" was written and directed by Oscar-nominee Billy Ray ("Captain Phillips," 2013) and was filmed in Toronto, Canada, beginning in November 2019. Initially, it was scheduled to air after the 2020 presidential election, but Ray publicly decried the move to delay the broadcast and even went so far as to write a letter to the cast to apologize for the move. After Showtime's parent company, CBSViacom, changed its tune and rescheduled the miniseries for a September premiere, Ray explained why he felt it was important to air the show in the run-up to the election in an interview with Vanity Fair.

"Of course, I wanted this series to air before the 2020 elections," Ray said in a July article. "I think our democracy is on the line right now. And I wanted this series to be part of the conversation."

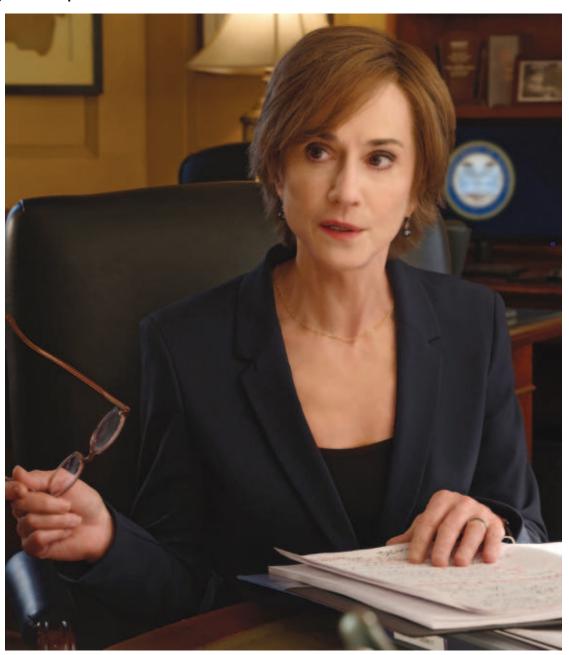

Considering the highly charged subject matter and its depiction of the sitting president, it's no doubt that the show will draw a lot of attention. No matter which side of the table you sit on, Comey is a controversial figure, to say the least. In 2013, President Obama — who is played by Kingsley Ben-Adir ("The OA") in "The Comey Rule" — named Comey the director of the FBI. During his tenure, Comey faced backlash from both Democrats and Republicans. Democrats criticized him for reopening the Clinton email investigation after previously determining that no charges were warranted. Days before the election, news of the renewed investigation was leaked, and many blamed Comey for Clinton's loss, despite the fact that three days before the election the FBI reiterated that charges were not warranted. On the flip side, many Republicans claimed that he planned to exonerate Clinton even before the investigation was complete. Then, of course, there was the FBI's Russia investigation, which looked at whether there was Russian interference in the 2016 United States presidential election.

"The Comey Rule" brings to life many of the major players involved in U.S. politics during that era. Luckily, producers secured a top-notch cast to do so. Daniels is known for such films as "Terms of Endearment" (1983), "Dumb and Dumber" (1994), "Looper" (2012) and "The Martian" (2015). TV fans may recognize him from his acclaimed role in HBO's political drama "The Newsroom," a role that earned him an Emmy along with Golden Globe and Screen Actors Guild Award nominations.

Irish actor Gleeson, who was reportedly initially reluctant to take on the role of Trump, is perhaps best known as Alastor "Mad Eye" Moody from the Harry Potter film franchise. His other film credits include "Braveheart" (1995), "Cold Mountain" (2003) and "Paddington 2" (2018), while his television work includes "Mr. Mercedes" and the 2009 TV film "Into the Storm," for which he won an Emmy. He's also won three IFTA Awards and two British Independent Film Awards.

Hunter plays acting U.S. attorney general Sally Yates, whom Trump fired just 10 days into his presidency. Hunter won an Oscar, a BAFTA Award, a Golden Globe and a Cannes Film Festival award for her role as Ada McGrath in 1993's "The Piano." On television, she was the star of TNT's "Saving Grace" from 2007 to 2010. She's earned seven Primetime Emmy nominations, winning twice — once in 1989 for "Roe vs. Wade" and again in 1993 for "The Positively True Adventures of the Alleged Texas Cheerleader-Murdering Mom."

Other notable castings include Michael Kelly ("House of Cards") as FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe, Jennifer Ehle ("Pride and Prejudice") as Comey's wife, Patrice, Peter Coyote ("A Walk to Remember," 2002) as former FBI director Robert Mueller, Scoot McNairy ("Halt and Catch Fire") as Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein, Oona Chaplin ("Game of Thrones") as FBI lawyer Lisa Page, Joe Lo Truglio ("Brooklyn Nine-Nine) as Attorney General Jeff Sessions, Michael Hyatt ("Snowfall") as former attorney general Loretta Lynch and Jonathan Banks ("Better Call Saul") as National Intelligence Director James Clapper.

Talented cast aside, there are those who will remain skeptical of the content of the miniseries. Some critics have already weighed in on the production. At press time, "The Comey Rule" showed an approval rating of 67% on the popular review aggregator Rotten Tomatoes. Daniel Fienberg of The Hollywood Reporter called the miniseries "uneven," while Daniel D'Addario of Variety called it "as self-satisfied as its subject."

In the end, though, viewers will make up their own minds, as they will at the polls in November. Watch Daniels as Comey in "The Comey Rule," premiering Sunday, Sept. 27, on Showtime.

A scene from "The Addams Family" By Jessica Gosse

"The Addams Family" (2019)

TV Media

In the early 1960s, an entire generation fell in love with a spooky and kooky family in the live-action television series "The Addams Family." Thirty years later, in the 1990s, the phenomenon was repeated when the acclaimed Addams Family movies starring Anjelica Huston ("Smash"), Christopher Lloyd ("Back to the Future," 1985), Christina Ricci ("Penelope," 2004) and Raul Julia ("Presumed Innocent," 1990) hit theaters. Now, once again, the eccentric and macabre family is back in the 2019 animated film coming to Hulu on Tuesday, Sept. 22. Charlize Theron ("The Old Guard," 2020) and Oscar Isaac ("A Most Violent Year," 2014) lend their voices to Morticia and Gomez Addams, who live in a Gothic mansion on a hill near the suburbs along with their two children, Wednesday (voiced by Chloë Grace Moretz, "If I Stay," 2014) and Pugsley (voiced by Finn Wolfhard, "It," 2017), as well as Grandma (voiced by Bette Midler, "Hocus Pocus," 1993), Uncle Fester (voiced by Nick Kroll, "The League"), cousin It (voiced by Snoop Dogg, "Starsky & Hutch," 2004) and their loyal butler, Lurch (voiced by Conrad Vernon, "Shrek," 2001). Despite being on the edge of the suburb, the family's home is technically part of the community. This doesn't sit well with reality TV host Margaux (voiced by Allison Janney, "Mom"), who is trying to build a perfect neighborhood and sees the Addams family as a blight on the community — she will stop at nothing to get rid of them. Tensions only rise between the two families when Wednesday befriends Margaux's daughter, Parker (voiced by Elsie Fisher, "Castle Rock"), who begins to adopt Wednesday's dark style, causing Margaux to come up with a devious plan to turn the entire neighborhood against the Addams family.

"The Haunted" (2020)

Thanks to decades of horror films and television shows, there are certain situations that, even in real life, make us pause before continuing on — too-quiet children describing strange people at night, oddly-timed animal migrations, and run-down, isolated old homes with mazes of mysterious hallways, for example, all of which happen to be present in this psychological terrorizer. In "The Haunted," available on Hulu on Sept. 20, a young caregiver named Emily (Sophie Stevens, "The Black Prince" 2017) finds an obviously haunted house when she arrives for her first night shift, and the creepy hallucinations of her charge, Arthur (Nick Bayly, "Vol-au-vent" 1996), an elderly man with dementia and an apparent interest in the occult, add to the creepy atmosphere. Over the course of the night, Emily begins to unravel secrets hidden within her patient's home, and the film culminates in an experience the horror-aficionados at Screamfest Review call "genuinely scary." Kirstie Steele ("Waterloo Road") also stars.

"If Loving You Is Wrong" Final Season

On Sept. 23, you can binge the entire fifth and final season of OWN's smash-hit primetime soap, written and directed by . film icon Tyler Perry ("House of Payne"). It premiered back in 2014, and the series just wrapped its last 12 episodes in June. "If Loving You Is Wrong" centers around five couples who live on the same street, and exposes how their lives and relationships tangle together — imagine a more diverse, middle-class "Desperate Housewives" that Oprah herself has endorsed. Edwina Findley Dickerson ("Shots Fired"), Heather Hemmens ("Roswell, New Mexico") and April Parker Jones ("Supergirl") headline the series' incredible ensemble cast, each of them well-versed in what it takes to make a fantastic TV drama. What would a soap opera be without scandal, secrets and torrid affairs? You get plenty of each throughout all five seasons of this series, which wraps everything up nicely with a shocking conclusion in the 102nd and final episode.

Kirstie Steele in "The Haunted"

The Twilight Saga

Hulu has made all five films of "The Twilight Saga" available to watch (or binge in one sitting, if you have 10 hours and a few boxes of tissues to spare), and you can stream them all now. The franchise's now-iconic couple, the quiet human girl Bella Swan (Kristen Stewart, "Charlie's Angels," 2019) and sparkling teenaged vampire Edward Cullen (Robert Pattinson, "Tenet," 2020), began their on-screen relationship in 2008 with the release of the simply-titled "Twilight," and, much like the best-selling series of novels on which the films were based, this film series took the world by storm. Over the course of half a decade, audiences were enraptured by Edward and Bella's story of romance and fantasy, mystery and heartbreak. "The Twilight Saga: New Moon" (2009), "The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 1" (2011), and finally "The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 2" (2012), are each filled to overflowing with beautiful scenery, high-fantasy action and reasons to yell, "Just get together already," at your TV screen.

By Jessica Gosse TV Media

"Utopia"

Inspired by the British series of the same name, this conspiracy thriller is set to premiere Friday, Sept. 25, on Prime. The show follows a group of people — Becky (Ashleigh LaThrop, "Fifty Shades Freed," 2018), Wilson (Desmin Borges, "You're the Worst"), Samantha (Jessica Rothe, "Forever My Girl," 2018) and Ian (Dan Byrd, "Cougar Town") — who, despite having never met in person, become online friends thanks to their shared love of a graphic novel called "Utopia," which depicts the creation of man-made viruses that can be used for biological warfare and ultimately lead to the end of the world. When the group meets up at a convention and discusses the novel, Samantha points out that it accurately predicted a number of diseases that have ravaged humanity. As she explains her belief that the comic books hold hidden meaning and predict humanity's downfall, the rest of the group laughs, thinking she's simply a paranoid conspiracy theorist. But, when some of their other friends with an interest in "Utopia" suddenly die, the group quickly realizes that Samantha's theories were right. Now, the ragtag group must fight for their own survival while working to bring down the corporation that is creating these viruses. Rainn Wilson ("The Office") and John Cusack ("Never Grow Old," 2019) also star in this intense new series.

"Judy" (2019)

Academy Award winner Renée Zellweger ("Chicago," 2002) stars as the legendary singer and actress Judy Garland in this biographical drama that joins the Prime lineup on Friday, Sept. 25. Based on Peter Quilter's stage play "End of the Rainbow," the film follows Garland in 1968, 30 years after the success of "The Wizard of Oz," as her career is beginning to dwindle and she is finding it harder and harder to take care of her two children. When she is offered a deal performing at the "Talk of the Town" nightclub in London, she makes the hard choice to leave her kids with her ex-husband and take the job so she can support them. As she takes on the five-week engagement, she struggles with the combined pressures of fame, parenthood and money problems, coping in the only way she knows how — alcohol, substance abuse and throwing herself into her latest marriage to her longtime friend Mickey Deans (Finn Wittrock, "American Horror Story").

"I'd Like to Be Alone Now" (2019)

John Dabach's ("Immortal," 2019) Kickstarted feature is available to stream now, and the indie family dramedy's low budget doesn't even come close to reflecting its quality. After his wife and three children die in a car accident, Kyle (Samm Levine, "Freaks and Geeks") wants to mourn the loss of his family in peace. Unfortunately, his remaining relatives and friends don't seem to know the meaning of peace and guiet. Kyle is forced to take extreme measures in his search for solitude in his own home, leaving his brothers, parents, friends and housekeeper to figure out their own broken lives without him. With no spectacular effects or distracting backdrops to fall back on, the ensemble cast is what drives this film: Maria Conchita Alonso ("The I-Land"), Vanessa Lengies ("Second Chance"), Spencer Grammer ("Tell Me a Story"), David Fynn ("Vanity Fair") and Jack McGee ("Pitch") get to flex their acting chops in this dialog-heavy, character-driven passion project.

"The Last House On the Left" (1972)

If you know horror, you know Wes Craven, creator of genre-defining franchises "A Nightmare on Elm Street" and "Scream," and plenty of classic spinetinglers in between. Inspired by a Swedish film released in 1960, Craven's career hit the ground running with "The Last House on the Left," his directorial debut. His infamously dark and brutal tale of revenge was created to show the truth of violence and death rather than the glamourized version that Hollywood so often portrays. Of course, controversy arose due to the too-real-for-comfort graphic visuals and plot, resulting in extreme editing and even the banning of screenings around the world, but Craven's dark realism still made the film a massive box office hit. Sandra Peabody ("Teenage Hitchhikers," 1974) and Lucy Grantham ("Loops," 1973) star as Mari and Phyllis, two young women who are tortured at the hands of three men. When the men wind up at Mari's home, her parents use a few horrifying clues to exact merciless revenge on their daughter's killers. "The Last House on the Left" is horror at its most horrific, and if you've got the stomach for it, you can stream it now.

Henry Cavill, Millie Bobby Brown and Sam Clafin star in "Enola Holmes"

"Enola Holmes" (2020)

Everyone is familiar with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's world-famous detective Sherlock Holmes, but on Wednesday, Sept. 23, the world is introduced to his rebellious teenage sister, Enola (Millie Bobby Brown, "Stranger Things"), as this action-packed film premieres on Netflix. Raised in the countryside by her eccentric mother, Eudoria (Helena Bonham Carter, "The Crown"), Enola's upbringing was far from standard. Rather than learning skills such as embroidery and how to be a "proper lady," she learned about science and observation and how to fight (whether it be hand-to-hand or with a sword). However, her happy life is suddenly changed when, on her 16th birthday, she wakes up to discover that her mother has disappeared, leaving behind only an assortment of unusual gifts. Now, Enola is placed in the care of her genius (and famous) brothers, Sherlock (Henry Cavill, "Justice League," 2017) and Mycroft (Sam Clafin, "Me Before You," 2016). Despite having spent minimal time with them in the past, Enola is sure that her brothers will lend their skills to helping her find their mother. Unfortunately, it quickly becomes clear they have no intention of helping her, but rather intend to ship her off to finishing school so she can become a proper lady.

Realizing she's on her own, Enola does the only thing she can; she runs away from finishing school and uses her own sleuthing skills to find her mother before her brothers can track her down and bring her back. Based on the series of novels by Nancy Springer, don't miss this intriguing film when it premieres this Wednesday.

"The Good Place" Season 4

This feel-good series came to an end early this year, and you can finally stream the final season starting Saturday, Sept. 26. After her death, Eleanor, a mean, selfish and self-described "Arizona trash bag," wonderfully portrayed by Kristen Bell ("Veronica Mars"), wakes up in a Heaven-like utopia designed by an immortal architect to reward her righteous life. She soon realizes that she's there by mistake and tries to remedy her past behavior, and retroactively earn her reward, by becoming a better and more ethical person. What better place could there be to learn how to be good? She is in The Good Place, after all, which is filled with good people. Fans of the series are familiar with the next big reveal, but on the off chance that you haven't jumped into the series yet, I'll leave out the details. Suffice it to say, there are many unexpected moments along the way, and our imperfect protagonist meets up with a bevy of interesting characters, demons and celestial beings and explores plenty of ethical and philosophical questions in a humorous way. Jameela Jamil ("The Misery Index"), William Jackson Harper ("Dark Waters," 2019), Manny Jacinto "The Romeo Section"), D'Arcy Carden ("Barry") and the fabulous Ted Danson ("CSI: Cyber") also star, and all four seasons of this series are a true delight.

"Jack Whitehall: Travels With My Father" Season 3

Part travel documentary, part comedy, part family adventure, the third sea-

title suggests, British comedian Jack Whitehall takes his dad, Michael, on various trips around the world, and records every experience, however awkward and ridiculous. Season 1 saw the Whitehalls take on Southeast Asia, including Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand. Season 2 found the pair traveling across Europe, hitting up Germany, Romania, Moldova, Turkey and more. This time around, the father and son are in the American west, and as Jack tries to show his dad around, Michael does what he can to take over the trip, as usual. Catch the Whitehalls' adventures in American when the third season premieres this week.

hollywood O&A

By Adam Thomlison TV Media

Q: I've been trying to rewatch "My So-Called Life," but I can only find one season. Wasn't there more?

A: It may be hard to believe that "My So-Called Life," which has had such a large impact on fans and on wider popular culture, had such a brief run. But it did, indeed, air just a single season, from 1994 to 1995 on ABC. So cherish what you've found.

The uninitiated are probably asking themselves: If the show was that good, why did it get canceled?

The answer may be one of the rare true cases of the old cliche: It was ahead of its time.

The series was built around a very young Claire Danes ("Homeland") dealing with the various trials facing the modern teenager, and it was groundbreaking for the seriousness with which it treated those problems.

In an oral history published by Elle magazine in 2016, creator Winnie Holzman said the network canceled it because the executives never understood the show or its audience.

"The network was on the fence about the show pretty much the whole time. They would say, 'Who is the show for?' Like, 'Is it for adults, is it for teens?' They were puzzled by that."

However, it apparently became clear that there was value in telling young-adult stories with gravity, but not in time to save "My So-Called Life." Within a few years, shows such as "Dawson's Creek" and "Felicity" were on the air, telling the same sorts of stories that seemed adult and adolescent at the same time.

TV megaproducer and writer Greg Berlanti got his start working on "Dawson's Creek," and he got flowery (the way writers do) in describing the show's influence (in an interview for yet another oral history, this one for Entertainment Weekly).

"I think about that line in 'StarWars,' when Obi-Wan Kenobi tells Darth Vader, 'If you strike me down, I shall become more powerful than you can possibly imagine.' That's exactly what happened here."

Indeed, he's not the only one to suggest that the short-run given to "My So-Called Life" was, in hindsight, a blessing.

"I do think we are grateful for it being such a short-lived and kind of perfect thing that happened under glass, in a way," Devon Gummersall, who played boy-next-door Brian on the series, said.

Q:What's Robert Taylor doing now that "Longmire's" done?

A: He's mostly been focusing on the big screen, plus one TV role "Longmire" fans might be interested in.

"Longmire" was beloved for a lot of reasons, but maybe most of all for helping breathe new life into the western genre. And Robert Taylor, who played Walt Longmire, picked maybe the most western series of all for his next smallscreen appearance.

It was, however, a brief one. He appeared in a single episode of "Dolly Parton's Heartstrings," an eight-episode miniseries that dramatized the stories of some of Dolly's biggest songs. Taylor played Reverend Covern in the episode based on "Down From Dover" (one of her darker tracks, lyrically).

Besides that, it's been mostly a string of pretty fun (and occasionally highprofile) movie projects.
