City's TIF lawsuit survives for a second time

IOWA SUPREME COURT DECLINES BUENA VISTA COUNTY'S APPEAL TO THROW OUT $5M CASE

BY TOM CULLEN

The City of Storm Lake's lawsuit over $5 million in misappropriated tax-increment revenue was allowed to survive for a second time.

The Iowa Supreme Court dismissed Buena Vista County's request for an interlocutory appeal of Judge Charles Borth's July ruling that allowed the city's lawsuit to proceed to trial. Justice Edward Mansfield dismissed the county's appeal in a three-sentence order.

"Upon consideration, the application for interlocutory appeal is denied," reads the last sentence of Justice Mansfield's order.

A trial conference is expected to be held between the city and the county next week. A trial date is expected to be set by the end of this month.

Justice Mansfield declined to explain his reasoning for the denial.

The county argued an interlocutory appeal was warranted because its "substantial rights" were at issue.

Katie Graham, a Des Moines attorney representing the county, claimed Judge Borth's ruling opened the county up to a raft of litigation, spanning nearly a decade. The combined cost to wage the litigation has already crested over $100,000. (The county and the city didn't respond to requests for the current legal tabs with their respective law firms.) The tab will only increase for the lawsuit and other claims that could stem from the exception Judge Borth found, Graham argued.

The district court's erroneous ruling affects the county's substantial rights by denying statutory immunity and opening the door to litigation of factual issues spanning more than five times the applicable limitations period," reads a 26-page brief Graham filed last month. "... The taxpayers of Buena Vista County are financing both sides of this action. Interlocutory review will advance judicial economy and the public interest by po-

¡VIVA! 74 LatinX educators in SL District

BY MADELINE COMBS

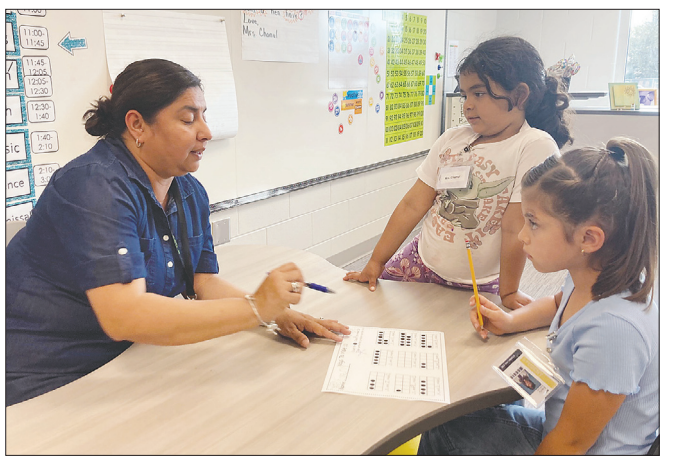

"Diversity has grown a lot here," said San Juanita Chamul, a Storm Lake first grade teacher who began as a teaching assistant with the district in 2000 and has seen the change in faculty diversity first hand.

Chamul, a Texas native, became a teacher in 2007 and was one of only four staff members of color, and only one of the two that identified as Hispanic.

Now, after 24 years with the district and 19 years as a teacher, Chamul has begun to reflect on the growth that she has seen first hand within the walls of Storm Lake schools regarding the increase of hispanic teachers.

"I mean, it's a change. When I started in 2000, I remember helping out in a fourth grade classroom and there was not a lot of diversity. I would be in there to help a specific student, and I would just look around and, not a lot. Now it's the opposite," she said.

According to Supt. Stacey Cole, Storm Lake currently has a total of 74 LatinX educators, which includes 47 instructional assistants and 27 teachers/apprentices that serve the nearly 56% of hispanic students throughout the entire district.

"We've seen firsthand the positive impact they've had on our students, colleagues, and families. Their contributions enrich our classrooms, reflect our community's diversity, and create stronger connections with the families we serve," she said.

According to data from the 2020 census, almost 28% of Buena Vista County's population is Hispanic, one of the highest percentages among the state's counties.

With a significant growth of bilingual educators, the ability for the school district to cater to students and their families

HOLZHAUER CLOSES SHOP

Dealerships in Cherokee, SL aim to liquidate assets, move on

BY TOM CULLEN

Holzhauer Motors and its two Ford franchisees have asked to convert its bankruptcy case under a different chapter because the dealership is "administratively insolvent."

The dealership on Monday has asked Bankruptcy Judge Thad Collins to approve a conversion from its current Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection to Chapter 7 because the dealerships' reorganization overseer, Moglia Advisors of Schaumberg, Ill., believes that the dealerships can't generate enough revenue to make payroll and pay for ongoing Chapter 11 bankruptcy costs.

Chapter 11 is for businesses that intend to pay back their debts and continue operating.

Chapter 7 is for businesses that intend to liquidate and close.

The front doors at the three dealerships were locked, as of Wednesday afternoon. No employees were on site when surveyed by the Storm Lake Times Pilot. Representatives with the dealership's creditors were stationed near their front doors to monitor their inventory.

"Moglia Advisors, in its independent business judgment, is informed and believes the subject bankruptcy estate is for all and practical purposes administratively insolvent," reads a two-page emergency filing submitted in bankruptcy court in the Northern District of Iowa on Monday by Jeffrey Goetz, a Des Moines attorney representing the dealership. "Conversion of the instant Chapter 11 case to a case under Chapter 7 is warranted and appropriate at this time on an emergency basis."

Holzhauer's GM dealership was forecasted to run $171,000 in operating expenses in the first two weeks of September. It was forecasted to have less than $150,000 in cash by the end of the two-week forecast. It began the month with $322,000 in its account at Savings Bank in Primghar, the Iowa Central's new Storm Lake Learning Center welcomed students in August.

Gov. Kim Reynolds to give remarks

BY MADELINE COMBS

Iowa Central Community College will host a grand opening and ribbon cutting ceremony on Thursday, Sept. 26, at 3:30 p.m. for the newly completed Storm Lake Learning Center.

According to an announcement from ICCC, the public event will include building tours and refreshments following the ceremony. Gov. Kim Reynolds is also scheduled to offer remarks at the event.

The $10 million project began back in the spring of 2023 and received partial funding through the Rural Economic Development Loan and Grant program with a $2 million loan.

"Iowa Central is dedicated to creating exceptional education opportunities for the students of Storm Lake and surrounding community school districts. The new center marks another significant contribution to that commitment," said ICCC President Jesse Ulrich.

The announcement states that the new center is expected to be a hub for academic achievement where students will have access to five different programs. These programs range from

Hondo's to reopen Monday

Contributions enable dealer to stay in business

BY DOLORES CULLEN

Hondo's Sales and Service in Sioux Rapids will officially reopen for business Sept. 23 after having suffered a $300,000-$400,000 loss in product, building and labor as a result of the flood that hit the town June 22-23.

The shop is able to operate on customer equipment at about 75% and the parts room has approximately half the parts in stock. Parts are being ordered weekly.

"We still have a sizable amount of post flood work to do before winter comes," said Hondo (Eric Mosbo).

Insurance coverage for flood victims in the town has been scarce, although inland marine coverage on Hondo's policy enabled him to collect $10,000 for loss of shop equipment.

In addition, donations from customers, friends, family and suppliers has enabled Hondo to stay in business.

"We are thankful for all the volunteers, friends, customers and family that have helped physically, financially and for all that have prayed for us," he says. "We look forward to reconnecting with our existing customers and all new customers as we continue to work our way out of this disaster."

Hondo's has over 4,000 customers in a 50-mile radius around Sioux Rapids.

On June 24, Hondo points to where the water level rose on the east side of his building. A new door has been ordered to replace the damaged one. TIMES PILOT photo by DOLORES CULLEN

He adds that shoppers should take advantage of "super deals" on remaining new and used mowers (none that were in the flood) and newly-arrived Ariens snowblowers.

What, no homecoming dance?
Tornadoes ready for homecoming week

"Clip Those Claws!" is the theme of Storm Lake High School Homecoming week, coming up next week, Sept. 23-27. But in a change from decades-long traditions, no homecoming dance will be held.

Instead, after the homecoming game Friday evening, "the kids voted to have an outdoor party at the stadium after the football game ends," said student council moderator Peter Leo. "It goes from 9:30-11p.m., instead of having a dance on Saturday night."

Powderpuff football games will be played on Monday night at the stadium, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Coronation is Wednesday in the auditorium at 6 p.m., followed by the powderpuff volleyball tournament in the main gym.

Friday afternoon is the parade down Lake Avenue, beginning at 2:30 p.m. and Friday evening is the home football game against Sioux City West.

The homecoming candidates were announced last Friday at a pep rally. Since a number of the students were missing, no group photo was taken.

The candidates are: Charlie Dvergsten, Alejandro Flores, Iker Gomez, Patricio Hernandez, Emmanuel Negrete, Tyler Bauer, Marlene Coronel, Emma Dierking, Maddy Raveling, Lillie Hoffman, Destiny Brown and Dulce Zavala.

SL City Council denies residential noise variance

McKinney: 'I don't feel comfortable starting to allow these variances in residential areas'

BY ALLISON MOORE

The Storm Lake City Council denied a noise variance request for a resident who wanted to sing at home with an amplified karaoke machine two to three times a week. Several council members said they didn't want to review or approve any more permit requests for residential areas, like singing karaoke at home or hosting a small band for a birthday party.

"I don't feel comfortable starting to allow these variances in residential areas," said Councilperson Kevin McKinney. "We've turned down a lot of residential areas in the past. I hate to start a precedent here."

The city's policy requires businesses, churches and other entities hoping to host events to submit a permit application to the police department and later have it approved by a city council vote.

Councilperson Meg McKeon agreed with McKinney.

"We're concerned about granting these variances to an ordinance," she said.

McKeon said she worried about permitting Matheson or any other Storm Lake resident to play loud music because it could infringe upon the police department's ability to oversee or control residential disputes over excessive noise.

McKinney told Matheson that if she or any neighbor has an issue with the gospel music, "you can call in a complaint" to the police and "something can be done." McKinney said if the city permits noise variances in residential areas, the police department's "hands are kind of tied." For example, if the city had approved Matheson's permit and a neighbor called to complain about excessive noise, the police couldn't tell her to turn it down or stop singing by a certain time.

Even without a permit, "If there's an issue, you or your neighbors can still call in a complaint and still something can be done," said McKinney.

Matheson sent a letter to the city council requesting a permit to play and sing gospel music from her home on Thursdays, Fridays and Sundays until 9:30 p.m. Matheson said she hasn't always sung only gospel music, but when she started one of her neighbors complained to the Storm Lake Police Department.

"I started singing gospel music because I receive Christ, and that's when the problem kicked in," Matheson said to the city council Monday.

She claimed all of her other neighbors enjoy listening to her sing and have never complained about the noise level.

Chris Cole, chief of police, explained that an officer recently responded to a complaint about Matheson's music, which he could hear from down the street. Cole said the officer asked Matheson to turn it down and she abided.

According to Cole, Matheson "absolutely can sing gospel music in your home." It becomes a problem if "it's loud enough to cause a disturbance to your neighbors, whether you're inside or outside."

"If you're inside and not bothering your neighbors, then you don't need a variance," agreed Mayor Mike Porsch.

Councilperson Maggie Martinez was unsatisfied with Matheson's letter. She said Matheson didn't indicate a time when she'd start playing music. The letter also didn't state that Matheson would be singing from inside her home.

"I think there should be more specific hours," said Martinez. "Nowhere in your letter does it say that you're in your home. That's not what you requested."

None of the present council members initiated a motion to approve Matheson's noise variance request. (Councilperson Matt Ricklefs didn't attend the meeting Monday.)

"So I still don't have an answer," Matheson muttered when she left the podium.

The city council will still vote on whether to approve noise variances. Though three council members said they worried about setting a trend with residential requests like Matheson's, the council hasn't planned to adjust their policy.

LATINX EDUCATORS: Help to reflect large Hispanic community in BV Co.

from Spanish-speaking countries has become that much greater.

"I'm happy to help students. I remember being one of those students as I was growing up. I also learned English — and my parents knew a little bit of English — but we only spoke Spanish. But at school, I learned English," Chamul said. "I feel like I can help a lot of kids, even if they're Spanish speaking, I feel like, 'Oh yeah, I can help you come here!' We'll say it in English and Spanish and get going."

Another teacher, Joanna Chavez de Leon who teaches fifth grade English Language Learners, believes her job gives her the opportunity to help students learn to be comfortable in a new environment where they might feel like an outsider.

"We understand where those students are coming from. We understand what it is to have a safe zone where no one's judging you if you speak the language, if you're choppy or if you need help," she said.

Chamul also noted that, as a Latina teacher in Storm Lake, she can create connections with students in both Spanish and English to meet their needs no matter where they are academically.

"I feel like I can help any Latino kid that comes in my door. For example, right now I have one who's from Venezuela, straight from Houston, Texas. Right away we talked. We talked a lot," she said.

"Then he told me 'I really like this school because a lot of teachers speak Spanish' and he went on and on. I feel like we have that connection, like he feels like 'oh, I can talk to her because she speaks Spanish' and then all of a sudden I can speak English to him."

Importance of Hispanic heritage

Sept. 15 marked the beginning of Hispanic Heritage month, a time for Latinos to celebrate their Spanish, Mexican, Caribbean, Central and South American ancestry and the cultural practices, stories and contributions.

Each year, the celebration dons a new theme. For 2024 the theme is "Pioneers of Change: Shaping the Future Together." A motto fitting for the efforts of Latino Storm Lake teachers helping the next generation of students understand their own culture and community.

Chavez de Leon says her Hispanic heritage is something she wears with pride and something that she hopes to help others embrace.

"You take pride and you take ownership. One thing I've learned is to be proud, stand out, because you bring something unique here," she said. "So, being Hispanic and it's Hispanic Heritage month, it's like our opportunity to say 'we're here, we're celebrating our uniqueness' who we are and what we're representing."

Chavez de Leon helped found the new organization, Latinas Rising Together, earlier this summer that aims to support and empower Latina women in Storm Lake.

The group strives to provide advice and guidance to Latinas and also give a voice to the other Latino businesses and organizations in town.

She believes Hispanic Heritage Month is an especially important time to highlight the achievements and background of Latinos – from teachers to business owners — and what they bring to a community, such as Storm Lake.

"To me, it's an opportunity to be able to give exposure and for others to get to know where you're coming from and represent it and not to be embarrassed of who you are."

Five years in prison for Chloe Lane riot participation

A Storm Lake man was sentenced to five years in prison for participating in an alleged 20-person riot in Chloe Lane in July.

Buena Vista County District Court Judge Shayne Mayer convicted Chuol Gatluak, 24, of participating in a riot, a felony, and sentenced him to five years in prison without probation, according to an order Sept. 9. Gatluak agreed to serve the sentence, according to a plea agreement filed by his attorney, John Loughlin of Cherokee. Judge Mayer dismissed five other felony counts: first-degree burglary, willful injury causing serious injury, two counts of willful injury causing bodily injury and trafficking a stolen weapon used in a crime.

Gatluak was one of 20 alleged participants, who on July 9 in the 600 block of Chloe Lane, assaulted and injured a man inside his car, according to affidavits filed by Storm Lake police. The SLPD responded to a reported fight around 3:20 a.m. in which some individuals were allegedly armed with handguns. After the start of the alleged assault, the victim reportedly drove away from the fight. A "large group" of suspects allegedly followed him to his parked car, stole his wallet and continued to assault him, according to a statement issued July 10 by the SLPD.

Gatluak allegedly participated in the riot, physical altercation and robbery while armed with a gun, according to police affidavits.

The victim sustained serious injuries, including several broken facial bones, and had to be transported to the Buena Vista Regional Medical Center for treatment, according to the affidavits.

Meth located during traffic violation stop

A Storm Lake man was arrested after police allegedly located methamphetamine and a pipe in his vehicle during a traffic violation stop.

Henry Diaz, 29, was charged with first-offense possession of methamphetamine, a serious misdemeanor, and possession of drug paraphernalia, a simple misdemeanor, according to affidavits filed by the Buena Vista County Sheriff's Office. Diaz was taken into custody Aug. 20 and posted $1,000 bond the same day, according to court documents.

On Aug. 20, a county sheriff's deputy stopped Diaz's white 2003 Chevy Tahoe at the intersection of Otsego and West Milwaukee Street for a traffic violation, the affidavit reports. The deputy allegedly

City animal ordinances approved

UPDATED POPULATION CONTROL MEASURES, LICENSURE, LEASHING CODIFIED

BY ALLISON MOORE

The Storm Lake City Council fast-tracked approval of the final update to the city's animal ordinances.

Since the early summer, the city has drafted, debated and ratified codes on dogs and cats, leashing and licensure policies and population control measures. All new policies will be codified and ready for enforcement by the start of next year. The last stamp of approval permits a nonprofit group to implement a trap-neuter release program to curtail Storm Lake's feral cat population.

At the meeting Monday, Councilperson Kevin McKinney requested to forgo the second reading of the cat population control chapter of the city's animal ordinances. The council opted to skip to the third and final reading.

"We've talked about this for so long, it'd just be nice to get it off the books and have it done," McKinney said to the rest of the council.

The council agreed with McKinney. They unanimously and hastily approved the ordinance.

"Hallelujah, yes," said Councilperson Maggie Martinez when casting an assenting vote.

When Mayor Mike Porsch asked the council whether they'd like to entertain a motion to approve the final ordinance, all three members present (Councilperson Maria Ramos joined the meeting via Zoom and Councilperson Matt Ricklefs was absent) simultaneously said: "so moved."

The city needs to wait a few months before it can enforce all the new animal control regulations because it must notify residents of the changes, according to City Manager Keri Navratil.

Sue Lyngaas, who's been advocating for a trap-neuter-release program for the past several months, said she's already received calls from residents with stray or feral cat problems. Lyngaas is the president of Caring Paws Rescue, an organization that two weeks ago acquired nonprofit status and remains dedicated to opening an animal shelter in Storm Lake.

Residents concerned about stray or feral cats on their property can call a TNR volunteer, who would trap the cat in a small cage, transfer the cat to Lake Animal Hospital for neutering and any necessary vaccinations, and return the cat to where it previously lived — unless the caller requests otherwise.

Licensure requirements

Under the new animal control ordinance, dog and cat owners must apply for a license within six months of either owning their pet or moving to town. Owners will be required to annually procure a license from the city or police department and pay a $20 fee no later than Jan. 1 each year. The fee might increase if the pet isn't spayed or neutered.

The license application also requires owners to prove their pet has up-to-date vaccinations as approved by the state. For example, the cat ordinance reads: "Ownership or possession of a cat within the corporate limits of Storm Lake without proper immunization against rabies shall be unlawful."

Pets must wear stamped metal tags with proof of immunization. Once approved by Navratil, a license tag must also be affixed to the dog or cat's collar.

The updated dog ordinance mandates that owners immediately pick up and discard any excrement left on public or private property.

Cats and dogs may not run at large, meaning the pet must be "attached to a leash held by a competent person, restrained within a motor vehicle or in any animal hospital or kennel."

Unlicensed cats and dogs found running at large would be "seized and impounded at the owner's cost," according to the ordinances.

As of now, Storm Lake police would transport seized animals to Lake Animal Hospital, which has been doubling as an animal shelter for the past few years. Lyngaas said once Caring Paws Rescue secures a building space and begins operations, they'd take in unlicensed or stray animals.

Vicious animals and violations

Residents may not keep any "dangerous animals," including: non-domestic cats, raccoons, apes, venomous snakes, scorpions, bats and more as outlined in the ordinance on dangerous and vicious animals.

An animal would be deemed "vicious" if it has inflicted a serious injury ("any one bite which breaks the skin") on a human being. Navratil would also evaluate an animal as vicious if it's attacked or killed another domestic animal while off the owner's premises, or if the animal is harbored primarily for fighting contests.

Navratil would investigate any complaints about residents keeping dangerous or vicious animals. If deemed "dangerous" or "vicious," the city or police would either place the animal with an organization capable of caring for it, or "humanely destroy the animal." Within three days after her determination, residents can appeal Navratil's order before the city council.

Violating any part of the cat, dog and dangerous and vicious animal ordinances could result in a municipal infraction and associated court fees.

HOLZHAUER: All dealerships said to have layoffs

Alex Moglia, president of the Illinois-based investment bank, didn't respond to a request for comment on Wednesday. Goetz didn't respond to a request for comment. A hearing on the dealership's conversion request is scheduled for Friday.

An objection to the conversion has already been filed by Charles White, one of the dealership's minority shareholders. Eric Lam, a Cedar Rapids attorney representing White, claimed the conversion request is an attempt to prevent distribution owed to the dealerships' creditors and minority shareholders. Lam claimed the dealerships' majority shareholder, Dan Winchell, forced the properties into bankruptcy without a corporate resolution. The Chapter 11 proceeding was "improperly and illegally filed," Lam argued, and should be denied.

"Simply put, there is no reason to convert the case to one under Chapter 7," reads a two-page objection Lam filed on White's behalf on Monday.

The dealerships' creditors haven't responded to the conversion request. Aside from White, none of the dealership's minority shareholders have responded.

White's objections: "Fraudulent conveyance," bankruptcy legitimacy

Lam filed a flurry of objections in addition to his claims against the conversion request.

Lam filed a motion challenging the legitimacy of the Chapter 11 filing.

He claims there was no vote by the dealerships' board of directors to file for bankruptcy. He claims his client, who sits on the board of directors, figured out about the bankruptcy decision after the bankruptcy petitions were already filed in federal court. He claims his client didn't consent to retaining Moglia to the tune of $60,000 and the dealerships' bankruptcy counsel to the tune of $120,000.

"Simply put, Chuck (White) as director did not authorize the engagement of bankruptcy counsel or chief restructuring officer," reads one of Lam's filings this week.

Lam objected to an agreement Holzhauer reached with its three largest creditors earlier this month. Holzhauer, Citizens First National Bank of Storm Lake, Savings Bank of Primghar and Farmers State Bank of Marcus reached a stipulation that validated the loan documents that secured nearly $10 million in loans for the dealerships in recent years. In exchange, the dealership was allowed to spend whatever money it had left to operate and sell whatever vehicles they had on hand. (It costs $171,000 every two weeks to operate one of the dealerships, according to a budget prepared by Moglia.)

Lam claimed the loan documents signed by Holzhauer and the three banks need more scrutiny.

"Apparently no one else has examined the lenders' loan documents in detail," wrote Lam, claiming the dealership's attorney and the three banks were the only parties to sign off on the stipulation.

He objected to Moglia being tabbed as overseer of all three dealerships.

He claimed that Holzhauer's GM franchise fraudulently transferred $900,000 to the two Ford dealerships to pay outstanding invoices from vendors and other outstanding debts. Lam claimed that Moglia shouldn't serve as an advisor to all three dealerships if the claim has merit. He claimed the $900,000 transfer could be viewed as a possible "fraudulent conveyance action."

He asserted that Moglia shouldn't advise all three dealerships because of an apparent conflict of interest.

Other minority shareholders have lodged similar claims. Robin and Tony Jenness of Marcus claimed the dealerships' top shareholders, Winchell and Lam, misappropriated $3.4 million of vehicle sale proceeds that were supposed to be remitted to the dealership's creditors.

Moglia was tabbed to sort out the dealerships' financial straits and file a restructuring plan — which likely isn't in the works. It's now overseeing the three dealerships in separate Chapter 11 proceedings. The Illinois-based investment bank is in charge of the dealerships' daily operations, which means it forecasts their revenue, talks with their creditors and makes "necessary staffing decisions."

All three dealerships are said to have experienced near-total layoffs since the bankruptcy proceeding.

manufacturing, business, computer science/programming, electrical technologies, industrial mechanics, liberal arts and health sciences, like nursing.

Classes began Aug. 26 and the learning center welcomed its inaugural class to the building.

"We started classes for students in late August and each program has been well received," said Dr. Stacy Mentzer, Vice President of Instruction for Iowa Central Community College.

With two stories and 16 modern classrooms, the center also boasts an academic resource center and testing center — something ICCC hopes will greatly benefit both students and the community. State-of-the-art facilities and dedicated teachers will cater to all students and community members to provide a supportive and engaging learning environment. Students will also have access to tutoring and technology to gain a quality education.

The announcement also notes that the space plans to serve five Northwest Iowa School districts for services including a career academy, community education and English Language Learners courses. It will also be open to use by local companies for employee training.

The goal of offering a variety of classes and using the new space to host them is an effort to meet the diverse educational needs of both the local community and the local workforce.

"The opening of the Storm Lake Learning Center represents our ongoing commitment to expanding access to education and empowering individuals to achieve their goals. We believe that this new facility will play a vital role in shaping the educational landscape of the region," Ulrich said.

TIF LAWSUIT: City maintains the county improperly distributed collected tax revenues tentially averting months of costly discovery and litigation."

Bill Miller, a Des Moines attorney representing the city, disagreed. Allowing the county to slide for its mistakes, Miller argued, would unjustly misdirect the fruits of the city's economic development efforts over the last 20 years to other entities. The city claims its tax-increment financing revenues are at a deficit as a result of the misappropriation. And it has millions in debt it needs to pay off in the coming years.

"Quite simply, the county cannot credibly deny — it does not even attempt to do so — that Storm Lake was deprived of TIF revenue that it should have received," reads a 25-page brief Miller submitted to the Supreme Court last month. "Instead, the County advances technical defenses in an effort to avoid or significantly reduce the amounts that it may have to disgorge to Storm Lake – funds that would not exist but for the significant urban renewal efforts of Storm Lake."

The briefs centered on the same arguments both sides presented to Judge Borth this spring.

The county argued the judge erred when he dismissed the county's immunity defense. The county claimed all three counts of the city's lawsuit — conversion, unjust enrichment and failure to perform required duties — were essentially municipal tort claims from which it's exempt.

Conversion and unjust enrichment, the county's lawyers argued in a 25-page brief last month, were tort claims that were exempt from the Iowa Municipal Tort Claims Act, which specifically exempted because they were filed "in connection with the assessment or collection of taxes." The county also claimed that the unjust enrichment charge was the functional equivalent of a tort claim, and should also be dismissed.

"Claims 'in connection with' assessment or collection of taxes include a wide range of situations that the legislature chose not to exhaustively predict and delineate," Graham's brief reads. "Because the legislature did not specify the level of 'connection' required, immunity attaches so long as a plaintiff's claim has a 'relation or nexus' to assessment and collection of taxes."

The city asked the Supreme Court to reject the county's immunity defense.

Miller claimed Judge Borth's ruling was correct, though he disagreed with the judge substantially limiting the scope of damages the city could collect. Miller claimed Judge Borth's ruling failed to consider that the city's losses from the misappropriation were continuous, and hence shouldn't be constrained by a statute of limitations. Judge Borth constrained the city's damages on two counts — conversion and failure to perform required duties–to a two-year statute of limitations. For the third claim — unjust enrichment by the county — the city could collect for an indefinite period. That charge centers on just the money the county kept for itself, not all of the misappropriated revenue that was allegedly distributed to dozens of taxing entities that Storm Lake taxpayers shoulder.

Miller agreed with Judge Borth's ruling that allowed the city's lawsuit to survive, despite the exceptions in the tort claims act. Miller argued that the misappropriation occurred outside tax assessment and collection. The city wasn't arguing whether the properties were assessed lower than what they should have. It also wasn't arguing that the county improperly collected any taxes on parcels in the city's tax-increment financing districts.

"Storm Lake asserts that after the taxes were assessed and collected, the county improperly distributed the tax revenues to Storm Lake and to the other taxing districts, failing to provide Storm Lake with the incremental revenues that were generated by its urban renewal efforts as required by the applicable ordinances," Miller's brief reads.

Assault in Linn Grove

A Peterson man has been ordered to appear in court in connection with an alleged assault at Bobcats Bar in Linn Grove in June.

The Buena Vista County Sheriff's Office executed a warrant for the arrest of Douglas Brees, 71, on Aug. 1. Brees has been charged with assault causing bodily injury, a serious misdemeanor, according to trial information filed by District Court Judge Andy Smith.

On June 22 around 7:45 p.m., Brees allegedly assaulted a woman at Bobcats Bar on 112 Weaver St. in Linn Grove, according to a warrant application filed two days later by the sheriff's office. Brees allegedly choked and slapped the victim in the face.

Attorney Cassi Wigington was appointed to represent Brees. Judge Smith scheduled Brees's preliminary hearing for Aug. 21.

Stopping the run on defense has been an issue for Storm Lake this season. The Tornadoes have allowed 460 yards in their last two games.

If Storm Lake wants to get back on the win track, that will need to change when it goes on the road tonight to face Perry.

"I think the biggest factor is if we can do a better job of containing their run attack," Storm Lake coach Drake Curry said. "If we can stop the

Sioux Central girls win title on tiebreaker in Sioux Central Invite Linnea Bloom finished fifth overall to help Sioux Central win the Sioux Central Invitational after a tiebreaker on Tuesday at Sioux Rapids.

Sioux Central and Ridge View each scored 46 points, but the Rebels were awarded first by virtue of best fifth-place finisher. Alta-Aurelia was fourth with 80 points. Newell-Fonda was incomplete.

Bloom finished the course in a time of 21 minutes, 21 seconds. Nora Christian was 10th in 22:02, Marley Madsen placed 13th in 22:32 and Karina Bloom took 15th in 23:18. Violet Sangwin was 23rd in 24:32, Quinn Wilkinson 25th in 24:48 and Melia Hoffman 39th in a time of 28:26.

"The girls won on a tiebreaker over Ridge View with the tiebreaking points provided by Quinn Wilkinson," Sioux Central coach Kelsey Miller said. "Six of our seven varsity runners placed in the top 25 with Linnea Bloom and Nora Christian both in the top 10."

RIDGEVIEW was paced by Addison Tesch, who finished third in a time of 20:27. Clara Todd took ninth in 21:58 and Cora Tesch was 16th in 23:37. Tiegan Vohs and Destiny Chavez placed 18th and 19th with times of 23:50 and 24:02. Regan Ruble finished 28th with a clocking of 25:37.

ALTA-AURELIA was paced by Nora Peterson, who finished first overall with a time of 18:22. Breyer Anderson placed seventh in 21:27. Lainey Buckendahl took 31st in 26:16, Kiera Aberson was 38th in 28:20 and Jade Wilkinson 41st in 28:49. Bryndalyn Brock placed 42nd in 28:53 and Maleigha Buckendahl was 47th in a time of 31:57.

"Nora Peterson ran her personal best time," Alta-Aurelia coach Ariel Huseman said. "She was followed by Breyer Anderson. Both girls ran and headed straight back for the volleyball game against St. Mary's. Due to the game, we were without three of our other varsity runners. However, our girls still battled and ran their best."

NEWELL-FONDA'S April Meyer and Analise Tiffany placed 48th and 49th with times of 32:25 and 32:47, respectively.

Sioux Central boys finish fourth in Sioux Central Invitational

Lucos Wernimont finished third overall to help Sioux Central place fourth in the Sioux Central Invitational on Tuesday at Sioux Rapids.

Spirit Lake won the meet with 58 points. Sioux Central scored 132. Ridge View was eighth with 188, Alta-Aurelia ninth with 221 and Newell-Fonda 14th with 355.

Wernimont finished the course in a time of 16 minutes, 45 seconds. Leighton Sippel was 26th in 18:46 and Landon Driver 30th in 18:54. Joshua Hoffman took 33rd in a time of 18:59. Colin Christians and Jack Christian were 40th and 41st in 19:26 and 19:34. Taylon Withers was 55th in 20:36.

"The boys had tough competition and came in fourth behind 2A Spirit Lake and Sheldon, and one point behind 1A Sibley-Ocheyedan," Sioux Central coach Kelsey Miller said. "Lucos Wernimont had another great meet, coming in third place with a time that will put him in the top 10 all-time for Sioux Central runners. As we get to the middle of our season we are hoping to continue to see our runners stay tight as a pack throughout the race and work together as a team. If they can accomplish that, we should see good success in our postseason."

RIDGE VIEW was led by Odin Hanson, who finished 20th with a time of 18:17. Talan Witzke was 27th in 18:48 and Landyn Peterson 39th in 19:21. Brody Bisenius placed 49th in 20:19, Bertram Hove 53rd in 20:31 and Tyler Dutler was 82nd in a time of 23:56.

ALTA-AURELIA was paced by Jacob Launderville, who finished 12th with a time of 17:37. Laeton Langschwager was 36th in 19:13 and Ledger DeMuth 54th in 20:31. Drew Huisenga placed 56th in a time of 20:48, Korbin Glienke was 63rd in 21:25, Jaxson Page 66th in 21:29 and Caden Kolar took 71st in a time of 21:58.

"Jacob Launderville was able to break the 18-minute barrier for the first time this year and running near his personal best time," Alta-Aurelia coach Ariel Huseman said. "Laeton Langschwager, Ledger DeMuth and Drew Huisenga all ran their lifetime personal bests. The average time between our first and fifth runner was 19:54, which is one of the best average times we have seen in the past few years."

NEWELL-FONDA was led by Jack Olsen, who finished 52nd with a time of 20:24. Austin Barber was 69th in 21:40, Kadin Wadle took 76th in 23:14, Kinnick Kaufman placed 78th in 23:25 and Hunter Watts was 80th with a clocking of 23:39.

PREP FOOTBALL: WEEK 4 PREVIEW

Ridge View quarterback Raif Jensen will be a central figure in tonight's clash with No. 8 Hinton in Holstein.

RV vs. Hinton ...

that's undefeated," he said. "They've been able to line up and run the football against anybody they've faced the first three weeks. Defensively, they've got good size up front and they pursue the football very well. They are very disciplined and they tackle exceptionally well. That's a great recipe for success ... being able to run the football and being able to stop the run and pursue and tackle."

Hinton averages 33.6 points a game. They are led by quarterback Gabe Anderson, who has passed for 245 yards and four touchdowns and rushed for 301 yards and four touchdowns. Cole Friessen has rushed for 218 yards and three scores. Kyle Leary leads the receiver group with five catches for 92 yards and three touchdowns.

Wilken broke down the Blackhawks' offense.

"They have proven they can run the football," he said. "One of our priorities is to stop the run. We're going to have to do a very good job of lining up properly and doing things right fundamentally and tackle exceptionally well if we're going to stop the run. They have a North Dakota commit at quarterback and he's proven that he can throw the football. He made some exceptionally good throws last week. They can run it and they can throw it."

Hinton is allowing only 7.0 points a game on defense.

"They've got good size up front and are very aggressive up front," he said. "Their back end guys are extremely disciplined. They play assignment football and they pursue the ball very well and they tackle well."

The Blackhawks' defense will create some challenges for the Raptors' offense.

"With what we want to do being able to run the football, they've been able to stop the run," Wilken said. "They really limit teams' ability to run the ball. That's a huge challenge for us in terms of being able to do what we want to do. Their ability to tackle. They just don't seem to miss many tackles."

Hinton's offense will pose some problems for Ridge View's defense.

"We've got to stop the run first and foremost," Wilken said. "We've also got to do a better job of giving up the big plays. We gave up way too many last week, including three touchdowns. We can't do that against this football team. We have to align properly, have great fundamentals, great technique and tackle if we're going to stop the run and be a good defensive football team. Good defensive football teams don't give up big plays."

Wilken addressed what will be important in tonight's clash.

"We had the ball inside the 20-yard line twice a week ago and came away with no points," he said. "We've got to do a better job of finishing drives and taking advantage of those opportunities. They have the ability to create explosive plays. We have to eliminate those. Who's going to be able to run the football and stop the run. The turnover game and who wins the turnover battle."

Alta-Aurelia vs. S-O ...

fense and will be a handful on the other side of the ball as well."

Sibley-Ocheyedan averages 23.0 points a game on offense. The Generals are led by quarterback Kayne Julius, who has passed for 502 yards and four touchdowns and rushed for 277 yards and three scores. Tanner Gries has caught a team-leading 15 passes for 168 yards and two touchdowns while Dawson Kreykes has eight catches for 198 yards.

"They run multiple formations," Reinert said. "Almost every traditional formation there is from wishbone, I-formation to five-wide. A lot of different things going on with a quarterback, who has the ability to break big runs, and two receivers that can go up and get the ball wherever he throws it."

The Generals are allowing 25.0 points a game on defense. Reinert gave an assessment of that unit.

"We believe their base is a 3-5, but suspect we will see something different with our alignment," he said. "They like to bring pressure with the linebackers and they do a good job of rallying to the ball."

Sibley-Ocheyedan's offense will create some challenges for Alta-Aurelia's defense.

"Multiple looks make it difficult to stay in a base defense," Reinert said. "We will have to have several checks ready to go to get into and out of different coverages. A lot of different things to read pending the formation they are in."

The Generals' defense will pose some problems for the Warriors' offense.

"Running guys to the ball," Reinert said. "We need to do a better job as an offense to sustain blocks. Otherwise, it could be a long night for our offense once again."

Alta-Aurelia has been focusing on a specific area in practice this week.

"We're still looking for consistency," Reinert said. "Each week, we seem to come up with different issues that hold us back from being successful. We seem to have corrected some of them, but as others pop up, we need to fight through the mental fatigue so we can battle physically."

Reinert addressed what will be important in tonight's game.

"We need to cut down on turnovers for sure," he said. "Each game, we have turned the ball over at least two times. Stopping the big play from happening. Their quarterback is very dynamic and can turn a broken play into something big for their team."

SL vs. Perry ...

run and put the ball in the hands of our offense, that gives us a great opportunity to get us back on track."

Curry offered his thoughts on the Bluejays (2-1).

"Perry, I think, will be excited coming into the game with a better start to the season than they had a year ago," he said. "They will be physical and will play tough."

Perry is averaging 21.7 points a game on offense. The Bluejays are led by quarterback Geren Kenney. He has passed for 240 yards and one touchdown and rushed for 358 yards and six touchdowns. Gustavo Drahos is the Bluejays' leading receiver with seven catches for 111 yards.

"Like last year, Perry will want to get the ball into the hands of their speedy guys and try and get to the edge offensively," he said. "They do have a big tight end they will try and dump the ball down to with some seam curls."

Perry is allowing 21.0 points a game on defense. Curry gave an assessment of that unit.

"Defensively, Perry will give us a few different looks, bouncing between a four-down and three-down front," he said. "They'll also show us some two-high and three-high safety looks."

Perry's offense will create some challenges for Storm Lake's defense.

"They like to use a lot of motion and misdirection to get defenses out of position," Curry said. "Our guys just have to do a great job of reading their keys, staying assignment sound, and getting to the football."

The Bluejays' defense will pose some problems for the Tornadoes' offense.

"They do a good job of packing the box, so we will have to a good job up front firing off the ball and being aggressive," Curry said.

Storm Lake is emphasizing a few things in practice this week to get better.

"One of the biggest emphasis this week is reading keys for backers, getting 11 guys to the football and making secure tackles."

thoughts on Eagle Grove.

"They get off the ball up front on both sides of the ball," he said.

The Eagles are averaging 7.3 points a game on offense. They are led by running back Trenton Robinson, who has 54 yards rushing.

Goodchild broke down the Eagles offensively.

"They like to run the option," he said. "This will require discipline from our guys all night."

Eagle Grove is allowing 53 points a game on defense. Goodchild gave an assessment of that unit.

"They're physical up front and get off the ball," he said. "They have good pursuit."

Eagle Grove's offense could create some challenges for Sioux Central's defense.

"With the option, it gives them many options on reading one guy," Goodchild said. "We will need to be disciplined."

The Eagles' defense could pose some problems for the Rebels' offense.

"Their defensive line penetration will be hard to stop," Goodchild said. "We will need to be sound up front and control the line."

Sioux Central is emphasizing a few things in practice this week to get better.

"Better reads on defense and holding blocks on offense," Goodchild said.

Goodchild addressed what will be important in tonight's game.

"Turnovers will be key," he said. "We will need to control the football as well."

HIGHWAY 71 CUP STAYS AT BVU LAKE CREEK

Team wins by 2 shots over Emerald Hills

The Buena Vista University Golf Course at Lake Creek Country Club team went to Brooks Golf Club in Okoboji for the third annual Highway 71 Cup tournament last Sunday. The team played against teams from Emerald Hills, Brooks Golf Club and Spencer Country Club.

Each team has 12 members consisting of six 2-man teams competing in a 27-hole medal play format. The low four scores for each format count toward each team's cumulative 27-hole total.

The first nine-hole format was best ball, the second nine-hole format was alternating shot followed by the last nine-hole format of best shot.

Brooks took an early lead shooting 9-under-par after the first nine holes. After 18 holes, Emerald Hills had what appeared to be an insurmountable 5-shot lead over second place BVU@LCCC.

BVU@LCCC blistered the last nine holes by shooting 18-under-par in the best shot format, winning their third consecutive Highway 71 Cup by two shots.

Scorecards were posted outside the clubhouse declaring BVU Golf Course at Lake Creek Country Club the winner.

"We were trailing after 18 holes, but knew we had the players to make the come back," said tournament organizer and team captain Norlan Gutz. "This competition is very competitive. We like keeping the Highway 71 Cup trophy at our club."

Buena Vista must solve second half issues in game against Loras

BV has been outscored 52-7 after halftime

BY JAMIE KNAPP

The second half of games have been brutal for Buena Vista so far this season.

The Beavers have been outscored 52-7 after halftime in both of their games. That will need to change when they travel to Dubuque on Saturday to take on Loras (0-2) in the American Rivers Confeference opener.

"We must be a better second half team," Buena Vista coach Austin Dickinson said. "We've given ourselves chances in the first half, but haven't played well enough for 60 minutes."

Dickinson gave his thoughts on the Duhawks.

"They are a physical team on both sides of the ball," he said. "They have some experience coming back on both offense and defense."

Loras ranks seventh in the league in scoring with 11.0 points a game. The Duhawks are eighth in rushing (46.6 ypg.), seventh in passing (136.5) and seventh in total offense (183.0).

Carter Cahill leads the rushing attack with 44.5 yards a game while quarterback Evan England averages 125.0 yards passing a game.

Buena Vista ranks seventh in the ARC in points allowed with 39.0 a game. The Beavers are eighth against the run (280.0), third against the pass (204.5) and eighth in total defense (484.5).

"They're pretty balanced offensively," he said. "They have a good group of receivers that do a good job of finding windows and making plays after the catch. Their run game is strong. We're going to have to do a better job inside this week than we have the first two weeks."

Loras' defense ranks sixth in the league in points allowed with 38.0 a game. The Duhawks are ninth against the run (285.0), second against the pass (189.0) and seventh in total defense (474.0).

BVU's offense ranks eighth in the league in scoring with 10.0 points a game. The Beavers are fifth in rushing (83.5), ninth in passing (98.5) and eighth in total offense (182.0).

"They are very aggressive," he said. "They do a good job in the back seven of getting hands on receivers and rerouting. Up front, they are a strong unit who continues to get after the quarterback."

Loras' offense will create some challenges for Buena Vista's defense.

"Their run game," Dickinson said. "We haven't been well against the run, something that we need to be better at this week."

The Duhawks' defense will pose some problems for the Beavers' offense.

"Physically, they get after you," Dickinson said. "We have to match their physicality on offense and run the ball more efficiently."

Dickinson talked about what the Beavers are emphasizing in practice this week to get better.

"We have to tackle better in space, trust our technique across the board, and just cut it loose and play football," he said.

tinue to be more physical and more tough. We need to set the tone and pace of the game. When we can do that we've been a pretty tough team to beat. We want to be the more physical team. That's what I'm looking for."

Baron offered his thoughts of Harris-Lake Park (2-1).

"Like usual, they're a very dangerous team on offense because they always have a quarterback that makes them go," he said. "This year it's no different. They will try to confuse you when they're on defense with some line slanting and stunting and blitzing. We'll have to be ready for all of that."

Harris-Lake Park is averaging 33.0 points a game on offense and are led by quarterback Mason Ahrenstorff, who has passed for 272 yards and five touchdowns and rushed for 92 yards and three scores.

"It all starts with their quarterback," Baron said. "He's a very good runner and a more than capable passer. This year, they're trying to run it more with their tailback. That presents some different challenges."

The Wolves are allowing 27.3 points a game on defense. Baron gave an assessment of that unit.

"Defensively, they're going to load the box and sell out to stop the run and force you to be one-dimensional on offense," he said. "We'll try to counter with our offense what they're trying to do on defense."

Harris-Lake Park's offense will create some challenges for Newell-Fonda's defense.

"They have multiple formations, which makes you have to line up correctly on defense," Baron said. "They have a zone block scheme with their run game and we'll have to be gap sound on defense. They're always explosive. We're going to have to limit their big play ability and make them go the long way. If we can do that, we'll have a pretty good night."

The Wolves' defense will pose some problems for the Mustangs' offense.

"Their three down linemen are very good at slanting and moving and causing all sorts of chaos," Baron said. "We're going to have to have our heads up in our stance and get off the ball and get into them and move them. If we can do that, I think we'll have a good night offensively. They'll have some good cover guys on the back end, but we need to take advantage of what we have."

Baron addressed what will be important in tonight's game.

"The team that's going to control the line of scrimmage both offensively and defensively always has a chance to win the game," he said. "We need to take care of the ball. We had two turnovers last week and we can't have that if we want to be succesful. We want to cause chaos and create some turnovers on defense. The most important thing is I want our kids to go out and cut it loose and play hard for four quarters and leave it all out on the field. If we can do that, we're going to like the result we get."

BVU drops match to Bethany Lutheran

Rachel Brockney charted 11 kills, and Jadyn Rausch added 28 assists and 17 digs, but it wasn't enough as Bethany Lutheran came away with a 25-23, 25-10, 28-26 win over Buena Vista on Tuesday at Siebens Fieldhouse.

Brockney had only four errors on 47 total swings and fell just shy of a double-double with eight digs. Sydney Meints was right behind with nine kills and a .227 attack percentage while no other player had more than four kills.

Rausch notched her fifth double-double over the last six matches, including a new season-high in digs. Mallory Ignaszweski led the way defensively for the Beavers as she fell one shy of a career-high with 23 digs.

The Beavers led throughout most of the opening set, including a 16-11 cushion, before the Vikings used a 7-2 spurt to pull even at 18-18. Bethany Lutheran went up 23-21 before the Beavers used a pair of Bethany Lutheran miscues to square things up at 23-23. A serving error by the Beavers followed by a kill from the Vikings gave them a 25-23 win.

It was all Vikings in the second set as BVU had only five kills and seven attack errors. Despite being even at 6-6 early on, BLC would go on an 11-1 run, which included eight straight points to end the run and grab a 17-7 advantage. BVU was unable to string together a run and fell 25-10.

It was a tight battle throughout the third set as the Beavers tried to keep the match going. BVU rallied from a 15-5 deficit by using a 13-3 run to tie things up at 18-18. The Beavers (4-10) later went up 22-20, but couldn't close the door, which was eventually shut by the Vikings, who went on to win 28-26.

BVU women win, men edged in soccer

Buena Vista hosted Spurgeon College and the Beavers remained perfect on their own turf with a 7-0 shutout of the Knights in a women's soccer match on Tuesday.

Mia Norton recorded her first career hat trick to lead the way. Alyssa Cathcart scored her first two career goals and assisted on another, and senior Chloe Lippert scored once and added one assist.

Buena Vista totaled a season-high 36 shot attempts for the match, led by Cathcart's team-high seven. Norton had six shots, including five on-goal while Lippert added four. The Beavers held the Knights without a single shot attempt as Trisha Westphal went the distance in-goal.

BVU is now 5-1-1 overall and will host Ripon College on Sunday at noon.

THE BVU men were edged by Spurgeon College 2-1. Aidan O'Flaherty gave BVU a 1-0 lead midway through the opening half on his first goal this season.

BVU tallied 14 total shots with 11 coming in the opening half, but the Beavers couldn't get the equalizing goal.

Ben Jackson led the way with six shots while Kendall Bickford added three. Zachary Sigler went the distance in-goal and tallied one save.

Buena Vista is now 5-2 overall and looks to bounce back on Saturday when it hosts UW-Stout at 7:30 p.m.

BVU's Jackson nets ARC weekly honor

Buena Vista freshman Ben Jackson continues to shine on the soccer field early in the season, and now he's being rewarded for his efforts by being named the American Rivers Conference Male Athlete of the Week.

Jackson scored back-to-back goals against Maranatha Baptist on Sept. 12 that helped the Beavers to a 4-2 win. It was the first time in Jackson's career in which he registered a multiple-goal game.

Last weekend, Jackson scored the third game-winner in six matches this season when he scored with 5 minutes remaining against Blackburn College. He also had his first career assist on a goal that tied the match at 1-1 before his late goal sent BVU to a 2-1 win.

Jackson currently leads both the team and the ARC in goals scored this season (five), total points (11) and game-winning goals (three).

In charge of the walk/run are Brea Huseman, Megan Peterson and Ariel Huseman, advisors of the A-A FCA.

A-A high school teacher and track/football coach TJ Schaefer died one year ago.

"After the passing of our dear teacher, coach and friend, our Fellowship of Christian Athletes leadership group wanted to do something in memory of him," said Brea Huseman. "After discussing our options, the group decided on a 5k walk/run with the proceeds to fund a scholarship in his memory."

Ariel Huseman, the head cross country coach, suggested to host the race after the home cross country meet for the opportunity to have the community run on the golf course.

Pre-registration is encouraged, but registration will be allowed the day of the event.

Cancer benefit for Liné Schelle Oct. 13

The public is invited to benefit meal and silent auction for Liné Schelle Oct. 13, from 4-8 p.m. at St. Mark Lutheran Church.

She was recently diagnosed with stage 3 pancreatic cancer in July, and has a long road ahead of her.

Liné has been an OB nurse at Buena Vista Regional Medical Center for 22 years. She has always been devoted to providing the best care to her patients, says benefit organizer and co-worker Paige Pickhinke. "Unfortunately the role is reversed and she needs the love and support from her community."

Proceeds from the event will go to Line to help with the financial burden of medical bills. She is currently recovering from an extensive surgery while receiving chemotherapy, with radiation to follow.

Ana Morales, left, made a wide variety of gelatina cups for the grand opening of her daughter Alejandra's business ShearRose Beauty Bar. The stair step shelves were made by Alejandra's uncle.

Isai Xochicale of Delicias Supermarket makes the desserts for sale at the business, including these gelatina cups. The base of the one on the left is made from rompope – Mexican eggnog. The base of the one on the right is made with coconut milk. Isai studied to be a chef at a university in Veracruz, Mexico.

Gelatina cups are perfect on a hot day.

Mexican 'gelatina' takes Jell-O to the next level

A molded gelatina dessert by Isai Xochicale.

BY DOLORES CULLEN

As an anonymous Reddit author wrote: "Jello starts out as a fun, innocent treat for kids, then it goes through crazy college party years, and eventually ends up in hospitals and nursing homes."

Not so in Mexico, where colorful, creative "gelatina" or "jelly" desserts are part of the cuisine – all through life.

Thanks to Latino immigrants, Storm Lakers get to try the gelatina variations, like the umpteen neat little square Mexican jelly cups that greeted visitors to the grand opening at ShearRose Beauty Bar July 26.

Ana Morales created the extravaganza for her daughter Alejandra Alanis, owner of the salon. Adding evaporated milk, sweetened condensed milk and/or cream cheese to unflavored gelatin powder is how the creamy, opaque gelatina is made, explained Morales's daughter Lupita.

Add clear colorful Jell-O squares and you have Mexican mosaic gelatina.

Adding the Mexican peanut candy mazapan is another tasty option.

Fresh strawberries and whipped cream are pretty garnishes.

"Gelatina carries within it a sense of cultural identity," writes Chef Graciela Montaño, author of the book "Aura Cocina Mexicana." "It's become a popular art form that expresses the essence of our traditions."

We need a winner

Cedar Rapids Gazette columnist Mike Hlas caught up with retired Hawkeye Coach Lisa Bluder and asked what she intends to do. What more could she do? She helped elevate women's basketball to primetime TV and record crowds, with an assist from the incomparable Caitlin Clark and Company. She has money and fame, and humility.

For starters, she intends to attend every one of her son David's basketball games at Grinnell College, where he is a senior. She has missed too many. "Have car, will travel," she said.

Beyond that, she isn't sure. Bluder is 63. She has so much to offer. She is proven to be the most successful leader in Iowa. She is probably the most popular resident of Iowa.

"I'm still trying to decide what it is I can do to give back. My kind of passion is empowering women and building women leaders. So how I can help in that area? That's what I'm still kind of working on," Bluder told Hlas.

Nobody brought this state together like Caitlin Clark and Lisa Bluder. Even Iowa State fans cheered.

Iowa needs to come together. We have never been more rancorous. Lisa Bluder has committed herself to Iowa. Whatever she does, we hope it is in service of unifying this state. She was a star at Northern Iowa, and coached St. Ambrose, Drake and Iowa. She brought together Black and White women, gay and straight, left and right, from small towns and big cities, to be champions. She can do that for Iowa.

Wouldn't it be great if Lisa Bluder ran for governor?

She knows the state. She has been in the small-town gyms scouting and visiting. She knows the titans of business, how bureaucracies operate, how to raise money, how you parlay fairness and empathy into winning, and how to grow things. She would get 98% of the vote if she ever ran for office.

If Lisa Bluder wants to lift up women and girls, she should do everything in her power to bring moderation and a can-do spirit back to Iowa.

Gov. Kim Reynolds is mean. Bluder is the picture of Iowa nice and easy, like Bob Ray. We wish she could convince Fred Hoiberg to give up on basketball in Nebraska and move home to Ames where he belongs, and they could help us find our game again. Serious. We are dead in the water on growth. Our test scores are in decline. Our water is polluted and we lead the country in cancer. We are on the wrong track. We are divided and anxious.

We want to be winners again. Number One in great schools, strong rural communities, prosperous farms, healthy families and clean air. That is a winning Iowa. If Lisa Bluder is looking for something to do, wouldn't that be something? We need that kind of positive leadership.

This is a winner

The Pomeroy City Council showed positive leadership by selling the Community Hall to Byron Stuart so that the show may go on. Last winter the city deemed Byron's Bar on Main Street unfit as the whole building block is crumbling. The city intends to demolish it. Stuart didn't know what to do or where to go. Pomeroy would be the less for it if the bar shut down and the weekly Sunday music shows ended. It is an icon in music circles from Nashville to Austin to Gilmore City and beyond.

Friends from around the state rushed to his rescue to donate money, enough to buy the Community Hall for $100,000. The deal did not come without opposition in the village, but the council showed its commitment to a native son to keep his unique enterprise in operation. Pomeroy stuck with one of its own. Fans voted with their pocketbooks to maintain culture in rural Iowa. Musicians were beside themselves that they might not be able to pin Pomeroy on their route anymore.

As a result of the sale, Pomeroy gets a downstroke on a new fire station with cash from Byron & Friends. The community is stronger and funner. Byron says the new hall is even better for music than the old dive that was falling down (we are concerned for the homeless rat).

Rural Iowa isn't left for dead even though it has sustained several kicks to the head and abdomen since 1980. This deal proves it. Good on Pomeroy, Byron and his friends. Rock on.

Medicine and politics

FILLERS

We were in Rochester a week ago. I had to have a little tuneup at Mayo Clinic.

We hadn't been there for about a year, and we marveled at how much the city has grown since then, thanks to Mayo. More clinic buildings are going up in the center of the city that is now 120,000 population. Its population is growing about 20,000 every 10 years. Healthcare seems recession-proof.

There are certainly drawbacks to living in rural Midwest, but It's amazing that the best medical center in the world is in rural Minnesota, just a few hours from Storm Lake.

SPEAKING OF MEDICINE, Dr. Elizabeth Dupic, who has been at Family Health Center since 2019, is leaving Storm Lake for Waverly with her family.

BROTHER ART'S editorial last week suggested the wild idea that Iowa could be in play for Kamala Harris, if national Democrats exerted just a little effort here. Conventional wisdom was that Donald Trump had an invincible lead in Iowa.

The Iowa Poll released in Sunday's Des Moines Register proved Art was right. Trump's 18 point lead in the poll from just three months ago has shrunk to just four points, well within striking range.

Art knows what he's talking about.

So does Ann Selzer, who conducts the Iowa Poll. She's the gold standard among the nation's pollsters. She's been described as "the best pollster in politics," so if she says it, it's so.

THERE'S A PROFESSOR at American University in Washington, DC, named Allan Lichtman who has an uncanny record for picking the winners in U.S. presidential elections. He's been right every election since starting his predictions in 1984.

The history professor's model uses 13 criteria to predict whether the presidential candidate of the incumbent party will win or lose the next election. They don't consider polls, just hard data. If you want to know what these 13 indicators to presidential success are, Google "13 keys to White House."

Lichtman says that, based on his 13 keys, Kamala Harris will be elected president in November.

We'll see if he maintains his perfect record.

Merger of grain giants betrays prairie origins

BY ALAN GUEBERT

As American grocery buyers await a Federal Trade Commission verdict on Kroger's two-year-old, $24.6 billion bid to buy competitor Albertsons, the European Commission took just 35 days to give its blessing to the merger between two of the world's largest grain merchandisers, Bunge and Viterra.

The mega-deal, valued at about $34 billion at the time of its June 2023 announcement, isn't a slam dunk, though. Canada, where both companies own substantial export facilities in Vancouver, is holding up approval as it evaluates the deal's impact on western Canada's grain markets.

And for good reason.

Bunge, the world's fifth-largest grain merchant, operates in 40 countries and has about $57 billion in annual revenues. It's the "world's largest oilseed processor" and is "globally dominant in soybeans, canola and corn," notes a recent 92-page report on the deal by SOMO, an Amsterdam-based, independent agency that examines corporate power in business, politics, and culture.

Viterra is no slouch, either. Owned by mining giant Glencore, it has extensive grain processing and export facilities in 38 countries and, in 2023, had revenues of $53 billion.

Together, however, the pair would challenge industry cornerstones. "The proposed transaction… will create a global grain giant to rival Cargill and Archer Daniels Midland further contributing to the consolidation of the crucial commodity trading and logistics segment of the global food value chain," explains SOMO.

That type of latent market power, notes Canada's National Farmers Union (NFU), belies Viterra's deep roots in the nation's "prairie co-operatives that built Canada's grain handling system over the course of nearly a century."

Those co-ops — founded, funded, and fueled by "remarkable" farmer members — developed an "elevator system to gain control of the [local grain] trade" and "operated as profitable farmer-run businesses that handled nearly 60% of Canada's grain from country elevator to port terminal."

When the North American Free Trade Agreement went into effect in the mid-1990s, however, the prairie co-ops and the nation's single-desk export agent, the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB), lost political favor with the newly-installed, Conservative Harper government.

Shortly thereafter, explains the NFU, the "Harper government stripped the CWB of its authority" which quickly "led to restructuring that ultimately and controversially converted these farmer-created co-operatives into the corporation that rebranded as Viterra in 2007."

But now, "If Bunge is allowed to buy Viterra, it will get billions of dollars worth of revenue potential created by and for Canadian farmers to counter the very exploitation of private grain traders like Bunge visited on them a century ago," warned NFU in a Sept. 3 press release.

It's not idle speculation. A March 2024 "preliminary" report on the Bunge-Viterra (BV) deal by three University of Saskatchewan ag economists showed that "by any measure the grain industry in Canada is already very concentrated and will only become more concentrated with a BV merger."

The trio then tested their hypothesis. A "merger simulation indicates that Vancouver export basis will increase by about 15%... while canola crush margins will increase by 10%." When added together the total impact of the proposed Bunge-Viterra deal "reduces grain producer income by approximately $770 million per year."

And outside of Canada, says SOMO, the merger is equally troubling. "It will significantly contribute to the consolidation of the global agribusiness sector by creating the world's largest grain trader [that can] undermine the resilience of food supply chains, economic democracy, and food security and sovereignty."

It's a story almost as old as agriculture itself: Companies accumulate market power to squeeze otherwise unobtainable revenue from their market's least protected, most vulnerable players.

And who's less protected and more vulnerable to predatory global grain giants than farmers?

The Farm and Food File is published weekly throughout the U.S. and Canada.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

For the future of farmers

The economic challenges facing the ag sector right now cannot be overstated. With net farm income expected to drop by nearly 23% this year, it's more important than ever to explore new markets and opportunities. Carbon capture pipelines offer exactly that.

These pipelines are a vital part of reducing the carbon index score for corn, which in turn allows us to produce sustainable aviation fuel (SAF). SAF is the future of our industry, just like ethanol was decades ago, offering new demand for our corn and a much-needed boost to our economy.

Supporting carbon capture pipelines is an economic necessity for the future of farmers.

OBITUARIES

Barbara Seiler

Surrounded by her loving family, Barbara Seiler, affectionately known as Barb, peacefully passed away Sept. 13, 2024. Her final moments reflected the deep love she gave throughout her life, leaving a lasting mark on all who had the joy of knowing her.

Memorial services will be held Saturday, Oct. 5, at 11 a.m. at United Methodist Church in Storm Lake. Burial will be at a later date in Algona. Visitation will take place Friday, Oct. 4, from 5-7 p.m. at the church. In lieu of flowers, the Seiler family asks that you please donate to the Storm Lake Early Elementary STEM Program, Iowa Donor Network or the Storm Lake Early Elementary and Elementary School Library to ensure her love of reading is passed on for many generations to come. Fratzke & Jensen Funeral Home in Storm Lake is in charge of the arrangements.

Barbara (Bartlett) Seiler was born Sept. 6, 1943, the oldest of three siblings. She grew up in Algona, and graduated from Mankato State University with a degree in elementary education. From an early age, Barb's kindness and compassion touched everyone around her.

At age 16, Barb met the love of her life, Jerry Seiler. Their love blossomed into a marriage that would span 58 years, beginning June 17, 1966, at the Little Brown Church. After Jerry completed his Army service in Oklahoma, they returned to Storm Lake, where they became beloved members of the community, building a life defined by love, partnership and service.

Barb's love for children extended far beyond her own three children. She considered every student she taught as one of her own. Whether it was clothes, food or a comforting hug, she was always there. She spent most of her teaching career at South Elementary School, where the students, teachers and staff became an extension of the Seiler family. Barb didn't just teach children — she nurtured and inspired them. For Barb, teaching wasn't a job; it was a calling that touched the lives of hundreds of students over her decades-long career. When she retired in the spring of 2007, the staff honored her legacy by giving her a rock engraved with "Seiler," a perfect symbol of the strong and steady presence she was in the lives of so many. The Seiler Rock remains proudly displayed at Seiler's Hill.

Her favorite subject to teach was reading, and she believed every child should have access to books. Barb's passion for reading inspired countless children to discover the joy of books. Never did a birthday or holiday pass that Grandma didn't give a book. You could always find her on the couch with a book in hand or a stack at the ready for the next great read.

Even after her retirement, Barb's heart remained closely connected to Storm Lake Community Schools. In the fall of 2007, her dedication to education was recognized when she was unexpectedly written in by fellow teachers as a candidate for the Storm Lake Board of Education, ultimately winning the election. Barb brought the same kindness, humility and commitment that defined her teaching career to her new role, continuing her lifelong dedication to the field of education.

At home, Barb was the heart of the Seiler family, carrying the family through many trying times over the years — and always with a smile. She and Jerry were true partners, especially in the garden. Jerry grew the crops, and Barb transformed them into cherry pies, raspberry jam and salsa that all became family favorites. Her kitchen was always filled with the warmth of home-cooked meals and the love of a welcoming spirit. Seiler's House was a second home to many of her children's friends, and there was always an extra plate at the table for anyone who needed it.

Family was the cornerstone of Barb's life. Her favorite titles were "Mom" and "Grandma." She attended every sporting event, school activity and family gathering she could, always cheering on her loved ones. She was known for driving any distance to see a football game, wrestling meet or her favorite sport — shoe shopping with her favorite daughter. In her later years, this transitioned to following her grandkids in all their endeavors. No matter the distance, she would be there, and they were always on the lookout for Grandma's quick smile cheering in the crowd. She was, and always will be, their favorite fan.

Faith was central to Barb's life. A proud member of Storm Lake United Methodist Church, she lived her faith through quiet acts of kindness and an unwavering belief in the goodness of others. Among her stack of books, her well-worn Bible was a constant companion, offering strength and guidance throughout her life.

In September 2017, Barb received the incredible gift of a kidney transplant, granting her seven precious years with her loved ones. She never took a single moment of those years for granted, filling each day with love, laughter and gratitude for the life she had been given.

Barb is survived by her loving family: her husband of 58 years, Jerry; her children: Steve (Beth), Andy and Julie (Josh); her grandchildren: Luke, Ty, Cael, Will, Lydia and Sam. She also leaves behind her brother, Don Bartlett (Deb), and her beloved extended Seiler and Bartlett families.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Mary and Wes Bartlett, and her brother, Dr. William Bartlett.

Barb will be remembered for her boundless kindness, a generosity that knew no limits, and her ever-ready meals that brought comfort to those around her. But most of all, she will be remembered for her ability to see the good in everyone and the ways in which she showed kindness to all. Her legacy of love, strength and compassion will live on in the hearts of all who were fortunate enough to know her.

Barb was loved by all and will forever be missed.

Visitation will be held at the church from 3-8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 20, in the Family Life Center (211 E. Third St., Storm Lake). Fratzke & Jensen Funeral Home of Storm Lake is in charge of the arrangements.

Malga Harun Yanga was born July 22, 2001, in Omaha, Neb., the son of Harun Yanga Malga and Sarah Jacka Nimir. He graduated from Storm Lake High School.

Ukrainian soldier grateful to Storm Lake community

Donations help fund rehabilitation from war wounds. You can still give David Motlich, the Ukrainian soldier undergoing rehabilitation for injuries sustained in Russia's unprovoked war on Ukraine, is grateful for the financial assistance he has received through the donation effort at Coffee Tree in Storm Lake.

A few months ago, Storm Laker and former Ukrainian Natalia Wetherell had put out the request to help David, a friend of hers.

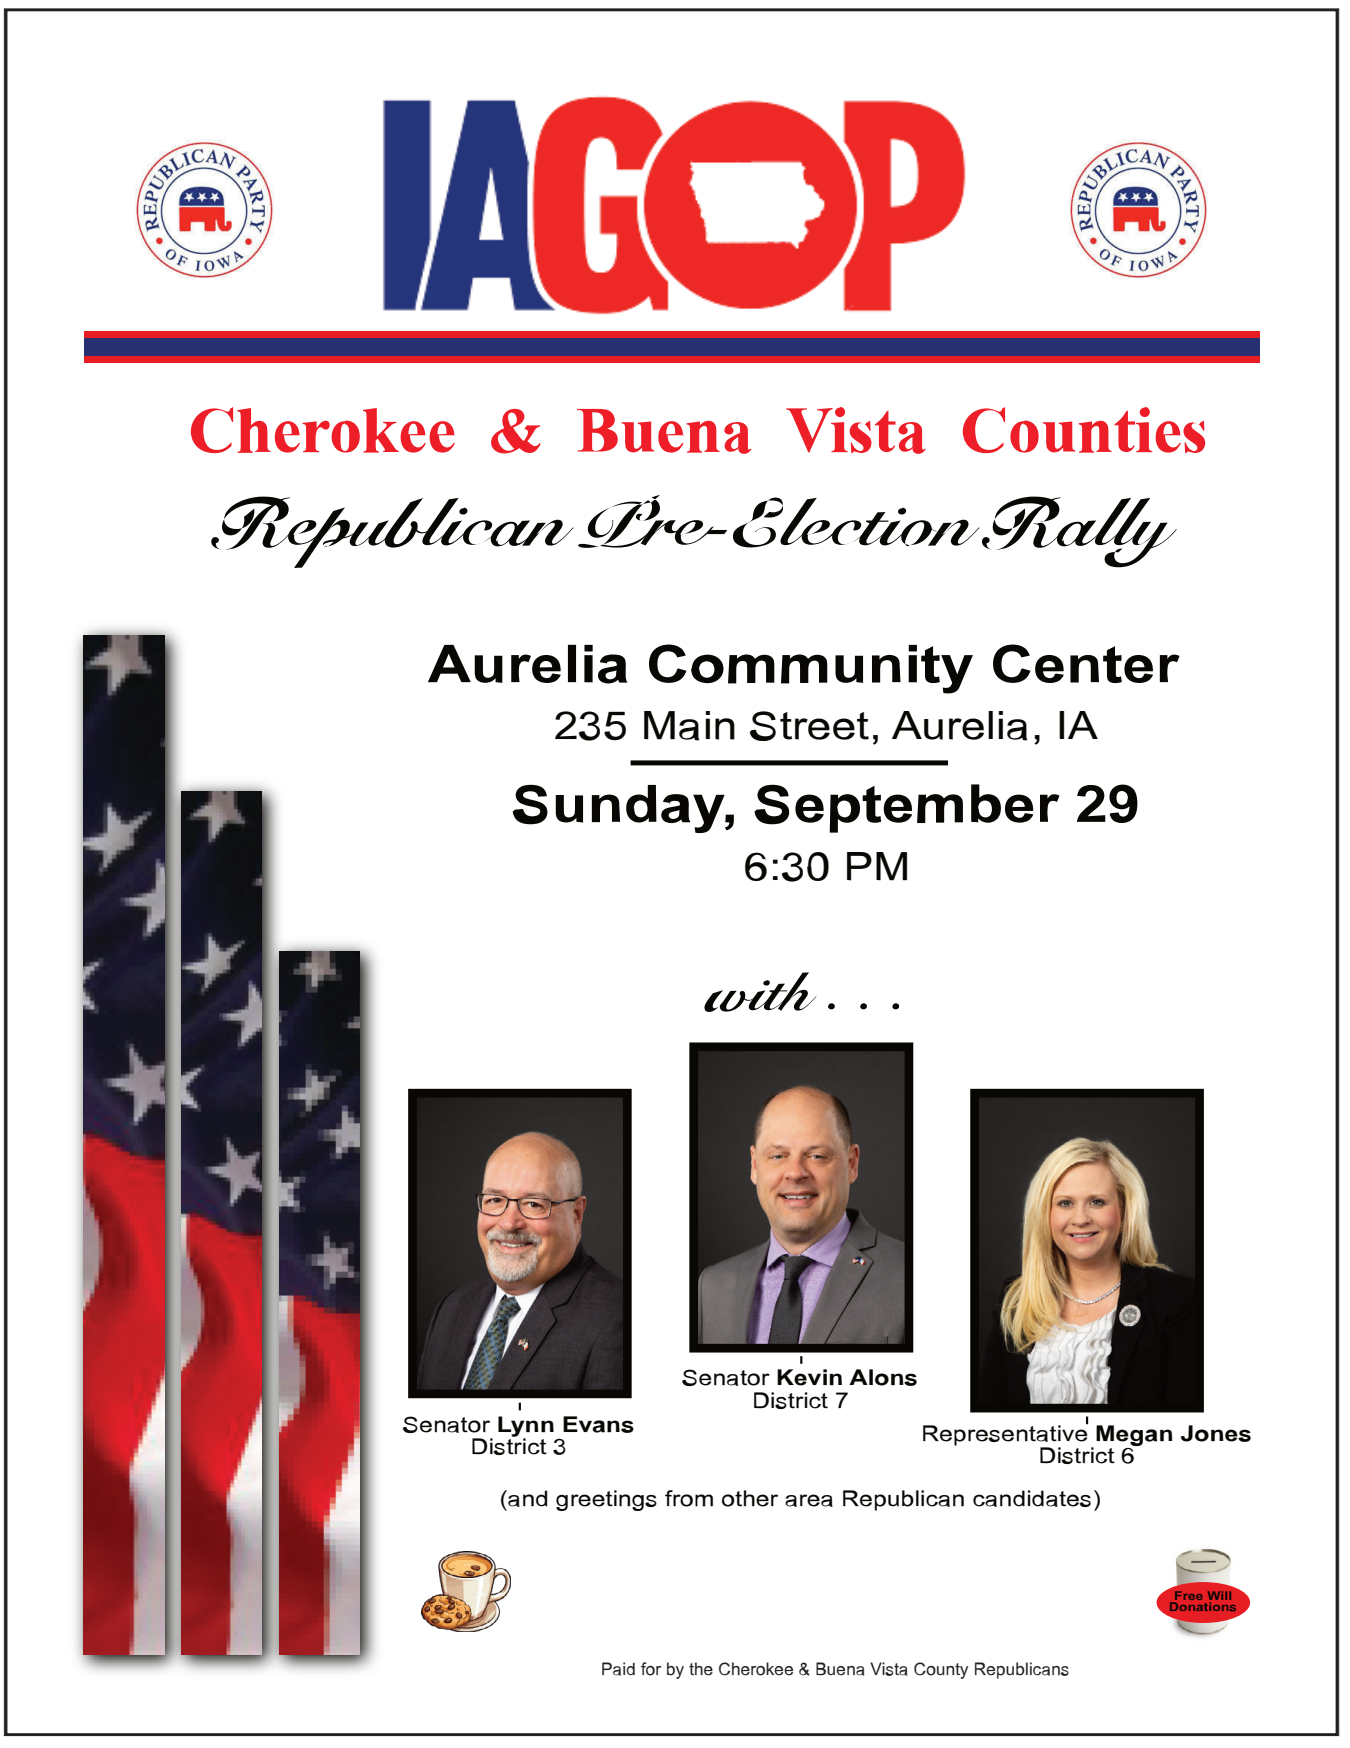

Ukrainian native Lana Fort, who owns Coffee Tree, agreed to collect the donations.

Recently Natalia spoke to David, and he wishes to express his thanks to the Storm Lake community, Fort and the patrons of Coffee Tree, for their generous donations to help with his rehabilitation and healing from his injuries. Over $500 have been raised thus far.

He has had several successful surgeries and has been fitted with a prosthesis for his amputated arm and he has had surgery for his leg wounds as well. He is scheduled to have a few more surgeries, but is well on his way to recovery and resuming a fairly normal life.

"He sends his BIG thanks to all who helped him, and speaks of the good hearts of the American people who supported him, and Ukraine," says Robert Wetherell, Natalia's husband.

The donation container is still in place at Coffee Tree.
