Southwest Washington's Blueberry Season Is in Full Swing

LOCAL FARMS: New Sanitation Measures but Still Sweet Fun Awaits Families

By Carrina Stanton For The Chronicle

While it may have felt like strawberries and raspberries were gone as soon as they were available this year, local blueberry growers want you to know there's plenty of their fruit to go around.

"It's the peak of the season right now," said Wisten Aldrich, who owns Aldrich Berry Farm and Nursery in Mossyrock with her husband, Glenn. "We probably have another five weeks so there's plenty of time to get out to the local places with berries."

This is a good year for blueberries, said Jeff Bennight, owner of Bunker Creek Berry Patch in Adna. The 5-acre blueberry farm has offered berries for about six years now and Bennight said this is the best crop they've had yet. They opened to the public about two weeks ago and expect to have at least a few more weeks of availability before they're gone. Bennight said they have seen a lot of families come by, many looking for summer fun that's still safe and blueberry picking fits the bill, he said.

"With our u-pick, it's pretty easy to work with good practices," Bennight said. "We're outside and it's easy to social distance because there's plenty of space."

At Black River Blues in Rochester, the other local berry farm offering a u-pick option, handwashing stations have been added and picking buckets are sanitized between users and lined with a plastic bag for an added layer of protection. Owner Nik Pitharoulis, who has been offering u-pick at the 83-year-old farm since 2006, said since they are a large farm, social distancing is easy. And there are so many benefits to bringing the family to the farm besides the reward of fresh berries, he said.

"I just think it's a good, community thing, especially when they bring the kids," Pitharoulis said, about what he enjoys about offering customers the chance to pick their own blueberries. "It's first-hand experience. The kids get to see the bushes and understand that berries don't just come from supermarket clamshells."

Customers should be prepared for things to be a little different at their local blueberry farm this year because of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. Agricultural businesses were among those deemed essential, even during shut-downs, so their operations continued. But screening, social distancing and sanitizing measures affected them in much the same way they have every other sector.

At Pan-American Blueberry Growers in Mossyrock, their farmstand has been open for a few weeks, offering fresh-picked berries as well as blueberry products such as frozen pies and honey and gift items. Heather Edgar of Pan-American Blueberry Growers said customers will notice Plexiglas added to provide more distancing between workers and customers. Pan-American employees are required to wear masks and to sanitize between each customer and masks are required of all customers as well.

"A lot of people come and in and see our mandatory mask signs and they're very happy about it," Edgar said. "That makes us feel good."

Across Highway 12 at Aldrich Berry Farm and Nursery, Aldrich said they have also stepped up sanitation, social distancing and masking as required by the state. She said they previously would allow customers to watch their berry sorting machine from fairly close up as long as they didn't touch it, but now have added Plexiglas to make "customer"

From page 4..... and "employee" sides of the building. They also created a separate entrance and exit as well as adding directional arrows on the floors.

> "It's a huge barn so it's like being outside and you can easily social distance," Aldrich said. "And people have been really courteous, generally. If sometime is in the barn shopping, most people will wait outside until they are done."

Carrina Stanton / For The Chronicle Other types of berries may have had relatively short seasons this year but blueberry season is in full swing this year with at least a few weeks left to go.

Entertainment EXTRA!|August 7 - 13, 2020

DEAR ABBY: My beautiful wife just passed away from ovarian cancer. She was only 48. She was my perfect life partner for 28 years and everything in the world to me. We shared every day together. I didn't have any hobbies or guy friends; all I ever wanted was to be with her.

I'm not asking for help with grief, as there is no getting over what happened. But I became so emotionally dependent on her that I find myself like an addict in withdrawal. Because of this, I'm afraid I will appear to be desperate if I even talk to another woman. I need someone in my life. I just don't know how to get from hollow to whole again.

Please help me figure out how to let someone know I would be a good and faithful partner without hanging a sign around my neck that says "Desperate!" — IN NEED OF SOMEONE

DEAR IN NEED: Allow me to offer my deepest sympathy for the loss of your beloved wife, but please don't jump the gun. Before searching for another wife, it's important you figure out the boundary between where you left off and your wife began.

While the closeness you shared was a special gift, I urge you to allow yourself time to heal from this great loss. By that, I am not implying that you should go into seclusion. Quite the contrary. But instead of searching for someone to fill the hole in your life, it would be healthier to start by looking for friends. Friends are easy to talk to, and from friendships deeper relationships develop.

Explore activities that interest you, whether they be sports-related, continuing your education, the arts, volunteer work. If you get stuck, ask for a referral to a grief support group or a therapist. You WILL get through this, but it will take time for the ache to subside. Have faith, accept it, go slow and you won't regret it.

DEAR ABBY: My fiance, "Jay," has a 14-year-old daughter who schooling during By Abigail Van Buren the guarantine,

and she refuses to put pants on. When we ask her to, she gets upset. She isn't built like the average teenager. Abby, she's 5'10'' and weighs 200 pounds, so it's like seeing a grown woman in her underwear.

I think it's inappropriate for a young woman her age to be unwilling to dress herself fully, and I don't like seeing her like that every time I go to their house. Jay doesn't notice. He says it doesn't bother him, and he doesn't mind when I ask her to put shorts on. I don't feel it's my place at this point to dictate what she wears, but I'm uncomfortable. I don't know if I'm crossing a line or if it's normal to feel this way. Help! — DIDN'T THINK I WAS A PRUDE

DEAR DIDN'T: Your fiance is OK with his daughter's attire in their home. If your engagement to Jay leads to marriage, you will be living there permanently, so your opinion should be respected. Someone has to have "the talk" with your fiance's daughter about the fact she's no longer a child; she has become a young woman. The person to do that is her father. The message would be better coming from him because you're not her parent, and it may help you avoid being perceived as the "wicked stepmother-to-be."

DEAR ABBY: My son was murdered four years ago by a supposed friend. Despite a 10-year sentence, the murderer was released from prison this month.

The perpetrator and my son had some mutual friends. When I go onto the convicted manslaughterer's Facebook page, he has many people congratulating and welcoming him home.

The murderer has not once apologized or shown remorse. He was on home incarceration for six months before he was sentenced for manslaughter, and during that time, he impregnated his girlfriend instead of thinking about the devastation he's caused my family. My son will NEVER have a family.

Instead of announcing to his Facebook friends and family that he's on his way home and that he is home, I feel he should keep his mouth shut and live a quiet life. I cannot believe that murderers and rapists receive respect and congratulations once they reenter society. Do people not recognize the devastation that has been caused to surviving family members of the victim? Or do they no longer care until something like this affects them and their families? — HURT AGAIN IN KENTUCKY

DEAR HURT AGAIN: Please accept my sympathy for the tragic loss of your son. Nothing can take away the pain of losing a child, let alone at the hand of another person. The family and friends of the person who killed your son appear to have lost sight of the reason for his incarceration. But viewed from another perspective, they are happy to have their loved one back with them, which is why they are posting welcome messages.

A resource that might help you is the National Organization of Parents of Murdered Children Inc. You can find it by going to pomc. com. I hope you will give it a try. My heart goes out to you.

DEAR ABBY: Sometimes the simplest situations make me wonder the most. Recently we needed to use the local ATM. When we drove by, we could see it was being filled by an armored truck. My husband said I should get in line. I looked around and saw other people waiting in their cars, so I thought I would do the same. My husband repeated that I should get out and get in line. Faced with the choice of standing in line or being nagged by my husband, I chose the former and was the first person to form a line.

After 20 minutes standing there and reading the news on my phone, the ATM guards seemed to be finished. That's when a woman approached me and said she had been waiting longer than me, albeit in her car, and I would have to go to the end of the line. I ignored her.

Soon, a guard motioned to me that the ATM was available. As I was making my withdrawal, I could hear the woman say to the others now lined up behind her that I had jumped the line and she called me an expletive, which two others in line repeated. Was I wrong to have stood my ground, or should I have moved to the back? — WAITING IN TEXAS

DEAR WAITING: If you were the first person to stand at the ATM while others chose to wait in the comfort of their vehicles, you owed no one an apology. The person who was out of line (literally) was the woman who called you an expletive, and you were right to ignore her.

DEAR ABBY: I have one child, a daughter, "Anna," I adopted at 19 months. She's 41 now and has two small children. She had a normal upbringing, although her father and I divorced when she was 9. She has chosen to not have a relationship with him as an adult. Anna has never married, nor has she been in a relationship for longer than four or five months. According to a few counselors I have seen, she has attachment disorder.

Anna is very difficult. She's mean, says hateful things and is an angry young woman. She takes no responsibility for any of her actions, and therefore cannot keep a job, friends, etc. for more than a few months. She is also extremely negative. If I try to say anything, she gets angry, starts cussing, yelling and slinging hate, and stops contacting me for weeks at a time. We have nothing in common. We live in separate states, but I see her about a half-dozen times a year. When I do, I tiptoe around on eggshells because of her short fuse. Her attitude is starting to rub off on her boys.

ed all those years ago when I adopted her. I miss who I thought she would become. Is there anything I can do without completely alienating myself from my grandsons, which would break my heart? — TIPTOEING ON EGG-SHELLS

DEAR TIPTOEING: I am sorry your adoption did not turn out as you envisioned. Your daughter is clearly troubled, and it is not surprising that her attitude has begun to affect her boys. It is time you accept that, as much as you wish to, you cannot change another person, and there's nothing you can do to "fix" her.

You mentioned that you visit her every two months. Perhaps you should consider visiting fewer times than that. Ask if she would let the grandkids come and visit Grandma occasionally. However, if she isn't receptive, refusing to engage with her is the price you will have to pay for seeing them and trying to cement a relationship with them.

Facing off 'We Hunt Together' redefines crime duos

By Rachel Jones TV Media

What happens when a witty, drop-dead charming possible psychopath meets a broke, soft-hearted and gullible former child soldier? Hermione Corfield ("Sea Fever," 2019) plays the former, Freddy, while Dipo Ola ("Baghdad Central") plays the latter, Baba – together, they make a lustful and deadly duo. Sparks fly, both literally and figuratively, in the new six-episode police drama "We Hunt Together."

Premiering Sunday, Aug. 9, on Showtime, the series has an exceptional cast, which includes Eve Myles ("Keeping Faith") as Detective Sergeant Lola Franks and Babou Ceesay ("Dark Money") as Detective Investigator Mendy.

"We Hunt Together" is a compelling spin on the traditional cat-andmouse chase and offers a deep, dark look into just how fatal the right combination of sexual attraction and emotional exploitation can be. As Franks and Mendy track the deadly Freddy and Baba, you'll find yourself at the edge of your seat frequently.

Though the cat-and-mouse dynamic is central, it's not as cut and dried as other stories of the same genre. Adding a crucial dimension to the series is the tricky relationship between Franks and Mendy. They find themselves working together on a high-profile murder case, and though their co-operation is vital to their success, Mendy's background in police anti-corruption doesn't sit well with Franks. The idea that people can never be truly held accountable for their actions plaques Franks, and it's a conviction that Mendy finds troubling. Their conflicting views create complications throughout the investigation, and the situation is further complicated by Franks' difficulty overcoming her own personal issues.

Ultimately, this is the kind of crime drama that gets you rooting for the hunters and the hunted at the same time. You'll fall for Franks and Mendy as the good guys, of course, but Freddy and Baba are oddly endearing, too, and their quirks and vulnerabilities will reel you in. Layered characters and some seriously shocking twists really elevate this series.

The rest of the cast includes guest actors Nigel Harman ("Mount Pleasant"), Kris Marshall ("Trick or Treat," 2019), Steffan Rhodri ("Last Summer," 2018), Vicki Pepperdine ("The Windsors"), Neil Stuke ("Silk") and Perry Fitzpatrick ("I Am").

The series premiered in the U.K. back in May, and the reviews have been exceptional. Fans and critics lauded the performances of the four lead actors, the complexity of the characters, the compelling plotlines and the overall production value of the series. It's no wonder Showtime acquired the rights to broadcast the series on this side of the pond.

"We Hunt Together" was penned by Gaby Hull, whose credits include the 2019 hit series "Cheat," which also revolved around a relationship that was as steamy as it was criminal. In "Cheat," Hull focused on the toxic psychology between a university professor and her student. In "We Hunt Together," Hull transforms the same energy into an unorthodox suspense drama driven by a hunting game between two couples on opposing ends of the legal spectrum. The new series breaks long-held traditions and takes the genre to a whole new level.

Hull has openly discussed using his fascination with the concept of love - not necessarily romantic - and how it disrupts patterns of dysfunction and abuse to shape his stories. He has stated that "We Hunt Together" is a peculiar story that requires a thematic approach. Having a clear vision of how the story ends helped him make the script as airtight as possible. In fact, he says it's the most effective way to do it: ensuring procedural blocks are well established throughout the plot is critical, and engaging hooks and procedural beats keep people craving more, while the cat-and-mouse game grips the audience the entire time.

"We Hunt Together" is directed by Carl Tibbetts, who was also one of the directors of the 2019 Amazon Prime series "The Feed" and 2018's BBC miniseries "The Woman in White." Tibbetts also worked on the second season of "The Tunnel," featuring Stephen Dillane ("Game of Thrones"), AMC's "Humans" and the Emmy-nominated Netflix series "Hemlock Grove."

"We Hunt Together" is executiveproduced by Philippa Collie Cous-

Dipo Ola stars in "We Hunt Together"

ins for UKTV and BAFTA-winning Hilary Salmon, Anne Pivcevic and Esther Springer for BBC Studios, with Lisa Osborne as series producer. After "Traces," the crime series is the second original scripted drama of its kind to be commissioned for Alibi. It's also the newest on UKTV's widening range of scripted series, which includes "Flack," featuring Oscar winner Anna Paquin ("The Irishman," 2019). "Flack" aired early this year in the U.S. on Pop.

UKTV's drama commissioner, Philippa Collie Cousins, has compared "We Hunt Together" to the 1992 Tony Scott classic "True Romance," penned by Quentin Tarantino ("Once Upon ATime ... In Hollywood," 2019). In her own words, Collie Cousins describes the drama as a "fresh, funny and dark roller-coaster ride."

Don't miss the chance to get on this wild ride when "We hunt Together" premieres Sunday, Aug. 9, on Showtime.

"Whitechapel"

The Whitechapel district of London is perhaps best known for being the killing ground of infamous serial killer Jack the Ripper. The pair quickly realizes that this isn't just an open-andshut case, and they find themselves bringing in Edward Buchan (Steve Pemberton, "Inside No. 9"), a historical crime expert and self-proclaimed Ripperologist, to consult on the case.

"Whitechapel" combines the intrigue of the original case and Victorian style with modernism and dark humor to create a riveting series that will have you at the edge of your seat. Binge all four seasons of this dramatic series now, on Hulu.

"Slay the Dragon" (2020)

This documentary lands on Hulu

on Thursday, Aug. 6, and if you're into politics or concerned about the state of American democracy, this is one you won't want to miss. "Slay the Dragon" delves into the murky waters of gerrymandering – the act of manipulating electoral boundaries to give a particular political party an advantage – and even the most jaded of viewers will be shocked at how brazen the perpetrators of this manipulation can be. The film shines a light on the problem and makes a complex, dense subject surprisingly accessible, and while the overall message is that there is something very wrong with the system, it also gives cause for hope – the film highlights those fighting for change and lays out the ways in which we can join that fight. Don't miss this illuminating documentary when it premieres this week.

The cast of "The Middle"

By Breanna Henry TV Media

"The Middle"

With the filming and production of many series currently delayed due to the coronavirus pandemic, now is a perfect time to rewatch classic sitcoms. All nine seasons of the family comedy "The Middle" are available now on Prime and are sure to keep you laughing through whatever 2020 throws at us next. The series follows the hilarious misadventures of the somewhat dysfunctional Heck family as they go through life in a small town in Indiana. Comedians Neil Flynn (most famous for his iconic role as Janitor in "Scrubs") and Patricia Heaton ("Everybody Love's Raymond") lead the series as Mike and Frankie Heck, the parents of three extremely different children – Axl (Charlie McDermott, "Instant Family," 2018), their oldest son, who is popular and athletic; Sue (Eden Sher, "Veronica Mars: The Movie," 2014), their enthusiastic yet horribly awkward daughter; and Brick (Atticus Shaffer, "The Unborn," 2009), their youngest, who is incredibly intelligent but also has some rather peculiar habits. Together, the family faces a wide range of problems from Mike and Frankie trying to manage the family budget and Sue's constant attempts to fit in, to first loves, holiday chaos and forgotten birthdays and anniversaries. With episodes lasting only a halfhour each, and nine seasons worth of content, this deeply relatable sitcom is perfect for binge-watching.

"Train to Busan" (2016)

South Korean director Yeon Sang-ho ("The Fake," 2013) brought the zombie movie genre back from the dead with this critically-praised film that is a must-see for movie fans of all sorts. Seok-woo (Gong Yoo, "Guardian: The Lonely and Great God") is a cynical, workaholic hedge-fund manager as well as an absentee father to his young daughter, Soo-an (Su-an Kim, "The Battleship Island," 2017). Soo-an wants to spend her birthday in Busan with her mother rather than the father who hardly seems to notice her, and after a moment of clarity, Seok-woo decides to grant his daughter's wish and boards the titular train to Busan. Aboard the train, we meet a colorful cast of characters, namely a high school baseball team, two elderly sisters, a homeless man and tough guy Sang-hwa (Dong-seok Ma, "The Gangster, the Cop, the Devil," 2019) and his pregnant wife. Most of the film takes place in the confines of the train as it is slowly overrun but remains in operation as the world outside descends into madness. As soon as the first "zombie" appears on screen, you can feel how this film is different. South Korea has fewer guns per capita than any other developed nation, headshots aren't exactly an option for a group of average folks on a train. Aside from stellar performances, fantastic makeup and, spectacular special effects and action unlike any other film in the genre, "Train to Busan" has so much heart that you end up loving every single character almost as much as the painfully adorable Soo-an. You can watch the film on Amazon Prime now, and if you're ready to breathe new life into the overworked genre of reanimated, brain-gobbling monsters, this is the film for you.

"The Night Manager"

BBC One's star-studded, actionpacked drama is now available to binge on Prime, and the six-episode series based on John le Carré's novel of the same name has wowed audiences and critics alike, earning awards and nominations around the world. If the thrill of Tom Hiddleston ("Avengers: Endgame," 2019) in expensive, well-fitted suits (and sometimes nothing at all) doesn't do it for you, perhaps one of the most incredible, villainous performances in Hugh Laurie's ("House") career will be. A soldier-turned-hotel manager named Jonathan Pine (Hiddleston) is tasked with infiltrating the operations of a high-profile arms dealer (Laurie). The worldwide acclaim for the series makes sense, as it takes place everywhere from London and Switzerland to Istanbul, Syria, Egypt and Spain. The settings are gorgeous, the cast and costumes scream "money," and the drama is absolute spy-genre gold. The two leads put forth captivating performances, and their co-stars Olivia Colman ("The Crown"), Elizabeth Debicki ("The Great Gatsby," 2013) and Alistair Petrie ("Rogue One," 2016) only add to the joy of the ride. If you're still part of the minority who hasn't seen this smash-hit series yet, you can catch it all on Prime now.

"Sam Jay: 3 in the Morning"

The Emmy-nominated comedy writer Sam Jay ("Saturday Night Live") gets her own Netflix original stand-up comedy special premiering Tuesday, Aug. 4, on the streamer. Jay has had small roles in a variety of television series but gained acknowledgment as a stand-up comedian when she was featured in an episode of Netflix's "The Comedy Lineup." The Boston native had previously released an album of her stand-up performances called "Donna's Daughter," and she has garnered acclaim for her candid, satirical commentary on issues ranging from Donald Trump and the #MeToo movement to her personal experiences as a gay woman.

"The Rain" Season 3

On Thursday, Aug. 6, this Danish postapocalyptic series returns to Netflix for its third and final season. Back in Season 1, viewers were introduced to siblings Simone (Alba August, "Becoming Astrid," 2018) and Rasmus (Lucas Lynggaard Tonnesen, "Tidsrejsen"), who managed to escape a deadly virus that wiped out the majority of Scandanavia by hiding out in a bunker. After six years, the siblings finally emerged from the bunker in order to search for their father, a scientist who could possibly hold the cure to the virus, but they guickly discovered that all forms of civilization are long gone. Against all odds, the two set out on a cross-country journey to find their father, teaming up with a group of fellow teenage survivors – Martin (Mikkel Boe Folsgaard, "The Legacy"), Patrick (Lukas Lokken, "One-Two-Three Now!," 2016), Lea (Jessica Dinnage, "Ninna," 2019), Sten (Johannes Kuhnke, "The Birdcatcher," 2019) and Jean (Sonny Lindberg, "Anti," 2016). Throughout their journey, the teens have learned time and again that, even in a postapocalyptic world, you can't avoid the struggles of adolescence. Be sure to catch the thrilling final season of this drama when it premieres on the streamer this Thursday.

"Selling Sunset" Season 3

Jason and Brett Oppenheim take the lead as the owners of the Los Angeles real estate brokerage firm the Oppenheim Group in the third season of this reality series premiering Friday, Aug. 7, on Netflix. Between their clientele (which ranges from billionaires to celebrities), the egos of the on-staff realtors and all the excitement of their personal lives, this series delivers plenty of binge-worthy drama. While Jason and Brett may run the company, the real drama revolves around their team – Chrishell Stause, Christine Quinn, Maya Vander, Mary Fitzgerald, Heather Young and Amanza Smith. The girls all walk a fine line between being the best of friends and stabbing each other in the back to get ahead. Previous seasons have seen lots of intense situations, from relationships to multimillion-dollar deals. This season is sure to see the stakes get even higher as Christine's wedding comes together, despite mounting tension between her and her supposed best friend, Mary, and Chrishell divorces

"Tales of Arcadia: Wizards"

Guillermo del Toro's ("The Shape of Water," 2017) epic animated trilogy comes to a close with the premiere of this series on Friday, Aug. 7, on Netflix. This installment features the voice of Colin O'Donoghue ("Once Upon ATime") as Douxie, a wizardin-training who travels back to the medieval ages and the realm of Camelot. As the final chapter in the saga, "Wizards" melds wizardry with the magical worlds of trolls and aliens established in the first two series ("TrollHunters" and "3Below"). The fate of the now-converged magical realms rests in Douxie's hands as he serves under Merlin (voiced by David Bradley of the Harry Potter films), and an epic battle for control of all magic begins. Returning to lend their voices to their original roles are Emile Hirsch ("The Girl Next Door." 2004). Diego Luna ("Narcos: Mexico"), Lena Headey ("Game of Thrones"), Mark Hamill ("Star Wars: Episode IV - A New Hope," 1977) and Emmy winner Kelsey Grammer ("Frasier").

Q: Why do I know the guy who played Bill, Eve's boss/mentor, in the first few episodes of "Killing Eve"? He looks so familiar.

A: You may be having trouble placing him because he's a bit out of context on "Killing Eve" - David Haig is not known as a spy-action guy.

He is, however, known as a topnotch straight man, bringing a reminder of what normal people are like into worlds full of whimsical weirdos. In that sense, he's playing to type in "Killing Eve," which also stars Sandra Oh ("Grey's Anato-my") and Jodie Comer ("Doctor Foster: A Woman Scorned").

If context is the issue, try picturing him standing next to Hugh Grant and you'll probably remember why you know him.

Haig's best-known roles (to North Americans, anyway) are his films with Hugh Grant, starting with the greatest one, the genre-"Four Weddings and a Funeral." Haig played Bernard, a character introduced as a guest at the first wedding and the groom at the second.

Eight years later, he reunited with Grant for another romcom, "Two Weeks Notice" (2002), playing Grant's unpleasant older brother. In 2016, he joined Grant yet again for the comedy "Florence Foster Jenkins," as the titular Florence's vocal coach (who helps enable her fantasy of becoming an opera singer despite knowing she has no talent).

Despite this big-screen success, most of his work has actually been on television (and in British live theater, but that's not likely why you know him). He had a fiveepisode run on "Penny Dreadful" in 2015, and in 2009 did arcs on a couple of beloved shows, "Doc Martin" and "The Thick of It."

Q: Can you tell me if the rumors about a "Wicked" movie are actually going to result in a production?

A: Well, all the talk has already resulted in "a production," but will it be a finished production? (Probably, but I thought I'd add some suspense.)

Universal Pictures has acquired the rights to produce it, which, in the case of a well-known property such as the Broadway musical smash "Wicked," is probably the biggest piece.

Granted, there has been some trouble with the release date - it was originally slated for Christmas 2019 but was moved back to Christmas 2021, and now even that's been scrubbed. But even penciling in a Christmas release date is a major commitment in the film business.

Don't read too much into it no longer having a release date, though - this is due to the pandemic-related production delays that have injected uncertainty into every aspect of the business. Even semi-completed films have been taken off the schedule until things settle down a little.
