Dental Coverage

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) estimates that 108 million Americans do not have dental insurance. This is highly unfortunate in light of the fact that the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) reports that about one-quarter of Americans 65 and older have lost their teeth, and one-third have untreated tooth decay. Yet, Medicare has never covered teeth cleanings, fillings, dental x-rays, or exams. The good news is that the Affordable Care Act (ACA) provides dental coverage as an "essential benefit," meaning that insurers must offer insurance plans on state and federal exchange websites that make dental coverage available for people under 18, either as part of the health plan or as a separate plan.

P.S. Medicaid, which provides health insurance to low-income people on the state level, must offer dental benefits to children.

IRS Urges Taxpayers to Choose a Tax Preparer Wisely for the Filing Season Ahead

More than half of taxpayers hire a professional when it's time to file a tax return. Even if you don't prepare your own Form 1040, you're still legally responsible for what is on it.

A tax return preparer is trusted with your most personal information. They know about your marriage, your income, your children and your Social Security numbers — all of the sensitive details of your financial life. If you pay someone to prepare your federal income tax return, the IRS urges you to choose that person wisely. To do that, take some time to understand a few essentials.

Most tax return preparers provide outstanding service. However, each year, some taxpayers are hurt financially because they choose the wrong tax return preparer. Well-intentioned taxpayers can be misled by preparers who don't understand taxes or who mislead people into taking credits or deductions they aren't entitled to in order to increase their fee. Every year, these types of tax preparers face everything from penalties to even jail time for defrauding their clients.

Here are a few tips to keep in mind when choosing a tax preparer:

Check to be sure the preparer has an IRS Preparer Tax Identification Number (PTIN). Anyone with a valid 2015 PTIN is authorized to prepare federal tax returns. Tax return preparers, however, have differing levels of skills, education and expertise. An important difference in the types of practitioners is "representation rights."

Ask the tax preparer if they have a professional credential (enrolled agent, certified public accountant, or attorney), belong to a professional organization or attend continuing education classes. A number of tax law changes, including the Affordable Care Act provisions, can be complex. A competent tax professional needs to be up-to-date in these matters. Tax return preparers aren't required to have a professional credential, but make sure you understand the qualifications of the preparer you select.

Check on the service fees upfront. Avoid preparers who base their fee on a percentage of your refund or those who say they can get larger refunds than others can.

Always make sure any refund due is sent to you or deposited into your bank account. Taxpayers should not deposit their refund into a preparer's bank account.

Make sure your preparer offers IRS e-file and ask that your return be submitted to the IRS electronically. Any tax professional who gets paid to prepare and file more than 10 returns generally must file the returns electronically. It's the safest and most accurate way to file a return, whether you do it alone or pay someone to prepare and file for you.

Make sure the preparer will be available. Make sure you'll be able to contact the tax preparer after you file your return — even after the April 15 due date. This may be helpful in the event questions come up about your tax return.

Provide records and receipts. Good preparers will ask to see your records and receipts. They'll ask you questions to determine your total income, deductions, tax credits and other items. Do not rely on a preparer who is willing to e-file your return using your last pay stub instead of your Form W-2.

This is against IRS e-file rules.

Never sign a blank return. Don't use a tax preparer that asks you to sign an incomplete or blank tax form.

Review your return before signing. Before you sign your tax return, review it and ask questions if something is not clear. Make sure you're comfortable with the accuracy of the return before you sign it. Ensure the preparer signs and includes their PTIN. Paid preparers must sign returns and include their PTIN as required by law. The preparer must also give you a copy of the return.

February is the month to show your feet some love ♥

Follow these 5 tips from Dr. Huebner and your feet will be happier than ever!

DR. HUEBNER

1. Keep your feet clean and dry. Healthy feet start with good hygiene. Thoroughly clean and scrub your feet with soap and water when you bathe. Afterward, dry them well. Fungal organisms love moisture, so depriving them of any wetness will make it more difficult for them to thrive.
2. Examine your feet for problems. Perform a foot self-exam once a week. Take a detailed look at the soles, in between the toes and nails.
3. Cut toenails properly. Cut nails straight across and avoid trimming too close to the skin or drastically rounding the corners of the nails, which can cause painful, ingrown toenails.
4. Wear shoes that fit properly. Shoes that are too tight can cause long-term foot problems. Shop for shoes at the end of the day to compensate for foot swelling that occurs later in the day, and wear the same type of socks or hosiery you'll be wearing with the shoes.
5. Know when to see a doctor. Don't attempt to self-treat painful foot woes. Any pain, redness, swelling, or discoloration that persists should be checked out by a podiatrist. Usually the problem can be cleared up with prescription medicine or a minor in-office procedure. Allowing a doctor to take a look will help prevent minor problems from becoming major ones.
