SUPERHERO

Mom delivers baby in car at 90 mph

Jodi Randolph and Ellis, not long after the birth. Photo by JAKE RANDOLPH

'TAKE OFF MY SHORTS!' she cried to husband at the wheel

BY DOLORES CULLEN

Jake Randolph is calling his wife Jodi a superhero after she gave birth to their son Ellis in the front seat of their car on the way to the Carroll hospital Monday, July 4.

The Sac City couple has roots in Storm Lake. Jake graduated from Storm Lake High School in 2006 and Jodi Wendt is from the St. Mary's Class of 2012.

They were spending July 4 in Storm Lake with their sons, ages three and five, along. The family enjoyed the Big Parade. They stayed with Jake's parents David and Trish Jaehrling.

Jodi, nine months pregnant, noticed a few contractions during the day, but didn't feel the need to panic.

Her due date was July 11 and her OB-GYN in Carroll had set July 6 as the date to induce labor at St. Anthony Regional Hospital in Carroll.

But late in the afternoon, the contractions came on faster.

Suddenly, they were seven minutes apart. The Randolphs jumped in the car to rush home.

They dropped the kids off in Early with Jodi's sister Jenny, then sped to Sac City.

Jodi took a quick shower. Now the contractions were coming two minutes apart. "I'm not gonna be able to make it!" she exclaimed. "You have to!" Jake replied.

They decided to drive to Carroll, 30 miles away. Loring Hospital in Sac City doesn't handle deliveries and its ambulance was out on fireworks-related assignments.

Jake hit the gas, reaching 90 mph. Mean-

BV SEEKS STATE GRANT TO FIX STATE MARINA

BY TOM CULLEN

The Buena Vista County Conservation Board has expanded its designs for the Storm Lake Marina to include a campground and cabins, should the board strike an agreement with the Iowa Department of Natural Resources to run the marina.

Conservation Director Greg Johnson budgeted an additional $220,000 for the department's "office expansion," to which Johnson has referred previously as the department's occupation of the Storm Lake Marina. Johnson told the conservation board earlier this month he contacted EOR Iowa and multiple subconsultants to estimate the cost of occupying the marina with the improvements.

"We have asked for a proposal to include looking at the current known issues, determining any additional issues, looking at cost estimates of those issues, and determining potential for future development that may include campgrounds or cabins," Johnson told the Storm Lake Times Pilot.

The board of supervisors and the conservation board have endorsed Johnson's designs of occupying the marina, which he has described as the conservation department's south office.

In December, the conservation board gave Johnson its full blessing to negotiate a 28E agreement with the DNR.

In January, the supervisors earmarked $1 million of its American Rescue Plan funding toward marina occupation.

Last Tuesday, the supervisors accommodated the conservation department's request to increase its expenditures by $100,000. Johnson said the $100,000, comprised of the county's REAP and Land Acquisition Trust Fund revenues, are matches to general obligation bonds.

O'Brien land fetches $21,050/acre

BY JAKE KURTZ

An O'Brien County auction ended last week with roughly 161 acres of farmland selling for $3.13 million.

The land was sold in two tracts and is located approximately 3.5 miles north of Sutherland.

The first tract had 79.64 surveyed acres with a Corn Suitability Rating (CSR2) of 94.7, which is exceptional compared to the state average of 68.4. That land sold for $21,050 per acre, or a little more than $1.66 million in all.

The second tract that sold on July 21 at the R.L. Johannsen Event Center in Sutherland was 82.04 acres adjacent to the first tract. With a CSR2 of 94.1, that ground brought $18,000 per acre.

Both tracts are located in Grant Township. The auction was handled by Midwest Land Management of Spencer.

It's been a hot spring and summer for land auctions.

A Plymouth County farm in late May brought $25,000 per acre, while two tracts in Clay County fetched $21,000 per acre that same week.

In April, one Buena Vista County estate parted ways with 1,242 acres that brought nearly $20 million at a sale handled by Iowa Auction Group.

In January, the Ida County per-acre record was set when an 80-acre tract five miles north of Holstein sold for $20,100.

Buena Vista University has named Dr. Heidi Manning as its new Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Manning comes to BVU from Misericordia University in Dallas, Pa., where she worked the past five years, serving as Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Professor of Physics. Prior to her work at Misericordia, Manning served 20 years in administrative and faculty roles at Concordia College in Moorhead, Minn., including serving as division chair for Sciences and Mathematics.

Manning earned her bachelor's degree in physics at Gustavus Adolphus College. She earned a Ph.D. in

School district to buy Iowa Central addition at SLHS

$600K price as college launches new campus

Space comes in handy as enrollment grows

The Storm Lake School Board will vote next month on the potential $600,000 purchase of the Iowa Central Community College building located at the SLHS campus.

The potential deal was made possible after the Iowa Department of Education authorized the use of federal Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief (ESSER) money for the purchase of the building. A decision on the purchase is expected at the school board's Aug. 17 meeting.

The school district said buying the building, which is connected to the high school on its east side, will be a hedge against overcrowding. The district has seen enrollment swell in recent years at its other buildings and expect the trend to carry up to SLHS.

Acquiring the Iowa Central facility is also a chance to leverage ESSER money to secure more space in the event of a future virus outbreak. In the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, SLHS students were spread across churches and other buildings throughout the community.

"After reviewing the potential purchase and the benefits it would bring our district, we believe we would be missing out on an opportunity if we did not purchase the ICC building at this time," Supt. Stacey Cole said. "As we have learned from the pandemic, it is critically important to be prepared. This purchase would help us minimize disruptions to teaching and learning in the future."

The $600,000 price would not create an added cost for the school district's taxpayers. Iowa Central will be allowed to use space in the existing building rent-free until the Iowa Central Learning Center is constructed at its new campus in Storm Lake's north industrial park on Business Hwy. 71.

Iowa Central added the wing to Storm Lake High School in 1970s with the League of Schools vo-tech program.

Branch at Goddard Space Flight Center, Manning worked in the development and calibration of the Cassini Orbiter Ion and Neutral Mass Spectrometer that orbited Saturn.

"I didn't grow up saying I wanted to be an astronaut," she says. "But, I had the opportunity to work on a project for my dissertation that would be carried by the Space Shuttle. That opened the doors at NASA for me, and throughout my teaching career, and I was able to maintain contacts with my research colleagues at NASA."

Manning has also worked to help secure nearly $2.4 million in grants for the colleges and universities she has served.

"Dr. Manning is a scholar, having worked with NASA on the Mars Rover project," says BVU President Brian Lenzmeier. "She's helped direct 44 full-time faculty members and has vast experience in developing and launching new academic programs. She has taught interdisciplinary courses that have blended arts with sciences. And, she has worked to grow her previous institutions through success as a fundraiser, in grant writing for the National Science Foundation and the National Endowment of the Humanities, as well as through her work with benefactors, whose gifts built and sustained facilities and programs."

"Beyond all of her experience and success, Dr. Manning was described as a person with great integrity, 'a champion for all faculty regardless of academic discipline,'" Lenzmeier continues.

"I'm very excited about joining the leadership team at BVU," Manning says. "BVU knows its strengths, and its focus on rural education. BVU provides an education that will really make a difference in the lives of our students and the communities they serve. Education at BVU is transformational for students. That strength, the strength of the institution, and the direction it is going were all very attractive to me."

Manning, a native of Fergus Falls, Minn., says she and her husband, David, are thrilled to return to the Midwest, where many of their family members reside. The couple has two sons, both of whom are engaged in doctoral programs at the University of Rochester (NY) and the University of Minnesota.

"We are also excited about the diversity in the community in Storm Lake," Manning says. "It's a fascinating city and we're anxious to live in a rural city with so many different cultures represented. It will be so interesting to see how our students and our university develop and interact as our world becomes more diverse. We are so fortunate to be at a place where students can live, work and experience such a wonderful breadth of cultures."

while he was on the phone with the Carroll medical staff. They alerted the local communication center, so that no one would try to stop the speeding car.

"I remember screaming for him to take off my shorts," Jodi says, because she couldn't do it herself. She rested her feet on the dash and reclined the seat.

After a monstrous contraction she asked Jake, "Is there anything out?" He looked over. "The nose and up," — the top half of little Ellis's head!

Ten seconds later, another huge contraction — at 8:40 p.m. — and the baby was born. Jodi had hoped Jake could somehow put his hand "there," but that proved difficult while driving.

Instead, "I grabbed him and put him on my chest," she said. Luckily a hand towel was in the car, which Jodi wrapped around her bundle of joy.

Ellis cried right away, which was music to his parents' ears. He was a big boy — 8 pounds and 3 ounces, and 19.5 inches tall.

He moved his head back and forth for the 15 minutes it took to get to the hospital.

Before Jodi got out of the car, medical staff cut the umbilical cord. She was hurried inside to deliver the placenta.

Friends incredulous

"Our friends couldn't believe it," says Jodi, when they heard of the Randolphs' experience. She felt well enough to go out Saturday, July 9 and the word had gotten around. "We heard you have a wild story!" Jodi and Jake were told.

"It's a running joke," she says, "that we saved a lot of money." It's true. The hospital bill was highly reduced.

Nor was the ruined car seat a financial setback. "One of the nurses said, 'You should call your car insurance and ask if it's covered.'"

Jodi did so, and the Randolphs' insurance (State Farm) paid to have a new seat installed, plus the use of a loaner while the seat was being replaced.

Jodi and Jake consider themselves very lucky that the delivery went smoothly. "Honestly, he was my easiest one," says Jodi.

But Jodi, a grades 7-9 school counselor at East Sac County School District, says it's far more stressful looking back on the incident than it was actually birthing the baby in the car. She's found herself worrying.

"Even though everything went well, I think about what could have happened," she says. For that reason, she's decided, "We're done having kids."

They're more than occupied with their busy household though.

"Looking back, it was amazing how calm and collected we were," says Jake. "I never would have thought we would be able to handle it, but we did and I'm so grateful everything turned out the way it did. My wife is a superhero."

MARINA: BV County will seek state grants

tion bond proceeds the department received two years ago for the "office expansion."

The conservation board will also submit a DNR Destination Iowa grant for the cabins and campground expansion.

"Will these dollars be expended at the Marina? That will be dependent on if a 28E agreement is reached between (the conservation board) and the DNR for operations/maintenance of the facility," Johnson added.

Johnson declined to specify how negotiations have progressed with the DNR since they began last winter.

In April, he said the facility's long-term repairs are at issue. Its plumbing and electrical infrastructure might not meet the state's building codes. A significant portion of the marina's concrete pavers have greater than a half-inch elevation change, which creates ADA compliance issues.

And the slip docks need to be replaced.

The DNR has already agreed to remove them. Tammie Krausman, a spokesman for the DNR, told the Storm Lake Times Pilot the state has inked a $6,000 contract with Kuhlmann Lake Service of Spirit Lake to remove the three dock structures that house the slip docks.

The DNR has already ordered the facility's slip renters to remove their hoists from the property by last Friday; all remaining hoists will be removed at the associated slip renter's expense.

Krausman didn't respond to a request for comment on when the slips would be removed.

Johnson acknowledged replacement of the slips is a point of contention.

The DNR has resisted any attempt to finance their replacement because they serve only 84 renters, not the greater public. The county countered it should make a major investment into the property — to the tune of $500,000 — because it can't own it by law.

U of I brings health fair to Storm Lake

BY DOLORES CULLEN

The University of Iowa's Equity in Health Science and Practice (E-HSP) came to town Monday and Tuesday offering a fair to improve health and make treatment more accessible for those affected by the pandemic.

Storm Lake is one of several communities to benefit from this project. Dr. Martha Carvour, who received the $758K grant from U of I to alleviate long-standing imbalances in healthcare was present at St. Mark Lutheran Church for Tuesday's fair.

"When the pandemic came to Iowa, it worsened long-standing health disparities and created new disparities on top of that," she said. "COVID-19 had a deeply unequal impact on minoritized groups and rural residents, and pandemic-related disruptions in care also made managing chronic conditions like diabetes more challenging for many patients."

Partnering with E-HSP Tuesday were Buena Vista County Public Health & Home Care, BVRMC, Heartland Counseling, Iowa Legal Aid-Farmworker Rights Project, SALUD, Storm Lake Schools, Storm Lake United, Tyson, United Community Health Center Dental Clinic and other partners.

Activities for all ages and health screenings for blood pressure, teeth, eyes, mental health, immunizations, diabetes and more.

"It's been wonderful working with them," said Di Daniels of SALUD and a key contact for the U of I team. "The legwork they put in was amazing."

E-HSP personnel made multiple trips to Storm Lake to familiarize themselves with the community. Prior outreach determined that hypertension, diabetes and obesity are prominent conditions affecting Storm Laker.

Through surveys, the researchers found 240 frontline workers (not all from Storm Lake) with long Covid. Monday's fair was at the Tyson turkey plant.

POLICE & COURTS

St. Mary's drops suit over roof

BY TOM CULLEN

Attorneys for St. Mary's Parish and its general contractor of the parish's $2.6 million parish center dismissed all claims stemming from the failed installation of the parish center's roof.

John Murray, a Storm Lake attorney representing St. Mary's, dismissed a lawsuit against the general contractor H&R Construction of South Sioux City, Neb., its architect and two subcontractors involved in the roof's installation.

Rene Lapiere, a Sioux City attorney representing H&R, dismissed a cross-claim against the architect, Mollet Architecture of Jefferson, S.D., and the subcontractors, Winkler Roofing of Sioux City and Energy Panel Structures of Graettinger.

The dismissals came as a result of a settlement the five parties reached earlier this summer. The settlement was announced a month after Murray said the parties were engaged in "productive" mediation discussions that began in February.

Father Brent Lingle told parishioners in an email on Friday the church viewed the settlement's terms as "fair and acceptable," though he declined to specify them.

"Replacing the entire roofing system was a major but necessary undertaking that had significant expense," Lingle's email reads. "We've repainted the entire interior of the main hall this summer and there are only a few very minor details to finish up. It was also a tedious but necessary process to engage in the legal aspects of this matter that required a lot of back and forth between parties, lawyers and mediators."

Lingle noted the church incurred "significant cost" through the lawsuit and it could've incurred even more had it pursued the lawsuit further. The church said in its annual financial statement the lawsuit cost $18,000 last year. Court filings show St. Mary's paid $175,000 to EPS for the roof panels, which were removed and replaced in October 2021.

Meth found during postal inspection

A Newell man was arrested last week for sending methamphetamine through the mail to a relative in April.

Buena Vista County deputies arrested Steven Nelson, 48, on July 18 for an alleged drug transaction that occurred in April.

A postal inspector in Des Moines screened a package en route to 209 Lake St. in Newell that contained suspicious content. An investigation found the package contained 17 grams of methamphetamine.

The inspector performed a controlled delivery on the Lake Street address on April 20. The package with 17 grams of methamphetamine was delivered. The Buena Vista County Sheriff's Office then executed a search warrant at the residence and found methamphetamine and cocaine in Nelson's bedroom.

Nelson then admitted to sending methamphetamine to Lyn Nelson, an occupant at the Lake Street address, in an interview with the Des Moines postal inspector. He admitted he sent narcotics through the U.S. mail on two occasions while he was working at a job site in Ohio.

Nelson was charged with delivery of methamphetamine, possession of cocaine, failure to affix a tax stamp and possession of methamphetamine. Lyn Nelson was served the same slate of charges in a trial information last month. She pleaded not guilty on all counts through her attorney, John Loughlin of Cherokee.

Steve Nelson hasn't entered an official plea. He's scheduled for an arraignment Aug. 8. Buena Vista County District Court Judge Nancy Whittenburg ordered Nelson's release from Buena Vista County Jail in lieu of posting a $25,000 bond. Whittenburg noted Nelson surrendered himself at the jail last Monday pursuant to an agreement with the Buena Vista County Attorney's Office.

Marijuana in hotel room

A Chicago, Ill., woman agreed to serve four days in jail in connection with a search of King's Pointe in May 2020 that yielded 82 grams of marijuana in one of its rooms.

Ewanda Curtis, 46, agreed to the jail term in an agreement with Assistant Buena Vista County Attorney Lindsey Browning. In exchange Browning amended a felony marijuana possession charge to a misdemeanor charge.

Sentencing was scheduled for Monday, but was delayed. Curtis's attorney, Sean Spellman of West Des Moines, requested a continuance because Curtis couldn't afford to travel from Chicago to Storm Lake. A sentencing hearing over video will be scheduled at a later date.

Curtis was arrested in May 2020 because guests at King's Pointe complained of a marijuana smell in Room 313. A search of the room yielded 82 grams of marijuana sealed in three bags.

Sexual assault charge

A Lakeside teen was arrested earlier this month for an alleged sexual assault of a 15-year-old in March.

Associate Buena Vista County District Court Judge Andy Smith issued a warrant for the arrest of the boy July 7. The warrant was issued the same day the Buena Vista County Sheriff filed a complaint charging him with third-degree sexual abuse. The BVSO alleged he engaged in a sexual assault of a 15-year-old girl earlier this year. A text message showed the boy allegedly admitted to the assault to another student.

The teen entered a not-guilty plea through his attorney, Thomas Gustafson of Denison.

Trial set in Rembrandt discrimination suit

Trial was set for next August for a lawsuit leveled by a former marketing manager against Rembrandt Enterprises over the company's alleged penchant for laying off female employees.

Buena Vista County District Court Judge Carl Petersen scheduled a five-day jury trial for a lawsuit Holly Hansen of Spirit Lake filed against Rembrandt in April. Hansen alleged gender played a role in her being laid off in September 2019, less than two years in her role. The termination occurred despite Hansen earning "all positive reviews," she claimed.

Rembrandt denied Hansen's allegations in a filing in May.

Storm Laker facing sexual assault charges

A Storm Lake man was arrested earlier this month for the sexual assault of a woman four months ago.

The Buena Vista County Sheriff charged Edwin Guzman-Quintanilla, 48, with a single count of third-degree sexual abuse in connection with the alleged assault. A complaint alleges Guzman-Quintanilla committed the assault at Westview Mobile Home Park in Alta Feb. 26. The act occurred after the alleged victim told him twice that she didn't want to have sex.

Guzman-Quintanilla was booked into Buena Vista County Jail and held on a $10,000 cash bond, according to court records. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for Aug. 1.

Nyaw arrested for gun running, drug possession

A Storm Lake man was arrested in Ankeny last Thursday for having a stolen handgun during a traffic stop.

Ankeny Police stopped a Chrysler 200 in the 2400 block of South Ankeny Boulevard at 2:57 a.m. July 21 due to a speeding violation. The occupants, Godfrey Oghissa of Des Moines and Mach Nyaw of Storm Lake, reeked of marijuana.

A consent search of the vehicle yielded a Sig P226 nine-millimeter handgun, which was reported stolen by a federal database. Officers also found an open bottle of Hennessy, a glass canning jar containing marijuana residue and a digital scale.

Both men were charged with trafficking stolen weapons, carrying weapons, possession of marijuana, third-degree theft and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Nyaw, 21, was booked into Polk County Jail and released the same day, according to court records. An initial appearance is scheduled for Aug. 10.

Storm Lake, Alta-Aurelia players headline list of selections

Tornadoes land four players, Warriors three on first team

A-A's McCoy premier player in the area

It was yet another banner year for baseball in the area. Alta-Aurelia won a Twin Lakes Conference championship. Storm Lake flirted with another Lakes Conference crown.

Those two teams stood out when it came to post-season recognition representation. The Tornadoes had four players selected to the All Times Pilot first team while the Warriors placed three.

The team features the five teams in the area's best players with 11 of the 12 making either all-conference or all-district teams.

So without further ado, here is the 2022 All-Times Pilot Baseball Team.

FIRST TEAM

Jake Eddie
Storm Lake

A junior, Eddie was a first team all-Lakes Conference and a first team Class 3A all-district selection this season.

Eddie went 3-3 with a 2.68 ERA this season as a pitcher. In 52 innings, the right-hander allowed 51 hits and 33 runs, 20 of which were earned, walked 18 and struck out 73. Opponents batted .215 against him.

Eddie was pretty good at the plate, too. He collected 31 hits in 94 at-bats for a .330 average. He hit eight doubles, scored 30 runs and drove in 24 runs. Eddie had a .436 on-base percentage and a .436 slugging percentage.

Eddie, who stole 20 bases, committed 11 errors in 107 total chances for an .897 fielding percentage.

Defensively, he's a very strong infielder no matter what position he is at and an excellent shortstop. Offensively, he's one of our best hitters and is a threat on the bases, a spot he really improved in that aspect this year. Overall, he's been so great for us through the years in all facets of the game and is one of the top players in the area. He will be a huge part of the team heading into his senior year and will put a lot of work in between now and then."

A-A's McCoy is 2022 Times Pilot Position Player of the Year

BY JAMIE KNAPP

When trying to identify the greatest attribute about Preston McCoy, Alta-Aurelia baseball coach Ryan Burkhart had a difficult time coming up with one.

"That's hard to say," he said. "He was a great short-stop. He was a beast on the basepaths. He hit for power and a high average and rarely struck out. And he was really good on the mound for us. He had one of the best all-around seasons in school history. He's just a well-rounded great baseball player."

And that is why McCoy has been tabbed as the 2022 Times Pilot Position Player of the Year. The senior short-stop had one of the best statistical seasons in recent memory at Alta-Aurelia.

McCoy collected 36 hits in 75 at-bats for an area-best .480 average this season. He hit a team-high and area-

SL's Eddie is 2022 Times Pilot Pitcher of the Year

BY JAMIE KNAPP

Jake Eddie has always had the talent as a pitcher, but this season he put that talent together with an elevated cerebral and competitive nature.

The Tornado junior's stats don't jump off the charts, but considering the opposition Eddie had to pitch against, it was a season better than the numbers indicate.

Eddie was the standout pitcher in the area and that is why he has been tabbed the 2022 Times Pilot Pitcher of the Year.

"I think Jake's best attribute on the mound this season was how effective he was with his brain," Storm Lake coach Ben Seaman said. "He knew what pitch was working and which one needed to be thrown more. He knew how to make in-game adjustments to fix pitch lo-

Storm Lake's Jake Eddie was a first team all-Lakes Conference and a first team all-district pick. He ranked second in the area in strikeouts and innings pitched.

Central coach Alan Vasher said. "He is one of the best power/contact hitters we have on the team and came up with some big hits during the season. Defensively, he has handled our pitchers well and has turned into a solid pitch-caller."

Hunter DeMey
Storm Lake

A junior, DeMey was a first team all-Lakes Conference and a first team Class 3A all-district pick this season.

The Tornado second baseman/shortstop had 27 hits in 77 at-bats for a .351 average. He hit two doubles, scored 25 runs and drove in 17 runs. DeMey struck out only five times all season.

DeMey, who stole 15 bases, owned a .554 on-base percentage and a .377 slugging percentage.

As a pitcher, DeMey went 6-3 with a 3.35 ERA. In 46 innings, he allowed 43 hits and 32 runs, 22 of which were earned, walked 16 and struck out 42. Opponents batted .157 against him. He committed nine errors in 81 chances for an .889 fielding percentage.

"Hunter had a great season as a junior and just keeps improving his game," Storm Lake coach Ben Seaman said. "He really improved a lot at the plate putting a ton of balls in play and making the defense get him out. He struck out very few times and was a really tough out. He was one of our stronger pitchers on the mound as well, really throwing some nice games for us against some solid competition. Defensively is another place he really shines on the field, playing short and second base for us. He makes very few errors, does a nice job making plays, and with him out there as well as some other guys, they really give our pitchers confidence to throw strikes and let our defense play behind them. Hunter has been huge for us and I know he will take another step forward and be even better in his senior year."

Ryan Greenfield
Newell-Fonda

A junior, Greenfield was voted to the Twin Lakes Conference first team and the Class 1A all-district first team this season.

The Mustang infielder recorded 34 hits in 93 at-bats for a .366 average. He hit 11 doubles and one triple while scoring 17 runs, driv-

Greenfield, who owned a .416 on-base percentage and a .505 slugging percentage, committed 17 errors in 147 total chances for a .884 fielding percentage.

As a pitcher, Greenfield went 5-3 with a 2.50 ERA. In 42 innings, he allowed 37 hits and 24 runs, 15 of which were earned, walked 17 and struck out 57. Opponents batted .223 against him.

“Ryan is probably as versatile of a player we have had,” Newell-Fonda coach Bo Darrow said. “He can play every position and hit for contact or power. His ability to drive in runs was a catalyst for our offense throughout the season. He also took a big leap on the mound and was able to put our team in good positions to win. He was consistent and did not put himself in bad counts. We look forward to another great year of having Ryan.”

Preston McCoy Alta-Aurelia

A senior, McCoy was voted to the Twin Lakes Conference first team and the Class 1A all-district first team this season.

The Warrior shortstop collected 36 hits in 75 at-bats for an area-best .480 average this season. He hit a team-high and area-high four home runs, three doubles, one triple and drove in a team-high 26 runs while scoring a team-best 34 runs.

“Preston had one of the best all-around seasons in school history,” Alta-Aurelia coach Ryan Burkhardt said. “He was so dangerous for us at the plate as our leadoff hitter. He played a steady shortstop and was a great competitor on the mound for us as one of our main pitchers. Preston will be missed next year as he was also a great leader.”

Jacob Hargens Sioux Central

A junior, Hargens was voted to the Twin Lakes Conference second team this season.

The Rebel third baseman recorded 24 hits in 75 at-bats for a .320 average. He hit seven doubles and two home runs while scoring 18 runs and driving in a team-high 31 runs.

As a pitcher, Hargens went 1-0 with a 2.00 ERA. He struck out 19 batters in 14 innings.

“Jacob led us in RBI this season,” Sioux Central coach Alan Vasher said. “He has good hands at the plate, which enables him to make solid contact. He came around with power during the last half of the season. Defensively, Jacob is a solid third baseman. He has developed good range and has an accurate arm. All-around, Jacob is a solid and consistent player.”

Carson Reinert Alta-Aurelia

A junior, Reinert was one of Alta-Aurelia's top players this season.

The Warrior third baseman recorded 25 hits in 77 plate appearances for a .325 average. He hit seven doubles, four triples and four home runs while scoring 27 runs and driving in a team-best 26 runs.

power bat at the plate, a really good third baseman, and another leader on the team. I am excited for his senior season and what he can accomplish.”

Trey Jungers Newell-Fonda

A senior, Jungers was a first team all-Twin Lakes Conference and a first team Class 1A all-district selection this season.

The Mustang outfielder amassed a team-high 37 hits in 87 plate appearances for a .425 average. He hit five doubles, scored 29 runs, drove in 15 runs and stole 36 bases.

Jungers, who had a .490 on-base percentage and a .483 slugging percentage, committed six errors in 38 total chances for an .842 fielding percentage.

As a pitcher, Jungers was 4-3 with a 1.75 ERA. He allowed 35 hits and 23 runs, 10 of which were earned, walked nine and struck out 56 in 40 innings. Opponents batted .224 against him.

“Trey capped off a stellar career with another solid season,” Newell-Fonda coach Bo Darrow said. “He provided us with a reliable on-base player in the middle of the lineup and tremendous speed in the outfield and on the bases for many years. This year, he stepped up his game on the mound to become one of our top pitchers. We always knew we would get consistent production out of Trey. We will greatly miss Trey in all aspects of the game.”

Sam Dvergsten Storm Lake

A senior, Dvergsten was voted to the Lakes Conference first team and the Class 3A all-district second team.

The Tornado outfielder collected 33 hits in 80 plate appearances for a .412 average. He had three doubles, scored 30 runs and drove in 18 runs.

Dvergsten had a .544 on-base percentage and a .450 slugging percentage.

As a pitcher, Dvergsten went 4-1 with a 6.06 ERA. He allowed 43 hits and 35 runs, 28 of which were earned, walked 24 and struck out 35 in 32 innings. He committed one error in 42 chances for a .976 fielding percentage.

“Sam came on huge for us this year and had an incredible season,” Storm Lake coach Ben Seaman said. “He batted well over .500 in conference games and had a really high on-base percentage this season as a whole. He was a really strong outfielder for us playing center, covers a ton of ground, has a strong arm to keep other teams honest, and could get the ball in quickly to prevent extra bases. He also had a strong season on the mound for us. He really improved through the offseason with his command, and his velocity also took a noticeable jump heading into the season, which made him dangerous. Sam was a great senior leader for us and has done a lot for our program. It was so fun to watch him have such a standout senior season.”

Edgar Barreiro Storm Lake

A junior, Barreiro was a first team all-Lakes Conference and a first team Class 3A all-district selection.

The Tornado right fielder recorded a team-high 34 hits in 88 at-bats for a .386 average. He hit eight doubles, three triples and three home runs while scoring a team-best 43 runs and driving in 27 runs.

Barreiro, who stole 23 bases, owned a .517 on-base percentage and a .648 slugging percentage. He made no errors in 35 chances.

“Edgar had another strong season for us really building off of a strong sophomore campaign,” Storm Lake coach Ben Seaman said. “He held down our leadoff spot the entire season and a lefty that could not only hit with power, but is a strong bunter and an excellent base stealer. His offense really got our lineup going, and we needed that this season. He plays an excellent right field as well, covering a ton of ground, and has a real knack for chasing down balls. He has a strong arm, which compliments his ability to catch balls and keep them in front of him.”

Tyler Kolpin Ridge View

A senior, Kolpin was a first team all-Western Valley Conference selection this season.

The Raptor catcher collected a team-high 31 hits in 83 at-bats for a .373 average. He hit six doubles and two triples while scoring 30 runs and driving in 13 runs. Kolpin had a .458 on-base percentage and a .494 slugging percentage.

Kolpin went 3-3 with a 4.37 ERA as a pitcher. He allowed 43 hits and 36 runs, 21 of which were earned, walked 15 and struck out 25 in 33 innings.

Kolpin, who stole 20 bases, committed seven errors in 144 total chances for a .951 fielding percentage.

“Tyhler was a workhorse for us behind the plate, on the mound, whatever we asked of him,” Ridge View coach Eric Myrtue said. “We couldn't have asked for a better leader to set the foundation for where this program wants to go.”

SECOND TEAM

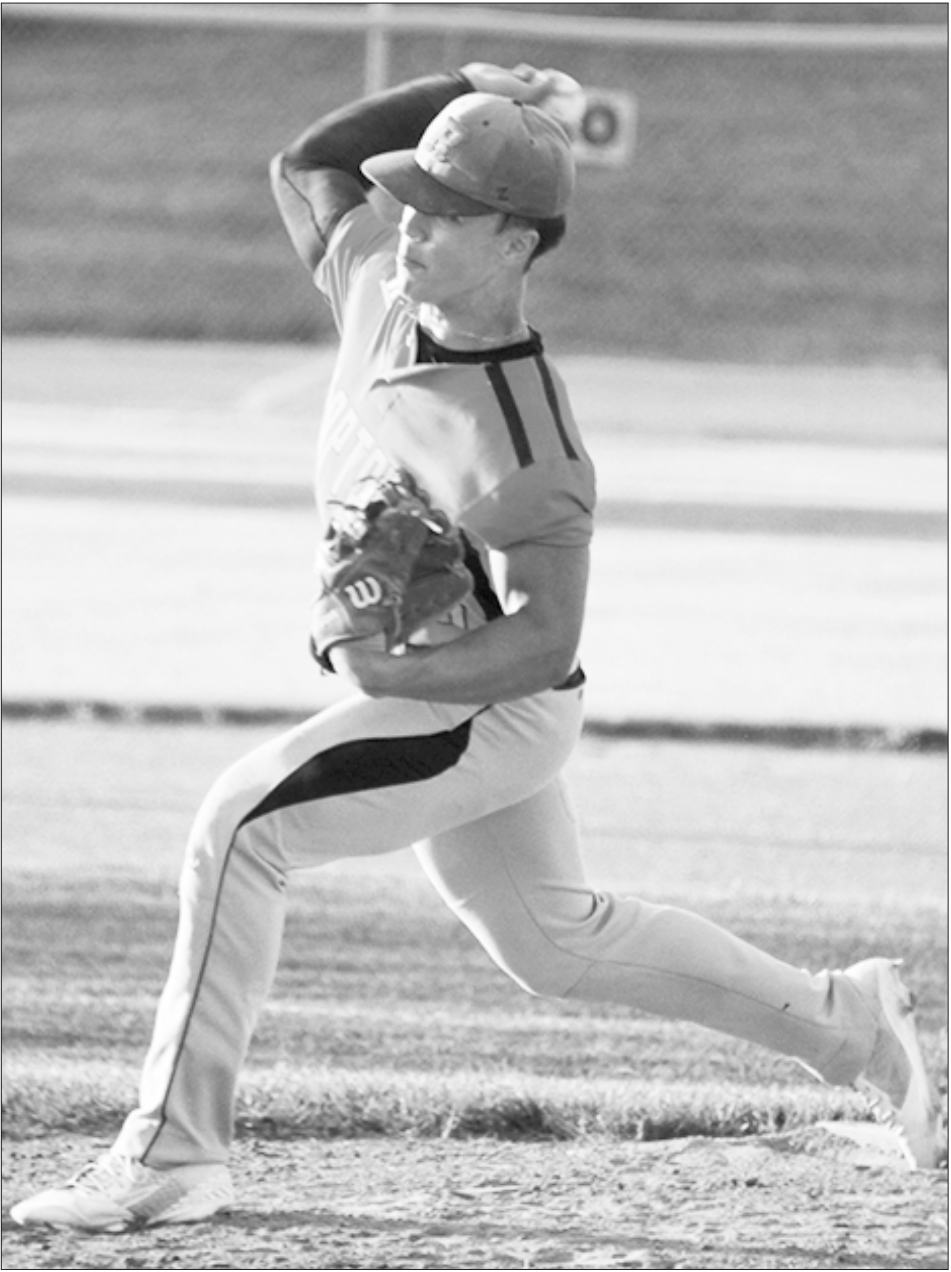

Ethan Johnson Sioux Central

A senior, Johnson was a first team all-Twin Lakes Conference and a second team Class 2A all-district selection this season.

Johnson went 6-3 with a 2.33 ERA as a pitcher. In 48 innings, he allowed 40 hits and 25 runs, 16 of which were earned, walked 26 and struck out 53 batters. Opponents batted .220 against him.

Johnson also scored 12 runs and had a .397 on-base percentage. He committed three errors in 63 chances for a .952 fielding percentage.

“Ethan Johnson was our consistent arm on the mound,” Sioux Central coach Alan Vasher said. “He has been pitching varsity since his freshman year and did a great job of stepping into the No. 1 slot this season. When Ethan was on the mound, our defense was solid behind him. When he wasn't pitching, he anchored down left field.”

Ridge View's Tyhler Kolpin was a first team all-Western Valley Conference selection this season after hitting .373 with 30 runs scored and 13 RBI.

Cael Myrtue Ridge View

A junior, Myrtue was voted to the Western Valley Conference second team this season.

The Raptor first baseman recorded 23 hits in 66 plate appearances for a .348 average. He had five doubles and one home run while scoring 12 runs and driving in 17 runs. Myrtue owned a .489 on-base percentage and a .470 slugging percentage.

Defensively, he committed three errors in 111 total chances for a .973 fielding percentage.

“Cael is just one of those kids you can count on,” Ridge View coach Eric Myrtue said. “He loves the game, fills up the stat book, and has a passion for the game you can't teach. We're glad we have him for one more year.”

Dakota Deuschle Sioux Central

A senior, Deuschle was an honorable mention all-Twin Lakes Conference pick this season.

The Rebel first baseman had 25 hits in 71 plate appearances for a .352 average. Deuschle hit five doubles, scored 14 runs and drove in 16 runs.

Deuschle, who owned a .452 on-base percentage and a .423 slugging percentage, committed one error in 159 total chances for a .994 fielding percentage.

“Dakota Deuschle really came on this season,” Sioux Central coach Alan Vasher said. “He had 2-3 game-winners at the plate and worked himself into a really reliable first baseman. As the season went on, he became more comfortable over there and really bailed some of our infielders out on their throws.”

Caleb Sleezer Alta-Aurelia

A freshman, Sleezer was a second team all-Twin Lakes Conference pick this season.

The Warrior first baseman amassed 24 hits in 72 plate appearances for a .333 average. He hit seven doubles, one triple and one home run while scoring 23 runs, driving in 20 runs and stealing 19 bases.

Sleezer, who had a .467 on-base percentage and a .500 slugging percentage, committed 15 errors in 137 total chances for an .891 fielding percentage.

“Gavin plays beyond his years,” Alta-Aurelia coach Ryan Burkhardt said. “It's hard to believe he's a freshman with the way he hits and plays the field. His calmness under pressure is a great example to his teammates as well. Gavin is another guy on this team that has put in a lot of hours in the offseason, and with his work ethic, his future is really bright.”

Beau Wilken Newell-Fonda

A senior, Wilken was a second team all-Twin Lakes Conference choice this season.

The Mustang second baseman collected 25 hits in 87 plate appearances for a .287 average. He had three doubles, scored 23 runs, drove in 11 runs and stole 12 bases.

Wilken, who had a .426 on-base percentage and a .322 slugging percentage, committed 11 errors in 97 chances for an .887 fielding percentage.

“Beau has been a consistent middle infielder for many years for us,” Newell-Fonda coach Beau Wilken said. “Every year, he has continued to establish himself as a terrific second baseman. This year, he really improved his play at the plate. He hit first or second in the lineup for most of the year and helped get our offense going. We will miss Beau's glove, leadership and bat next year.”

Cade Ahnemann Alta-Aurelia

A junior, Ahnemann was an all-Twin Lakes Conference first team choice this season.

The Warrior right fielder charted 22 hits in 68 plate appearances for a .324 average. He hit three doubles, scored 22 runs, drove in 14 runs and stole 18 bases.

Ahnemann, who had a .412 on-base percentage and a .368 slugging percentage, committed no errors in 13 chances.

“This was Cade’s first year playing varsity and he stepped into the outfield role really well,” Alta-Aurelia coach Ryan Burkhart said. “Cade is hard to strike out and his speed makes him a threat to get on base every time he’s up to bat. He was also very reliable in the outfield all year. I’m really happy for Cade and the season he put together.”

Mason Dicks Newell-Fonda

A junior, Dicks was selected to the Twin Lakes Conference first team this season.

The Mustang shortstop tallied 33 hits in 89 plate appearances for a .371 average. He hit six doubles, one triple and two home runs while scoring 21 runs, driving in 27 runs and stealing 18 bases.

Dicks had a .447 on-base percentage and a .528 slugging percentage.

As a pitcher, Dicks went 2-3 with a 4.35 ERA. He allowed 36 hits and 30 runs, 17 of which were earned, walked 16 and struck out 41 batters in 27 innings.

“As a four-year starter, Mason’s abilities at the plate this year continued to impress,” Newell-Fonda coach Bo Darrow said. “He saw the ball really well and produced a bunch of runs for us. He provides us with a highly-capable and smart middle-lineup hitter. He understands the game really well and sees the game in a way you wish every player could. We are excited to get him back for his senior year.”

Blake Myrtue Ridge View

An eighth grader, Myrtue was an honorable mention pick in the Western Valley Conference this season.

The Raptor third baseman charted 23 hits in 74 at-bats for a .311 average. He hit two doubles and a triple, scored 15 runs and drove in a team-high 21 runs. Myrtue had a .384 on-base percentage and a .365 slugging percentage.

Defensively, Myrtue committed four errors in 57 chances for a .930 fielding percentage.

“Blake was a kid that, as an eighth grader, you weren’t sure if the varsity level was going to be too much,” Ridge View coach Eric Myrtue said. “It wasn’t. He played a very tough hot corner like a veteran and became a bat we could count on. He was third in average and led the varsity in RBI.”

Carson Lullmann Storm Lake

A sophomore, Lullmann was an honorable mention Lakes Conference pick this season.

The Tornado third baseman collected 29 hits in 95 plate appearances for a .305 average. He hit eight doubles and one home run while scoring 17 runs and driving in 22 runs. Lullmann had a .373 on-base percentage and a .421 slugging percentage.

As a pitcher, Lullmann went 3-1 with a 3.94 ERA. In 21 innings, he allowed 30 hits and 25 runs, 12 of which were earned, walked 10 and struck out 13.

“Carson really stepped up big for us this year,” Storm Lake coach Ben Seaman said. “We knew we lost some serious talent to graduation, and finding some guys that could play defense while also contributing offensively would be one of our challenges. Carson did a great job taking one of those jobs at third base. He hits with a lot of power and really hung in there tough against some great pitching we saw this season as a sophomore making the necessary jump from JV to full-time varsity. He played a good, consistent infield and also contributed on the mound as an occasional starter for the varsity. He’s got a very bright future ahead of him and I know he’ll put the work in to become an even stronger player in the future.”

iors as partners with the coaches in leading the team, and Preston was a great partner for us. Always seeking to bring teammates together and echo the message of the coaches.”

Burkhart talked about what it’s like to coach such a special talent.

“You never have to worry with Preston if he’s going to be in the right frame of mind to practice or play each day,” he said. “I think that’s special for a young person. I don’t ever remember really having to motivate Preston to bring better effort during his five years on the team. And I just really enjoyed building a bond with him over those five years where we grew to trust each other and value each other’s opinions on things. We had great talks after games or practices as he shared the players’ perspectives on things and I shared the coaches’ perspectives on things and we both focused on how to move the team to the next level.”

that can be seen out of Jake along with some of his teammates. The leadership qualities exemplified by him are his work habits, his attention to detail, and making every rep and opportunity count. I think if younger players are watching him, they can see those three things occurring and know what they need to do to be at that level.”

Seaman talked about what it’s like to coach such a special talent.

“It’s been a ton of fun coaching Jake, watching him improve, and just watching him play,” he said. “He makes some incredible plays that just make you shake your head and laugh because they are so good. He has a ton of fun playing and you can see that each night out that he’s really enjoying what he does and I love that. We preach to always keep improving and try to make everyone the best player they can be, and it’s been fun watching Jake’s game grow over the years. I think he’s taken every tidbit I could give him to improve and done it and held onto it. It’s been just a pleasure coaching him through the years.”

makes McCoy such a special player.

“Preston is first and foremost a really good person,” he said. “His high character is the reason he was a great practice player. He always tried hard. He developed his skills through hard work and making the most of off-season opportunities and through practice.”

McCoy’s progression as a player was obvious, but he became more of a leader as well.

“Not only did Preston improve as a player in every aspect of the game, but he improved a lot as a leader,” Burkhart said. “Preston really found his voice this season and was our leader on the team. He challenged our team, he encouraged our team, he reassured our team. He helped bring other guys along in their leadership, too, and I think that will pay dividends in the future.”

Burkhart put into words what McCoy has meant to the Warriors’ success this summer.

“He has meant a lot,” he said. “It seemed like he was on base all the time and creating opportunities for our team to score. He set the school record for stolen bases in a season this year and provided RBI chances for his teammates. He’s played for so long at the varsity level that he’s kind of seen it all, so his calmness was reassuring to other players as well. They knew Preston had been in these situations before. A great lesson for our younger players to learn as they gain experience as well.”

Like all great players, McCoy makes his teammates better.

“He challenges them in a positive way,” Burkhart said. “This year, I heard Preston encourage players when they were down. I heard Preston challenge guys when they needed to focus more. I saw Preston lead by example with his focus and attention to detail. I always view sen-and WHIP considering the competition that he pitched against. Jake improved his velocity through the course of the year while also being able to throw a variety of off-speed pitches, which made him super dangerous.”

Seaman explained what makes Eddie such a special pitcher.

“I think what makes him special is his ability to throw a number of pitches with all pretty good control,” he said. “I think another off-season to improve he will be throwing four different pitches with a very high success rate, and I also see his velocity improving to make him even tougher to face. He is a strong competitor and really stepped up into the role of being our ace out of a really strong pitching staff, in my opinion.”

There were many reasons for Eddie’s progression as a pitcher.

“I think he just grew as a pitcher in a number of facets,” Seaman said. “I think his velocity improved over the course of the year while also getting better control of off-speed pitches. I also think he was able to make in-game adjustments better than his previous seasons, which allowed him to correct mistakes and get out of jams by knowing what he needs to change to throw effective pitches.”

Seaman put into words what Eddie has meant to the Tornadoes’ success this season.

“Jake has been instrumental in our success over the past few seasons,” he said. “Along with his teammates, Jake is a competitor that seeks to put his best performance out there each night. He’s been huge for us on the mound, on defense, and at the plate. Even when he isn’t having his best night in his eyes, it’s still usually not too bad of a night. He’s definitely a premier player in our area and league. He has strong knowledge of the game, work ethic, desire to be great, and uses those to make him a great player.”

Like all great players, Eddie makes his teammates better players.

“I think when you have strong baseball players or any leader on a team they make everyone rise to their level of the game, which in return makes everyone better,” Seaman said. “I think

Aspects of town and farm life in the very early days of Storm Lake Township

BY JON HUTCHINS

Buena Vista County Historical Society

Try to imagine how our area looked in the very early days of our community. Vast areas of tall prairie grass, but very few trees. A clear and beautiful lake, mostly surrounded by wetlands now long gone. Wild animals, including elk, antelope, mink and wolves, many of which have also disappeared.

Before 1870, little modern development had occurred in our present city area or the surrounding country. Thomas S. Smith (1812-1883) had arrived earlier and built a small hotel and two of his sons, James and Augustus, built a general store to meet the needs of the roughly 20 settlers who had started farming locally.

The Smiths originally built southeast of the present town center, in an area that became known as the "Old Town." Major changes occurred with the arrival of the railroad on July 8, 1870, when construction crews of the Iowa Falls and Sioux City Railroad met at a point midway between Storm Lake and Alta and finally completed the rail line from Sioux City to Chicago.

John Insley Blair. Self-made railroad magnate who platted out Storm Lake in 1870.

Railroad company president John Insley Blair (1802-1899) was responsible for platting out the new town of Storm Lake, as he did for many others countrywide. Blair, son of poor Scottish immigrants, had become one of the leading railroad magnates in the country, travelling for work 40,000 miles a year in his private railcar. On Aug. 11, 1870 he came in person to supervise the auction of choice lots in the new town. Railroad companies had been awarded huge government land grants to develop new rail lines, but in their rush to complete them had incurred enormous debt and needed to recoup investments expeditiously. That day over $20,000 worth of city lots were sold. Residential lots went for $40 to $120 and the highest bid was for a commercial lot where the 1881 Crook Block (southeast corner of Lake and Railroad Street) still stands.

Previously mentioned, Thomas Smith bought two $125 lots where the Masonic Lodge is now in order to relocate his City Hotel (a frame building he dragged half a mile on rollers using oxen). His sons and Theophilus Slutz bought lots on the west side of Lake Avenue's 5th block. Smith Bros. ran the largest dry goods and groceries store for many years. Smith's hall, dedicated Christmas 1871, on the second floor of the store, was the town's earliest public meeting place. HV and T. Slutz were lumber and construction dealers and operated a grain elevator in town for 25 years.

Barton & Hobbs, the first bankers and realtors, also moved in that year from the old town to the new. In April 1871, John Blair placed 40,000 acres (much of Maple Valley and Nokomis Townships) in their hands, to be sold for between $5.50 and $12 per acre. Barton & Hobbs built the first brick bank in town, becoming James Harker's Storm Lake Bank (see picture), now the site of Security Bank.

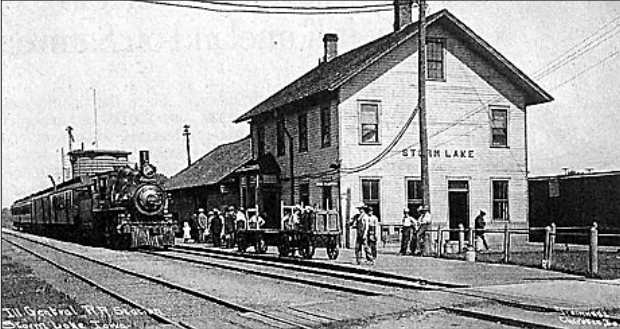

Another prominent early settler was Gifford Simeon Robinson (1843-1936). A Civil War veteran, he visited our county in 1869, was impressed by the beauty of the place and returned at the end of the next year, having first completed a law degree. He and Joseph Augustus Dean (1839-1920) operated a law and real estate business until 1874, when Dean joined James Harker (1834-1883) in a successor company. Lawyer William Milchrist arrived in 1876 and the firm of Robinson & Milchrist was formed. This law company continued for at least a decade, during which time Robinson served as Mayor of Storm Lake, in both the Iowa House and Senate, and as member of the Iowa Supreme Court from 1888 to 1899. Before his death at his West Okoboji cottage, Judge Robinson wrote interesting newspaper accounts of the early history of our county. He recalled that around 1870 the only road in the entire area followed the North Racoon and Little Sioux rivers, going from Sac City to Newell, then Sioux Rapids to Spirit Lake.

By the end of 1870, Storm Lake had three hotels: Thomas Smith's City Hotel, Thomas Selkirk's Lake House (where the Presbyterian Church now stands) and the Iowa Hotel at Michigan and Sixth Street. William Reeder operated a restaurant/boarding house downtown which "served meals at all hours, oysters and fresh fish from the lake." Selkirk, a local Democratic leader, owned several small stores and ran a stage line to Spencer, which by 1872 ran daily. Framework for his hotel was built in Fort Dodge and brought here by rail.

Researching the Iowa Hotel was quite a challenge. It operated for over 50 years, but in two different locations, first on Michigan Avenue but long before its destruction in 1924, at Erie and Seventh Street. In 1955, Mrs. Kaufman wrote about her family history in the Pilot Tribune, explaining this matter. Her uncle John G. Kleyter Carey (1836-1872), a native of Wurttemberg, built the hotel in 1870. He fought in the Civil War and in 1867 came to homestead 10 miles from the future Storm Lake. He found his site too wet and too remote and in 1870 was able to trade it for lots in town: including the two future hotel locations. After his early death, his wife Louisa married his brother Henry (1839-1913). Henry moved the first building downtown and built a new one on Erie Street. This also operated under the name Iowa Hotel, under the ownership of Police Chief Jack Carey and off for 15 years, in the first quarter of the 20th Century.

The original town had the lake and currently named College, Seventh and Oneida streets as boundaries. We have John Blair to thank for preserving our best lakefront areas: Chautauqua and Sunset Park (formerly East and West Park). He also planned a lakeside road around the entire lake, which was never completed. The original Storm Lake Township, to be discussed later, was much larger and included much farmland.

Online sources for this article were the 1870 Census and 1870 Agricultural Census, both for Storm Lake Township. Also important was the Storm Lake Pilot newspaper, started on Oct. 26, 1870 by Civil War veteran Colonel W. L. Vestal and his brother-in-law S. W. Young. Vestal built his newspaper and printing office on a lot he paid $120 for south of the City Hotel. The township census, taken July 1870, shows a population of 248 persons, including 42 farmers, mostly married with families, 21 farm laborers (some being teenage sons), 27 railroad workers (mostly Swedish-born), two civil engineers, two blacksmiths, three carpenters, two school teachers, three lawyers, two realtors and about a dozen merchants.

The 1870 Agricultural Census for Storm Lake Township reveals some further interesting details about local agricultural activity at this very early time. There are 33 farmers, each farming on average 40 acres of cultivated land and 60 acres of uncultivated land having an overall average value of $12.30 per acre. The most common farm animal is the horse, with an average of 1.40 per farm. Twelve farmers have a total of 43 oxen, most valuable for breaking the heavy sod. Only ten farmers are without a milk cow, the others having an average of 1.40 each. Only seven have a total of 16 hogs. The explanation for this situation, very different from today, is the small amount of corn yet being produced, only 1,200 bushels total. Abundant prairie grass provided ample food for the other animals outside of wintertime.

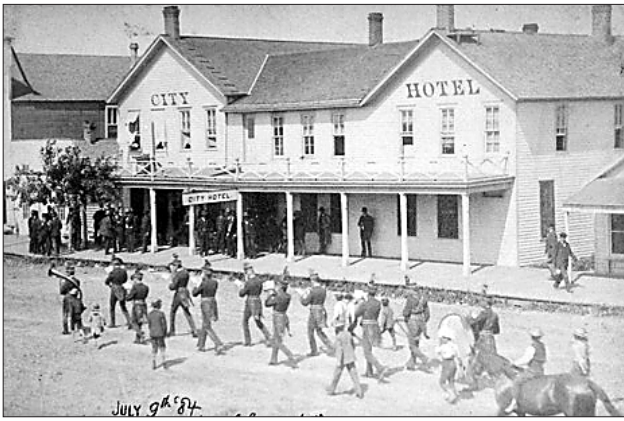

The total reported agricultural production value of our township in 1870 (using local market prices) was $657 for corn, $525 for butter and $253 for Irish potatoes. Only two-thirds of the farmers were producing these commodities. Even for those the average farm income, calculated using local market prices at that time, was only $76.60. The most successful farmer in 1870, Daniel B. Harrison, was also the first homesteader in our area. He came in 1866 and farmed on the west side of the lake. He produced 300 bushels of corn and $325 worth of the three crops mentioned. In November 1870, he also shipped 100 bushels of wheat by train to Chicago at 75¢ per bushel.

These were very early days. Most farmland was still native prairie and much of it was being held for speculation. The arrival of the many future newcomers from overseas or the east was yet to happen. However, food production for export to cities of the east and later overseas had already begun!

Hutchins thanks Sheryl McClure of the Buena Vista County History and Heritage Project for the 1870 Agricultural Census and the early map of Storm Lake Township.

City Dog Ordinance Work Session Chief Cole presented an overview to the City Council the City ordinances and State regulations the Police department uses when handling dog and cat complaints. They basically receive three types of complaints: dogs and cats running loose, dogs and cats causing noise issues (barking), and animal welfare checks.

Council Member Martinez stated that she thinks the City has a problem with dogs in the City as there are several dog bites instances that come into the hospital, and this is not a police issue but an education issue in our community. City Council considers the ordinance to be fine but could always be more proactive when animals are running loose, providing more education and communication about the leash law and avoidance of dog bites to the community.

City Manager Keri Navratil stated that some City ordinances for public events don't allow pets at public events. City staff can research this topic more if advised to do so. She also mentioned that the city has already put out press releases and information to the public regarding pets needing to be on a leash and certainly do this again.

City Council Requested Items - The August 15, 2022, Council Meeting will discuss trail fees for the Senior Citizen Golf tournaments and add an item on the agenda for Council action at that meeting. A water disconnect Iowans, especially Storm Lakers, pay keen attention to water quality. When dead fish started to wash ashore last week, locals immediately started to contact us via email and text and spread social media alerts. People wanted immediate answers. A swimmer just died from a brain-eating amoeba in an Iowa lake, nearly every state beach is posted with bacteria warnings, and the stench of vegetative overgrowth and blue-green algae last year is fresh in the nostrils.

Fortunately, Iowa Department of Natural Resources Fisheries biologist Ben Wallace from Lake View was immediately on the case. Preliminary reports are that mainly carp, and just a few catfish and bass, were among the dead. Testing will be conducted, but it is believed that this is the result of a disease specifically affecting carp. It could be Nature's way of rebalancing the lake ecosystem.

In this case, no apparent cause for alarm but for vigilance. On that front, you need not worry. When foam flows out of a storm sewer, city hall's phone lines burn up.

People are worked up about water, as well they should be. Storm Lake is under water conservation orders amid a drought and failing wells. People are just starting to learn about "forever chemicals" in their drinking water. The reports about omnipresent microplastics in the supposedly pristine Boundary Waters Canoe Area are shocking. The Raccoon River is listed among America's most endangered — and if the Raccoon is, then so are the Little Sioux and Des Moines and Cedar and Rock and ...

Iowans are paying attention.

All the polling through the years tells us that water quality is an urgent concern. Actual votes back it up. Here, voters overwhelmingly supported lake restoration in a bond election. In 2010, 63% of voters approved a state constitutional amendment dedicating a sales tax funding stream to a permanent fund for water quality and outdoor recreation. (That was the same year voters also ousted three Iowa Supreme Court justices for approving gay marriage, so the contrast is remarkable.) More than 60% of Iowans agreed with the Des Moines Water Works position that it should not have to pay for chronic pollution of the Raccoon River.

Just last year, Iowa State University's Farm and Rural Life Poll showed 60% of rural residents surveyed said funds should be appropriated to that voter-approved account embedded in the Constitution.

Still, the legislature has refused to appropriate a penny to that account, ignoring the direct will of the voters. It's a strange disconnect. Water quality is high on our radar but the majority Republicans controlling the Statehouse agenda apparently could not care less.

The list of impaired waters grows. Iowa has among the most-polluted surface water in America. Stream bank erosion is getting worse with improved drainage systems moving torrents of water to the rivers during extreme rains. We have more manure than we can handle, we are locating cattle next to a trout stream, and we are sucking the Dakota aquifer down. We apply anhydrous ammonia on top of hog manure. People are aware of all of this. They have asked for action. What do we get? A closed DNR office in Storm Lake that used to house a water quality specialist. We are not testing every water system for "forever chemicals" because when we do, we find them as we have in Sioux Rapids and Spencer.

Voters are concerned about inflation, of course. Rural voters are concerned about community vitality and education. They also are aware that their water might kill them, and when given an opportunity to vote directly on that issue will take clean water every time.

The dead carp may be a net benefit to Storm Lake, we don't know. We're glad that Wallace is on the scene. The local reaction was swift and telling. We do know that folks around here are as interested in that lake as anything, and the political system should take that into account. Politicians have been getting away with ignoring the voters for 12 years. Given the depth of concern just over this lake, one would think that the state would respond with a clean water and healthy lakes plan. It's hard to understand why we let Iowa fall so short when the public demands better.

Iowa as seen from atop a bike

Storm Lake wasn't on the RAGBRAI route this year or last, but the bicycle tour has come within a few miles each year. Last year its thousands of cyclists passed through Alta, Aurelia and Early, while this year they hit Schaller, Nemaha, Newell and Fonda.

The City Beautiful has been one of the most visited towns on the tour. We were scheduled to host the riders two years ago but covid forced city leaders to decline the invitation.

Storm Lake was a host town during the first year in 1973, when it was called "The Great Six Day Bicycle Ride," hosted by Des Moines Register columnists Donald Kaul and John Karras. Only 114 bicyclists made the initial trip across Iowa, because there were only six weeks notice on this last-minute brainstorm, but there was a clamor for more so the Register made it an annual event after that. Now there are 8,500 registered riders for the weeklong run, but on any given day there are more than 20,000 bicyclists participating.

I remember the first ride. I was a cub reporter for the Pilot-Tribune and was assigned to interview Kaul and Karras early Monday morning, Aug. 27, 1973, after their overnight stop here. I snapped their picture in the parking lot of what was then the Lamplighter Motel, now the Budget Inn, on North Lake Avenue. There were just a few people with them. There were no sag wagons, bands, pork chop stands or police escorts.

included Fort Dodge, Ames, Des Moines and Williamsburg.

Rumor has it that organizers of next year's 50th anniversary ride would like to revisit those first stopover towns, including Storm Lake.

I have never ridden on RAGBRAI, but daughter Bridget tried it one day a few years ago and son Justin rode the entire route last year, plus a day trip a few years ago.

Sister-in-law Dolores has been on it six times, but none for the full ride. She also designed and sold postcards along the route.

LAST WEEK'S Fillers recalled the induction of the Notorious Noblemen at the Roof Garden in Arnolds Park in 1998. Mike McCormick, a Storm Lake native who played keyboards for the band, sent a nice note and a photo from the event. Rick Fix, Dan Diercks and I attended the induction. We were 1968 St. Mary's High School classmates of guitarist Joe Schmitt and were friends with several of the band members, including Mike.

Sadly, three of the members have passed on: Joe, Doug Smith and Mike Buchholz.

Mike, who lives in the Twin Cities, has a website — www.michaelamccormick.com — celebrating the Noblemen. It has photos and videos of this notorious Midwest band from the 1970s and 80s.

Rock on!

Be like Bob and Betty

BY SHANE GOODMAN

As a young boy, I had a couple of unfortunately unique things about me. First, I did not have any living grandparents. And second, my parents were divorced. Neither of those may seem unique today, but in the 1970s in a Catholic school in small-town Iowa, they were. I was fortunate to have another unique situation, as I experienced wonderful pseudo-grandparents in Bob and Betty Moritz.

Bob and Betty were the grandparents of my good friend Rob Schultz. Rob and I lived across the street from each other in our youth and had birthdays only two days apart. We grew up like brothers, and he was kind enough to share his grandparents with me.

SHANE GOODMAN

Each year, St. Cecilia's Elementary School would celebrate Grandparent's Day and invite grandmas and grandpas to join their grandchildren for Mass and school lunch. It was a big day for a lot of kids. It was a sad day for the only kid in the school who didn't have grandparents. As such, I sat by our teacher during Mass. At one point, I looked over my shoulder and saw Betty nudging Bob and whispering something to him. Bob looked at me and then looked down and nodded to Betty. A few minutes later, as Mass ended, Bob walked over to this sad kid and asked me to join them at lunch. I gladly did. That simple gesture changed a sad day into a great one that I vividly remember 44 years later.

My parents divorced when I was 10 years old. I understood about as much as a 10-year-old could or should understand. Mom and Dad and my siblings sheltered me from most of it, including the weekend that Mom moved out of our house. I joined my friend Rob and his siblings at Bob and Betty's home, unaware of what was happening at my home. It was around Christmas time, and Bob and Betty were thoughtful enough to even have a present for me. It was a chrome-plated rocket ship bank that I still have to this day. They were extra nice to me the entire time, and I wasn't exactly sure why. Regardless, I enjoyed my time with them very much.

Rob's parents picked us up from Bob and Betty's house and brought me back to my home that Sunday. What I found was an empty house and not a lot of explanation. It took me several years to realize that Bob and Betty knew exactly what was going on and were doing their best to help me get through it. I can't imagine what went through their heads wondering how I was going to deal with this when I got home. They did more than their part, and I now fully realize how truly special they were.

Betty died several years ago. I went to see her at the hospital in her final days, and we all shed some tears. As the years progressed, I would stop to see Bob at his home in Boone when I was in town, and I would leave him notes when we weren't able to catch up. His Christmas card was the first one I would receive every year, and it always brought a smile.

Bob, now at 90 years of age, is struggling. He had a heart attack this week, and his age is working against him. I went to the hospital to see him this week and to say thank you for being there for a young kid who needed him.

I would guess each of you reading this have had a Bob or Betty in your life, too — at least I hope so. More importantly, I hope all of us can make an impact on a child like these two wonderful people did on me.

This column about former Storm Lakers Bob and Betty Moritz was written by Shane Goodman and originally published June 16. Shane is the publisher of Cityview magazine in Des Moines and a native of Algona. His columns can be read at www.thedailyumbrella.com. Bob passed away July 4.

OBITUARIES

Henry Salmen

Henry "Mick" Salmen, 79, of Storm Lake died Saturday, July 16, 2022 at Methodist Manor Retirement Community in Storm Lake.

Memorial services will take place Tuesday, Aug. 2, at 11 a.m. at United Methodist Church in Storm Lake. Burial will be at a later date in Storm Lake Cemetery. Visitation will take place Monday, Aug. 1, from 6-8 p.m. at Fratzke & Jensen Funeral Home in Storm Lake with a prayer service at 7:30 p.m. Masks are required at all services.

Henry Mitchell Salmen was born in the city pump house, thanks to the support of mid-wife Cecelia Suedbeck, on Jan. 26, 1943 in Bonesteel, S.D. to Chester and Lola (Cue) Salmen. He shared this birthday with his namesake, his grandfather, Henry Salmen, whom he remained close with throughout his life. Henry was baptized on Jan. 31, 1943 at Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Bonesteel. He attended a country school for one year, then moved to Fairfax Public Schools, where he graduated in 1962.

Henry was married twice in his lifetime. On Sept. 28, 1963, he was united in marriage to Frances Loree Hotz at St. John's Catholic Church in Herrick, S.D. They had one daughter, Rachel Leigh, and their union remained strong for 47 years until his recent death.

Henry was happiest when farming and working the land. He was a man of many skills and pursued jobs as a butcher, snowplow driver, highway maintenance worker and handyman over the course of his life. He loved the outdoors with hunting, fishing and camping as some of his favorite activities. He also enjoyed sports, gardening, welding, eating ice cream and taking out his pontoon boat or his big blue bus that he had renovated into a camper. If he was indoors, he was enjoying western movies and TV shows like Gunsmoke and Little House on the Prairie. More than anything, he cherished time with his family.

Henry is survived by his wife Karen of Storm Lake; children: Scott (Rose) Salmen of Wagner, S.D.; Teresa (Stan) Waterbury of Burke, S.D.; Rachel (Jason) Neuroth of Storm Lake; stepchildren: Renae (Scott) Malloy of Dell City, Okla.; Randy Florke (Sean Maloney) of Cold Springs, N.Y.; Ron Florke of Harley; siblings: Marilyn Kirwan, Kenneth (Fern) Salmen, Richard Salmen, Karen (Wally) Deets, Charles (Marcella) Salmen, James (Tasha) Salmen, Patrick (Mary) Salmen, Linda Roethler, Bill (Robin) Salmen, Donald Salmen and Mary (Ron) Clause; sister-in-law Sharon (Duane) Stanford; 19 grandchildren; 21 great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandchild; many nieces, nephews, extended family and friends.

He is preceded in death by his parents Chester and Lola (Cue) Salmen; parents-in-law William and Inez (Chipman) McKeighan; brothers in law: Donald McKeighan, Daniel Kirwan and James Roethler; sister-in-law Darlene Salmen; nephew Jerry Brummels; and former son-in-law Stuart Kahler.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Embarrassment for SL

My family and I have enjoyed boating in Storm Lake throughout the years. Tuesday of this week I took my grandkids in to boat and go tubing only to find the docks at Storm lake marina covered with goose droppings. Obviously there is no attention being given to what was a beautiful docking area.

With Storm Lake being a premier tourist destination, it is embarrassing to have visitors experience this kind of neglect.

‘The Storm Lake Story’ coming to Jefferson

Cole, Huddleston, Prosser on panel

Greene Countians will have an opportunity to learn how Storm Lake experienced rapid diversification of its population, overcame significant challenges and turned into one of the fastest-growing, most vibrant and prosperous rural communities in the state over the past 30 years.

“Nueva Vida en Greene County,” the diversity initiative launched last November by the Greene County Development Corporation, is sponsoring the program

“The Storm Lake Story” on Aug. 9, at a location in Jefferson to be announced.

“It’s a chance to listen to several people who lived and led the Storm Lake story describe it, and to ask them questions, too,” said Chuck Offenburger of Jefferson, who is chairperson of the steering committee for Nueva Vida. “We so appreciate their willingness to travel to Greene County to help us as we begin diversifying here.”

The panel will include Dr. Stacey Cole, superintendent of the very diverse Storm Lake Community Schools; Sara Huddleston, one of the most widely-known Latinas in the state who has worked in banking, social services and law in addition to having served on the city council in Storm Lake and Mark Prosser, recently retired after serving more than 30 years as the chief of police in Storm Lake.

In addition, there will be a Latino owner of a Storm Lake business and one or two students at Storm Lake High School.

GCDC launched the initiative specifically to address the serious workforce shortages at the major manufacturers and other large employers in Greene County. In addition, the economic development group hopes that the county will experience overall population growth for the first time in a century, related growth of school populations and growth of retail business, too.

This program is being held as a result of the work by four work and study groups formed this summer to help current residents of Greene County learn about the Latino culture and to understand how life here will begin changing as we welcome more people and become a more diverse community.

Those four sub-committees focus on:

- Cultural History & Integration.
- Food, Arts, Music & Culture.
- Interfaith Activities.
- Soccer Events and Facilities.

Barb Lucht says grace before the meal: "We are thankful to be together..."

A post-Fourth feast

BY DOLORES CULLEN
It's a welcome change from the last two years. Residents at Storm Lake Senior Housing on East 13th St. are able to get together in their common dining room like they used to do before the pandemic. A post-Fourth of July gathering a few weeks ago featured chicken and pork loin smoked by Jeff Kies, husband of Senior Housing maintenance-person Stacey Kies, and a variety of great food shared by those who attended. It was so drab and dreary," says apartment manager Barb Lucht, of the isolation people endured during COVID. The meal was followed by games, like washer toss and beanbags, outdoors.

Watermelon is enjoyed by Marcela Rodriguez. TIMES PILOT photos by DOLORES CULLEN

Storm Lake Senior Housing consists of the "Three Story" with 38 apartments and 44 cottages, all one-bedroom. Below: The July birthdays were celebrated at the get-together. Kim Kramer, who turned 62 July 18, is ready to pop a balloon, and there are prizes stuffed in some of them: Tootsie Rolls and laundry tokens.

Lynn Linke has room on her plate for chips.

Right: Some residents are not elderly, but they live with disabilities. Dylan Glassford, a 2011 Storm Lake High School graduate, undergoes dialysis three days a week because he has no kidneys. He does, however, have a warm smile. Rae Williams, upper right, who lives in another apartment in the complex, drives Dylan to dialysis. Both Dylan and Rae enjoy the camaraderie at Senior Housing. Friends there are rooting for him to get the call because, as Dylan says, he's at the top of the transplant list.

God gives mulligans

"And Jesus said, 'Neither do I condemn you; go, and do not sin again.'" John 8:11

I can identify with the golfer who stood on the first tee, looking down No. 1 fairway, ready to hit his first shot. His feet were firmly planted on the ground and he wobbled the clubhead back and forth, as he prepared to take a giant swing at the ball. Finally, he was ready. Bringing the clubhead back, he took a vicious swing at the ball... and dubbed it! Rather than soaring through the air 200 yards out into the fairway, his ball just dribbled off the tee, ending up some 15 yards beyond the tee box. And turning to his golfing partners who were standing there, in a rather disappointed and sheepish voice, he asked, "Do we get mulligans?" For those of you, like me, who don't play golf, let me explain that a mulligan is a free shot. It means that the first shot doesn't count. It means that you get to start over... put another ball on the tee, swing again, and hope you do better the second time. No matter how hard we try, it seems that we too often mis-hit the ball in life. We sin. We make mistakes. We say the wrong words and hurt someone's feelings. We yell at our kids. We snap at our spouse. And there are times we wish we could do it over again... that we could take back the words we said or the sinful deed we did and have another chance to do it right. Our faith says we do have another chance to do it right, because God gives us mulligans. And God gives them for the same reasons we give them on the golf course; God doesn't want us to become discouraged in life. How discouraging it would be if every sin we ever committed, every flaw, every mistake we ever made was recorded on our permanent score card and held against us for all eternity. It wouldn't be long until we would become so discouraged that we would quit trying. We would give up in despair, totally discouraged, totally demoralized if there was no forgiveness. To keep our spirits up, therefore, and give us the courage to go on in life, God gives us mulligans. "You blew it," God says. "You made a mistake. You sinned and it should count against you. But here is a mulligan – forgiveness. We won't count that one. Now go and see if you can do better next time." The Gospel of John tells the story of a woman who was caught in adultery, the scripture says, "caught in the very act." (John 8:4) The nightmare had become real. After all these years, she was found out! What she had tried to hide was now public knowledge, and in a public place. They were talking about her, the leading citizens of the town. They were accusing her before this travelling teacher, Jesus. She had been caught, and she stood before Jesus, waiting for him to condemn her, and be done with it. What do you suppose she thought about as a part of her mind listened to the accusations? Long before we are caught and hauled out into public view, we are affected by our guilt. We have no details of the thinking of the sinful woman in Jesus' story, but we don't really need them. We can supply plenty of our own. We know what guilt does. Guilt affects us inwardly. Guilt is an acid that our frail being cannot safely contain. Guilt is apt to trouble us even when we are not caught. The world may not know what we have done and we are marked by this knowledge. We are not always aware of the subtle changes in attitude and relationships that guilt brings, a strange defensiveness, and unexplained hostility, a growing cynicism. For the person weighed down with guilt about an indiscretion not yet out, there is no such thing as an innocent remark. What did they mean by that statement? Do they know? Have they found out? Most of us know how we feel when driving down the highway, we glance in the mirror and see 20 feet behind us a police car. Even when we're driving quite within the speed limit, we remember 10 minutes ago when we weren't. The best safety device in a car, someone has said, is the rearview mirror with a picture of a police car in it! Guilt marks us inwardly. It marks us outwardly as well. We lose so much by our sin. And that's why it is a sin! It is an act that hurts someone, that damages something, that tears down something precious. Sins aren't sins just because our steadfast God has put them on the list. They are on God's list because they destroy and dilute the good things of life. Sin and guilt make marks on people's lives! Promises are broken, vows ignored, integrity abandoned, trust betrayed and no amount of abject regret and heartfelt confession can change that. The woman standing before Jesus may have been sorry, but all that sorrow could not change what happened. We are marked outwardly by our guilt. So, what do we do about it? We try frantically to get ourselves out of the mess, to undo the damage and unload the guilt. But all to little avail. Theologian Dietrich Bonhoeffer put it this way, "If you board the wrong train, it is no use running along the corridor in the opposite direction". All our efforts to escape the prison of guilt are about effective as this. All our efforts to escape guilt do little more than this, move us from one prison to another. If we could only be rid of it, this heavy awareness of what we have done! Jesus came saying, that's exactly what you can do! You can begin again. To the woman standing in guilt before him, and to her arrogant accusers, too, he said it. "Neither do I condemn you. Go, and do not sin again." (John 8:11) Jesus did not tell her that she could change what had happened. He did tell her that she could leave it behind her, and in forgiveness, start over. This is the mechanism that makes all our other beliefs come to life. What's the point of belief in God, or belief in Christ, or belief in the church if the believer is permanently stained by his or her guilt? But because we believe in the forgiveness of sin, we believe that God gives us mulligans to start over and that our belief throbs to life, and enriches us. Everyone has the chance to begin again.

PINGEL FARMS
2237 490th St. Aurelia, IA

Prior to planting soybeans, Aaron Nelson stops for a picture with his three boys on cropland near Linn Grove. The cereal rye cover crops are nearly waste-high on the boys and ready to be terminated.

Nelson adopts soil saving practices for long-term stability

BY JASON JOHNSON
State Public Affairs
Specialist, USDA-NRCS,
Des Moines

Feeling a responsibility to keep the family farm in good shape for future generations, Buena Vista County farmer Aaron Nelson is using conservation management practices such as cover crops, no-till, and strip-till to keep the soil in place and improve overall soil health. He showcased the benefits of his conservation practices when a May 12 windstorm blew through his farm. A cloud of dust resembling the 1930s Dust Bowl whipped threw, bringing air born soil from South Dakota and Nebraska.

"I really felt good having some cover crops out there and crop residue on the corn ground," said Nelson. "That was a tremendous cloud of dust that highlighted the importance of keeping cover on the ground."

Nelson farms about 900

cropland acres near Linn Grove. He also has 500 acres of river bottom and timber pasture, where his 120-head cow herd grazes.

He says parts of what he farms have been in the family for more than 130 years. Nelson has three young boys with his wife Tanya. He says the conservation practices he has adopted are protecting the soil for the future. "I don't know what the future holds exactly, but it's my responsibility to do what I can to leave a viable, sound business and healthy land for my kids," he said. "If any of my boys choose to farm, I want them to be in the best possible position moving forward."

Nelson earned college degrees in agronomy and animal science from Iowa State University and worked at a grain elevator until 2008 when his father passed away unexpectedly. From that point on he took over full-time farming responsibilities.

"One thing I learned at Newly planted corn begins to peek through in late May 2022. Aaron Nelson strip-tills this particular ground.

Iowa State was you need to be a critical thinker and not just do things the way we've always done them," he said. That type of outlook propelled Nelson to start no-tilling soybeans soon after taking over the farm, and in the past few years strip-tilling corn ground. Strip-till involves knifing an approximately six-inch wide strip into the soil in the fall and incorporating fertilizer.

Seeds are planted directly into the strip of loosened soil. Strip-till can help seed germination and allow for a more precise nutrient injection into corn rows.

COVER CROP ADOPTION

Over the last five years, Nelson has planted cover crops in the fall. He is trying to add more cover crop acres every year with hopes of covering all 900 acres this year.

Aaron looks at root structure in his soils on ground he no-tills and grows a cereal rye cover crop.

He aerial applies cereal rye after harvesting his corn acres and has drilled in oats and barley following soybeans.

"I would like to get a better oat or barley stand in the fall to see if it will help my corn," said Nelson. "We're still learning on the non-winter hardy species. Fall growth hasn't been as good to get the spring benefit." Growing rye hasn't been a problem. Nelson began using a cereal rye cover crop, in part, to provide supplemental livestock feed in the fall and for spring calving. "Even more than the feed, it's the calving environment and trying to get them out in the open," he said. "Sometimes it's too wet, but when it works, it's really good."

With Buena Vista County in a moderate drought, according to the U.S. Drought Monitor, Nelson says cover crops are helping to keep moisture in the soil. "This past spring it was really dry here after planting and I feel like the cover crops helped the soil maintain moisture longer than many other farms in the area," he said. "Tillage may warm up the soil, but it dries it out pretty good, too. I think our crops are a little more resilient and have a little more in the reserve tank when it gets dry."

Nelson says cereal rye cover crops are also helping to reduce weed pressure. "Long-term, reducing inputs is a goal. My post-herbicide applications are more targeted now that I use cover crops. "The health of the soil, and frankly, keeping the soil in place are my priorities right now," he said.

Nelson recently added more cropland by renting from a retiring farmer – a 30-year no-tiller. "There is no way he would have rented the ground to me if I intended to till," he said. "I feel good that I can go to a landlord and say I am taking care of your land as though it is my own."

Conservation Program Assistance Conservation programs through USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and the Iowa Department of Agriculture and Land Stewardship (IDALS) are helping to offset the cost of adopting new conservation practices. Nelson utilized state cost-share to help pay for equipment changes when he switched to no-till and strip-till. Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) funding through NRCS has helped Nelson with funding for pasture and hayland planting and cover crops. He also received a Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP) contract through NRCS to help build on existing conservation efforts. CSP is a working lands program that helps producers achieve their conservation goals through a CSP plan. "Aaron is a conservation leader in our community who has the respect of his peers," said NRCS District Conservationist Larrette Kolbe. "Our staff enjoy working with him because he makes smart decisions and is conservation-minded, and yet he is conscientious about his work."
